A Paramount special production in 10 reels, "FEET OF CLAY," produced by Cecil B. DeMille, with an all-star cast. Only DeMille can make a "Feet of Clay." An ultra-modern, pell-mell action—romance, loaded with thrills. Done after the usual DeMille standard for novelty. Luxurious gowns and sumptuous settings. A picture with a "smash" climax, the like of which has never been seen before. A scene you'll talk about. You'll never forget "Feet of Clay."

Also a two reel Educational comedy, "KILLING TIME," starring Lloyd Hamilton.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mellencamp

The clothing project for Charlevoix county, available through our extension service, started on May 14th and 15th with instruetion meetings at Charlevoix and Boyne City, at which time 23 leaders from various communities were present and received their work from Mrs. Schutt of our college. This group received much valuable and timely knowledge on the subject of clothing and sewing and will carry the work back to their respective communities. Our aim is to reach over 800 families in the county with this work in instructing the women to make better selections in clothing, in instructing women to use better methods in sewing, in establishing good standards in regard to cost of clothing, in strengthening the extension service organization of Charlevoix county in having demonstration work, in developing leadership, and in developing cooperation and community spirit.

The following leaders were in attendance ut Charlevoix on the 14th, and had their first of four instructions in this project:

Mrs. Kate Hull, Walloon Lake; Mrs. Gladys Everts, Clarion; Mrs. W. J. Petts, Boyne City; Mrs. Gladys Palmer, Clarion; Mrs. Badd, 215 E. Cedar St., Boyne City; Miss Nellie Raymond, East Jordan; Mrs. L. Brintnall, East Jordan; Mrs. Oseal Scott, Boyne City; Mrs. W. R. Earl, 717 S. Lake St., Boyne City; Mrs. A. Kightlinger, 508 Second St., Boyne City; Mrs. A. R. Loomis, East Jordan; Mrs. Wm. Franke, Boyne City.

While there will be some changes in this group no doubt, if you are interested in receiving this work, get in touch with the lady nearest your community and arrange to get the work from her class.

BACK LAME AND ACHY?

The Advice of This Charlevoix Resident Should Help You to Get Well.

Do you suffer nagging backache?
Feel dizzy, nervous and depressed?
Are the kidney secretions irregular; breaking your rest?
Likely your kidneys are at fault.
You feel weak, tired, all worn-out.
Heed the warning. Don't delay!
Your neighbors recommend Doan's.
Here is a Charlevoix case.

Mrs. Harry Webster, 214 E. Upright Ave., says: "My back was lame and sore and I suffered with a severe pain in my side and across my kidneys. My kidneys were sluggish and failed to act often enough. I surely felt all out of sorts and nothing helped me until I used Doan's Pills, from the Central Drug Store. Doan's cured me and the eure has lasted."

Spraying Demonstrations

On the 19th and 20th of May, D. H. Hootman, specialist on horticulture from M. S. C. conducted two all day spraying demonstrations in the county. The first, at the home of Douglas Tibbits, Boyne City, was well attended and the advice and suggestions enthusiastically received.

Mr. Hootman emphasized the need of reducing our varieties of apples in most of our orchards. In many orchards there are as many as a dozen different kinds that are being cared for. His recommeodations for apples in this section are— MacIntosh, Snow, Greening, Wenlthy and Wagner. Others do well but are not quite as profitable to raise and sell. A spray tank of liquid was applied to the trees and suggestions rendered as to its use and benefits. The most interesting feature of the day was the discovery of a tree nearly killed by Fire Blight which was only found after removing the sod around the tree and finding that it was nearly girdled by the Fire Blight cankers. He also showed how to bridge from the live root across the dead portion to the trunk of the tree und in that way save the tree. About 25 people attended and spent the day. The second demonstration was conducted at the farm of Dr. Armstrong of Charlevoix, and the work carried out in the same manner. While the attendance was much smaller, they all felt amply repaid for their time spent.

Prof. O. E. Reed in East Jordan

Prof. O. E. Read, head of our duiry department of M. S. C., gave a highly instructive and interesting talk at East Jordan, on the 22nd of May, on the subject of dairyiug. He emphasized the nced of farmers keeping records on their feed costs and miik weights and thereby knowing what their cows are making in dollars and cents. On the average, Denmark produces butter fat for 45 cents a pound; in the U. S. it is 02 cents. In Denmark 26 per cent of all cows are in eow-testing association work; here 1 per cent. Is it not logical to thiuk that possibly that is the reason they can export butter into this county and make money after paying an 8 cents tax? Prof. Reed also mentioned the need of producing n high quality product that is clean.

Tho county agent gave a short discussion of the program of work that is being carried on in the county and what had been accomplished in the past. Mr. Jacklin of the East Jordan high school, in a few well chosen words, extended the welcome for the business men of East Jordan and introdueed the program. Last, but most enjoyable of all, was a lunch at the conclusion of the program, given by the business men of East Jordan, and it was surely enjoyed by the 100 people present. Everyone left with tho feeling they had apent a very profitable evening and enjoyed the hospitality of East Jordan. The county agent thanks the business men whole-heartedly for their kind assistance and co-operation.

Aatrim-Charlevoix Jersey Breeders' Association

On the 21st of May, at Ellsworth, the Jersey breeders of Antrim and Charlevoix counties met and organized what will be known us the Antrim-Charlevoix Jersey Breeders' Association.

H. E. Dennison, field mun for the American Jersey Cattle club, was preaent and assisted in the organization with the help of county agents Jewell and Mellencamp. A board of directors was elected, consisting nf E. B. Loehne, Central Lake, president; George Meggison, Charlevoix, vice-president; Edwin Bowers, Central Lake, sec.-treas., also Arthur Shepard, East Jordan, and Nick Dekkenga of Ellsworth. It was decided that the membership dues would be $2.00, and that the association would have an exhibit at the county fair. These men have excellent starts in the Jersey business and hope this association will be of great assistance in their work.

"Jack Webster," he declared, "you aren't crazy, are you?"

"Of course, he is—the old dear," Dolores cried happily, "but I'm not." She stepped up to her brother, and her arms went around his neck. "Oh, Rick," she cried, "I'm your sister. Truly, I am."

"Well, you'd better believe it," John Stuart Webster growled feebly. "Of course, you can doubt my word and get away with it, now that I'm flat on my back, but if you dare cast aspersions on that girl's veracity, I'll murder you a month from now."

He closed his eyes, feeling instinctively that he ought not spy on such a sacred family scene. When, however, the affecting meeting was over and Dolores was ruffling the Websterian foretop while her brother pressed the Websterian hand and tried to say all the things he felt, but couldn't express. John Stuart Webster brought them both back to a realizatibo of preseat conditions.

"Don't thank me, sir," he piped to pathetic imitation of the small boy of melodrama. "I have only done me duty, and for that I cannot accept this purse of guid, even though my father and mother are starving."

"Oh, Caliph, do be serious," Dolores pleaded.

He looked up at her fondly. "Take your brother out to Mother Jeaks and prove your case, Miss Ruey," he advised her. "And while you're at it, I certainly hope somebody will remember I'm not accustomed to reposing on a center table. Rick, if you can persuade some citizeu to put me to bed, I'd be obliged. I'm dead tired, old horse. I'm—uh—sleepy——"

His head rolled weakly to one side, for he had heeu playing a part aad had nerved himself to finish it gracefully, even in his weakened condition. He sighed, moaned slightly, and slipped into unconscionsness.

LAWS GOVERNING LABOR OF MINORS

Deputy Cornell Inspected Charlevoix's Various Industries

S. C. Cornell, deputy state inspector of Grand Rapids, was in Charlevoix last week making annual inspection of our local industries. Mr. Cornell finds that in this district the laws governing the employment of women, and boys and girls before their eighteenth birthday, is not thoroughly understood, and calls the public's attention to the following regulations:

No boy or girl under 14 years of age may be employed at all in the state of Michigan.

A boy or girl after their 14th birthday and until their 17th birthday must have a working permit.

A boy or girl between their 17th and 18th birthdays must have a certificate of age.

The employer must keep a register and record and in it the name, birth-place, age and place of residence of every person employed who has not passed his or her 18th birthday. (any blank book will do for this purpose).

The working permit or certificate of age must be kept on file by the employer at his place of business.

Working permits and certificates of age are issued without any cost by the attendance officer of the board of education.

No womau or girl and no boy before his 18th birthday, can work more than ten hours in any one day, nor more than 54 hours per week.

No boy or girl before their 18th birthday may be employed unless the occupation haa been approved by the state department of labor at Lansing as not being injurious to health or morals, or unduly hazardous.

Compensation law does not cover a minor who is illegally employed; that is, one who is employed without a working permit, or a certificate of age, or without the approval mentioned above.

A man may not worry much even if his name never appears in the newspapers but he has a right to get mad if it's left out of the city directory.

WEILAND HAS HIGHEST COW

AND A. ELZINGA BUYS PURE-BRED JERSEY SIRE

North Antrim C. T. A. Report for April Shows a Gratifying Progress

The North Antrim Cow Testing Association report for April shows Peter Weiland as proud owner of the highest cow, with a record of 57.7 pounds of butter fat and Albert Elzinga has bought a pure-bred Jersey sire, whose dam made 588 pounds of butter fat at 4 years old in the cow testing association.

Eighty-two per cent of the sires owned by members of the local cow testing association have dams with records that throw some light on their ability as progenitors of high butter fat producers. The complete elimination of the sire whose dam ability is unknown will soon take place. The desire to know whether or not the herd sire is decreasing the production, holding or improving it, is of the greatest economic importance.

The dam of Mr. Elzinga's young sire made 509 pounds of fat at three years old and 588 pounds of fat (C. T. A. record) nt four years old. She milked as high as 62 pounds a day and will make even a better record this year. Her dam in turn made 705 pounds of butter fat (R. of M. record).

Heredity seems to have a large influence over the individual animals. Often, a cow and her daughter stand out in a herd as the best producers of butter fat (because like tends to beget like). A sire and his ancestors influence 50 per cent of the heredity characteristics. Hence sires from cows who are profitable producers of fat.

In the month of April the total value of butter fat was $2,902.99; the total value of skim milk, $501.55; the total cost of butter fat, $1,620.33; profit from butter fat, $1,282.66; dollar returned for dollar spent, $1.79; cost of 1 pound of butter fat, $.23; cost of one cwt. of milk, $.96; profit on each pound of fat, $.20 and profit and each dollar spent, $.79.

Often, some doubt may arise as to the value received at the cream station and the value figured by the cow tester. Ten members make it a business to check up with their cream checker and the cow tester and when credit is given for the butter, milk and cream used in the home the value placed by the cow tester is often less than a dollar of that actually received. The proof is at hand for both profit and cost for those who may doubt their profits as calculated by the cow testing association.

ANNUAL BANQUET WAS A SUCCESS

Visitors Present from Adjoining Cities and Towns

The first annual banquet of the recently organized Ellsworth Board of Trade was held as per schedule at Big Fish Inn, on Friday night of last week, and to say that it was a success is putting it mildly. Both the committee in charge of the program and Mr. and Mrs. Allgire of the Inn, who were in charge of the banquet arrangements, fairly out-did themselves in their efforts to make the program, food and service the best ever offered in Ellsworth, and not one of the eighty or more guests of the evening but what will say most emphatically that they succeeded.

Dr. B. J. Beuker was persuaded to preside as toast master, which position he handled with honor. Music was furnished by the East Jordan orchestra, and Wm. Einink and Miss Cornelia Elzinga also made a decided hit with an instrumental duet.

Judge Parm C. Gilbert was the principal speaker of the evening. He stressed the importance of neighborliness and friendship and showed the advantages of living in the smaller towns and country as compared to being "corded up" in city apartments. Dr. Dicken, of East Jordan, gave a short talk on the state normal situation; "Jim" Deevy, "Bill" Kittle and August Banowski responded to the toast master's invitation with short talks, as did C. E. Bearss of Ellsworth and the host, Mr. Allgire. Mr. Bearss told of some of the old-time board of trade banquets, but admitted that his recollection of same was somewhat hazy, as he himself was usually one of the first ones "under the table."

Guests were present from Traverse City, Bellaire, Central Lake and East Jordan, all of whom announced their intention of being among those present at any future affairs of this nature.

Show Windows at Home

You can get a degree of enjoyment just by looking at show windows . . . seeing the clocks, radios, fountain pens you might like to own. But you can't be sure you'd like them till you know their unseen merits. What they do, how well they do it, how long they'll keep on doing it well.

When you look at advertisements, you are looking at show windows that display not only what you see, but what you can't see. The product, its quality, use, pleasure to you. All you want to know about it—yours at a glance. You don't need to walk a block to see what's new . . . nor look at it in doubt. Nothing doubtful is offered. It can't be doubtful and be widely advertised. You are as sure of a product's worth as if you saw it in a window, asked about it, examined it, took it home and tried it. The facts in advertisements are the facts of actual use.

You can get more than enjoyment out of these show windows at home. You can get solid economy.

Read the Advertisements. They make your choosing wise

CAMPS SHOULD CHARGE A FEE

MAY BE NOMINAL—WITHOUT DISCRIMINATION

If Money Is Properly Used the Tourist Himself Is Chief Beneficiary

T. F. Marston, a member of the Michigan State Conservation commission is credited with the statement that "Michigan's state parks are for the people of every state who come to visit here and their use is and will continue to be free." The commission has full charge of the state parks, nearly all of which have been equipped with all the conveniences of the modern tourist park.

It seems that from several states reports have reached the commission that prospective tourists have been told they would be obliged to pay a fee for camping in Michigon state parks this year. These reports, the commission believes, started from the movement inaugurated in Detroit, for the banding together of tourist park organizations of the United States and Canada. At a recent meoting of this organization a proposal was made to fix a uniform fee for each car making use of a tourist camp, the money thus received to be used in camp mointenance. It was to offset this erroneous impression that Mr. Marston made the statement that he did.

The Courier fully ogrees with the commissioner that there should be no discriminotory rates, favoring the citizens of Michigan over and above tourists from other states. That, indeed, would be a poor policy. But, on the other hand, it should not be accepted as a principle that no charge whotever shall be made for the services offorded by tourist camps. It is entirely fitting that some charge should be made to defray expense of maintenance, but it should be the same for all patrons of the comp, regardless of whether they hail from Michigan or Maine, Grand Rapids or Dubuque.

If the proceeds from fees are properly applied to upkeep, the camp patron should be the last person in the world to compiain. He has to pay for services of other kinds and should be taught for his own good and that of the tourist fraternity in general to expect to pay for camp accommodations, at least a nominal fee. A great many camps are established by municipal appropriations and the funds for this purpose are often inadequate to maintain them in proper condition year after year unaided and, especially, when it comes to making needed improvements.

AN OPEN LETTER FROM OUR "UNCLE" GEORGE VAN PELT

Say, folks, I've got a notion
To send you all a letter
From "Uncle" George, who only lives
To see the roads made better.

I'm not the one to air my woes
Over the whole creation.
No, sir! I'd rather spend my time
To benefit the nation.

While other fellers kick and spout,
In smoke-filled hotel lobbies,
Your "Uncle" George goes on his way
Pursuing his pet hobbies.

And 'fore I'm through, I'm going to prove
What good roads really "AM,"
And show the people Soft Stuff pikes
Ain't wu'th a Tinker's D—!

It takes CONCRETE to do the job
With any satisfaction.
The gravel trails are outta date—
Let's have some speed and action!

Before I kick the bucket, folks,
I want to see the day,
When reinforced concrete spans
The miles from peak to bay.

And when I do give up the ghost
And lay me down to die,
Just head the hearse down a concrete road,
And I'll go to heaven on high!

ANOTHER RUMOR IS "SCOTCHED"

OFFICIAL DENIAL COMES FROM UNIVERSITY

Charlevoix High School Has Been on Accredited List Continuously Since 1902

The persistent rumor has been going around among scholars, teachers and outsiders to the effect that Charlevoix high school is no longer on the accredited list of the University af Michigan.

Knowing this rumor to have no foundation in fact, County Commissioner Archie C. Belding and Superintendent George H. Coverdale wrote the authorities for official refutation of this baseless charge and received the following letter and telegram:

University of Michigan,
May 23, 1925.

Mr. George H. Coverdals,
Supt. of Schools,
Charlevoix, Michigan.

My dear Mr. Coverdale:—The Charlevoix high school has been continuously accredited by the University since 1902.

I regret that you do not have a certificate of accrediting. The new supply will not be printed until September, but I will include your school in the list for a certificate at that time.

Sincerely yours,
(Signed) J. B. Edmonson,
Inspector of High Schools.

A. C. Belding,
School Commissioner Charlevoix Co.,
Charlevoix, Michigan.

Charlevoix schools accredited for three year term until June, 1927.
C. L. Goodrich,
Asst. Supt. of Public Instruction.

The above should certainly remove all doubt in the minds of those who have been peddling the unfounded rumor above mentioned and their listeners who have given it credence that Charlevoix is actually on the accredited list, where everybody supposed it was until some one happened to catch a glimpse of the old certificate which was marked to expire in 1924, and promptly jumped to the conclusion that we went off the list at that time.

The rumour certainly hasn't done our school any good and its exposure as a fake simply illustrates the danger and folly of attempting to broadcast something without having even attempted to ascertain its truth or falsity.

MEMORIAL DAY WELL OBSERVED

CELEBRATION ATTENDED BY LARGE CROWD

Band Makes First Appearance in New Uoiforms—Ceremonies Impressive

Memorial Doy in this city was bright and clear and one of the hottest days wo bave hod this season, if not absolutely the hottest which we suspect it was.

Promptly at 9:30 the parade left Park avenue, where the organizations had been forming since 9:00 a. m. and proceeded up Bridge street to Antrim; thence down Antrim to State and up State to the cemetery. The Charlevoix band, the city's newest home-grown organization, resplendent in their new uniforms, led the procession, playing a slow march in keeping with the salemnity and significanes of the day, and followed by the members of Leslie Shapton Post, American Legion, on foot and the Woman's Relief Corps, Grand Army veterans and the children of several classes from the lower grades of the Charlevoix schools riding on floats in their rear.

A large crowd of Charlevoix citizens met them at the cemetery gates and assembled themselves within to witness the ceremonies, which were brief but impressive. R. L. Lewis, commander of the Legion post, acted os master of ceremonies, making a short address on the significance of the occasion. Rev. William Eldridge of the Church of God opened the exercises with a beautiful and expressive prayer. Music by the band followed. The remainder of the program was conducted according to schedule, except that Frank Poole and Charles Hamlin were unable to be present to sing their duet and a quartet was improvised from members of the Legion to lead in the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner." The ceremonies of the Woman's Relief Corps were very effectively conducted and the recitations of Miss Georgia Kelderhouse and Stanley Hammond given with much spirit and ability.

Rev. Bernard G. Mattson of the Congregational church delivered the address of the day, making a strong plea for the union of the nation in the bonds of brotherhood, urging that this was the message passed on to the rising generations by those who fought to preserve the Union and their grandsons, who made the great sacrifice to preserve intact from fraeign aggression that which their forefathers had united.

Following the services at the cemetery, the procession retraced its line of march to the Bridge street bridge, where the commander of the Legion cast a floral wreath into the waters of the channel in memory of those who died on the sea and the Woman's Relief Corps conducted the accompanying ceremonials, this closing the day's official observance in this city.

Tearing Up Log Road

JUST A FEW LETTERS ON A PARK

WHAT SOME MORE RESORTERS THINK OF IT

They Explain Themselves and Therefore Call for No Special Commeot

This week, with regard to the Round lake wuter-front park plan, we are going to let the letters from our summer people tell their own story, without comment. The letters follow:

"The Shakespeare and Dickens Clubs,
Charlevoix, Michigan.

Mesdames:—In talking with Mr. Olds the other day when he was in the office for a few hours, he requested me to write you and state that he favors the proposed plan of beautifying the shore of Round lake, and considers it will greatly benefit Charlevoix and make it more attractive as a summer resort.

Yours very truly,
Charles E. Ecker,
Secretory to R. E. Olds."

"The Shakespeare and Dickens Clubs,
Charlevoix, Michigan.

Dear Friends:—Your circular letter pertaining to a praposed park for the Round Lake side of the village of Charlevoix is at hand.

It would seem to me that any permanent betterment would prove of great value to your community, and especially for the children of the coming generation. I cannot think it is unreasonable to improve the attractiveness of your town, and I hope you will meet with good success in the attempt.

Very truly yours,
A. I. Creamer."

"Shakespeare and Dickens Clubs,
Charlevoix, Michigan.

I am heartily in accord with your plan to widen Bridge street and park the Round Lake side. This project, while seemingly large, should be of easy accomplishment if the proper spirit is shown by the property owners. The idea shows confideace in the future of Charlevoix and a great breadth of vision, and we of the Belvedere Resort should be behind any such movement as far as our influence can go.

Very truly yours,
D. C. Osborn."

"The Shakespeare and Dickens Clubs,
Charlevoix, Michigan.

Mesdames:—Relative to the improvements as outlined, I feel that almost any effort that would be made would be of very great benefit to the town. Nature has done wonders for Charlevoix and its immediate surroundings, and I have always been sorry that the town did not make the necessary effort to keep Charlevoix a resort town at least six months of the year.

You have every natural advantage in addition to suitable hotels and almost every form of resort diversion and entertainment that could be wished for.

I would like very much to hear more concerning your plans.

Yours truly,
Irving N. Klein."

SAFE BLOWERS TRY MANCELONA DEPOT

Got Trifling Sum There and at Roller Mills

An exchange says that "The festive safe blower again got in his work at Mancelona last Tuesday morning (May 26th) at about two o'clock. Several heard the explosion but all attempts to locate the sound failed and not until after doylight was it known for certain that a safe had been 'cracked.' This time it proved to be the safe in the office of the G. R. & I depot.

A small hole was drilled into the door by the side of the knob into which the powder was inserted. The explosion threw open the heavy door and demolished the safe. The contents were blackened with the powder and everything about the office was in disorder and confusion. We learn that only about $30.00 in cash rewarded their efforts. From the depot, the parties went to the Roller Mills, but, os their safe was unlocked, they had only to pry aut the iron cash box and take the contents—only about five or six dollars in change. They took with them valuable popers, but these were afterwards found by the side of the road where they had thrown them."

AIDS LAKES TO GULF PROJECT

CANAL DIVERSION NO BAR TO DEEP WATERWAY

Would Actually Decrease Cost of Its Construction and Operatioo

The last article in our series on the lake water-level controversy has to do with the St. Lawrence and Lakes-to-Gulf waterways and brings us, for the time being, to the close of an interesting and instructive exposition of this important matter.

The diversion of 10,000 cu. ft. per second of water at Chicago, with regulating works proposed, would in no way interfere with the establishment of a deep waterway from the Great Lakes to the ocean by any one of the several routes that have been proposed. For the deep water route down the St. Lawrence, regulating works will be required, which can be operated in the same manner as those proposed for the Great Lakes, and would eliminate the effect of any diversion at Chicago.

For more than 100 years both the United States and the state of Illinois have proceeded on a policy of improving the navigation facilities of the country by connecting the Great Lakes through Chicago with the Gulf of Mexico. Construction work is now in progress on a modernization of this waterway.

An average annual diversion of 10,000 cu. ft. per second at Chicago would reduce the cost of completing and operating the 9 foot waterway from the lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, would improve navigation conditions down to and below Memphis, and would dispense with four of the nine locks which would be required with a diversion of 1,000 or 2,000 cu. ft. per second. This would make feasible a 9 foot channel without locks from the Gulf of Mexico to within 100 miles of Chicago.

The improved Illinois waterway will adequately connect the Mississippi Valley with the Great Lakes. Such a connection will encourage navigation and will give the Middle West and the Gulf states a better opportunity to share in the benefits to be derived from ample and desirable facilities for water-borne commerce between the Gulf and the Lakes. Such a waterway is af international importance and with the completion of the improvements in the Illinois river is a possibility within three or four years.

ALARMING FACTS ON TUBERCULOSIS

COUNTY AVERAGES 17 DEATHS PER YEAR

Surprising Cooditions Uncovered by Michigan Tuberculosis Association

A recent study of the death recard of Charlevoix county for the period of 1914-24, made by a representative of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, reveals some startling facts.

We are not accustomed to regarding this region as one whore this dread disease would even get a look-in, let alone establishing a substantial foothold among aur people.

But the facts are these. The total number of deaths recorded for this county during the period named, from all causes, is 2,360. Out of this number 125 were directly attributed to this fell malady and 50 were probably from this cause, all the indications pointing to the presence of tuberculosis. In other words, during the ten year period an average of 17 people have died each year from the effects of the White Plogue. In the year 1924 alone, there were reported from Charlevoix county to the department of health at Lansing 37 new cases of tuberculosis, with 13 deaths due to the disease.

Every man, woman and child in Charlevoix county will have an opportunity to beaefit from the pennies invested in the purchase of tuberculosis Christmas seals when the Michigan Tuberculosis Association holds free chest clinics in this county. With the eo-operation of the Charlevoix County Medical Association, such a clinic will be held in the library at Boyne City on Saturday, June 6th, beginning at 8:30 a. m., fast time. On this date an opportunity will be given to anyone living in Charlevoix county to hove his chest examined, free of charge, by a physician of the staff of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

Tuberculosis is not an inherited disease but is a contact disease. It is preventable and, when found in time, usually curable—hence the need for frequent chest examinations to find the disease in its earliest possible stage, in order that a cure of the patient may be effected and to guard against his going about with the disease, unaware of its presence, thereby spreading it among the people of the county.

All those living in contact with anyone ill of tuberculosis and all those who have reason to think they may have tuberculosis are urged to attend the clinic. The examination will be free. Talks about tuberculosis and its treatment will be given. Children, 14 years old or under, should be accompanied by parents or guardians. All who avail themselves of the benefit of the clinic are urged to come early.

D. & C. PLANNING SERVICE EXTENSION

The plans of the Detroit & Cleveland line for the definite extension of their creditable operating on the Great Lakes to Chicago, Mackinac Island and Detroit is a bit of welcome news to the resort hotel folks of the beautiful Michigan summer land.

Mackinac Island residents are especially happy, but it is sincerely hoped that the efforts of Charlevoix, Harbor Springs, Wequetonsing and Harbor Point may be successful in including these delightful playgrounds in the list of the ports planned.

AT THE MOVIES

"I now pronounce you man and wife!"—and then the fun began! See "Wordly Goods." Agnes Ayres, Pat O'Malley, Victor Varconi in the cast, at the Palace Theatre, Friday.

Not just another married life farce—a real, human picture that does not involve the eternal triangle—a novelty!

Richard Barthelmess' frequently expressed desire to depict various phases of American youth on the screen will have new play in his forthcoming appearance as a West Pointer in "Classmates," which will be shown at the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday.

It will be the first time that the United States Military Academy has appeared as the background of a film dramn, Mr. Barthelmess having been accorded special permission from the militnry officials.

"It's the woman who pays and pnys and pays"—so bewails Pat O'Brien as she picks up the only remaining whole bit of bric-a-brac in Dick Crawford's fashionable apartment, leans out the window and throws it at the owner's head as he passes beneath the window on his way from the dnnger zone.

This is one of the big dramatic scenes from "The Chorus Lady," which comes to the Palace Theatre on next Tuesday and Wednesday, yet, while it is dramatic, there is much humor in it. Pat is funny without intending to be, and nli the while she has the sympathy of thosa who arc watching her.

In Memoiam

How we loved her, Ah, too well;
But Jesus loved better,
And took her home to Heaven to dwell.

Her little form is stilled in death,
And we miss her, Oh so much;
A place is vacant in our home,
That never cnn be filled.

Question: Why is a Buick so safe and so easy to steer?

Answer: Because of Buick's wonderful steering mechanism. It is the most expensive type now installed on any motor car—and worth the difference because it adds to Buick performance still another point of superiority.

CHAPTER XVII.

Throughout the night there was sporadic firing here and there in the city, as the Ruey followers relentlessly hunted down the isolated detachment of government troops which had escaped annihilation and capture in the final rout and fallen back on the city, where, concealing themselves according to their nature and inclination, they indulged in more or less sniping from windows and the roofs of buildings. The practice of taking no prisoners was an old one in Sobrante, and few presidents had done more than Sarros to keep that custom alive; ergo, firm in the conviction that to surrender was tantamount to facing a firing squad at daylight, the majority of these stragglers, with consummate courage, fought to the death.

The capture of Buenaventura was alone sufficient to insure a brief revolution, but the capture of Sarros was ample guarantee that the resistance to the new order of things was already at an end. However, Ricardo Ruey felt that the prompt execution of Sarros would be an added guarantee of peace by effectually discouraging any opposition to the rebel cause in the outlying districts, where a few isolated garrisons still remained in ignorance of the momentous events being enacted in the capital. For the time being, Ricardo was master of life and death in Sobrante, and all of his advisers and supporters agreed with him that a so-called trial of the ex-dictator would be a rather useless affair. His life was forfeit a hundred times for murder and treason, and to be ponderous over his elimination would savor of mockery. Accordingly, at midnight, a priest entered the room in the arsenal where Sarros was confined, and shrived him. Throughout the night the priest remained with him, and when that early morning march to the cemetery commenced, he walked beside Sarros, repeating the prayers for the dying.

Upon reaching the cemetery there was a slight wait until a carriage drove up and discharged Ricardo Ruey and Mother Jenks. The sergeant in command of the squad saluted and was briefly ordered to proceed with the matter in hand; whereupon he turned to Sarros, who with the customary sang froid of his kind upon such occasions was calmly smoking, and bowed deprecatingly. Sarros actually smiled upon him. "Adios, amigos," he murmured. Then, as an afterthought and probably because he was afflicted of an egoist to desire to appear a martyr, he added heroically: "I die for my country. May God have mercy on my enemies."

"If you'd cared to play a gentleman's game, you blighter, you might 'ave lived for your bally country," Mother Jenks reminded him in English. "Wonder if the beggar'll wilt or will 'e go through smilin' like my sainted 'Enery on the syme spot."

She need not have worried. It requires a strong man to be dictator of a roman candle republic for 15 years, and whatever his sins of omission or commission, Sarros did not lack animal courage. Alone and unattended he limped away among the graves to the wall on the other side of the cemetery and placed his back against it, negligently, in the attitude of a devil-may-care fellow without a worry in life. The sergeant waited respectfully until Sarros had finished his cigarette; when he tossed it away and straightened to attention, the sergeant knew he was ready to die. At his command there was a sudden rattle of bolts as the cartridges slid from the magazines into the breeches; there followed a momentary halt, another command; the squad was aiming when Ricardo Ruey called sharply:

"Sergeant, do not give the order to fire."

The rifles were lowered and the men gazed wonderingly at Ricardo. "He's too brave," Ricardo complained. "D—— him, I can't kill him as I would a mad dog. I've got to give him a chance."

The sergeant raised his brows expressively. Ah, the ley fuga, that popular form of execution where the prisoner is given a running chance, and the firing squad practices wing shooting. If the prisoner manages, miraculously, to escape, he is not pursued!

A doubt, however, crossed the sergeant's mind. "But my general," he expostulated, "Senor Sarros cannot accept the ley fuga. He is very lame. That is not giving him the chance your Excellency desires he should have."

"I wasn't thinking of that," Ricardo replied. "I was thinking I'm killing him without a fair trial for the reason that he's so infernally ripe for the gallows that a trial would have been a joke. Nevertheless, I am really killing him because he killed my father—and that is scarcely fair. My father was a gentleman. Sergeant, is your pistol loaded?"

"Yes, General."

"Give it to Senor Sarros."

As the sergeant started forward to comply Ricardo drew his own service revolver and then motioned Mother Jenks and the firing squad to stand aside while he crossed to the center of the cemetery. "Sarros," he called, "I am going to let God decide which one of us shall live. When the sergeant gives the command to fire, I shall open fire on you, and you are free to do the same to me. Sergeant, if he kills me and escapes unhurt, my orders are to escort him to the bay in my carriage and put him safely aboard the steamer."

Mother Jenks sat down on a tombstone. "Gord's truth!" she gasped, "but there's a rare plucked 'un." Aloud she croaked: "Don't be a bally ass, sir."

"Silence!" he commanded.

The sergeant handed Sarros the revolver. "You heard what I said?" Ricardo called.

Sarros bowed gravely.

"You understand your orders, Sergeant?"

"Yes, General."

"Very well. Proceed. If this prisoner fires before you give the word, have your squad riddle him."

The sergeant backed away and gazed owlishly from the prisoner to his captor. "Ready!" he called. Both revolvers came up. "Fire!" he shouted, and the two shots were discharged simultaneously. Ricardo's cap flew off his head, but he remained standing, while Sarros staggered back against the wall and there recovering himself gamely, fired again. He scored a clean miss, and Ricardo's gun barked three times; Sarros sprawled on his face, rose to his knees, raised his pistol halfway, fired into the sky and slid forward on his face. Ricardo stood beside the body until the sergeant approached and stood to attention, his attitude saying:

"It is over. What next, General?"

"Take the squad back to the arsenal, Sergeant," Ricardo ordered him coolly, and walked back to recover his uniform cap. He was smiling as he ran his finger through a gaping hole in the upper half of the crown.

"Well, Mrs. Jenks," he announced when he rejoined the old lady, "that was better than executing him with a firing squad. I gave him a square deal. Now his friends can never say that I murdered him."

He extended his hand to help Mother Jenks to her feet. She stood erect and felt again that queer swelling of the heart, the old feeling of suffocation.

"Steady, lass!" she mumbled. "'Old on to me, sir. It's my bally haneurism. Gor'—I'm—chokin'——"

He caught her in his arms as she lurched toward him. Her face was purple, and in her eyes there was a queer fierce light that went out suddenly, leaving them dull and glazed. When she commenced to sag in his arms, he eased her gently to the ground and laid her on her back in the grass.

"The nipper's safe, 'Enery," he heard her murmur. "I've raised 'er a lydy, a'elp me—she's back where—you found 'er—'Enery——"

She quivered, and the light came creeping back into her eyes before it faded forever. "Comin', 'Enery—darlin'," she whispered; and then the soul of Mother Jenks, who had a code and lived up to it (which is more than the majority of us do), had departed upon the ultimate journey. Ricardo gazed down on the hard old mouth, softened now by a little half-smile of mingled yearning and gladness: "What a wonderful soul you had," he murmured, and kissed her.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Three days passed. Don Juan Cafetero had been buried with all the pomp and circumstance of a national hero; Mother Jenks, too, had gone to her appointed resting place, and El Buen Amigo had been closed forever. Ricardo had issued a proclamation announcing himself provisional president of Sobrante; a convention of revolutionary leaders had been held, and a provisional cabinet selected. A day for the national elections had been named; the wreckage of the brief revolution had been cleared away, and the wheels of government were once more revolving freely and noiselessly. And while all of this had been going on, John Stuart Webster had lain on his back, staring at the palace ceiling and absolutely forbidden to receive visitors. He was still engaged in this mild form of gymnastics on the third day when the door of his room opened and Dolores looked in on him.

"Good evening, Caliph," she called. "Aren't you dead yet?"

It was exactly the tone she should have adopted to get the best results, for Webster had been mentally and physically ill since she had seen him last, and needed some such pleasantry as this to lift him out of his gloomy mood. He grinned at her boyishly.

"No, I'm not dead. On the contrary, I'm feeling real chirpy. Won't you come in and visit for a while, Miss Ruey?"

"Well, since you've invited me, I shall accept." Entering, she stood beside his bed and took the hand he extended toward her. "This is the first opportunity I've had, Miss Ruey," he began, "to apologize for the shock I gave you the other day. I should have come back to you as I promised, instead of getting into a fight and scaring you half to death. I hope you'll forgive me, because I'm paying for my fun now—with interest."

"Very well, Caliph. I'll forgive you—on one condition."

"Who am I to resist having a condition imposed upon me? Name your terms. I shall obey."

"I'm weary of being called Miss Ruey. I want to be Dolores—to you."

"By the toe nails of Moses," he reflected, "there is no escape. She's determined to rock the boat." Aloud he said: "All right, Dolores. I guess Bill won't mind."

"Billy hasn't a word to say about it," she retorted, regarding him with that calm, impersonal, yet vitally interested look that always drove him frantic with the desire for her.

"Well, of course, I understand that," he countered. "Naturally, since Bill is only a man, you'll have to manage him and he'll have to take orders."

"Caliph, you're a singularly persistent man, once you get an idea into your head. Please understand me, once for all; Billy Geary is a dear, and it's a mystery to me why every girl in the world isn't perfectly crazy about him, but every rule has its exceptions—and Billy and I are just good friends. I'd like to know where you got the idea we're engaged to be married."

"Why—why—well, aren't you?"

"Certainly not."

"Well, you—er—you ought to be. I expected—that is, I planned—I mean Bill told me and—and—and—er—it never occurred to me you could possibly have the—er—crust—to refuse him. Of course, you're going to marry him when he asks you?"

"Of course I am not."

"Ah-h-h-h!" John Stuart Webster gazed at her in frank amazement. "Not going to marry Bill Geary!" he cried, highly scandalized.

"I know you think I ought to, and I suppose it will appear quite incomprehensible to you when I do not——"

"Why Dolores, my dear girl! This is most amazing. Didn't Bill ask you to marry him before he left?"

"Yes, he did me that honor, and I declined him."

"You what!"

She smiled at him so maternally that his hand itched to drag her down to him and kiss her curving lips.

"Do you mind telling me just why you took this extraordinary attitude?"

"You have no right to ask, but I'll tell you. I refused Billy because I didn't love him enough—that way. What's more, I never could."

He rolled his head to one side and softly, very softly, whistled two bars of "The Spanish Cavalier" through his teeth. He was properly thunderstruck—so much so, in fact, that for a moment he actually forgot her presence the while he pondered this most incredible state of affairs.

"I see it all now. It's as clear as mud," he announced finally. "You refused poor old Bill and broke his heart, and so he went away and hasn't had the courage to write me since. I'm afraid Bill and I both regarded this fight as practically won—all over but the wedding march, as one might put it. I might as well confess I hustled the boy down from the mine just so you two could get married and light out on your honeymoon. I figured Bill could kill two birds with one stone—have his honeymoon and get rid of his malaria, and return here in three or four months to relieve me, after I had the mine in operation. Poor boy. That was a frightful song-and-dance you gave him."

"I suspected you were the matchmaker in this case. I must say I think

THE SWITCHING GAME

If you own Liberty bonds, hold on to them. Any reputable investment security dealer will tell you that United Stntes government bonds are the safest investment in the world, and, if you are a small and inexperienced investor, will advise you not to let anyone trade you out of them.

The trading of gaudy promises for sound securities is a new-old wrinkle of the security fakers and bucket shops. It is called the switching game. A great many investors are becoming educated to the fact that securities worth while must have a record of earnings and substantial business success in the company that issucs them. They demand a great deal more than promises. The faker meets this situation usually by offering some well-known stock of a great, nationally-known, successful business, which stock often is listed on the New York stock exchange where all can see its market price.

The faker can earn nothing by selling such stock, not even a broker's commission, because no reputable stock exchange would endure him for a minute. He may even lose a few dollars by buying the stock and selling it. But by selling this honest security in an honest way he worms himself into the confidence of his intended victim. Generally, the steady, reliable, old, dividend-paying stocks do not yield get-rich-quick returns. After awhile the faker points out that the good stock is slow. He has something that promises 10, 20, 50 or even 100 per cent. He trades his "promising," unknown stock, usually worth little or nothing, for the sound securities he previously bad sold his victim. In other words, he switches his victim from a good investment to a worthless one.

There is a simple and very effective guard against the switching game and against every other trick of the faker. It is simply to learn the money-making record of the company whose securities are offered and the standing of the dealer offering them. If the company has never earned money and if the dealer cannot give the names of n number of reliable business houses and persons of whom you can inquire personally or by mail, don't deal with him. His mere promises are almost invariably worthless.

BEE STINGS DRIVER— AUTO GOES IN DITCH

Turns Over Two Times and is Destroyed by Fire

Word comes from near Elk Rapids on M-11, that on Monday a Ford sedan turned turtle, ran into a ditch, caught afire and was completely burned up.

From what can be learned, the occupants of the car were a man and his wife and an aged lady. The man was driving when a bee stung him in the eye, resulting in his losing control of the car, which ran off the road into a fence post, breaking a wheel, then turning completely over twice. Fire then finished the wrecked outfit. The driver and his wife were slightly injured, while the aged lady was severely hurt.

"You did, eh? Well, whnt misde you think so?"

She chuckled. "Oh, you're very obvious—to n woman."

"I forgot that you revesl the pest and foretell the future."

"You are really very clumsy, Caliph. You should never try to direct the destiny of any woman."

"I'm on the sick list," he pleaded, "and it isn't sporting of you to discuss me. You're healthy—so let us discuss you. Dolores, do you figure Bill's case to he absolutely hopeless?"

"Absolutely, Caliph."

"Hum-m-m!"

Again Webster had recourse to meditation, seeing which, Dolores walked to the pier glass in the corner, satisfied herself that her coiffure wss just so and returned to his side, singing softly a little song that had flooted out over the transnm of Webster's room door into the hall one night:

A Spanish cavalier
Went out to rope a steer,
Along with his paper cigar-r-rot
"Caramba!" said he.
"Mansna you will be Mucho bueno carns por mio!"

He turned his hood nnd looked np at her suddenly, searchingly. "Is there anybody else in Bill's way?" he demanded. "I admit it's none of my business, but——"

"Yes, Caliph, there is some one else."

"I thought so." This rather viciously. "I'm willing to gamble 100 to 1, sight unseen, that whoever he is, he isn't half the man Bill is."

"That," she replied coldly, "is a matter of personnl opinion."

"And Bill's clock is fixed for keeps?"

"Yes, Caliph. And he never hnd a chsnce from the sturt."

"Why not?"

"Well, I met the other men first, Caliph."

"Oh! Do you mind telling me whet this other man does for a living?"

"He's n mining man, like Billy."

"All right! Has the son of a horse thief got a mine like Bill's? That's something te consider, Dolores."

"He has a mine fully ss good ns Billy's. Like Billy, he owns e half interest in it, too."

"Hum-m-m! How long have you known him?"

"Not very long."

"Be sure you're right—then go ahend," John Stuart Webster warned her. "Don't marry in haste and repent at leisure, Dolores. Know your man before you let him buy the wedding ring. There's a heap of difference, my dear, between sentiment and sentimentality."

"I'm sure of my man, Caliph."

He wns silent agoin, thinking rapidly. "Well, of course," he began again presently, "while there was the slightest possibility of Bill winning you, I would have died before saying thet which I am about to say to you now, Dolores, because Bill is my friend, snd I'd never double cross him. With reference to this other man, however, I have no such code to consider. I'm pretty well convinced I'm out of the running, but I'll give that Jod a race if it's the last net of my life. He's a stranger to me, und he isn't on the job to protect his claim, so why shouldn't I stake it if I can? But ore you quite certain you oren't making a grave mistake in refusing Billy? He's quite a boy, my dear.—I know him from soul to suspenders, and he'd he awfully good to you. He's kind and gentle and considerate, nnd he's not a mollycoddle, either."

"I can't help it, Caliph. Please don't talk nbout him any more. I know somebody who is kinder nnd nobler and gentler." She ceased abruptly, fearful of breaking down her reserve and saying too much.

"Well, if Bill's case is hopeless"—his hand come groping for hers, while he held her with his searching, wistful glnnce—"I wonder whot mine looks like. That is, Dolores, I—I——"

"Yes, John?"

"I've played fair with my friend," he whispered eagerly. "I'm not going to ask you to marry me, but I want to tell you that to me you're such a very wonderful woman I can't help loving you with my whole heart und soul."

"I have suspected this, John," she replied gravely.

"I suppose so. I'm such an obvious old fool. I've had my dream, and I've put it behind me, but I—I just want you to know I love you; so long ns I live, I shall want to serve you. When you're married to this other man, snd things do not break just right for you both—if I have something he wants, in order to make you happy, I want you to know it's yours to give to him. I—I—I—guess that's all, Dolores."

"Thank you, John. Would you like to know this mnn I'm going to marry?"

"Yes, I think I'd like to congratulate the scoundrel."

"Then I'll introduce you to him, John. I first met him on a train in Death valley, Californin. He was a shaggy old dear, all whiskers nnd rngs, but his whiskers couldn't hide his smile, nnd his rags couldn't hide his manhood, and when he thrashed a drummer because the man annoyed me, I just couldn't help falling in love with him. Even when he fibbed to me nad disputed my assertion that we had met before——"

"Good land of love—and the calves get loose!" he almost shouted as he held up bis one sound arm to her. "My dear, my dear——"

"Oh, sweetheart," she whispered laying her hot cheek against his, "it's taken you so long to say it, but I love you all the more for the dear thoughts that made you hesitate."

He wae silent a few moments, digesting his amazement, speechless with the great happiness that was his—and then Dolores was kissing the back of the hand of that helpless, bandaged arm lying across his breast. He had a tightening in his throat, for he had not expected love; and that sweet, benignant, humble little kiss spelled adoration and eternal surrender; when she looked at him again the mists of joy were in his eyes.

"Dear old Caliph John!" she crooned. "He's never had a woman to understand his funny ways and appreciate them and take care of him, has he?" She patted his cheek. "And bless his simple old heart, he would rather give up his love than be false to his friend. Yes, indeed. Johnny Webster respects 'No Shooting' signs when he sees them, but he tells fibs and pretends to be very stupid when he really isn't. So you wouldn't be false to Billy—eh, dear? I'm glad to know that, because the man who cannot be false to his friend can never be false to his wife."

He crushed her down to him and held her there for a long time. "My dear," he said presently, "isn't there something you have to say to me?"

"I love you, John," she whispered, and sealed the sweet confession with a true lover's kiss.

"All's well with the world," John Stuart Webster announced when he could use his lips once more for conversation. "And," he added, "owing to the fact that I started a trifle late in life, I believe I could stand a little more of the same."

The door opened and Ricardo looked in on them.

"Killjoy!" Webster growled. "Old Killjoy the Thirteenth, King of Sobrante. Is this a surprise to you?"

"Not a bit of it, Jack. I knew it was due."

"Am I welcome in the Ruey family?"

Ricardo came over and kissed his sister. "Don't be a lobster, Jack," he protested. "I dislike foolish questions." And he pressed his friend's hand with a fervor that testified to his pleasure.

"I'm sorry to crowd in at a time like this, Jack," he continued, with a bug for Dolores, "but Mr. What-you-may-call-him, the American consul, has called to pay his respects. As a fellow citizen of youre, he is vitally interested in your welfare. Would you care to receive him for a few minutes?"

Mr. Lemuel Tolliver tripped breezily in with outstretched hand. "My dear Mr. Webster," he began, but Webster cut him short with a peremptory gesture.

"Listen, friend Tolliver," he said. "The only reason I received you was to tell you I'm going to remain in this country awhile and help develop it. I may even conclude to grow up with it. I shall not, of course, renounce my American citizenship; and of course, as an American citizen, I am naturally interested in the man my country sends to Sobrante to represent it. I might as well be frank and tell you that you won't do. I called on you once to do your duty, and you weren't there; I told you then I might have something to say about your job later on, and now I'm due to say it. Mr. Tolliver, I'm the power behind the throne in this little Jim-crow country, and to quote your own elegant phraseology, you, as American consul, are nux vomica to the Sobranteen government. Moreover, as soon as the Sobranteen ambassador reaches Washington, he's going to tell the president that you are, and then the president will be courteous enough to remove you. In the meantime, fare thee well, Mr. Consul."

"But, Mr. Webster—"

"Vnyn!"

Mr. Tolliver, appreciating the utter futility of argument, bowed and departed.

"Verily, life grows sweeter with each passing day," Webster murmured whimsically. "Rick, old man, I think you had better escort the consul to the front door. Your presence is nux vomica to me also. See that you back me up and dispose of that fellow Tolliver, or you can't come to our wedding—can he, sweetheart?"

When Ricardo had taken his departure John Stuart Webster looked up quite seriously at his wife-to-be. "Can you explain to me, Dolores," he asked, "how it happened that your relatives and your father's old friends here in Sobrante, whom you met shortly after your arrival, never informed you that Ricardo was living?"

"They didn't know any more about him than I did, and he left here as a mere boy. He was scarcely acquainted with his relatives, all of whom bowed quite submissively to the Surros yoke. Indeed, my father's half-brother, Antonio Ruey, actually accepted a portfolio under the Surros regime and held it up to his death. Ricardo has a wholesome contempt for his relatives, and as for his father's old friends, none of them knew anything about his plans. Apparently his identity was known only to the Surros intelligence bureau, and it did not permit the information to leak out."

"Funny mix up," he commented. "And by the way, where did you get all the inside dope about Neddy Jerome?"

She laughed and related to him the details of Neddy's perfidy.

"And you actually agreed to deliver me, hog-tied and helpless, to that old schemer, Dolores?"

"Why not, dear. I loved you; I always meant to marry you. If you'd let me; and $10,000 would have lasted me for pin money a long time."

"Well, you and Neddy have both lost out. Better send the old pelican a cable and wake him out of his day dream."

"I sent the cable yesterday, John dear."

"Extraordinary woman!"

"I've just received an answer. Neddy has spent nearly $50 telling me by cable what a fine man you are and how thankful I ought to be to the good Lord for permitting you to marry me."

"Dolores, you are perfectly amazing. I only proposed to you a minute ago."

"I know you did, slow-poke, but that is not your fault. You would have proposed to me yesterday, only I thought best not to disturb you until you were a little stronger. This evening, however, I made up my mind to settle the matter, and so I——"

"But suppose I hadn't proposed to you, after all?"

"Then, John, I should have proposed to you, I fear."

"But you were running an awful risk, sending that telegram to Neddy Jerome."

She took one large red ear in each little hand and shook his head lovingly. "Silly," she whispered, "don't be a goose. I knew you loved me; I would have known it, even if Neddy Jerome hadn't told me so. So I played a safe game all the way through, and oh, dear Caliph John, I'm so happy I could cry."

"God bless my mildewed soul," John Stuart Webster murmured helplessly. The entire matter was quite beyond his comprehension!

Phelps

Joshua said: "If it seem evil unto you to serve the Lord, choose you this day whom ye will serve; whether the gods which your fathers served on the other side of the flood, or the gods of the Amorites in whose land ye dwell: hut as for me and my house we will serve the Lord."

History had proven to Joshua the terrihle disaster that had come to the inhabitants prior to the flood, as a result of their serving false gods; and to follow their example in his present day, viz: following the gods of the Amorites, would hring the same woe and condemnation from Jehovah. Thus his deliberate and free choice not only for himself but his house: "We will serve the Lord."

Show Windows at Home

You can get a degree of enjoyment just by looking at show windows . . . seeing the clocks, radios, fountain pens you might like to own. But you can't be sure you'd like them till you know their unseen merits. What they do, how well they do it, how long they'll keep on doing it well.

When you look at advertisements, you are looking at show windows that display not only what you see, but what you can't see. The product, its quality, use, pleasure to you. All you want to know about it—yours at a glance. You don't need to walk a block to see what's new . . . nor look at it in doubt. Nothing doubtful is offered. It can't be doubtful and be widely advertised. You are as sure of a product's worth as if you saw it in a window, asked about it, examined it, took it home and tried it. The facts in advertisements are the facts of actual use.

You can get more than enjoyment out of these show windows at home. You can get solid economy.

LEGIONAIRES LOST THE BASEBALL GAME

Red and White Comes Off Victorious in Contest

The afternoon's ball game at the North Side ball park between a team picked from the Legion members and the C. H. S. team resulted in a victory for the latter by a score of 11 to 4. The Legion team, however, outhit their opponents by 4. Their inability to throw the ball to the points intended by the throwers was one of the chief causes of their downfall, though this defect, probably, may be remedied by practice. There are some really good players in the Legion and many of those who did not turn out on Memorial Day have, since the game, signified their wish to organize a permanent Legion team. It might be that a Legion league could be formed among the posts of the county. In the absence of any regular city team this year for Charlevoix, a Legion team might be supported to advantage and could be utilized to contribute partially to the support of the city band. Their brand of ball might not be as snappy as one would like to see, but everyone would know the players and their games would be interesting. An effort should be made to stage a series of games between the three posts on Fourth of July at East Jordan. It would be a big drawing card.

There was a fair representation of fans at Saturday's game and the proceeds netted the band and the Orphan's Billet about $25 apiece. The playing of the band during the game was much enjoyed.

METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday, June 7

10:30, morning worship. Sermon subject, "Demands of the Religious Life." One's example, his integrity, his courage, his moral practices and his supreme unselfishness are elements of christian experience which all ought to possess.

12 o'clock, Sunday school. These lessons of christian activities bring out the true Christ challenge exemplified in the early church. Attendance keeping up spendidly. The incoming of our summer guests will mean larger opportunity and we Methodists can meet it.

6:30, Epworth League. This month will begin to bring many of the young people who help to make our league potential in spiritual effectiveness. We have had evidence of how this religious service influenced young lives over the country. Ten states were represented in our league work last summer. The Sunday night program for young people, built up by years of acceptability, will be continued this season. Plan to get into this league work. You can help us. Perhaps we can help you.

7:30, evening service. We expect the new books will be here. Tabernacle hymns will be used from now on. Come out and sing. Evangelistic emphasis.

Young people's prayer meeting every Monday night at 7:15. We study the bible, we learn to pray, we emphasize confession.

Regular prayer meeting each Thursday at 7:30 o'clock. "Whatsoever we ask we receive of Him if we keep his commandments and do those things well pleasing His sight."

Congratulations to the graduating class. To finish high school creditably is a great feat. The apostle Paul exhorted: "Study to show thyself approved unto God a workman that needeth not to be ashamed rightly dividing the word of Truth."

The address to the graduates at the Baptist church last Sunday night was ably prepared and masterfully delivered.

June 14 is Children's Day. We will administer the sacrament of baptism to children. Let us know early by letter or card if you want your child baptized. At least one of the parents, preferably both, should present the child. The sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered.

MISS ADAMS SELLS SWEET-BRIAR FARM

And Hugh King Place is Purchased by Prof. Nelson

Miss Eva E. Adams, proprietor of the Sweet-Briar Tea Rooms, has sold her property, known the the Sweet-Briar farm and comprising 78 acres, situated on Pine Lake, near the mouth of South Arm, to a group of Ann Arbor business men. The tea room is included in the transaction.

According to the expressed plans of the new owners, the property will be platted and the resultant lots sold for summer homes. It probably means a quick development for this section of lake frontage. Miss Adams will conduct the tea room this season in an advisory capacity and this fall will occupy the Gonser cottage on Michigan avenue in this city, which she recently purchased.

Another property transfer of interest is the sale of the Hugh King farm, south of Ironton, to Professor J. Riley Nelson of Ann Arbor, who has been spending the past 30 summers at the Sweet Briar Farm. He will erect a modern summer home on his newly acquired property this summer.

When our present stock of auto tires are sold out the price will be advaneed. Buy all you need now. Benj. Brown.—Adv. 21-tf.

JURY AGREES AFTER SIX MINUTE SESSION

Woman is Excused from Jury on Liquor Case by Prosecutor

A peculiar and unusual incident occurring in circuit court this term was the excusing of a woman from jury duty in a liquor case. The surprising point about this affair is not that she was excused but that she was excused by the prosecuting attorney—the People's representative!

Among the cases of especial interest not covered in our resume of court news last week was the trial of Michael Kiogima on a charge of desertion, which consumed two days time and was decided by a verdict of guilty after the jury had been closeted but six minutes.

PASTOR'S WIFE DIES SUDDENLY

MRS. C. E. TAGGART FOUND IN LAST SLEEP

Was a Strong Personality, Active for Forty Years in Work of the Church

A clipping from the columns of the Osceola County Herald for Thursday, June 4, 1925, contains the following account of the sudden death of the late Mrs. Charles E. Taggart, wife of a former local Congregational pastor, which occurred on Tuesday, June 2nd at their home in Reed City:

"The many relatives, friends and acquaintances of Mrs. C. E. Taggart were greatly shocked Tuesday morning to learn of her sudden death, which occurred at the Congregational parsonage in this city early that morning. Mrs. Taggart had been experiencing an attack of indigestion for a couple of days and retired a little earlier than usual Monday evening.

Upon arising Tuesday morning Mr. Taggart went to her room and thinking her asleep went into the garden. Entering the house again after a short time he failed to arouse her and becoming alarmed called Dr. A. O. Miller, who found she had quietly passed away in her sleep a short time before, evidently from heart failure.

Estella Hart, first born of the twelve children of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Hart, was born on a farm near Waeousta, Clinton county, Mich., October 22, 1861, and passed away in her sleep early in the morning of June 2, 1925, in the Congregational parsonage, Reed City, Mich.

She became a student at Olivet college, graduating with the class of 1883. After teaching for a time, she was married on January 28, 1886, to Charles E. Taggart, a college classmate, who had just entered upon the work of the ministry at St. Ignace, Mich.

From that time on to the end of her life she was the strong, efficient, devoted helper of her husband in his work. Every church they served in the nearly forty years of their work together felt the impress of her personality, her steady loyalty to the cause. Interested and helpful in all the activities of the church, she made her influence especially felt in the missionary work, in the Sunday school and in the church music. Strong, steady, balanced, dependable, her associates were apt to lean upon her and to look to her for leadership. Without effort she won the deep and lasting regard of the people among whom she lived and labored.

There are three living children—Mrs. Laura E. Pease, Madison, Wis.; Lester Taggart, Mishawaka, Ind.; and Herbert Taggart, Ann Arbor, Mich. Her first born son, Kenneth, died eighteen years ago and was buried at Litchfield, Mich., where her body will be laid away. She also leaves five brothers and one sister and a little grandson, whom she had never seen. There are many other relatives and friends, who will deeply mourn her departure.

"The heart of her husband did safely trust in her. Her children arise up and call her blessed."

The funeral will be held at the Congregational church, Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock. It will be conducted by the Rev. E. R. Latham of Grand Ledge, a fellow-student at Olivet and friend of more than forty years' standing.

The body of Mrs. Taggart will lie in state at the Congregational church Thursday morning from 8 o'clock until 10:30, the hour of the services, when the casket will be closed."

"HELP TO PREVENT FIRES" SHOULD BE THOUGHT OF ALL

Michigan highways are being placarded with signs asking automobilists to be careful about starting fires. "Throw the stub on the road," and "Help prevent fires," are some of the slogans being used in an effort to check the great and increasing toll of the fire demon in this state. It is now the season of the vacationists. Many of them are careless to a criminal degree. They ride along in their automobiles and throw lighted cigar and cigarette stubs in the dry grass and brush along the highways and leave live coals in their campfires. Fire swept over thousands of acres in Michigan last summer and fall and due to dry weather have been raging in some parts of the state this spring. The loss is appalling and every citizen bound for a vacation this year should have it thoroughly impressed upon his mind the great care that should be exercised in preventing this unnecessary destruction of the remaining timber zones in Michigan, which at one time boasted of the greatest forests in all the world.

McCANNS ENTERTAIN OVER THE WEEK END

Jolly Houseparty Was Much Enjoyed By All

Mr. and Mrs. John H. McCann of this city entertained a number of their friends over the week end at their Norwood home.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Livingston, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Fessenden, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Geneit, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Fitch and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Usher.

The house was beautifully decorated, a color scheme of green and yellow being tastefully carried out, even to the menu cards and the candies which were served. Everyone reports having had a wonderful time.

PIONEER BARNARD FARMER IS DEAD

HENRY GORNELL PASSES AT RIPE AGE OF 86

Came to This Country Thirty-seven Years Ago with Wife and Foster Son

Henry Gornell, pioneer farmer of the Barnard district, who since the death of his wife some nine years ago, has been living with his nephew, Joe Gornell, at 216 Antrim street, died last Friday morning, June 5th, from the effects of a stroke of paralysis, following a long period of ill health.

Mr. Gornell, who was born in England eighty-six years ago, came to Canada from the old country with his first wife at the age of thirty. He came over the border thirty-seven years ago and settled on a farm in the Barnard district, accompanied by his wife and H. R. Fowler of this city who was one of the couple's four foster children—two boys and two girls—one of the boys, Howard Gornell, who now lives on the old farm at Barnard, being later legally adopted. They found an old log cabin without windows on the place in the midst of a virgin wilderness, which he and Mr. Fowler developed into a prosperous farm by dint of much hard and persevering labor. The first Mrs. Gornell died about 19 years ago and the deceased was later married to a Mrs. Gill. Upon the latter's death, which occurred about 9 years ago, Mr. Gornell came to Charlevoix and took up his residence with his nephew here. The deceased was a member of the Barnard Grange and a prominent and much respected member of his community. He is survived by his nephew, Joseph of this city, his adopted son, Howard, of Barnard, and a brother living in England.

Following a short service at the Gornell home here, at 2:15 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Rev. H. R. E. Quant officiating, the remains were taken to the Barnard church, where the closing ceremonials were performed at 2:45 p. m., by Rev. Conklin of the Barnard circuit and the Barnard Grange, who attended in a body, interment following in the Barnard cemetery.

WHAT'S THEIR EXPLANATION?

WHY IS A FLOWER THIEF ANYWAY?

Especially When They Don't Take the Flowers—Simply Tear Them Up

Since Decoration Day and for some time previous complaints have been coming in thick and fast about flower thieves, who, it seems, are getting so bold that they take flowers off the graves and enter people's fenced yards to tear up their choicest plants. In some instances, they have torn up the plants and thrown them down again, evidently without purpose other than to destroy.

The psychology of these human hyenas is hard to figure out. One would imagine that even the most hardened and worthless character would have some slight measure of respect for the honored dead and the feelings of their relatives but, whoever the depredators may be, they are strangely lacking in any such sentiment of decency.

If they are citizens, they are distinctly of a type we do not care to harbor within the limits of Charlevoix and it is to be hoped that they will eventually get so bold as to show their hand and discover themselves, thus making is easy to send them where they won't pick flowers for some little time. If they are outsiders, they may not care what we think of them but they are simply hastening the day when their visits in resort towns in Michigan will be hedged about with unwelcome restrictions and annoying surveillance.

We don't want to have to surround our flowerbeds, cemeteries and homes with cordons of policemen, detectives and watchmen—but it will finally come to that if we cannot be protected in our property rights in any other manner.

It would seem that we have advanced far enough in civilization to be able to respect each other's inviolable rights and to realize that unless such a mutual respect exists it will not be possible to continue our pleasant American system of many privileges and few restrictions. We pride ourselves on being far in advance of foreign countries where people are constantly shadowed, pestered for credentials and confronted with "Forbidden" signs at every turn. If we truly value our comparative freedom of action, it is up to each and every one of us to see that it is not diminished nor lost entirely through our own foolish lawlessness.

MR. AND MRS. KOHLER ARE SURPRISED

Friends Help Celebrate Their Third Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kohler of this city were pleasantly surprised by a number of their friends on last Friday evening, it being the third anniversary of their marriage.

Cards were the main feature of the affair, Mr. and Mrs. Kohler winning the first prize and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Meggison the consolation. At midnight, the eight couples present sat down to a fine potluck supper which closed a most delightful evening.

FOREST FIRE FIGHT IS O. K'D

WILL RESULT IN GREATLY REDUCED FIRE HAZARDS

State Approves Plan to Cut Roads Through Danger Zones to Act as Breaks

A net work of fire lines in the wooded portion of the state was the plan approved by the state conservation commission to prevent a repetition of the serious forest fires which swept large areas in the northern counties recently. According to John Baird, state conservation commissioner, an effort will be made to construct a crude road around every township in the dangerous territory. Cross roads will be cut through the townships later. All brush and trees will be cleared from the roads which will serve both as avenues of transportation for fire fighters and apparatus and as fire breaks. The work is to be started at once he stated. Twenty or thirty tractors will be used to clear the land. Local fire wardens will be used to look after the work and if available some prison labor may be used.

The lines will cost considerable, Baird stated, and the conservation department's appropriation was not made with a view to undertaking such an enterprise. An effort to find the money "somewhere" will be made the commissioner said. The lines can be used as local roads but they will not be improved by the conservation department.

The sudden decision of the commission to establish the fire lines followed the disastrous blazes of this spring. Baird took the position that something must be done. By establishing fire lines he believes it will be possible to prevent the spread of flames from township to township. Vast areas were burned over in the recent fires. In many localities the blazes were so fierce fighters were unable to get close enough to properly combat them. Had there been fire lines the racing flames could have been held to a comparatively limited territory in many instances, Baird believes.

The Courier heartily agrees with the following comment by the editor of the Cheboygan Democrat, from whose excellent paper this article is taken;

"This is the best and most practical solution of the forest fire trouble we have heard yet. All kinds of proposals have been made and some schemes offered looking to the elimination of this great menace to the upper part of Michigan, but it seems everyone has been an utter and absolute failure as has been demonstrated now repeatedly for the past two seasons and especially this spring when thousands and thousands of acres of idle lands were burned over, and no means could be devised to stop them. The Democrat has long contended that the state should concentrate its reforestration and conservation plans largely on saving the second growth stuff that was coming up on the tracts that once held vast timber wealth and which have been cut off and are left to themselves as so many thousands of acres in north Michigan are.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT CONG'L. CHURCH

"The Lamp of Life" Rendered by Children of Classes

Last Sunday at the hour of the morning church service an appropriate Children's Day program entitled "The Lamp of Life," was rendered by the primary and junior departments of the Sunday school, with some assistance from the older boys and girls, who served as ushers and choir.

Four babies were brought by their parents for baptism. Eighteen children were promoted from the Primary to the Junior department and presented with diplomas and bibles. Twenty-six boys and girls were promoted from Junior to Intermediate department and seventeen from Intermediate to Senior.

The floral decorations were mainly spirea and peonies. In the center of the platform on a low table, surrounded by greenery, was simulated a flaming Oriental lamp. This was surrounded by candles, which were lighted as the service progressed.

The program attempted to show that the finest teachings of the home and church supply the oil for our lamp of life which religion lights with the beautiful flame of service.

"Make return in glorious light for all the oil that is being poured into the lamp of your life."

ABNORMAL HOT SPELL BROKEN

SEVEN DAY STRETCH ENDS SUNDAY NIGHT

Cool Lake Breezes Modified the Sun's Fierce Rays at Charlevoix

The long awaited break in the heat wave that scorched the Middle Western, North and Middle Atlantic states for a solid week, taking its toll of lives and starting the resort traffic into this region in real earnest, came Sunday night. Monday was moderate all day and Monday night a strong west wind came up that brought out the overcoats so gladly laid aside but a few days previous. Since then we have been experiencing normal weather for this period of the season.

In some localities the break-up of the hot spell was ushered in by heavy rains, as at Philadelphia, and in other places by rain turning to hail as it fell, as was the experience of Columbus, Bellaire and other eastern Ohio points. At Bellaire, Ohio, the mercury fell 13 degrees from 93.

In the Detroit region the sixth day of the heat wave (Saturday) started with the thermometer well up in the 80's, with not a breath of wind blowing and a brilliant undimmed sun pelting its rays down upon it helpless victims. Seventy people died there Saturday from the effects of heat and five on Friday, the hottest day of the wave. Besides this, scores were treated in the hospitals there following prostrations.

In New York City a new heat record for June 5th was established, the thermometer registering 96 degrees. On Saturday, the thermometer mounted to 87 degrees and later

BOYS' BROTHERHOOD ENJOY A BANQUET

They Completely Eliminated a Gallon of Ice Cream

The Junior Boys' Brotherhood of the Congregational Sunday school had a picnic supper and social time in the city park last Monday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. E. N. Coulter added much to the pleasure of the party by sending one gallon of ice cream, to which the boys did ample justice, as might be expected. After the games and the feast, the Winners' Class elected officers as follows: President, Norman Ance; vice president, Douglas Ross; secretary, Edwin McCann. Norman Ance, Junior Supernaw, Herbert Campbell, William Parker, David Livingston, Ted Bergman and Dan Genelt were star scholars for the month of May. Two new scholars were enrolled in the Sunday school through the efforts of the class. One thousand and seventy-five points have been attained by this class since January 1, 1925.

OWNERS OF PISTOLS MUST REGISTER THEM BEFORE JULY 1ST

Under the new anti-pistol carrying bill every owner of a pistol in Michigan is required to register the weapon with local or county police officers before July 1. And for any felony committed by a person armed with a pistol a sentence of two to five years imprisonment is provided in addition to the punishment prescribed for the specific offense committed. Licenses must be obtained by all persons, excepting police officers, to carry pistols on their persons or in their automobiles. And—most drastic of all—the new law provides that possession of a pistol without a permit by any person on trial for a major crime of violence shall be deemed "prima facie evidence of his intention to commit the crime with which he is charged."

As a usual thing, as soon as the automobile owner receives a new car, fresh and shining from the factory, he at once makes a resolution to see that the glossy coat of varnish on its sparkling sides receives the proper care so that he will save the expense of frequent painting jobs. Too often his good resolutions come to grief after a few attempts at washing the car in the home garage. Home garages are not always an ideal place for car washing. In the first place, it is a hopeless task unless the garage has been equipped with concrete floor, and even then unless it is considerably larger than is usual, there is so little clearance between the garage walls and the car that the whole car can only be covered with considerable difficulty. Moreover, the problem of getting adequate light is troublesome.

The obvious solution of all the difficulties is an apron or washing platform built out in front of the garage where there is plenty of room as well as plenty of light. Such pavements are not expensive and provide many other advantages besides making an ideal place for washing and doing minor repairs. The children will soon make the clean concrete paved area the center of their playground activities and it will be found as much used for hobby horse races and marble tournaments as for changing spare tires or washing off the car. All danger of a back-yard manhole is eliminated and the ticklish job of backing in and out of the garage is made easy.

Building a Platform.

It is, of course, easier to build such a platform at the time the garage floor is laid. But the job can be done satisfactorily at any time without much more expense. Such platforms are usually made not less than ten feet wide and eighteen feet long, which provides ample room to work freely any place around the average sized car without moving it.

The pavement should be given a slope of about a quarter of an inch per foot so that it will drain readily. The slope may be all in one direction with a gutter at the lower side to carry the water away, or, if desired, it may be made to slope in from all sides to a drain in the center which is connected to the sewer and is provided with a clean-out trap to catch the mud and dirt which is washed off of the car.

The concrete should be placed in a single course and the ground which it covers should first be smoothed off evenly and dirt tamped firmly in any low places. A course of gravel or cinders should be placed over the dirt and tamped firmly into place and the concrete placed directly on it. The six-inch thickness will be found ample strength so that it will not be injured by heavy coal wagons or trucks.

It is possible to mix the concrete rapidly enough to place the entire job at one time. The pavement may be laid all in one piece without joints. In case, however, a mixer is not available or the builder does not have the equipment to finish a piece of concrete of this size, it may just as well be placed in sections that are of a convenient size to be filled and finished by hand.

A five or six-foot square is about the most convenient size for hand mixing and finishing and the job may thus be done at odd times by the owner himself. The squares should be marked off and a two-inch plank firmly staked on edge on all sides of the square so that the top is just level with the finished pavement. The squares are filled in checkerboard fashion, that is in alternate sections, so that it is possible to work around on all sides of the square in finishing it. It is then unnecessary to use forms for all sides of the last squares to be placed, as the blocks help to serve as forms.

The concrete should be mixed in the proportions of one part portland cement to two parts of clean sand and three parts of crushed stone or clean, screened pebbles. The ingredients should be mixed thoroughly and only enough water used to make a quaky or jelly-like mass. Too much water tends to weaken the concrete. If mixing is done by hand care should be used to see that it is thorough, so that all particles receive an even coating of cement.

Surface Should Be Smooth.

As soon as the concrete is in place it should be struck off even with the tops of the forms or side pieces by working a straight-edged board back and forth with a zigzag motion as it is worked across the surface. The surface should then be smoothed down with a wooden float, a long wooden trowel, which is worked over the surface with a circular rubbing motion. It is not best to use a metal trowel too much as the finish produced by the wooden float is more satisfactory for such surfaces. Only enough troweling should be done to produce a smooth surface.

As soon as the concrete has hardened it should be covered with loose dirt or sand so that it can be kept moist for a period of a week or ten days. This curing is important, as it makes sure that the surface is hard and durable and if the concrete is properly mixed, placed and kept moist in this manner, it will wear like the surface of a concrete road pavement.

A low curbing may be placed around the edges if it is thought necessary. Such a curbing will add to the appearance of the job and keep the soil from washing out onto the concrete.

Ways for Using Hammer in Making Car Repairs

Care in the use of the machinist's hammer, which forms a part of the tool equipment of every automobile, is one of the first things the amateur automobile repairman must learn when working around the engine, says a writer in the American Motorist. With this hammer he can do more damage in a moment than a good man can repair in a week. His first inclination is to use this form of persuasion on any and every refractory part, and this is a desire which should be overcome.

Not only should the hammer itself not be used on any metal parts without the intervention of a block of wood to protect the surface, but care must be exercised to avoid hitting the other parts through the inaccuracy of aim that distinguishes the unskilled wielder of this tool.

A poorly-aimed blow that misses its target and lands on one of the valve push-rods or similarly vulnerable parts with any degree of force is apt to cause trouble of an expensive nature.

It is a good thing for the novice to be sparing in the use of his hammer as a cure-all. Do not resort to it unnecessarily, and do not use a sledge-hammer blow where a light tap will do the work.

In producing good milk certain conditions are essential. A good cow stable has sufficient light and ventilation. Sunlight is a fine disinfectant and detrimental to bacterial growth. Smooth walls make it easier to keep the stable clean, and discourage the accumulation of dust and chaff. Tight floors are sanitary and are easily cleaned and kept clean.

GAIN IN WEIGHT ON FATTENING CATTLE

Gains in weight on fattening cattle cost more than the market price received for them. A margin over the cost of the steers per cwt. is necessary for profit, or to break even on the feeding operation.

The margin necessary to break even under present feeding conditions with different fattening rations is brought out in a recent test carried on at the Colorado state experiment station.

In one lot fed yearling steers weighing 716 pounds and costing $7.00 per cwt. were fattened for 190 days on barley, sunflower silage and alfalfa. They gained 1.73 pounds daily, or 329 pounds when weighed up at market, and required 3,411 pounds of silage, 2,095 pounds of barley and 1,683 pounds of alfalfa hay to put on this gain. With silage at $4.00, barley at $25.00 and alfalfa hay at $13.00 per ton it cost $43.94 to fatten each steer; $3.91 represents interest at 8 per cent on $50.12, the first cost of the steers, plus the feed cost, $43.94, for 190 days. The shipping and selling expense was $2.95, making a total cost per fat steer back on the market of $100.92. The steer weighing 1,045 pounds had to bring $9.66 per cwt., or a margin of $2.66 over cost to break even. A three-cent margin would have meant a labor return of $3.57 per steer. A four-cent margin a labor return of $14.02, etc.

In this method of figuring a fair market price is secured for home-grown grain and alfalfa fed, while the feeder with the use of plenty of bedding has between three and four tons of manure per head in addition.

In beet-growing districts, where wet pulp can be hauled and fed, a narrower margin is needed. With a ration consisting of wet pulp, beet molasses, cottonseed cake and alfalfa, only $1.03 over purchase price per cwt. was needed to break even. Improperly balanced rations cause low gains and lack of finish, which cut down the size of the margins secured. —E. J. Maynard, Animal Investigations Section, Colorado Experiment Station.

Vegetable Supplements Will Benefit Brood Sow

Brood sows that are fed such balancing feeds as tankage, milk, or fish-meal in rations that contain corn, barley, and other cornbelt feeds, make better mothers and better sucklers than if their rations are balanced with vegetable supplements, says John M. Evvard of the Iowa experiment station.

In some of his tests at Ames, Mr. Evvard has found that the addition of one-third to one-half pound of high protein tankage has decreased perceptibly the corn or other basal feed needing balance. This saving has amounted to three-fourths of a pound to two pounds per sow per day. A mixture of tankage 75 parts, linseed oil meal 25 parts, or a combination of tankage 75 parts, alfalfa meal 25 parts, added to the basal grain ration, has produced similar results.

"The saving in corn," says Mr. Evvard, "in some of these tests, practically paid for the supplemental feed. Besides, greater gains were noted on the sows, putting them in better condition at farrowing time. Also there was a larger percentage of living pigs, a heavier average weight per pig, stronger and more vigorous pigs with better coats and better color, with an absence of the "white bloods" or anemic pigs. An increase in the size of the bone and muscles was noticeable, also."

A cheap form of swine insurance is the provision of dry sleeping quarters for the brood sows. These quarters should be well ventilated, but free from injurious draughts.

AN IMPORTANT FACT ABOUT ONE "SOULLESS CORPORATION"

It goes without saying that a corporate executor or trustee will render satisfactorily the business service expected of it, but it is doubtless often wondered:—

IS IT POSSIBLE FOR A CORPORATE EXECUTOR OR TRUSTEE TO SERVE LIKE THE DEPARTED MEMBER OF THE FAMILY CONCERNED WOULD SERVE, IN OTHER THAN PURELY BUSINESS WAYS?

It is. The success with which it does so depends partly on the assistance it has had from the departed member and has from the remaining members of the family,— on the attitude of those to be served; more, on the make-up of the corporate force, on the spirit which dominates the Corporation, but it is possible; it is more than possible.

The Michigan Trust Company's active force is now composed of about 80 men and women, giving their entire time to its service, devoted to such service, and not only willing, but anxious to render such non-business service, in the name of the Company and in its interest as conservator of many family interests. They all know that its interests are their interests; its successes their successes. Among them are fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters, uncles, aunts, even grandparents – each one with a heart, each one competent to lend a hand in this family non-business service; as occasion arises, to give friendly aid and advice, so far as is desired, in all that concerns widows, children, nephews, nieces, and others interested in the estates in its charge, large and small,— in matters of all kinds, financial and otherwise. Such interested persons are urged to make themselves known at its office. They will always be cordially welcomed, will always find new or old friends, to give them information, advice and assistance, patiently.

Let the testator do his part in preparing the way; let the remaining members of the family put themselves in the attitude of reception; and The Michigan Trust Company, through the members of its force, will show a spirit of helpfulness and do its part, not only as business manager, but as friend.

Every member of The Michigan Trust Company force expressly and individually joins in this invitation and statement.

WORLD TRADE REVIVAL

Predictions of a revival of world trade are being made by men who are familiar, not only with our own domestic situation, but with conditions throughout the world. Speaking before the United States Chamber of Commerce recently, Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker and member of the committee of experts of the Reparation Commission, declared that conditions were being re-estnblished to permit once more the international flow of credit checked following the war, nnd predicted this would be one of the most important factors in reconstituting industrial and commercial trade. "The world's population expnnded during the war," said the California banker. "There nre lnrge areas with great natural resources still to be developed. Political and economic conditions are becoming more stable in most parts of the world. And so we may expect n resumption of foreign cnpital investments of the kind which contributed so largely ln the dgcades before the war to the internntional movement of goods and services. It is possible that the generation of new capital through this medium will contribute lnrgely to the solution of governmental debt and reparations problems. In the reparntions payments may possibly be found the greatest stimulus for the development of new areas, beeause if Germany csnnot pay in gold, and goods must be taken or the balance left in the German bank, we will find that the pressure to realize will develop ingenius plans for taking out of Germany the products of that country which can be used in the development of new areas, where such products would then not come into direct competition with the producers of the country havlag such credit. And it would furnish a margin for the obtaining of n loan on any given project for the financing of the balsnce of the construction."

POLITICAL HONESTY IN PUBLIC OFFICIALS

One of the brilliant men who recently died is Job E. Hedges of New York, u man who had given high aervice to the country and whose sense of humor permitted him to see the humor in the political demagogues that so often attempted to dominate the country. Several years ago he published a volume called, "Common Sense in Politics," in which he set down some of his own political philosophy. We quote the following, which we wish our public men would not merely study but take to themselves:

"The author hates hypoerley, selfishness, and vanity ln high and low places, in officialdom or without it, and believes that most of the troubles charged to the nation are directly traceable to those characteristics in individuals.

"A syllogism can never take the place of a human heart beat. There is, therefore, no use in discussing human actions, real or desired, if from the discussion there are eliminated the actual, normal, every-day characteristics of life which govern men in their relationship to each other.

"It may be pertinent to remark, that the political crime of the present decade is not larceny but hypocricy.

"Political honesty does not differ from sny other kind—mental honesty is oftimes more important than financial integrity. The instant a man takes public office, he becomes impersonal, and has no right to think or act except for the public. It is his duty to advise the public in mentnl honesty, whether it resounds to his personal popularity or not."

SENATOR COUZENS ADVOCATES REDUCTION OF SURTAX

Senator Couzens of Michigan, who very seldom sees eye to eye with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, is advocating a reduction of the maximum surtax on individual incomes from forty to twenty per cent nnd exemption of taxes on all persons with incomes less than five thousand dollars. He would recall all the so-cnlled unlsance taxes—a tax on automobiles, motor vehicles and accessories. Senator Couzens is one of the so-called independent senators holding the balance of power in the senate. When the 1924 revenue act was under discussion, Senator Couzens insisted on a high surtax and took sharp issues with Secretary Mellon's contention that high surtaxes had the effect of foreing cnpital into tax-exempt securities. Therefore the present position of the Senator is somewhat of a surprise, but in view of the fact that there is an obvious general trend, among the opponents of the original Mellon plan, towards that plan, it is plain that serious study is the basis for the senator's present position. The outlook for a scientific tax bill ln the next congress is growing brighter every day.

WHEN CUTTING GRASS WAS A REAL HAZARD

This armored car is used for cutting the grass on the crowded municipal links at Lincoln park, near San Francisco, Cal. The car had to be screened since it became necessary to cut the grass while the links were in use and no driver would risk the job without this protection. With the heavy screen the car is the target many times for the players.

STORAGE BATTERY OFTEN NEGLECTED

To Continue in Healthy Condition It Must Be Properly Cared For.

Many motorists do not realize the job or importance of the storage battery until it fails them unexpectedly.

It is a natural characteristic of a storage battery to fail to function properly after it has delivered a certain amount of energy. This failure may manifest itself in many ways, but the average motorist uses his battery as long as possible and does not look for these manifestations until finally the battery quits.

The storage battery is intended to do a certain amount of work. It is receiving a certain amount of energy. Therefore, to continue in a healthy condition it must be properly used and cared for. There must be a proper balance between charging and discharging, if the car is to operate satisfactorily.

Use of Car Far Above Normal.

If the continuous use to which the car is put is far above normal, the battery may be likened to a man who eats heartily but gets little exercise. Illness follows, and if the conditions continues, battery apoplexy is sure to result. An overcharged battery heats up rapidly and if the driver does not give it sufficient use to balance the charging he must compensate somehow, either by decreasing the charge or by increasing the battery's work.

If the battery is being overcharged, the remedy is to exercise it by turning on the lights when driving. This will increase the battery's work.

One of the most harmful conditions to guard against in summer is overheating. This condition always is due to one or more of the following causes:

Lack of Water Harmful.

If the level of the water is permitted to reach a point below the top of the plates, the upper portion is left exposed and useless. If only half of the surface of the plates is covered by the solution, a normal charging rate is equivalent to twice the volume of current which should go through the covered portion. This causes rapid overheating and damage not seen at the time, but which results in considerable expense later.

Batteries are so constructed that age itself plays an important part in their destruction. Therefore it is not advisable to spend much money on repairing an old battery. Buy a new one and have a fresh start.

Some conditions might justify purchasing a good reliable second-hand battery, if such a thing is possible. Second-hand batteries usually are appropriate for the "wise guy." Generally it is a good plan to pass them up.

Hints Worth Remembering in Care of Motor Cars

Most engine ills are caused by dirt and improper lubrication. Good oil should be purchased from a reliable concern and used regularly. If the engine is kept clean any leak in the lubricating system can be detected at once. This is but one of the many reasons why an engine should be kept scrupulously clean.

Allow the rain curtains to dry unfastened. This will enable them to shrink a little, thus assuring a better fit when they are fastened on again. Undoing the lower fasteners will suffice.

A car that is very frequently washed requires considerable attention to the matter of spring lubrication. The springs will sometimes receive more water during a washing than during a run in the rain.

There should be sufficient lighting in every private garage to enable the driver to see whether the ammeter registers neither charge nor discharge when the car's lights are switched off and the engine stopped. Use a flash light if necessary. Should the generator cut-out points stick together, current from the battery would discharge back into the generator with consequent damage to both units. You can't be sure about this if you always leave the car in total darkness after switching off its own lights.

Use Homemade Jacks for Lifting Up End of Car

When working on the rear end of an automobile, or under it, it is usually necessary to jack up one end of the car to provide more space to work. The illustration shows a pair of simple homemade jacks for this purpose. They are made of 2 by 6-inch unplaned lumber, and constructed as shown in the upper figure, each consisting of a 2 by 6-inch base, two support blocks, and a top board of the same material. The top board is pivoted on one of the support blocks by means of a piece of ½-inch iron pipe, loosely held in place by large staples; it must be about twice as long as the base and beveled at one end as shown, this end being slightly heavier than the other so that the board will fall to the position indicated in the upper figure.

The jacks are placed close to the wheels at the front or rear, and the car driven on. A hook is provided on one support block to keep the top board down, and a short length of iron pipe or rod, fitting loosely in holes drilled through the sides of the top, prevents the wheels from running off the jack while the work is being done, thus making the work perfectly safe.—F. S. Root, Fall River, Mass. in the Popular Mechanics Magazine.

The farmer with a few head of ewes will usually find it more economical to use hand shears, but if he has 30 ewes or more it is probably best to use machines.

FOREST FIRE FIGHT IS O. K'D.

We have watched the state's program of criss-crossing state reserve lands with plowed furrows as an aid to checking fires once started on these reserves and invariably these safeguards are thrown around tracts bearing little else than jack pine and in some instances small pine settings while in the same neighborhood were larger tracts of cut over lands on which was growing some splendid young trees of all kinds, the unprotected tract being at the complete mercy of any fire that may start in it. It was this kind of land that has been burned over this spring, and the loss to conservation cannot be estimated. Game cover is gone and much game destroyed with it. The young growth, some of which in a few years would have produced merchantable timber is destroyed, the humus of some of the better lands has been destroyed and a long period of years will elapse before another growth as fine will cover the same burned over tracts. All kinds of suggestions may be presented by people unacquainted or unfamiliar with the forest fire situation, but it seems the only possible and economical way to combat the danger is just through the means now proposed by Mr. Baird of the state conservation department. This plan will confine fires to smaller area and give the men better chance to combat them once they get under way. Once a fire gets started over a long stretch of territory and driven by a heavy wind as usually develops in time of such conflagrations, it is a physical impossibility to stop them with any reasonable degree of certainty and then only when conditions are most propituous, and not until they have burned themselves onto some thin covered section where runs a trail or a few furrows as has been rolled over by a plow.

By all means criss cross every large tract of cut over lands with such furrows, and with the present system of patrol there need be no recurrence of upper Michigan's tremendous fire loss."

METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday, June 14th

10:30 a. m., we will administer baptism to children. Parents will kindly communicate with the pastor before Sunday. The sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered also. In the Lord's supper we remember his death. In baptism we acknowledge his presence.

12 o'clock, Sunday school. Excellent attendance and the best of interest. Every lesson is a choice one. If we study them we will profit.

6:30, Epworth League. The two classes of our group were out at camp. The attendance was good. There were thoughts expressed in this one service which will effect the lives of several young people for years. It will help them to make a better record. The league work of this summer will not be less than that of other years. In fact, the outstanding features of last summer, will greatly help in the task of this year.

7:30, preaching service. Evangelistic singing. Good music. A splendid place to spend an hour of spiritual betterment. Service just one hour. Out promptly at 8:30. Give us your presence.

Monday at 7:15, young people's prayer service. Commit to memory John 3.16.

Last Tuesday's monthly gathering of the Ladies' Aid Society is announced the last one of the season. September begins the new year. The closing of this societies' work for now shows a year of marked improvement over previous years.

Sunday school board met jointly with the official board on Wednesday evening.

Thursday, prayer meeting at 7:30 o'clock. We study Romans sixteen. Paul introduces us to his relatives. Come out and hear about it.

W. C. T. U. meets at this church this Friday. Flowers that are brought in will be distributed to the sick and shut-ins.

Road signs of this day are the most suggestive. "Steep Hill Ahead," "Curve," "Loose Gravel," "Fresh Tarvia" are warnings every motorist will do well to heed. Shall we not likewise remember the repeated warnings of the bible and so order our journey skyward?

Save part of the Gasoline Tax—by Using

Red Crown

The High-Grade Gasoline

Red Crown gives more miles per gallon. This is proved conclusively by stringent road tests, and by the expense records of thousands of companies and individual motorists.

By keeping your tank filled with Red Crown, you will realize a radical saving in your gasoline bills, thus overcoming to a large extent, the extra burden which the gasoline tax is placing on motorists. At the same time you will have the satisfaction of knowing that good roads are on the way.

Good roads guarantee the convenience which accrues from an adequate system of direct highways, and a substantial saving to you—lower upkeep cost, reduced repair bills, lower depreciation charges.

Red Crown guarantees more power and more ground covered per gallon. It has a complete unbroken chain of boiling point fractions. It vaporizes to the last drop.

Red Crown power never lapses or hesitates either on boulevards, bad roads or mountain grades. Fill up with Red Crown and save money.

Show Windows at Home

You can get a degree of enjoyment just by looking at show windows . . . seeing the clocks, radios, fountain pens you might like to own. But you can't be sure you'd like them till you know their unseen merits. What they do, how well they do it, how long they'll keep on doing it well.

When you look at advertisements, you are looking at show windows that display not only what you see, but what you can't see. The product, its quality, use, pleasure to you. All you want to know about it—yours at a glance. You don't need to walk a block to see what's new . . . nor look at it in doubt. Nothing doubtful is offered. It can't be doubtful and be widely advertised. You are as sure of a product's worth as if you saw it in a window, asked about it, examined it, took it home and tried it. The facts in advertisements are the facts of actual use.

You can get more than enjoyment out of these show windows at home. You can get solid economy.

Read the Advertisements. They make your choosing wise

SAVING PERSON FROM DROWNING

SWIMMING SEASON HERE WITH ITS DANGERS

Time-worn Instructions for Saving Persons Who are Drowning are Worth Repeating

With the coming of another swimming season to northern Michigan—the season of drownings in many localities—the time-worn instructions in saving persons who have apparently died from drowning are worth repeating. Not only are they worth repeating, according to leaders in life-saving work, but they should be learned by heart by every boy and girl, man and woman in the land.

Hugh S. Cummings, surgeon general, United States public health service, has written the following instructions on how to save drowning persons:

When, in order to save drowning persons, it becomes necessary to swim to their relief, you should remember:

1. That when you swim close to a person who is drowning assure him in a loud and firm voice that he is safe.

2. Before jumping in to save him, throw off as quickly as possible all your clothes. Tear them off if necessary.

3. If the drowning persons is struggling, do not seize him. Keep off for a few seconds until he becomes quiet. It is sheer madness to take hold of a man when he is struggling in the water. If you do, you run a great risk of being dragged under yourself.

4. When you get close to the person drowning, take hold of the hair of his head and turn him as quickly as possible upon his back. Give him a sudden pull. This will cause him to float. Then throw yourself on your back and swim for shore. Keep hold of his hair. Keep the back of the drowning person to your stomach. In this way you will get to shore sooner than any other means.

5. It is believed that there is no such thing as a death grasp; nt least such a grasp is very unusual. As soon as a drowning man grows feeble and loses his recollection, he gradually slackens his hold. You need have no apprehensions concerning the death grasp when you nttempt to rescue a drowning person.

6. After a person has sunk to the bottom, if the water be smooth, the exact position of the body may be discovered by the air bubbles which will occasionally rise to the surface. It should be remembered, however, in this connection that if the water is in motion, if the body lies in a tideway or stream, these bubbles in rising to the surface will he carried out of a perpendicular course and due allowance should be made for the motion of the water.

7. If it is necessary to dive to the bottom to rescue a person, you should seize the huir of the head with one hand. Use the other hand in conjunction with the feet in raising yourself and the drowning person to the surface.

8. In the sea, it may sometimes be a great mistake to try to get to land. If there is n strong out-going tide and you are swimming either by yourself or holding a person who cannot swim, get on your back and float until help comes. Many a man exhausts himself by swimming for shore agninst an ebb tide and sinks in the effort when if he had floated, a boat or other aid might have been obtnined.

9. These instructions apply under all circumstances in a rough sea or in smooth water. You should know also that the popular idea that a drowning person rises to the surface three times is apparently incorrect. Some persons never come to the surfoce at all. Others come up but once. It is important therefore that you make no assumption that the rule of a person coming up three times will always hold truc.

EMERGENCY CROPS MUST MEET SHORTAGE

Dry Spring Cots Tonnage of Clover and Timothy

With a greatly reduced red clover and timothy hay crop staring them in the face as a result of the dry spring season, Michigan farmers will in many cases be forced to resort to emergency short-season hay crops, according to crops men at the Michigan State College.

Alfalfa und sweet clover are said to be coming through nicely, and those who have fields of these crops to cut for hay are congratulating themselves. Many others, however, will not even bother to cut their clover and timothy fields unless relief comes soon in the way of general rains. For these, the emergency "short-season" crops are important.

"The present emergency can be met partially by getting busy and seeding some shorter seasoned crop, to tide over the shortage," says L. D. Kurtz, extension specialist in farm crops at the college. "These emergency crops produce excellent yields within a single season.

"Soy beans, sudan grass, the millets, and fodder corn are among the short season crops which can be recommended. These crops should be seeded as soon as possible—the earlier the better. Well prepared seed beds ure important."

More detailed information on handling these short-season crops can be obtained from local county agricultural agents, or directly from the farm crops department at the Michigan State College.

FIRE PAYS A SECOND VISIT

BLAZE AT VAN DUSEN PLACE STARTS UP AGAIN

Family Unconscious of Danger are Rudely Aroused from Slumbers

Last Friday forenoon, the Charlevoix fire department was called to the farm home of Alfred Van Dusen, just off the Norwood road, fire having caught simultaneously in each of the big twin barns that stand side by side, about ten feet apart on the property, presumably from lightning, as a heavy electrical storm was in progress at the time. The blaze was quickly extinguished after the arrival of the department and the matter considered a closed incident.

However, at 2:30 o'clock Saturday morning, a couple of motorists returning to Traverse City from Charlevoix passed the place and found the barns and one of the outbuildings blazing fiercely. They had noticed the glare of the flames on the sky before leaving this city and the sight sped their progress southward. When they reached the place they noticed that no one seemed to be up and around, so got out of their car and pounded on the door of the farm house to arouse the family. After some little time, as no one answered, they hurried to the home of Ed. Gregory nearby but their efforts to arouse the latter were no more effective than in the first instance.

In the meantime, at the home of Orton VanDusen, some considerable distance from the scene of the fire, the latter's son who happened to be awake at the time saw the reflection of the flames on the wall of his room and arousing his father, hurriedly dressed, got out the car and lost no time in reaching the fire. When they got there and had aroused Alfred VanDusen and the others they met the two strangers coming back from Gregory's who had begun to think that nobody in the community were at home.

Another alarm was turned in to Charlevoix and the department hurried out to the place a second time, but were too late to save the two big barns and the combination pump house and garage. The wind was blowing fresh in a northerly direction and, save for the efforts of the department, the farmhouse itself, the woodshed in its rear and the extra barn on the north side would have been totally destroyed.

As it was, three buildings were totally destroyed, together with about thirty tons of hay, a quantity of harness, an automobile that was destroyed with the garage and a calf that perished in the barn. Alfred VanDusen, his daughter, Mrs. Cora Hoyt and the assistant on the place, George Mitchell and two small sons who were asleep in the house, narrowly escaped with their lives, as, had they not been aroused within the next fifteen or twenty minutes, the flames would have undoubtedly cut off their escape.

Fire has hit the VanDusen family pretty hard. It is only a year ago last April 14th, since Orton VanDusen's fine farmhouse burned to the ground. This time the loss is Lawrence's, as he had recently purchased the place from his father. He is holding a small sale of stock next Monday afternoon.

AGED RESIDENT DIED SUDDENLY

Louis Gravelin Stricken in Early Morning

Louis Gravelin, for forty-five years a resident of Charlevoix, died very suddenly at his home on West Lincoln avenue last Monday, June 15th, at 4:30 a. m., death being due to failure of the heart to act.

Mr. Gravelin was born in Ellenburg, Clinton county, N. Y., on May 31, 1862. He came to Muskegon at the age of 14 years and to Charlevoix about one year later. He was married at the age of 20 to Julia Olney of this city and to this union were born three children, two dying in infancy. He was again married in 1893 to Rachel Welsh of this city and four children were born to the latter union. He had been a resident of Charlevoix for 48 years and of Michigan 49 years.

The deceased is survived by a widow and five children—John Gravelin of Portland, Oregon; Louis Gravelin of Bay Shore; Archie Gravelin of Grand Rapids; Mrs. Elinor O'Neill and Theodore Gravelin of Charlevoix. There are several brothers and sisters in New York and Washington and a sister in Ellsworth, Mrs. Jennie Cromp; also seven grandchildren.

The funeral will be held at two o'clock this afternoon at the Baptist church, Rev. Herman Burns officiating. Interment in Brookside will follow.

MISS HAZEL B. BURNS IS DEAD

AFTER EFFECTS OF OPERATION PROVE FATAL

Was Much Loved and Respected in Community Where She Grew to Womanhood

The entire community was saddened last week to learn of the death of Miss Hazel B. Burns, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nassau Burns of this city, which occurred last Friday, June 12th, at 4:00 p. m., at their home, 107 Dixon avenue.

Three weeks ago Tuesday, Miss Burns had her tonsils removed at the Reycraft Hospital in Petoskey. Shortly after her return home, a throat infection set in which grew steadily worse, resulting finally in death. She had just turned twenty-one years of age four days previous to the end.

Miss Burns was born in Charlevoix on June 8, 1904. After graduation from the grades and high school, she finished a two year course at Olivet College and returned to this city, accepting a position as stenographer with the Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering Company, which place she held at the time of her death. Her sweet and equable nature won for her many firm friends as was evidenced by the large number who gathered at the house and cemetery to pay their last respects and the many beautiful floral gifts.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon from the Burns residence on Dixon avenue, Rev. Bernard G. Mattson and Rev. Herman Burns officiating. At Brookside cemetery, some ten or twelve members of the vested chorus choir of the Congregational church, of which the deceased had long been a faithful member, sang "Asleep in Jesus" and "Peace, Perfect Peace." A prayer by the Rev. Dr. Mattson followed the singing of these beautiful and impressive hymns and the interment was sadly and solemnly completed.

Besides her father and mother, Miss Burns is survived by two brothers, Bernard and Ralph.

EDNA NOBLE DEYLE DIES IN DETROIT

Remains Brought Here Thursday for Burial

The remains of Mrs. Edna Noble Deyle, who passed away in Detroit on Tuesday, June 9th, following an operation for the removal of a ruptured appendix which resulted in peritonitis, were brought to this city via Petoskey, last Thursday, June 11th and laid to rest in Brookside cemetery that afternoon, Rev. H. R. E. Quant conducting the funeral service at the M. E. church at 2:00 p. m. which preceded the interment.

Mrs. Deyle will be remembered here as the adopted daughter of J. A. Noble and the present Mrs. Clara Noble Biossat. She is survived by the latter and an adopted brother, Harry, who lives in Detroit. She was nearly 27 years of age at the time of her death.

STAY WAS BRIEF BUT BRILLIANT

"G. W'S" CROWDED MUCH INTO NINETY MINUTES

Paraded, Saw the Town and Loeb Farms, Staged Fun for the Kids and Made Calls

The S. S. Carolina of the Goodrich line docked in Round Lake Thursday morning and 125 members of the Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce left the boat and lined up on the dock, preceded by the sixteen Charlevoix committeemen, the procession being led by the Milwaukee organization's snappy 20 piece band.

The parade passed up Bridge street, between lines of interested spectators, until they reached the Hallett Inn, where the "Good-Willers" arranged themselves in a circle around the mayor and his committee to listen to the welcoming speech, which was brief but cordial, Mayor Bergeon with a few felicitous remarks extending to the visitors the freedom of the city. The leader of the "Goodwillers" replied to the mayor in a like spirit of good fellowship and Archie Livingston then announced to the visitors the committee's intention of taking them on a ride about the city and to the Loeb Farms, an offer which was gladly accepted by the Milwaukeeans.

The response to the appeal for cars for this purpose was very generous, there being more on hand than were necessary to transport the guests. While those who were going on the drive were securing their seats, others of the party were staging racing competitions among the youngsters who lined the sidewalk and throwing up handfuls of pennies for them to scramble after, all of which furnished an immense amount of amusement for the grown-ups as well as the kids. Candy and souvenirs were lavishly distributed by members of the party.

Many of the townspeople visited the industrial exhibit on the boat, which was found to be very interesting and instructive, some forty exhibits being on display.

The "Goodwillers" left on their boat promptly at 12:30 p. m., well pleased with their reception in this city. The idea of the tour, they wished it to be understood, was not purely a "buy in Milwaukee" proposition but rather a plan to let other people know what Milwaukee has to offer and give the men on the trip an opportunity to find out what is offered by those cities which are visited, renew trade acquaintances and cement trade relations.

Dietze-McDonald

Mr. Alfred W. Dietze and Miss Beryl McDonald were quietly married at East Jordan, by Rev. C. W. Sidebotham, at the Presbyterian parsonage at 10 o'clock a. m., Wednesday, June 10th. After having their dinner at the bride's home, they left for a trip to the southern part of the state, visiting Mt. Pleasant, Lansing, Grand Rapids and Muskegon. Their many friends wish them much joy and happiness.

CROP PROSPECTS UNSATISFACTORY

BAD WEATHER CAUSES MUCH SERIOUS DAMAGE

Late Frosts and Lack of Rain Have Caused Great Injury to All Crops and Fruits

Crop prospects throughout Michigan are far from satisfactory. The month of May was characterized by unusual extremes of weather, temperatures ranging from below the freezing point to above 90 degrees, and the rainfall being the lightest on record. As a result, all crops have suffered severely. Every crop concerning which inquiry was made on June 1 is reported below the ten-year average according to the monthly statement issued recently by L. Whitney Watkins, commissioner of agriculture and Verne H. Church, U. S. agricultural statistician. Practically every crop has a lower condition figure than on the same date last year. Frost took a heavy toll in the fruit belt, and did some injury to the grains and hay, while drought and cold weather have stunted the growth and lowered the prospects for all grains and hay crops. The hot period during the opening days of June, since receipt of the reports of correspondents and the compilation of the official estimates, have produced still further deterioration.

Winter wheat: The condition declined from 83 to 75 per cent of normal during the month of May. In many sections it did not stool well and is consequently thin on the ground. Growth has been slow and it is heading on short straw. Hessien fly is reported in a few localities. The present condition is five per cent below the ten-year average and 14 per cent below that of one year ago, and represents a production of 14,656,000 bushels as compared with 19,888,000 bushels harvested last year.

Spring wheat: Indications point to an increase of 1,000 acres, or a total of 8,000 acres. This is chiefly grown in northeastern Michigan. The reported condition of 80 per cent indicates a production of 102,000 against 126,000 bushels in 1924.

Oats: The preliminary estimate of acreage is an increase of two per cent over last year, due to more favorable weather during the seeding period. The extremely dry weather since that time has held back growth and the crop presents a rather poor prospect with a condition of 78 per cent as compared with a ten-year average of 87 per cent. The present outlook is for a crop of 49,645,000 bushels as compared with 67,200,000 in 1924, and it is doubtful if a full recovery is possible even with abandant rains.

Barley: The estimated acreage is 171,000, an increase of 12 per cent over last year. The crop has suffered in common with oats from the drought and cold weather during May, and the present condition of 77 per cent is 12 per cent below the ten-year average. This forecasts a production of 3,818,000 bushels, which is nearly one million bushels less than harvested last year despite the increased acreage.

Summer Arrives

TWENTY-FIVE EXAMINED AT CLINIC

Eighteen Positive or Suspicious Cases of TB Found

An unusually large attendance marked the free chest clinic held at the Boyne City library on June 6th, is the statement made by Miss Laura Bauch, who was in charge. "Applicants began coming early in the day—kept coming until six o'clock, and others came after the doors were opened again at 7:30."

Dr. Levitt, of Detroit, made the examinations and of the twenty-five people examined, eighteen were found to be positive or suspicious cases of tuberculosis. Clinical findings were sent to their family physicians as no treatment is administered at the clinic.

Another clinic will probably be arranged for Charlevoix county at an early date in the opinion of Miss Bauch, director of clinics of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, for so small a number of the applicants could be taken care of at this clinic, "and if efficient work is to be done in lowering the tuberculosis death rate, every advantage must be followed up."

OLD SETTLERS AT MANCELONA

IN PALMER PARK ON WEDNESDAY, JUNE 24TH

This Will be 44th Annual Gathering for Grand Traverse Association

The 44th annual meeting of the Old Settlers' Association of the Grand Traverse region will be held at Palmer Park, Mancelona, Mich., on Wednesday, June 24, 1925.

This is expected to be one of the best if not the very best affair of its kind ever held in the region and it is hoped that there will be a record attendance.

The order of the day will be as follows. The period from 9:00 o'clock to 11:30 a. m. will be devoted to the business of getting acquainted, which is really one of the association's chief aims. Then a half hour to select favorable spots to park oneself and the well-filled lunch basket which everyone is expected to bring and get the things laid out and dinner at 12:00. Be sure and bring cups, as coffee and tea will be furnished by the association committee.

At 1:30 comes the call to order, followed by community singing and at 1:45 p. m. an address of welcome will be delivered by E. L. J. Mills, of Mancelona. The response to this address will be made by Senator W. L. Case of Benzonia. A song will follow and C. L. Bailey of Bellaire will deliver an address. Mrs. Harris of Boyne City, will give a historical sketch of the association. After this, a roll call will be made of the vice presidents of the several counties. Music will follow and the report of the historian, Mrs. Love of Traverse City, will close the activities of the day.

Every person who can do so should make it a point to attend this meeting of the old settlers of the region. Every year a few more of the real old timers—founders and builders of the Western Michigan country—pass out of the picture, never to return. There will not be many more opportunities left to hear their fellow-pioneers tell in their own language the fascinating story of the beginnings of a state, of the toils and triumphs over perils and hardships that have passed on to us of the present generations so goodly a heritage.

Visit Old Friends

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Boyer, 84 and 78 years respectively, now living in Boyne City, took what was quite a jaunt for them last week and came over to Eveline township to visit their son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Boyer, and while in the neighborhood called on Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Schaffer and took dinner with them Sunday. Their old neighbors in Eveline were glad indeed to see them again.

DON'T BLOCKADE YOUR ENTRANCE

MAYBE A CUSTOMER WOULD PARK THERE

Tourists and Townspeople Complain that Merchants' Cars Shut Them Out

"Human beings and hens," as the little girl said, "is funny animals." What do you think of a real, live go-gettin', rootin-tootin member of the Association of Commerce, who contributes his fifty or a hundred smackers each year for the use of the advertising committee, is right on hand to give the members of visiting delegations the warm, glad hand of welcome; contributes for the band, favors the park plan and spares no pains to whoop 'er up for a "bigger and better Charlevoix" at every opportunity, and then—when the summer visitors get here and the tourists commence to roll in—parks his big Rolls-Rough or his Pierce Sparrow at the curbstone, square in front of his place of business and leaves it there all day, so that his customers, if they want to do business at his place, have to move up into the next block or two, or around on a side street in order to park? Consistent bird, ain't he?

This shot isn't aimed at any particular individual—there are many offenders along the main street. But the serious feature of the matter is that many complaints have been already registered this season on this score and where complaints are heard there is usually dissatisfaction. We can not afford this.

The automobile tourist is a creature of marked peculiarities. One of the strongest of these is his disinclination to exert himself unnecessarily or go very far out of his way for anything. If he doesn't happen to see a handy place to light, he is apt to keep right on flying until he does. It is just sheer foolishness to put anything in his way if you want his business, especially anything so large and solid as a car.

And, by the way, now we are at it, why bring your car down to your place of business at all, friend? If you are the average person you live within a radius of less than a mile from the business center and a mile is only a snappy, bracing walk for a healthy person—or one who intends to stay healthy. Again, we say, if you are the average successful business man of the town you are reaching an age where every ride you take when you might better walk is another nail in your coffin. Why commit slow suicide, be it ever so pleasant a process? The world and your family have need of you. Walk and fool the undertaker for another dozen years. If it's time you are trying to save, forget it—you'll have lots of time on your hands when you're dead—better travel in low for a while, live longer and thus be ahead of the game in the end. Of course, it's none of our business, but you might never have thought of it in just this light before.

OBEY THE LAW ON LIGHTS OR BEWARE

One Accident Last Week Due to Its Violation

The season's first reported automobile accident occurred last Sunday night on South Bridge street.

A. P. Newton, going south with his truck, ran into Charley Hendrickson's sedan, parked at the curb in front of his home. Considerable damage was done to both vehicles, neither of which, it is alleged, carried lights at the time, although it was after dark.

This matter of neglecting to show lights at night on automobiles and trucks is getting to be a serious one. A member of the state constabulary was in the city last week and rounded up some thirty offenders, the majority of them for showing either none at all or an insufficient number of lights. He is very likely to come along again at any time and there is likely to be something doing if he catches the same offender a second time, as the law is very clear and rather severe on this point. A word to the wise—you know the rest.

ARE YOU RHEUMATIC?

Many Pacgs That Pass for Rheumatism Are Really Due to Weak Kidneys.

Do you suffer the agonizing pangs of rheumatism? Are you tortured with rheumatic joints and stabbing twinges? Then you should know that many so-called rheumatic troubles are due to an excess of uric acid and must be treated through the kidneys. When the kidneys weaken, the whole system is upset by these body poisons. Help your kidneys with a stimulant diuretic. Use Doan's Pills, the remedy your neighbors recommend! Here is a Charlevoix case:

Mrs. J. H. O'Neill, 101 Green Ave., says: "I was just miserable with a lameness across the small of my back. Then I had rheumatic pains and twinges in my limbs. I was nervous and always had a weak, tired out feeling. My kidneys acted irregularly, too. I used Doan's Pills and they drove the trouble away. I soon felt like a different person."

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mellencamp

On the 11th and 12th of June, Miss Sylva Wixson, assistant state boy's and girl's club leader, from our agricultural college, assisted the county agent in the organization of the new clubs. The Canning Clubs are for the girls and teaches them all the methods of canning fruits and vegetables, especially the cold-pack method, as well as giving them the opportunity of getting better acquainted among themselves. All members are between the ages of 10 and 20, and must can from 30 to 50 quarts of fruits and vegetables, depending on their ages. Each member has to keep records on their canning work, also write a story entitled "How I Did My Canning" and display their exhibit at the county Fair. Each club has their own officers and organization, so of course the members get valuable business training.

The Handicraft Club consists of boys and girls who are doing shop work. They make many useful articles such as chairs, tables, etc. They also have their own organization and will exhibit at the county Fair.

The county agent feels that club work is one of the most important phases of extension work and has at present six clubs organized in the county, all of which will exhibit their work largely at the Fair.

We speak of having such and such a percentage of our cattle on test, of having pure-breds, etc., and is it not more important that we have a large percentage of our fine boys and girls in club work and working along useful lines and receiving the right kind of training?

As a sort of reminder of the number of club members, the following list is complete up to the present, but will receive additions from time to time:

AT THE MOVIES

Tom Mix, cowboy star of stars, sharing honors with his celebrated horse, will be at the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday, in a new William Fox picture entitled "Oh, You Tony!" Tom has been turning out rapid-fire westerns that hit only the high spots for so long that his host of followers know that any picture in which their favorite appears assures them of a wild good time. "Oh, You Tony!" is no exception.

This picture is just about as speedy as a picture can be and not run off the track. The story is laid principally in the West, with a short sequence in Washington, D. C. There is plenty of comedy mixed up with the excitement. The big thrill of the picture is a cross-country horse race. Beautiful Claire Adams appears in support of the star. J. G. Blystone directed.

"East of Suez," Pola Negri's latest Paramount starring picture, due next Monday and Tuesday at the Palace Theatre, challenges, for color and richness, anything ever before seen on the screen.

Theodore Roberts has created another "Grumpy" role!

In the William de Mille production for Paramount, "Locked Doors," which marks Roberts' return to the screen after a year's absence, the veteran actor gives a portrayal of an old invalid which takes its place beside his previous hit, "Grumpy," also a de Mille-Paramount.

Mr. Reid, the part Roberts plays in "Locked Doors" has been called the younger brother of "Grumpy."

WAY TO IDENTIFY ANY STOLEN CAR

Simple Matter to Place Secret Marks on Machine in Out-of-Way Places.

(By ERWIN BREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)

You wouldn't leave a bag of $20 gold pieces parked at the curb even though they were stamped "In God We Trust." In fact the person who did so would immediately be sent to the insane asylum. But nine out of every ten motorcar owners, according to statistics, are fully as careless with their machines, which often represent a bag of gold pieces far too heavy to carry.

You think nothing of leaving your car for long periods without locking it. And if you are fortunate enough in still having it, why it is nothing less than sheer luck. It is little wonder that automobile thieves live off the fat of the land and find such a profitable field for their work.

How Thieves Work.

Thieves usually work in pairs and when they see an unlocked car at the curb, they drive another machine alongside of the unlocked one. It is an easy matter to step from one into the other. In case they are discovered in the actual theft, the other car is the means of getting away. As a rule they take the one that offers the least resistance for an easy get-away.

Suppose your car is one of those stolen. Could you identify it with a new paint job or other disguising features? Remember that the car is the thief's property until proved otherwise. Without some real proof you cannot, of course, claim your property. With the engine numbers and frame identification removed, you cannot possibly tell your car from another, especially on account of the fact that there are so many standard models.

Identification Marks.

It is a simple matter to put secret identification marks on your machine. Inside the hubcaps and on the frame are excellent places. Or you might loosen some part of the upholstery and insert your business card. In this event you would catch the thief red-handed. Suppose that those identification places were discovered and removed—surely there are other ways that will suggest themselves to you from an observation of your own particular car. And a thief isn't superhuman; he cannot locate all the identification places.

But do it right now. Don't wait until the car is gone.

It only takes a few seconds to lock your car. And, as a rule, the thief shadows his prospect several days before he steals it. If he sees that you are careful it is a ten to one shot that he'll pass your machine up for one that is easier to steal.

So don't put temptation in his way.

Well Recommended Paint for Use on the Muffler

It is difficult to find a satisfactory paint for exhaust pipe and muffler, because of the heat of those parts. Here is a highly recommended muffler paint: Boiled linseed oil, one-fifth pound; Japan varnish, one-fifth pound; turpentine, two-fifths pound; lampblack, one and a half ounces; powdered graphite, one and a half ounces; powdered oxine or manganese, three-eighths ounce. Mix the linseed oil and Japan varnish well together, then add in order, stirring all the time, the lampblack, the graphite and the powdered manganese. Add the turpentine, until the quantity mentioned has been used. This mixture should be used as soon as it is mixed, as it dries quickly. Every time the brush is dipped in it should be stirred. It is well to paint the muffler while it is hot, after having cleaned it thoroughly.

Keeping Car Under Control on Grades

In driving down steep grades various resistances may be utilized to keep the car under control. If the engine is kept running and the gears are in high, there is only slight resistance. This may be increased by shifting into second speed, and further increased by shifting into first. When still further resistance is needed to maintain a check on the progress of the car and it is not desired to use the brakes the ignition may be shut off and the throttle closed. By opening the throttle the resistance is still further increased. The maximum of resistance and the best control on a dangerous steep hill may be obtained by shifting into first, switching off the ignition and applying the brakes at intervals.

Grabbing Rattles in Their Infancy Is Right Plan

The more expensive a car is the longer you expect it to run without rattles. Yet it is possible with even the lowest priced cars to keep the rattles out if you but catch them as they appear. They will come one by one and if they are caught in the same manner they will not be nearly so hard to remove as they would be if they are allowed to accumulate in a troublesome chorus before they are stopped.

Rattles in the brake linkage and other parts under the car can be found by shutting off the engine and allowing the car to coast in neutral gear. If someone stands or sits on the running board while the driver does this, many sounds that have been difficult to locate will be readily found. These link rods are a typical example of noise that will often defy the efforts of the driver to find, while another person sitting on the running board or outside the car will have little or no difficulty in locating them.

Place for Extinguisher on the Running Board

Where to put the extinguisher is an open question. Under the dash is the customary place. But almost every motor car fire endangers this spot. Flames sometimes envelop the extinguisher before the driver has a chance to unhook it. The most logical place, from the fire standpoint, is to place it on the running board, but this not only spoils the car's looks, but tempts children to meddle with it. For roadsters, especially, the extinguisher can be carried on brackets at the base of the driver's seat. In this position it is very handy. For touring cars a good place is the back of the front seat. Here it is accessible, that is the main thing. It would be less conspicious if painted black. And in winter it would be covered by the robes. In this respect, however, use your own judgment.—Motor Life.

European automobile race drivers are experimenting with pistons that are raised and rounded at the top. They call this damning the pistons and find that it increases compression and power by forcing the gas vapor to occupy a smaller space when compressed. This is exactly what happens in the average motor (only on a smaller scale) when carbon cakes on the piston tops. But the carbon prelignites the gas and thus wastes power. Knocking proves it.

Frost Forecasts Aid Fruit Grower

Warning Service Saves Crop and Prevents Unnecessary Burning of Oil.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The accuracy of frost forecasts made by the weather bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture is illustrated by results in a typical district where 95 forecasts of temperature near or below the danger point were made and distributed. In 91 per cent of the cases the forecast was correct within 2 degrees Fahrenheit or less, and in the other cases the variations were only slightly greater.

Pay for Service.

Fruit growers appreciate this special frost warning service by paying approximately one-half the expense of it in order to extend the operations permitted by the funds of the weather bureau. Information furnished not only saves fruit but prevents the unnecessary burning of many gallons of oil. The practice of orchard heating is growing rapidly. There are three general methods of frost protection: Conserving heat, stirring the air and adding heat by means of fires. The last has proven thus far the most practical and economical method.

Several trained meteorologists are assigned to frost work during the danger period each year in important fruit districts. This work consists of temperature surveys, the issuing of forecasts and warnings of frost, experimental work as to the most effective methods of protection, and giving advice to growers. Temperature surveys are useful not only in regard to showing the susceptibility of a locality to frost owing to its topography, but also as an aid in selecting orchard sites. In issuing warnings there is a specially arranged system of distribution. One grower may be told to prepare for firing the latter part of the following night, and another near by that his orchard will be in no danger.

Work at Testing.

Experimental and advisory work comprises the testing, under actual orchard conditions, of various devices for frost protection; determining the relative effectiveness of different kinds of heaters; testing personally owned thermometers for use of the growers; and giving advice as to the proper exposure of instruments in an orchard.

Stable Manure Superior as Fertilizer in Garden

Perhaps the vegetable crops did not grow as well as they might have, even with the weather conditions as they were. This may have been due to lack of fertility in the soil. It is very seldom that a well-fertilized garden soil fails to produce a uniformly satisfactory crop of vegetables.

Of all the garden fertilizers, none is superior to stable manure.

Stable manure carries nitrogen, phosphorus and potash, the three chief elements of fertility. Not only does it carry these plant foods, but it contains decaying vegetable matter and the bacteria already at work which makes the decaying vegetation available as plant food for crops.

Use plenty of manure on the garden. You will not find a more profitable place on the farm for the manure. A ton of well-rotted manure to every eight square rods of the garden area is none too much; in fact, some advise still more.

For garden conditions, even better results are had by supplementing the manure with about fifty pounds of acid phosphate to each ton of manure applied.

Popularity of Soy Beans Increased in Corn Belt

It is surprising to observe the increased acreage of soy beans. Throughout the South the feeding and fertility value of soy beans and cowpeas have been recognized and appreciated, but recently this new crop has journeyed into the Corn Belt and through the Northwest, and demonstrations everywhere are serving to extend the planting of this legume. This, too, is in spite of the fact that the production in bushels or the return in dollars and cents is more or less restricted unless the soy beans can be sold to concerns which will extract the oil and market the residue for feeding purposes. Straight soy-bean meal is an excellent supplement to corn and other carbohydrate feeds supplying protein of good quality, but it never can be relied upon to supply the entire amount of protein essential for balanced rations.

For Woman Car Owner

Women who do a considerable amount of work about their cars will find an admirable costume as follows: A large kitchen apron fastened in the back and buttoned tight around the wrists, completely covering the street clothes; sandals to cover the shoes, an old pair of gloves and a cap fitting tightly over the hair. In this garb they will be entirely protected from dirt.

Crank Case Oil Waste

Did you ever stop to think how much oil is wasted yearly in the cleaning of auto crank cases? The oil is changed about 12 times a year in each car, thereby wasting about 24 gallons of oil. In a single case, this doesn't amount to much, but collectively the waste is appalling. For the 7,000,000 cars in use, it would amount to an annual loss of 189,000,000 gallons.

Good Intelligent Care of Sire Very Important

Too often we fail to appreciate the value of giving the sire good care. This animal should be the best we can obtain. A poor sire is a losing proposition, no matter if he is registered. If good and of the right breeding we should endeavor to get as large an offspring as possible from him.

Allowing the sire to run with the herd is a wasteful practice. If he is good he should be used on more females instead of being allowed to wear himself out on a few head.

As an illustration, a good bull of mature age will serve a herd of 125 head if the breeding is done under limitation. He should be kept up in well lighted and ventilated quarters with access to a pen for exercise.

One service of the sire is sufficient and more simply tends to tear down his vitality. He should be kept in just good ordinary condition and not too fat, in order to get the best results. The feed should be good and substantial and should not be overbalanced one way or the other.

Good intelligent care of the sire will result in more efficiency in the breeding operations.

WOODEN STRUCTURES GROWING UNCOMMON

A hundred years ago bridges of the type of the old covered wooden structure spanned the rivers and streams of the country. In sharp coatrast is the old bridge had to be repaired frequently and eventually deteriorated to such an extent that it had to be replaced entirely. The concrete bridga is as permanent as the stone of the mountainside.

Large Increase Seen in Concrete Paving in 1924

During the first seven months of the year 1924 practically 1,000 miles of concrete pavement 30 feet in width were placed under contract, reports the Highway Concrete Magazine. A total of 5,850 miles of concrete street pavement averaging 30 feet in width were completed and under traffic at the end of 1923, and contracts for almost 400 miles of such pavement. When all the street work carried over from 1923 and the new awards of 1,020 miles to July 31, 1924, have been completed, there will be 7,270 miles of this type of pavement serving traffic in the cities of the United States.

Some of the larger cities—100,000 population or more—have been slower to adopt concrete for their streets, chiefly because these cities were fairly paved before. Practically a quarter of the municipal street awards are in the cities whose population exceeds 100,000. New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, Milwaukee, Detroit, Los Angeles, Seattle, Atlanta, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Kansas City and other important cities have built concrete pavements.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

No. 19 F-10-46-A

Question: Why is a used Buick the next best buy to a new Buick?

Answer: Because the correctness of Buick design and the quality of Buick manufacture are not altered by use. A used Buick is a better investment than many new cars of other makes.

To Repair Fuel Line

When the fuel line suffers a fracture on the road there are a number of emergency repairs that may be made. If rubber tubing is available a section of this will make an admirable splice. A cork with a hole through it may be used aad in the absence of one a raw potato with a hole through it makes a very satisfactory temporary splice. Cloth smeared with soap or shellac and then reinforced with splints is very handy.

IGNITION SYSTEM OFTEN NEGLECTED

(By EDWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering, Chicago.)

Many times I have been asked to look over a friend's car to find that the trouble was one of the simplest. The average driver knows nothing about electricity as applied to the automobile and so is unable to tell when the ignition system is not functioning properly. He is afraid to experiment and believes in letting things alone until something happens. He then looks over the system for the first time, and, of course, does not know whether the wiring is right or not. Yet, I have repeatedly pointed out cases of worn insulation, among other troubles, about which the operator seemed entirely lost. In one case the spark was jumping freely from a distributer wire to a piece of metal nearby, and he pointed to it as evidence that he had a good spark, evidently accepting it as a matter of course that the spark should jump where it did.

Instruction Book Helps.

Even if the operator understands nothing of the nature of his ignition system he should at least familiarize himself with the positions of the various wires, their colors and general condition. Here the instruction book will help a great deal. Then if any one of them becomes displaced it will be readily noticed. Watch particularly for cases where one wire chafes against another or some piece of metal. Such places should be protected with electric tape, or at least separated so that no short circuit may occur. But the high tension or secondary wires may develop a short circuit where least expected, so that it would be well to go over them occasionally to see that no leakage takes place. This is particularly true during rainy weather. The moisture is drawn in by the fan and scattered around under the hood.

Wires which did not leak current before will short-circuit during a wet spell. The best method is to run the engine and to trace along each wire, lifting it away from any place it may touch to see or feel if the current is leaking through the insulation. Where a leak is noted the place must be taped.

Possible Short Circuit.

A more puzzling problem occurs where all the wires from the distributer pass through a metal tube. There is always the possibility of a short from the wires to the tube as the tube is always grounded. Proceed as follows: First find out if the current enters the suspected wire. To do this disconnect the wire at the distributer end and hold it near its contact to see if the spark jumps. Of course, if no spark is seen the trouble is not in the wire, but in the distributer. If a good spark occurs at the distributer but none at the other end of the wire there is a short in between. The wire must be pulled out and a good one substituted, although the old one may be made serviceable again.

On some systems it will be found impossible to remove the defective wire, so it is necessary to substitute a good one between the same points, running it along the outside of the tube and securing it by means of tape.

Jack Is Useful on Balky Mounted Rims

When a rim with tire is mounted on the wheel it often happens that the rim cannot be moved into place, remaining partly on and partly off. Slight springing of the rim is all that is needed, and this may be done by placing the head of a jack against the hub of the wheel and the base of the jack on the protruding portion of the rim. Thus sprung a little, a hammer blow will slide the rim over the edge of the wheel. In most cases of this kind the mere operation of the jack will force the rim over the wheel.

Gruesome Warning for New York Jay Walker

This somewhat gruesome sign was installed at Fifth avenue and Forty-second street, New York, as a warning to careless pedestrians and automobilists. Light plays behind the transparent picture, flashing on and off at regular intervals. The sign will be moved from one congested corner to another in the city's crowded districts.

Too Much Talk of Speed and Too Little of Brakes

In fast rail traffic, both with the steam railroads and electric trains, the first requisite is the rapidity with which the engine can stop. Motorists on the other hand, have been giving their entire attention to speed, with little thought how quickly a stop can be made.

"Pick up," "get away," "dash," are the most familiar terms to the everyday motorist. It is time to put on the brakes. The national brake inspection movement, which has the indorsement of leading automobilists, police officials and government experts, will accomplish much good if it does nothing more than call the attention of motorists to the necessity of a regular inspection of their brakes.—John J. Younger, Supervisor of Engineering, Motor Transport Division.

Removing Sprockets

When attempting to remove sprockets or gears from the shafts to which they are attached by means of taper or plain fits and keys, care must be exercised not to use a hammer too freely, for fear of either fracturing the gear or springing it out of line. A so-called pulley puller or special jack may be improvised without difficulty under almost any circumstances, and by its use the part may be removed straight without imposing undue strain upon it.

in some sections, and growth has been delayed by the unusual weather conditions in May, resulting in a loss of eight per cent in condition during the month. The present figure of 80 per cent indicates a production of 4,514,000 bushels, which is about 1,500,000 bushels less than last year's crop.

Hay: The outlook for hay is very discouraging. But little growth has been made and the condition has dropped to 71 per cent, as compared with 91 per cent one month ago, 83 per cent one year ago, and 86 per cent, the ten-year average. This figure represents a production of 3,402,000 tons as compared with 5,010,000 tons in 1924. The acreage is estimated at 3,194,000.

Clover seedings came through the winter in good condition, resulting in a two per cent increase in acreage over last year. Timothy acreage has decreased eight per cent in comparison with one year ago. Alfalfa continues to show an increase in acreage, the estimate being 493,000, an increase of 10 per cent over last year. The condition of alfalfa is rated at 85 per cent. While this is seven per cent lower than last year and the ten-year average, it is considerably higher than that of any other kind of hay. The acreage of wild hay is estimated at 58,000, an increase of seven per cent. The condition is 80 per cent, indicating a production of 70,000 tons.

Fruits: All fruits suffered to a greater or less extent from the freezes on May 18th and 24th, the greatest damage occurring in Berrien and Van Buren counties. The losses were unusually heavy on tender fruits, although some orchards and vineyards on high and otherwise favorable locations escaped serious injury. Growers were unable to determine the exact condition at the time of report.

Apples: While this fruit suffered less than other kinds, early apples were seriously injured, amounting, in some cases, to almost or quite a total loss. Winter fruits were thinned considerably. Baldwins, the leading variety, show a very light setting in most orchards. Spies are reported to be in the best condition of the winter varieties. The present condition is 68 per cent.

Pears: Pears seemed to be more susceptible to injury from freezing and suffered extensive damage, many orchards having a few or none left. Kieffers bloomed heavily but did not set in many cases. While the report was made before it was possible to determine the exact condition, the average given by correspondents is 44 per cent.

Peaches: In Berrien and Van Buren counties, the crop suffered extensively except in orchards on the most favored locations. In other sections, the set was thinned considerably but many orchards have enough left for a fair crop. The condition is rated at 48 per cent.

Grapes: The condition of grapes is placed at 35 per cent, although it averages lower than that in Berrien county. In that district, only an occasional vineyard escaped serious injury. To what extent secondary buds will develop is speculative, but the earliness of the freezes is favorable for a considerable setting of these buds according to experts.

Cherries: The cherry crop is rated at 53 per cent. Sweet varieties in the southwest counties suffered greater damage than the sour ones. In the Grand Traverse region, opposite results obtained. Throughout the fruit belt the damage was severe, although orchards on high ground with good air drainage escaped with only slight injury, particularly in the central and northern portions of the fruit belt.

Plums: The crop was seriously damaged, especially in the southwest counties. The estimated portion remaining is 50 per cent.

Blackberries and Raspberries: These fruits suffered much less injury although the dry weather is cutting down the present prospects. The condition on June 1 is placed at 67 per cent.

Strawberries: The portion of the crop in bloom at the time of the freezes was destroyed. Hence, only the late bloom is available and dry weather is shortening the yield, which is estimated at 37 per cent of a crop.

Cantaloupes and Watermelons: Plants in the open field were destroyed, and serious losses sustained by growers who had done any transplanting. However, only a small portion of this work had been completed, leaving 65 per cent of a crop in prospect.

GOOD ROADS

SOUTHERN SISTERS TAKE TIP ON ROADS

The recent visit of a distinguished group of Pan-American road engineers to the United States has resulted in stimulating greatly the laying out and building of good roads all over the western hemisphere, according to information received by Roy D. Chapin, chairman of the good roads committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

"The work will not be completed in a day," said Chapin, "but the seed has been sown and the example and the inspiration are there. Lively good roads campaigns are under way in a number of countries. The whole subject will come to a more definite head at the first Pan-American highway conference at Buenos Aires next May. There are particularly optimistic reports from Argentina, Brazil, Cuba, Guatemala, Mexico, and Nicaragua. An encouraging fact is that the leaders are laying out in each case a national system of roads, so that development can proceed logically and effectively.

"The Argentine ambassador to the United States, Dr. Honorio Pueyrredon, who accompanied the Pan-American mission on its American tour, soon will be in South America. He is one of the enthusiastic sponsors of an adequate system of good roads built under a national plan. He is to make good roads one of the important commercial questions which he will discuss with Argentine officials when he arrives home.

"In Mexico a highway association is being formed. In Cuba a bill is to be introduced shortly into congress for the immediate construction of a Cuba central highway. The Cubans are thoroughly awake to the possibilities of good roads.

"A factor of importance is that railroad construction is almost prohibitive in cost in such countries as Colombia, Ecuador, and Peru. The governments of those countries are especially interested in highways which will in part at least take over the usual tasks of the railways.

"In other countries the more normal condition of the motor roads as a valuable and essential adjunct of railroads, for the proper development of the national resources, is to be expected."

Car Owner Wants Smooth Pavement for Pleasure

"The pavement's the thing," opines the modern Hamlet as he steps on the accelerator of his car, looks over the green fields and woods on either side and decides that things are not so deplorable in Denmark after all.

Yes, the pavement's the thing. Any old cow path will not suffice for a road in these days when an automobile ride is the shortest distance between two points. People like to say it with balloon tires nowadays. They want roads that will get them somewhere else—in a hurry—without bumping their heads through the top of the gasoline phaeton.

That means that they must have paved roads and wider roads too. There must be wide pavements so that cars can pass safely and easily. The motorist on the roads today finds that two cars roll where only one rolled before. Such a condition means that automobiles can't pass each other if road builders stick to narrow highways.

And road builders know this too. They're building 'em wider. And the old ones, that were too narrow, even if they were mighty good pavements and served royally when they were built, are being widened by building strips of concrete pavement at the side of the old pavement.

The pavement's the thing, and the motorists are going to have it—they're going to have it wider, too.

"It must be terrible to old-time school teachers to discover that their brightest boys are more interested in girls than in Latin.

He also says the oat crop has been harvested and the stubble broken up for a late corn crop. Black and huckleberries and early peaches are also beginning to ripen. We are always glad to hear from Ralph, and would enjoy a visit with the old boy again.

Fishermen have been limbering up their casting arms during the past few days. "Rock" Miller, one of the guides at Big Fish Inn, hooked and landed a 12 pound Musky on Monday. The arrival of a carload of new boats last week also adds to the accommodations, as row boats or launches can be procured at the Inn at any time and at a very reasonable rate per day or hour.

Show Windows at Home

You can get a degree of enjoyment just by looking at show windows . . . seeing the clocks, radios, fountain pens you might like to own. But you can't be sure you'd like them till you know their unseen merits. What they do, how well they do it, how long they'll keep on doing it well.

When you look at advertisements, you are looking at show windows that display not only what you see, but what you can't see. The product, its quality, use, pleasure to you. All you want to know about it—yours at a glance. You don't need to walk a block to see what's new . . . nor look at it in doubt. Nothing doubtful is offered. It can't be doubtful and be widely advertised. You are as sure of a product's worth as if you saw it in a window, asked about it, examined it, took it home and tried it. The facts in advertisements are the facts of actual use.

You can get more than enjoyment out of these show windows at home. You can get solid economy.

FIERCE STORM SWEEPS WEST

FLOOD AND WIND DEVASTATE WIDE AREA

Great Damage to Farms and on the Lakes—Communication Lines Severed

Terrific wind and electrical storms throughout wide sections of the middle west were blamed last Saturday for four deaths, many injuries and hundreds of thousands of dollars damage to crops and telephone lines.

Spectacular storms centered in Wisconsin and northern Illinois, following a heat wave which a few hours before had caused scores of prostrations. A wind driving at 60 miles an hour lashed up dangerous waves on Lake Michigan, carrying more than a dozen small craft far off shore near Chicago, according to reports received from that district. Eight men in two canoes were rescued by life guards after the gale had driven them two miles out into the lake. Flashes of lightning helped guide the life guards to the rescue.

Flood water in Minnesota, resulting from the rain and wind finally dropped below the danger point by the end of the week, but not until damage to farms had risen to a total of $500,000, as reported by relief workers in the stricken area. Lightning killed one man near Ivanhoe Saturday and communications were still disrupted.

At Breckinridge, Texas, last Friday night, according to a United Press dispatch, three persons were killed and more than a score injured when lightning crashed through a school house at Pleasant Hill. More than a hundred persons were in the building when a ball of fire burst from the chimney and ran across the floor and out the door, according to those who were present.

Scores of oil derricks were blown down in the storm which swept over the Lone Star state.

While we of the northern Michigan section experienced a disagreeable change in the weather, still, we had no tornadoes nor floods and ought to be truly thankful for our fortunate geographical position which renders us practically immune from these destructive influences.

THREE-YEAR-OLD EFFECTS RESCUE

Little Robert Bergman Proves Himself a Hero

Two little three-year-olds figured in a thrilling rescue last Tuesdsy. Rosie O'Neill, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. O'Neill, and Robert Bergman, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bergman's little toddler, were playing together down near the edge of Round lake on the north shore, when Rosie fell in.

The water is quite deep at the point where this happened, but young Robert, with excellent presence of mind jumped in after his little playmate and dragged her out of her dangerous predicament. Then both went to their respective homes to get dried off and—we presume—warmed up!

Impetus to Tuberculosis Eradication in Indiana

The public post-mortem demonstration on eleven cattle reacting to the tuberculin test gave an impetus to tuberculosis eradication recently in Wabash county, Indiana, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. The reactors were the tuberculous cattle found among 564 head tested, representing 46 herds. Eleven farmers witnessed the post-mortem examination of the animals which the inspectors had condemned on the basis of the tuberculin test.

Every carcass showed lesions of the disease, some of a pronounced nature. The farmers who witnessed the examination expressed satisfaction with the results and are continuing their work for the eradication of the disease from the county under a systematic county-area plan.

ROAD BUILDING

CONCRETE PAVEMENT EASY TO CONSTRUCT

Building a concrete street pavement is a simple operation. Just four materials enter into a concrete pavement—portland cement, sand, stone or pebble and water. These, in certain definite proportions—usually one part cement, two parts sand and three parts stone, with water to produce the required consistency—plus workmanship—make concrete pavement. The cement is manufactured in all parts of the country and is probably the most thoroughly standardized building material on the American market.

Sand is usually found locally. For use in a concrete pavement, it should be clean; that is, it should be free from dust, clay chips and roots of any kind or vegetable matter. The grains should not be coated with any material, such as clay. Each particle should be hard and clean, so that the cement mortar when hardened may hold it in a firm grip.

Stone may be either in the form of pebbles or may be from a stone quarry and broken to proper size in a mechanical crusher. Whatever the form the particles should be hard, clean and tough.

Water must be clean and pure. The amount used in a concrete mixture for street pavement should be limited to that which will just yield a plastic mixture—more than this makes inferior concrete. A safe proportion is not over six gallons per sack of cement.

These materials are placed in the drum of a concrete mixer and the mass is thoroughly mixed by the rotation of the drum, and by blades or paddles inside the drum which assists in "folding" the mass (called a "batch") back and forth, coating every particle of sand and stone with the wet cement. This mixing must continue for at least a full minute after all the materials are in the drum. The batch is then discharged upon the prepared foundation, given the required surface contour with a strikeboard, and rolled with a light metal roller to squeeze out surplus water and to compact the concrete to a dense mass. The final surface finish is usually given by drawing a canvas belt back and forth across the full width of the pavement, thus forming a true, dense surface and one having the skid-proof texture characteristic of concrete. Chemical action between the cement and water causes the concrete to harden, and to make this hardening thorough and uniform the concrete is protected from hot sun and wind with canvas to prevent the water in it from evaporating. Concrete does not harden by drying. So if the concrete is allowed to lose water by evaporation, the cement mixture will be robbed of water essential to the chemical process mentioned. This hardening process goes on rapidly for several days, so the pavement is kept sprinkled with enough water to keep the surface moist for ten days after laying, unless the weather is cool and damp enough to prevent evaporation. Then it may be allowed to continue hardening without sprinkling for ten days or two weeks more, when it will be ready for any traffic to which the streets are subjected.

Road Is Physical Sign to Determine Character

The road is the physical sign or symbol by which you will best understand any age or people. If they have no roads, they are savages; for the road is a creation of man and type of civilized society. If you wish to know whether society is stagnant, learning scholastic, religion a dead formality, you may learn something by going into universities and libraries, something also that is being done on cathedrals or churches or in them, but quite as much by looking at the roads, for if there is any motion in society, the road, which is the symbol of motion, will indicate the fact.—Bushnell.

Big Road Building Plans

Improved roads are now being built in the United States at the rate of forty thousand miles a year. Under the federal highway act of 1921, which is administered by the Department of Agriculture through its bureau of public roads, a program has been established which will give the country a connected system of main highways. Practically every city of five thousand population or more will lie directly on the system and all will be connected with it by improved roads.

WANT COUNTY IN ON POTATO SHOW

TOP O' MICHIGAN ASSOCIATION WRITES SUPERVISORS.

Believes Interest of Growers in Upper Eight Counties Are Identical.

Officials of the Top O' Michigan Potato Association, whose headquarters are at Gaylord—"In the Heart of Michigan's Potato Belt," as their literature puts it, are endeavoring to have Charlevoix county included in the Third Annual Potato and Apple Show, which is scheduled for November 4th, 5th and 6th, at the auditorium in Gaylord.

To this end they are urging upon the county board of supervisors, now in session at the court house, that a small appropriation be made by Charlevoix county towards defraying the expenses of the coming fair, thus entitling the potato and apple growers of the county to place their products on exhibit.

F. J. Shipp, president of the association, N. E. Glasser, its treasurer and A. C. Lytle, its secretary, feel that the interest of the eight counties in the northern tip of the lower peninsula ure so nearly identical that they should join hands in all enterprises, especially us regards the potato and apple growers of the region. The appropriation required from each county is based on the smount of potatoes produced and on the distance from the show. In the case of this county it amounts to one-half mill per bushel. Only the growers of those counties which have granted appropriations are eligible to display their produce at the fair.

Two of the best potato shows in the country have been staged at Gaylord during the past two years, under the auspices of the association. The first show held in 1923 brought out over 150 entries of potatoes and 1,500 people. The attendance at the 1924 show was still larger, a higher quality of potatoes were exhibited and one of the best programs of speeches on potato culture was presented that any audience in Michigan has ever been privileged to attend. Dr. William Stuart, potato specialist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, was the leading speaker and guest. He said, "I doubt whether I ever saw a better collection or rural variety potatoes in my life. This show, if continued, is the best indication that Northern Michigan is going to be a leader in the production of high quality table stock and high class seed. I congratulate you."

The publicity alone which our territory received because of this show could not be bought for the money that it took to put on the show. The direct results are still more apparent. At the state show at Lansing, growers who had previously exhibited at the Top O' Michigan show won almost all of the ribbons and $300 in cash. Buyers of high grade potatoes are looking more and more to this section of the state for their source of supply.

Thus, the purposes of the show ara being attained--udvertising Northern Michigan as the logical place to buy high grade seed and table stock; giving our growers a chance to compare their potatoes with those of their neighbors and learn tho latest about successful potato culture and thus become superior in every way to the potato growers in other sections of the state, and lastly, to bring buyers and growers into direct contact.

The Courier helieves that these are worthy aims and that the show provides an excellent means of attaining them.

MICHIGAN TO CURB DRUNKEN AUTO DRIVERS

A new and drastic "drunken driver" law is now in effect in Michigan. It was enacted by the 1925 legislature at the urge of law enforcement officials and dry organizations.

Based upon the theory that the only effective way of curbing traffic accidents and casualties attributable to drunken driving is to keep intoxicated motorists off the highways, it provides for the mandatory suspension of driver's licenses.

A first offender, upon conviction, must surrender his driver's license for at least three months. In addition the court may sentence him to pay a fine of from $50 to $100 and to not more than 90 days imprisonment. For a second or subsequent offense the driver's license is automatically suspended for at least a year.

The additional penalties are a fine of not more than $500, or not more than one year's imprisonment, or both.

ROYAL HIGHLANDERS COMING HERE

FAMOUS FLORIDA BAND SECURED FOR CHARLEVOIX

Will Play the Afternoon aod Evening of July 15th at North Side Ball Park

At a meeting Tuesday night of a number of the city's business men, in conference with the representative or advance agent of Roy D. Smith's Royal Scotch Highlanders band, the famous organization that has been delighting visitors to St. Petersburg, Fla., for tbe last five years, it was decided to secure the services of this splendid 26 piece band for the afternoon and evening of July 15th.

It is expected that tbe merchants will put on a brisk advertising campaign prior to the date set and draw a large enough crowd from out of town, from the country and from neighboring resorts to make the affair a gratifying success. A temporary bandstand will be erected on the north side ball park, near the Inn garage, and seats provided, a nominal admission fee being charged. Any surplus of proceeds that may be taken in will be devoted to the uses of the Charlevoix band, under whose auspices the visiting organization will come to Charlevoix.

The Royal Scotch Highlanders band will give a two hour concert in the afternoon and a two hour concert in the evening, probably from about 8 o'clock to 10 o'clock, immediately following which a first class jazz orchestra attached to the Royal band will play for a dance at the Beach Hotel casino.

As the personnel of tho band includes some very famous soloists on their respective intruments as well as some Class A entertainers, whose numbers will be interspersed with the regular band program, a rare treat is promised lovors of good music on the afternoon and evening of Wednesday, July 15th.

The Royal Highlanders are now on a tour of northern Michigan and have an itinerary of several towna in this region. It is a wise move to get them here and the Courier would congratulate the backers of the venture on their public spirit and foresight.

BOARD MAKES A QUICK FINISH

SUPERVISORS CLEAN UP WORK IN TWO DAYS

Equalization of Property is Nearly Twelve Million But Less Than 1924

The Charlevoix county Board of Supervisors met on Monday morning, June 22. All were present during the session with the exception of H. B. Hipp, of East Jordan, who was ill and could not attend.

C. C. Schaub, of Boyne City, was elected chairman for the ensuing year.

The matter of equalization of county real and personal property was the real issue of the meeting and the appointment of new committees for the ensuing year. The balance of Monday was consumed in committee work.

On Tuesday, the bonrd was addressed by Miss Theda Wolfe, R. N., of Boyne City, who spoke at length on tuberculosis, its peculiarities, causes and cure and told of the results of the clinic held last week in Boyne City.

Several purchases were made, among them a new adding machine for the county treasurer's office to replace one which has seen much use; a Buick coach for the sheriff to take the place of the car which was destroyed, the principal part of the purchase price being satisfied by insurance on the burned car and its turned in value. A four door Ford sedan was also bought for the county school commissioner, his old car being turned in on the deal.

Claims covering the approximate amount of $150 were considered and ordered paid and some bills held for further investigation.

The total valuation of the county as equalized by the board was $11,878,024, this being a slight decrease from last year's valuation.

W. J. Pearson was appointed by the board to act as delegate for tho county of Charlevoix at the state board of equalization meeting to be held at Lansing in the near future.

It was agreed by the board that the sheriff should be granted the right to employ a motor cycle policeman if it should be deemed necessary by him.

After consideration of many other topics which were not completed, the board adjourned at 6 p. m. Tuesday, finishing up all of their work in the two day session.

Following is a list of the standing committees of the board for tho ensuing period:

WILL GIVE M-11 FIRST ATTENTION

GOVERNOR STANDS BY BOARD'S DECISION.

Denies Petition of Emmet and Allegan Interests to Pave M-13 Now.

On last Tuesday the state administrative board ordered a survey of trunk line M-13, with a view to paving a t2 or 13 mile gap in Allegan county, re-locating the northern portion of the route to avoid dangerous crossings and extending the highway through to Mackinaw City.

According to Governor Groesbeck, however, M-11, the West Michigan Pike, is to take precedence over M-13 for concrete surfacing. He also intimated that if a road is extended along the lake shore to Mackinaw City, it will be known as M-11. M-13 and M-tt now converge at Petoskey. M-13 goes to Harbor Springs. It was the governor's expressed idea that from Petoskey the present route of M-13 should be designated as M-11 and that if an extension to Mackinnw City is established it will run up through Cross Village to the Straits.

A delegation headed by Fred Z. Pantlind of Grand Rapids, Perry F. Powers of Cadillac and many others, urged that M-13 be improved in Allegan county and that it be paved to the Emmet county line as soon as possible. The governor stated that the administrative board decided last year that M-11 should be improved first and M-t3 should follow. He indicated that the decision still stands. M-1t runs from the state line north along Lake Michigan shore. M-13 takes a western central route through Grand Rapids, Big Rapids, Reed City and Cadillac.

The Courier is glad to see that the governor is sticking to his guns in the matter of giving precedence to M-11 for paving. Even if we were located on M-13, in any of the towns of the western central route named above, we believe that we would still contend that the decision of the administrative board is tbe only wise and logical one. M-1t taps the real resort region, the lake shore belt from which Western Michigan has been and will be deriving her principal revenue for years. Why neglect a nearly completed highway through this district and go over into the center of the atato to partially finish a trunk line route through virgin territory, the greater part of which has not even begun to develop as a resort region? The M-13 people have waited a long time, it is true, but it is no less to their benefit than ours that M-11 should be completed and established resort business served and HELD, after which the state's attention may be devoted to M-13 without seriously affecting other already existing traffic routes.

PARM GILBERT SCORES ALLEGED CONDITIONS

Calls on Traverse Juries to Help Check Liquor Evil

Judge Parm C. Gilbert, in dismissing the Grand Traverse county jury at Traverse City last Wednesday, severely indicted an alleged condition whereby it is possible for the boys and girls of that city to obtain liquor. He announced his intention of cleaning up the sources of supply and called on the present and future juries to cooperate with him in his efforts.

Matters had come to a climax, he said, referring to an annual high school senior excursion held on Monday of last week when dozens of students were drunk on board a steamer that carried 400 to Mackinac Island and return. High school boys were handcuffed by the ship's crew to keep them from becoming too disorderely, Judge Gilbert aaid; and members of the crew in an earnest effort to prevent the situation, confiscated and threw overboard several quarts of liquor they declared was unfit for anyone to drink.

"I want to tell you men," the judge said in closing, "that the time has come when the decent, law-abiding citizens of this country must become active in support of the law, or the lawbreakers will run this community of ours."

HANDSOME LIGHT FIXTURES BOUGHT

STATE STREET TO HAVE ORNAMENTAL LAMPS

Eleven Concrete Posts Crowned with Lanterns Will Be Installed Sooo

The council of the city of Charlevoix, which has been considering for some time the question of boulevard lights, awarded the contract for eleven ornamental cement light posts and fixtures to the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Theso lights are designed for use on Stato street and will be placed on the center line of each of the five parkings, or "islands"—one at each end of eacb parking and one extra in tho middle of the long parking between Antrim and Mason streets. The lights flanking the sides of the three streets will be set close to the curb of tho parking, while those on the alleyways between the parkings, inside the blocks, will be set aeveral feet back from the curb. The light fixtures that are to crown the reinforced concrete posts will bo of an ornamental lantern type, the whole affair making an extremely novel and attractive addition to the beauty of this, our most beautiful avenue. The posts are in stock, so the company advises, and will be shipped and the installation completed within the next two weeks.

In addition to their fulfillment of this contract, the Westinghouse people have promised to furnish the city with blue prints (free of charge) of a plan for a aimilar system of boulevard lighting designed for Bridge street. It is to be hoped that the council will see its way clear to go right on with the good work as soon as possible after the receipt of these new plans. And it is also to be hoped that no system of lighting will be planned for Bridge street that will not conform to the larger and more vitally important plan for widening the street and the creation of a water-front park. It would be foolish in the extreme to make an installation of lights that would have to be torn out in a year or two. There is no reason why the two plans ahould not coordinate. In fact, they must.

TORCH LAKE HILLS OPEN

Many Summer Activities Now Center Aroood Fine Majestic Hotel

Several weeks ago we announced in these columna the sale of the Page estate at Torch Lake to the Majestic Finance Corporation of Detroit, outlining at that time the various improvements that were to be made in the development of the property by the new owners.

Leslie Gibhons, vice president of the Finance Corporation and general superintendent of the new resort, was in the city on Monday of this week and it is to him that we are indebted for the following information regarding this new and important venture.

The resort, which includes tourist camps, a first class hotel with dance room and orchestra, hoats, fishing equipment and guides, and bathing facilities with dressing rooms both on Torch Lake and Grand Traverse Bay, a scenic railway two miles in length through the hills, saddle horses, golf courses, tennis courts, a first cluss gas station and lunch and rest rooms, will be known as Torch Lake Hills. The land on which the development is located comprises u solid block of fifteen hundred acres between the famous Torch Lake and Grand Traverse Bay and is better known, perhaps, as Old Torch Lake Village. The water frontage consists of about three and a half miles on Grand Traverse Bay and one and one half miles on Torch Lake and is about thirty minutes drive north of Elk Rapids on the Michigan state trunk highway, M-11.

The Majestic Hotel, which forms the nucleus of the resort colony-to-be is now completed and in operation. It is surrounded by ten completed and furnished resort cottages, which, with the hotel, furnish accommodations for 150 to 200 people. The hotel, which is situated on the west side of the lake on the opposite shore from Camp Wanalda, the popular camp for girls, has sixteen bedrooms and 275 feet of broad screened porch and is equipped with electric lights and running water. The chef wns secured from tho famous Stryker restaurant in Detroit and was personal chef last season to R. E. Walker, tho Canadian whiskey magnate, on the latter's yucht. During the period that Camp Wanalda is in operation, a launch will make three daily trips between the hotel and the east side of the lake to take care of the guests of the girl campers.

Among other present activities, a 65 acre, nine hole natural golf course is being laid out near the hotel.

REBEKAHS GIVING A DANCE ON JUNE 26

Affair Will Be Held at Charlevoix Inn Casino

The Rebekah lodge will give a benefit dance at the Charlevoix Inn casino on the evening of Friday, June 26th. Blind Jim's famous Petoskey orchestra will furnish the music and this is a sufficient guarantee of the latter's excellence.

The proceeds of this dance are to be devoted to furnishing the new Odd Fellow hall and it is hoped that it will receive hearty popular support. The casino has an unexcelled dancing floor and nothing will be left undone to make the evening an enjoyable one for all who attend.

PUBLISH STATEMENT OR NO PRIMARY MONEY

Among the new laws passed by the recent legislature is one requiring villages to publish all council proceedings and another ordering townships to publish election notices in some newspaper circulating in the township if none is published there. It is reported that some schools will not receive their primary money this year, as they did not publish their itemized financial statements as required. Every graded school district is now required to do this and an affidavit of the same must be filed with the superintendent of public instruction.

There's nothing more convincing than the statement of someone you know and have confidence in. That's why this talk with Mr. Himebaueb of W. Upright Ave., should be mighty helpful here in Charlevoix.

Daniel Himebauch, 107 W. Upright Ave., Charlevoix, says: "My back ached and mornings when I got up, catches took me across my kidneys. My kidneys were weak and acted irregularly and I had to get up many times during the night to pass the secretions. IS THE CHAMPION AUTOMOBILE TIRE CHANGER

Charles Paine of Philadelphia has made a study of changing tires. He has a definite system worked out for each make of tire—a system with the least possible number of moves. His associates claim that he took off a 30 x 3½ clincher tire and replaced it in less than a minute—working with his bare hands.

CHAINS ARE REAL SKID STOPPERS

Greatest Danger Besetting Motorist Calls for Preventive Measures.

Every motorist who has experienced the sensation of having his car frantically try to slide from under him and go slithering into a tree, curb or passing vehicle, is well aware that skidding is a dangerous fact that calls for drastic preventive measures.

Skidding is the greatest danger that besets the motorist. It comes without warning, turns pleasure into peril and takes enormous toll in human lives and wrecked cars.

To match man's strength against the crushing power of a skidding car is usually futile, often fatal, always folly.

Skidding is no respecter of person, purse, time, place or conditions. Pride, strength, will and bank accounts fail before its relentless force.

Accidents Due to Skidding.

Statistics prove that fully 90 percent of motor car accidents and fatalities are due, directly or indirectly, to skidding. When a car starts to go it's usually a "goner." There is no time to wait or cogitate. There is no time to adjust differences between the car and the slippery street. Life can be lost but once—frightful injuries may happen frequently.

Nothing has ever been invented in the way of anti-skid devices to equal tire chains and it doesn't require the gift of second sight to see why this is true.

Wheels equipped with chains automatically lay their own traction surface. Friction is effected without affecting the tires. They strike the ground squarely—hold and release instantly. They fight for firm contact, always gain their ground, prevent sideskid and drive-slip.

Chains Make Best.

Anti-skid chains make the best of bad going wherever you go. You may be lulled into a false sense of security by the good behavior of your car on dry, paved streets. But what about the country runs? To motor on icy or muddy roads without tire chains is like rocking a rowboat in midchannel.

Take your chains and you'll take no chances. Go as far and as fast as you like—up hill, down dale, through mud, slush and slime. Tire chains will prove pathfinders to pence, comfort and safety. No matter how muddy the road, they hold on like a bulldog.—It is as if you were to transfer your own instinct for self-preservation to the wheels of your car. They are as essential to your car as wheels, brakes, oil or gasoline.

Old Man Friction Often Is an Unseen Passenger

"No matter what kind of a car you drive, how many passengers it holds, or where or when you drive, there's an extra passenger along with you," says a garage man.

"It's Old Man Friction. You can't see him, but you can notice the effect of his sly, damaging tactics. He runs up your gasoline and repair bills, and wears out your car a lot quicker as long as he has his own way.

"Friction must be eliminated by the use of a good lubricant, and I have found the graphite lubricants most effective. The selected flake graphite in the grease forms an unusually long-wearing coating that keeps the metal contact surfaces from the rasping grind that wears away the parts. Graphite is especially good for cars used in traveling a hilly country."

Shortcut for Valve Grinding Outlined

In cases where a badly pitted valve requires regrinding, here is a shortcut. Cut a piece of emery cloth in dimensions a little bit wider than the valve seating and twice as long and then double it over so that both surfaces are cutting surfaces. Next cut a hole in the cloth so that the valve stem may be passed through and the emery cloth brought close up against the valve head. The valve is then placed in position for grinding under comparatively high pressure. Both sides of the emery cloth will conform to the valve head and the seating cloth and if the valve turns and the emery cloth remains stationary, the valve will be ground on the upper emery, whereas if the cloth revolves, the valve seating will be ground on the lower emery.

Clutch Lubrication Is Quite Often Neglected

In some cars lubrication of the clutch throwout collar means removal of the floor boards and the turning down of a grease cup. It seems that it is a hardship for many owners to turn down a grease cup even though it is exposed to view. This class rarely if ever takes the time to attend to the clutch throwout unless there is clutch and gear-shifting trouble. Where there is no provision for lubrication of this part by turning down a cup extending through the floor boards or the side of the frame, the owner had best have an oil line installed. A good repairman can easily arrange to have a large cup feed through a small opening into a piece of metal tubing running to the throwout. The small opening is necessary so the oil feed will not be rapid, otherwise the reservoir will be exhausted quickly. Or a self-feeding oil cup, many types of which are on the market, might be installed in place of the grease cup under the floor boards.

To Prevent "Hot Box" Watch Wheel Bearings

A cracking sound coming from the hub indicates something wrong in the wheel bearings. Unless this is promptly attended to a burnt-up wheel bearing may result and there is danger of what drivers call a "hot box," which is likely to lock the wheel on to the axle or burn the axle in half, permitting the wheel to roll off. Imagine what would happen if this should occur on a down grade with a heavily loaded truck. When this cracking sound from the hub becomes audible the driver should put his hand on the hub and if he finds it hot he should carefully examine the bearings. Probably he will find a couple of the rollers cracked or broken. If this is so he should drive slowly and carefully to the nearest place where they can be replaced.

Retard Spark to a Low Point Before Starting

"Every owner operating a car bearing battery ignition should always retard the spark to a low point before attempting to operate the starting motor," says the director of a motor service station. "Otherwise, a backfire is liable to occur, resulting in either a broken engine arm or a damaged starting motor bracket. Drivers of cars of this type should also throw out the clutch before connecting the starting motor switch. When the clutch is thrown out, the transmission load is released, which, during the cold period, is an important factor in the life of the battery and the successful operation of the starting motor. No car should ever be started with the clutch engaged."

Hinges Need Oiling

Door hinges are often neglected. A drop of oil on the hinges and locks now and then will help lengthen the lives of both.

When a door has to be slammed shut because the hinges are rusty or the lock action is stiff, it shakes and strains the body. Oil the hinges and locks now and then, but be careful to wipe off all surplus so that it will not get on your clothes when entering car.

Automobile Tire Should Be Kept Well Inflated

It is well known that after a long, fast run the tires of an automobile are found to be hot. Many have supposed this the result of the friction of the tire on the road. Such is, however, not the case.

The real cause of heating is the internal friction of the tire itself. As the tire is being constantly deflected by contact with the road, the various plies, or layers, which compose the tire, do not act uniformly. Consequently there is more or less motion between them, that results in friction and heat.

The greater the change in shape in tire as it contacts with the road the greater will be the friction. Of course, the more the tire is inflated, the less will be the deflection; but it is evident that while a perfectly rigid tire would generate but little heat it would fail in giving easy riding. Hence, one must put up with some heating and consequent tire wear.

Poor Cement Is Blamed for Failure of Patches

One reason, perhaps, why a great many roadside and amateur tire patches do not hold when the tube is assembled into the shoe is that rubber cement is used which is not up to the mark.

Usually the cement has been reposing in the car's tire repair kit for quite a time, and it is therefore not so fresh and active as it once was. Be sure to get the best materials you can, in the first place, and, further, before going on a long trip examine the tire repair kit to make sure everything in it is in good condition.

Better an inspection before the start of the trip than regrets at the poor shape everything is in later when called upon to fix a puncture out on the road.

Motor Vehicle Owners Pay for Road Building

An analysis of the various sources of highway funds since 1914 made by the bureau of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture shows that there is a marked tendency to collect a larger proportion of highway funds from the owners and users of motor vehicles. In 1914, out of a total highway income of $240,262,784, the collections from motor vehicles amounted to $12,382,031, or 5.1 per cent of the total. In 1921, seven years later, the motor vehicle owners and operators paid $118,942,706 in motor vehicle fees and $3,685,400 in gasoline taxes, which together equaled 10.6 per cent of the total income for highway purposes. A similar compilation of payments made by owners and operators of motor vehicles for licenses and permits in 1923 shows a total contribution on their part of $188,790,992. In the same year gasoline taxes levied by 35 states amounted to $86,813,939. The motor vehicles, accordingly, contributed a total of $225,784,931, or 19.5 per cent of the entire 1923 highway income.

Roads in West Virginia

Among the states to embark recently upon extensive road building programs is West Virginia, which has about completed 1,926.25 miles of improved motor roads. Of this mileage 912.86 miles are of graded earth, 91.41 miles are of gravel, 71.05 miles are water-bound macadam, 131.32 miles are of brick, 311.62 miles are of portland-cement concrete and 407 miles are of asphalt. The new contracts show a more pronounced trend toward the asphaltic types.

Ball Check Repair

In engines having pressure feed oiling there is generally a regulator with a ball check valve in a housing. If this ball gets stuck or lacks sphericity it is difficult to remove it for replacement. About the best way of getting it out is to take an L-shaped tube or rod of a diameter slightly smaller than the ball. On the end of this rod or tube stick a small lump of grease. Putting the rod through the opening carefully the grease on the end will usually pick up the ball and bring it out.

Safest Cattle Feeding

Feeding calves for the baby beef market is the safest kind of cattle feeding and a larger number of calves are being fed for the market this year than ever before. Feeders of this kind of cattle too often send them to market before they have become fat enough to commend a price that will insure the large net returns. No other class of cattle is discriminated against so severely as a half-fat baby beef. The fatter the baby beef the more profit he makes.

New Swanson-Paramount Picture

"Wages of Virtue," Gloria Swanson's Paramount production, directed by Allan Dwan, who made both "Manhandled" and "Her Love Story," will be shown next Wednesday at the Palace Theatre. The story is an adaptation by Forrest Halsey of the popular novel of the same name by Percival Wren.

The picture is a pleasing love tale woven about a young girl, product of the slums, who becomes the toast of the French Foreign Legion. As Carmelita, Miss Swanson has a role ideally suited to her, a part that makes "Wages of Virtue" stand out as the greatest thing she has ever done in her lengthy career.

"Golden Bed" Fine De Mille Social Satire

What happens to people when they step on acknowledges laws, demonstrated from the masculine side by Rod La Rocque in "The Ten Commandments," now has its feminine explanation in Cecil B. De Mille's newest Paramount picture, "The Golden Bed," screen play by Jeanie Macpherson from Wallace Irwin's novel which also ran serially in Pictorial Review magazine.

Special Care Was Taken in Casting Civil War Story

This selection of fitting types was paid exceptionally close attention to in the casting of "Barbara Frietchie," a Regal production which comes to the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday. Beginning of production was delayed until every role had been filled by players who could "live" their parts, and not merely "dress" them. And the problem was more difficult because the action of the story dates back three score years, when the characteristics of men and women were far different to those of the present generation.

After weeks of consideration, charming Florence Vidor was decided upon as the ideal type for the lovable "Barbara Frietchie," and she was quickly signed.

Edmund Lowe likewise affords a compelling interpretation of "Will Trumbull," the valiant soldier and lover.

Carrying out this standard of faithful characterization in supporting roles, we find Emmett King tremendously effective as proud, old 'Colonel Frietchie," whose love for the South came first of all, and Louis Fitzroy as the distinguished "Colonel Negly." Joe Bennett does "Jack Negly," the hysterical youth driven to the brink of insanity by Barbara's rejection of his suit, with a fine discrimination; and Charles Delaney gives life to the role of "Arthur Frietchie," Barbara's brother. Arthur's sweetheart, "Sue Royce," is effectively presented by Gertrude Short.

Love won't make the family budget balance.

HARBOR SPRINGS DIGS INTO JEANS

Village Loses $25,000 Damage Suit —Must Pay

After deliberating for a short time, the jury, in the action of Mrs. Ella M. Haynes, Lockport, N. Y., against the village of Harbor Springs, returned a verdict of $25,000.00 damages in favor of the plaintiff last Saturday before Judge Fred S. Raymond in the federal district court at Grand Rapids.

Ernest H. Haynes, husband of the plaintiff, was killed at Harbor Springs some time ago while performing the duties of his office as first assistant weather broadcaster of the central division of the U. S. weather bureau. He climbed up to inspect the weather bureau storm signal tower at the Harbor and came in contact with a high voltage wire in close proximity to the tower.

The widow, claiming negligenee on the part of the village of Harbor Springs in maintaining a wire carrying so high a charge of electric current so near the tower without proper insulation or warning signs, sued the village for $50,000. Despite the defendant's claim that Haynes had been guilty of contributory negligence, that the government was partially to blame and that the village had fully discharged its duties, the jury decided against them. The verdict is one of the largest ever rendered under the so-called Death act of the laws of the state of Michigan, and represents a sum one and one fourth times the total annual village assessment of the past few years.

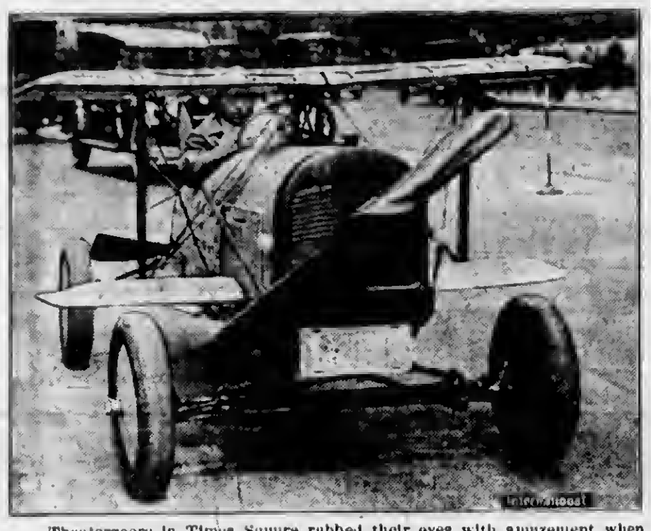
FREAK MACHINE FLIES ALONG WHITE WAY



Theatergoers in Times Square rubbed their eyes with amazement when they saw scooting along Broadway what appeared to be an airplane. At closer inspection the freak machine was revealed as an old chassis, with the wings, wheels and propeller of a plane built on it. A. H. Russell of Nutley, N. J., was at the wheel of the strange machine which he built entirely from the spare parts of an old car and plane.

CAR SQUEAKS ARE HARD TO LOCATE

Always Best to Get After Disturbing Noises as Soon as They Commence.

(By ERWIN GREER, President Greer College of Automotive Engineering).

A squeak is produced by the rubbing together of two unlubricated parts. Yes, but try and find the squeak despite this knowledge. Take a hood squeak for example. The leather or felt tape on which the hood rests may become so badly worn that metal-to-metal contact between the edges of the hood and the supporting flanges on radiator and cowl is established. The weaving of the chassis sets up a slight rubbing motion between these parts and a squeak appears—always very difficult to locate. But stick with it and you will eventually discover that you have passed it by several times in your search. Then finally you'll find it—and all is peace in the motor world once more.

Where a metal dash is used, the upper edges sometimes make intermittent contact and shrill noise results. In most cases the cure is effected by tightening loose nuts; otherwise a thin strip of felt should be used to separate the offending members. Or springing the members together—or apart—may do. Finally, as a last resort, lubricate the edges with hard grease.

Squeak May Be Felt.

Body squeaks are difficult to locate accurately by sound alone, but fortunately they may be felt, provided the point where the noise occurs is accessible to the hand. In doing this work one man should drive the car and the other do the exploring. A definite vibration will be noted at the point of the squeak. You can check the squeak by pressing the hand firmly against it when it will stop.

Chafing of the lower edge of the windshield against the cowl may make a squeak. This is usually stopped by tightening the windshield bracket or by the introduction of a strip of felt or rubber between the two parts. A squeak in the steering column may be cured by removing the steering wheel and squirting oil down into the column.

Rubbing between the body sills and the frame may produce a squeak which can only effectively be eliminated by the use of felt or composition strips placed between the body and the frame. These may be purchased at any accessory store.

Lubrication of Springs.

Noisy springs, of course, are only cured by lubrication. Perhaps the most simple way is to paint alongside the spring leaves with a mixture of engine oil and graphite, permitting it to remain two or three days and then wiping it off, during which time the car can be operated.

Wood wheels often develop squeaks due to the wood drying. A compound to cure this trouble is on the market. A loose demountable rim lug may cause a dull squeak. The simple remedy is to find the loose lug and tighten it. Squeaking brakes may sometimes be cured by dropping a little oil on the drum—not too much though or you won't have any brakes. Fuller's earth or soapstone dusted on the surface may quiet them and it is best to try this remedy first.

The secret lies in quieting the squeaks as soon as they commence. A quiet car is both a joy and comfort forever.

Intelligent Braking Will Save All Tires

When you consider that in railroading the so-called "flat wheel" is produced by too sudden braking, you will be able to appreciate the effect which a similar practice must have on the rubber tires of a motorcar.

The best method of using the brakes is that which applies pressure on them so gradually that the forward movement of the car and the rotation of the wheels are stopped at the same time.

Nothing is more severe on the car than the spectacular stopping often indulged in by ignorant drivers in an effort to "show off."

The careful driver shuts his power off before he reaches the stopping point and permits the car to carry him along on its momentum, bringing it, with a gradual application of the brakes, to a halt at the exact spot he desires.

Pulling Car Out of Mud Is Not Difficult Task

When stuck in mud the lone autoist need not despair as long as he has a pair of good chains with him, for, with their help the car can usually be run out of the mud, providing of course, it is not too deep. One end of a chain is fastened around the tire and to spokes of a rear wheel, as shown in the drawing, while a short, stout iron bar is pushed through the links at the other end of the chain and a tow rope tied to this bar. If no iron bar is handy or it is too large to be pushed through the links, the tow rope is tied to the last cross chain. The other end of the tow rope is securely tied to a tree located in front of the car, slightly toward the side. By applying power to the wheel, it will run along the chain for a foot or more. The operation is repeated until the wheel is out of the mud.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Spare Tire of Quality One of Big Essentials

Why spoil the pleasure of a motor trip by setting off without a spare tire? With a view of economy many drivers are carrying no spares today, but it is a form of economy that does not pay. A spare tire of good quality is one of the absolute essentials for a car. It is the tire you depend on to bring you home.

The spare ought to be covered to protect it from the effects of sunlight and heat. Sunlight has a bad effect on rubber, even in the coldest weather, for it produces a "cracking" or "checking" on the surface which rapidly extends to the interior, causing deterioration. Heat has an even more destructive effect. Spares sometimes are carried uncovered near the exhaust. This is poor practice if the heat strikes an uncovered tire directly.

Satisfactory Plan for Painting Exhaust Pipe

It is difficult to find a satisfactory paint for the exhaust pipe and muffler because of the heat of those parts. Here is a highly recommended muffler paint: Boiled linseed oil, one-fifth pound; japan varnish, one-fifth pound; turpentine, two-fifths pound; lampblack, one and one-half ounces; powdered graphite, one and one-half ounces; powdered oxide of manganese, three-eighths ounce. Mix the linseed oil and varnish well together, then add in order, stirring all the time, the lampblack, the graphite and the powdered manganese. As the mixture thickens thin it down with turpentine until the quantity mentioned has been used. This mixture should be used as soon as it is mixed, as it dries quickly. Every time the brush is dipped in it should be stirred. It is well to paint the muffler while it is hot, after having cleaned it thoroughly.

AUTOMOBILE NOTES

Watch the oil gauge.

A broken spring leaf should be replaced immediately. If there is any delay an extra strain is thrown on the remaining leaves causing the entire spring to break.

A process in which two gases are used has been developed for vulcanizing raw rubber in about half an hour at a temperature that permits the introduction of colorings.

FORD SALES HOLD UP TO THE AVERAGE

Make Record on Foreign Deliveries During Month.

Sales figures of the Ford Motor Company for the month of May show a continued good domestic demand for Ford cars and trucks, the last ten day of the month showing a substantial increase over the previous ten days. The figures also disclose record-breaking sales abroad and in the high price car field a growing demand for Lincoln cars. In fact, the Lincoln sales in the United States during May went to a new record with 968 deliveries to customers, exceeding by more than fifty the record established in April.

Ford car and truck sales for the month reached a total of 201,924 of which number 19,576 were foreign sales. This is a record for foreign deliveries and is more than 1,100 above the April sales.

POULTRY

HUMAN ELEMENT FOR SUCCESS IN POULTRY

Three big factors enter into success in poultry work. These are: Finance, location and the human element.

A large amount of finance does not always contribute to the success of a commercial poultryman. He should have finances enough to carry him through the first year but one should remember that when knows nothing of marble halls. Some people get just as good results from straw sheds as they would in houses costing much money, providing the premises are kept clean.

Location is important with regard to arrangement of flock and closeness to a market. If at a distance from a market you have to buy higher feed and pay more for labor, but it is not necessary to live too close to a market. You can develop retail trade and will not necessarily have to sell your eggs on the market.

The remaining factor is the human element that enters into the work. The human element in anything is the controlling element. Something in the human element spells failure or success. The ability to do is one factor, into ability enter the physical and mental elements. Some people are mentally incapable. Mental ability does not always mean lack of power, but lack of concentration. You must be capable of concentrating your mind upon the work. The world is full of people always trying to find something better. The quitter in life is going to be put out of business even before he gets a good start. Honesty is another of the human elements that enter into the work. Some people are notable liars and are unscrupulous in their dealings.

Roup Can Be Eradicated Only With Difficulty

Fowls suffering from roup in such mild form that its presence passes unobserved and frequently unsuspected often introduce the disease into a flock, from which it can be eradicated only with great difficulty, according to Dr. C. C. Lipp, director of the animal health laboratory at South Dakota State college. Three types of roup are common—the comb, the nasal and the mouth types. The symptoms include small scabby swellings on comb and wattles, nasal discharges and difficult noisy breathing, and small scabby areas on the tongue, mouth lining and throat. There is also reduced vitality and egg production, and frequently death in from one to three weeks.

Careful Culling Will Improve Egg Production

T. S. Townsley, poultry culling specialist at the college of agriculture, University of Missouri, says that since pullet culling is based upon estimates of the future production, while hen culling is based upon characteristics which indicate past production, pullet culling is not so much of an exact science as is the culling of hens. He adds that much can be done, however, toward improving the average production of the flock, by carefully culling the pullets before the laying season starts, using as a basis the rate of maturity, general vigor, quality, and laying type.

Laying Pullets Require Abundance of Good Grain

Laying pullets need an abundance of grain to keep the body warm and maintain the small surplus of fat needed by all good layers, stated Prof. A. G. Philips of the Purdue university poultry department.

A higher percentage of grain should be fed from October to January, slightly less from January to March and a normal ration in the spring. This enables pullets to keep up the body weight and still produce eggs. Most pullets that were early hatched, properly matured and ready to lay in the winter fell down on the job when cold weather hit them, because they were too thin.

Poultry Facts

Clean, infertile eggs will bring a better price on the open market.

* * *

Hens are heavy feeders and will lay more eggs if you give them a light so they can see to eat.

* * *

Chicks hatched from weak parents never make as good growth under the same conditions as those produced from healthy stock.

* * *

Old geese should only be plucked when the feathers are ripe. Breeding geese cannot be reasonably expected to yield a crop of feathers and lay vigorous, hatchable eggs.

* * *

Hens under lights, giving them 14 feeding hours each day, made an extra profit of ninety cents per hen above those having only normal daylight hours, find poultry workers of the North Carolina State college.

* * *

A pinch of sodium fluoride applied on the neck, under the wings, region of the vent, fluff, breast, etc., will kill the body lice on the hens. The hens should be treated so as to keep the lice from getting on the young birds.

The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness, but is long-suffering to usward, not willing that any should perish but that all should come to repentance.— 2 Peter 3.9.

How wonderful that "He hath not appointed us unto wrath but to obtain salvation through Jesus Christ our Lord."

Remember the tent meetings that are to begin in Ellsworth, July 5th, continuing over the 19th, and come. Rev. Chas. L. Slater missionary and evangelist, will do the preaching. Mr. Slater has had five years experience in Africa, and made three tours, for the cause of missions, in South America, and plans, (God willing) to return to Africa in December or January.

I am sure you will enjoy hearing this man of God (a marvel of grace) preach and sing the old fashioned gospel. Special music and good singing will be a feature of the meeting.

Show Windows at Home

You can get a degree of enjoyment just by looking at show windows . . . . seeing the clocks, radios, fountain pens you might like to own. But you can't be sure you'd like them till you know their unseen merits. What they do, how well they do it, how long they'll keep on doing it well.

When you look at advertisements, you are looking at show windows that display not only what you see, but what you can't see. The product, its quality, use, pleasure to you. All you want to know about it—yours at a glance. You don't need to walk a block to see what's new . . . nor look at it in doubt. Nothing doubtful is offered. It can't be doubtful and be widely advertised. You are as sure of a product's worth as if you saw it in a window, asked about it, examined it, took it home and tried it. The facts in advertisements are the facts of actual use.

You can get more than enjoyment out of these show windows at home. You can get solid economy.

Read the Advertisements. They make your choosing wise

Boyne Falls Farmer Found Dead by His Son

Simon Germaine, a Polish farmer, living a mile and a half out of Boyne Falls, was found by his 12 year old son hanging by his neck and lifeless in the granary on the place when he went to get oats for the horses last Monday night.

Germaine, who was 64 years old, had been in poor health for some time, a victim of paralysis. He had also suffered some considerable domestic trouble, his wife having left him after he had decded over all his property to her.

At the stroke of eight, the attention of the guests was drawn by the singing of "Oh Promise Me," by Miss Sylvia Black of Charlevoix. Following this, the bridal party advanced to the notes of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Miss Black. The bride appeared with the groom. She was attired in a beautiful gown of white georgette, carrying a shower boquet of bride's roses.

The bride was attended by Miss Agnes Ghainer as maid of honor and Miss Ellen Cook as bridesmaid. They were both attired in colored crepes, carrying roses. Charles Gregory, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The bride's little brother and nephew were ring bearer, and her little niece was flower girl. Little Bernice Cook carried the bride's train. The double ring ceremony was used, Rev. F. Putman of the Evangelical church of Kalamazoo officiating.

The bridal party and guests then gathered at the house where a dainty luncheon was served. The happy couple left shortly after this for an auto trip to the Upper Peninsula. They will ba at home to their many friends after July 3rd at 1520 Portage street, Kalamazoo, Mich.

RECENT DELIGHTFUL AFFAIRS AT IRONTON

Charlevoix Visitors Are Pleased Participants.

The ladies of the Charlevoix Congregational church were entertained last Wednesday afternoon by the ladies of the Ironton church at the home of Mrs. Emerson W. Price.

Early in the afternoon, Mrs. McMulken introduced Dr. Mattson, who conducted a devotional service and addressed the company informally regarding tha community work being done by the women of the two societies, expressing his pleasure in serving as pastor of the two churches.

After a stroll through the beautiful grounds, delicious refreshments were served in the garden and an hour was pleasantly passed in social intercourse. It was a very happy occasion and thoroughly enjoyed by all who were present.

Last Sunday afternoon, seven members of the chorus choir of the Charlevoix Congregational church journeyed to Ironton and sang Simper's Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis at the regular service in tha Ironton church. Children from the Ironton Sunday school gave a delightful program of songs and recitations which brought great credit to themselves and their preceptor, Mrs. Lewis Brown. All performed their parts extremely well and several of the youngsters had voices of remarkable quality, giving great promise for the future.

WATERCAR IS A WONDERFUL BOAT

NEW DODGE PRODUCT LEADER OF ITS CLASS

Baojamio Brown Auto Salas Ageot for Power Craft Combioiog Maoy Novel Featuras

Now comes the Waterear, the latest product of the fertile engineering brain of Horace E. Dodge, built by the Detroit boat works that bears his name and destined to mark a revolution in the power boat field.

One of these attractive little craft, consigned to the Benjamin Brown Auto Sales of this city who will act as agents for the boat, in connection with their line of Dodge cars, was unloaded from a freight car yesterdsy and launched in Pine Lake and is now tied up at the dock near the foot of Mason street.

The new boat is the result of a successful effort to put on the market a standardized power boat at a price within reach of the average purse, combining the important elements of beauty, stability and euse of operation. She is 22 feet 2 inches in length over all with an addltional six inches at the water line; beam, 5 feet 6 inches; draught 19 inches and displacement, light, 2,500 lbs. She is of the best quality of workmanship and materials, all lumber being carefully selected, well seusoned and free from defects. The scantlings are of suitable proportions and the entire boat is substantially constructed. Decks, lining, seats, coamiug, hatches and transom are of sclected mahogany, as are the covering boards and tbe king plank. Keel, stem, chines, battens, frames, ribs, clamps, knees, deck carlings and engine bed are of straight grain, second growth white oak or ash, free from sap, windshake and knots. She is palnted and varnished with a view to securlng a high finish and the work compares favorably wlth the best "tailor made" jobs. Screws, holts and copper rivets are galvanized and the rudder and rudder post arc of bronze. Thc Dodge Brothers steering gear is used direct to the rudder, eliminating ropes and sheaves.

The boat is powered with a Dodge Brothers marine engine, four cylinder, 30 h. p., equipped with a special lubricating system which uses a dry pump and an oil cooler with a three gallon supply tank. There is an automatic primer on the water pump so that cooling water is circulated positively the instant the motor starts. The fuel supply is taken care of by a 30 gallon galvanized tank, shut off at the main tank and also at the vacuum tank leading to the carburetor. The driving control is similar to that of a Dodge car, with center control forward, drive clutch handle on the right, spark and throttle on steering wheel and horn button in the center of the wheel.

The Watercar will develop a speed of approximately 20 statute miles per hour and will throttle down to next to nothing. She is an intensely comfortable boat and handles with wonderful ease.

BELVEDERE BOOKINGS PROMISE GOOD YEAR

Hotel Has Added Tea Room to Its List of Attractioos

Everything is set for the big dinner and concert on Fourth of July at the Belvedere Hotel. Mrs. Franklin Sears, manager of the hotel, states that those who desire to attend the banquet should make reservation for plates not later than July 3rd, if possible, sn as to insure that their tables will be held for them.

Bookings for accommodations at the hotel this year have been more numerous tban for the same period last season and the greater number af advance deposits to hold rooms indicate that the season will be a good one indeed for the Belvedere.

A new feature has been added to the hotel's many delightful appointments. What was originally the children's playroom in the central portion of the building has been transformed into an attractive tearoom, decorated in ivory and blue, with arrangements for musical entertainment and every facility for taking care of private dinner parties, etc.

PHI MUS ARE HERE IN FORCE

DELEGATES HAIL FROM ALL PARTS OF U. S.

Revisioo of Constitutioo is Maio Business of Teotb Aooual Coovaotioo

Two bundred and fifty delegates and visitors from colleges in practically every state in the union, are at the Inn this week for the tenth bienniel convention of the Phi Mu national sorority. Sessions are being held in the dance pavilion. The girls arrived here last Saturday and will close their meetings Friday of this week.

Besides the business meetings, there have been several social and athletic events to make the gathering more interesting. Saturday night tbere was a beach party, and Tuesday evening a costume entertainment. A boat ride around the lake and a tour through the courtesy of the Chamber of Commerce have also been included on the program.

Revision of the constitution is the main business occupying the attention of the delegates to the convention. Phi Mu, which is the second oldest national sorority, is incorporated under the laws of the state of Georgia where it was founded at Wesleyan college in 1852, and with the renewal of the incorporation papers this year, the sorority expects to file its revised constitution which is to be completed at this convention. New national officers are to be elected July 2.

On account of the cold weather, the swimming meet which was to have been held in connection with the convention, has been called off. Tennis and baseball tournaments are being run off however, and provide considerablo amusement for the girls. Among the sorority visitors are numbered former state tennis champions of Illinois and New Mexico, besides several university and college champions, and some fast play will be seen on the Inn courts during the tourney.

An added feature of the convention is a miniature newspaper which is being published each day. Complete news of the convention is given in the paper, which is printed in the Courier office each afternoon.

ROYAL NEIGHBORS HOLD CONVENTION

District Meeting Assembled at Boyoe City, Juoe 17th

The district convention of the Royal Neighbors waa held at Boyne City on Wednesday, June 17th, Mrs. J. B. Lancaster, Mrs. Mary Prevost and Miss Grace Troutman attending from here.

The delegates enjoyed a fine dinner at the Wolverine Hotel, the sessions of the convention being held in the afternoon of that day. The Caylord degree team put on the floor work, which was wonderfully executed and much enjoyed.

This was a district convention, Petoskey, Caylord, Boyne City, East Jordan and Charlevoix being well represented. The next convention will be held in Petoskey.

NEW MAP FILLS LONG FELT WANT

PROVIDES COMPLETE REGIONAL ROAD INFORMATION

Chamber of Commerce's Latest Publication Tells the Tourist Whare He's At

The new road map and mileage chart of the Charlevoix district is now off the press and it sure fills a long felt want. In fact it is the first successful regional map and motor guide that has ever been put out in this city. Its publication was sponsored by the Charlevoix Association of Commerce and a large supply will be kept on hand at ths association's information bureau in the Brown building as well as on the counters of the merchants of the city, whose liberal advertising in the folder has made its publishing possible.

The first two page spread displays a route map of the resort region, taking a section clear across the state and taking in all territory north and south between a point just south of Elk Rapids and Mackinaw City. Trunk line highways and connecting roads are shown in red and their character portrayed by the use of solid lines for paved roads, checkered lines for improved gravel and outlined for fair dirt. Highway numbers are also designated and state parks indicated by appropriate symbols.

In connection with this map is a mileage ehart, showing the distances between Charlevoix and other points in the state, most of which are named on the map. The figures are as accurate as it is possible to get them, having been estimated by experienced motorists, familiar with the roads, who hsve actually traveled over the measured routes, clocking them with their speedometers.

On another page is found a map showing both the arms of Pine Lake, the route of the famous scenic drive around the lake and the principal points of interest along the way, such as the Loeb Farms, Whiting Park, Charlevoix County Nurseries, Eveline Orchards, Sears Fox Farm, Pine Point, Young State Auto Park, etc., with the statement that the entire 52 miles is paved road, crossing hills and forests and affording wonderfully picturesque views along lake shores with ideal picnic spots everywhere.

The third map of the series shows the entire lower peninsula of Michigan with its network of trunk line and connecting highways marked with their numbers and the names of the principal towns.

The remainder of the folder is devoted to local advertising and on the back page is a short description of Charlevoix, its points of interest, its hotels and boarding houses, restaurants and cafes, directions for reaching Charlevoix by train, boat or car and a brief mention of game laws, fishing and the auto camp.

Wins Quilt

The Royal Neighbors met last Friday evening at the homo of Mrs. C. R. Bellinger and had a drawing for their friendship quilt, which they had been preparing for some time as a benefit to the lodge to replace property destroyed in the Odd Fellow hall fire. Mrs. Orson Everts won the quilt.

IS STANDING BY THE FARMERS

COOLIDGE GIVES PROOF OF STRONG FRIENDSHIP

Claims They are Eotitlad to Share of Benafits Under Policy of Protectiog Domestic Industry

Calvin Coolidge has given another proof of his staunch friendship for the American farmer by his refusal to reduce the tariff on foreign grown sugar imported into the United States. In the statement given out from the White house announcing his decision he declares unequivocally, "The farmer is entitled to share along with the manufacturer direct benefits under our national policy of protecting domestic industry."

As the president says, the farmer has received advice from every hand to diversify his crops. He has done this in certain sections of the country by going in for sugar beet culture and is thus in process of building up a great home agricultural industry that improves his soil, enables him to diversify his crops and help to relieve the people of the country from dependence upon the foreigner for one of the major items in the national food supply.

As long is we are still importing millions of tons of foreign grown sugar and exporting a vast surplus of wheat and other farm products that must be sold on foreign markets, often at a loss, it would be a distinct hackward step from the needed development of a better balanced agriculture to discourage the home production of sugar which at the same time benefits the consumers of the country by supplying competition with the foreign grown product. The reduction of over half a cent a pound in the tariff on Cuban raw sugar which had been recommended by one-half the membership of the tariff commission and which the president has now rejected would result, as he points out, in depriving 20 to 40 per cent of the beet sugar industry protection against foreign competition and would mean the wiping out of the whole industry in certain sections. As the president says this would be retrogessive rather than a progressive step toward diversification in all the areas thus effected.

Mr. Coolidge is no mere theorist. He realizes that we cannot get away entirely from the production of an export surplus of farm crops merely by growing sugar beets but he recognizes this industry as one powerful agency toward the improvement of agricultural conditions and he is against anything that will destroy it where it has been established or prevent its extension into states where it can be successfully developed.

One passage in the president's statement regarding the sugar tariff can be taken as representing the Coolidge policy toward American agriculture. In it he says:

"It is important that as a nation we should be independent as far as we may of overseas imports of food. Further it is most important that our farmers, by diversification of their production, shall have an opportunity to adjust their crops as far as possible to our domestic rather than to foreign markets if we would attain higher degrees of stability in our agriculture."—Facts About Sugar.

CLEARWATER IS GROWING FAST

SO WRITES HENRY HAMLIN OF THIS CITY

Five Hundrad Houses Under Coostructioo this Summar io the One Town

"Florida in the wintertime—dear old Charlevoix, the Beautiful in the good old summertime," as our genial friend, "Uncle George" H. Van Pelt so aptly puts it. Next to Charlevoix nowadays, everybody seems to be interested in Florida, so we are going to quote from a letter recently received from Henry Hamlin of this city, who has been busy building houses down there this winter. First off, he comments on the proposed park plan for Charlevoix:

"We haven't had last week's paper. Wbat's the matter—snowed under? If it is as hot up there as it is here you may be too warm to print a paper. Well, send it along and I will drop in about July 4th and pay up.

I have been reading those letters about widening Bridge street. Hope you will have it all done before I get back. It would be a big improvement for Charlevoix and everyone ought to get back of a little thing like that and push hard. We had a very heavy rain here yesterday and some lightning.

This town (Clearwater) is sure booming. There will be 500 houses built here in Clearwater this summer and miles of paved roads in this county. It is a delightful place to spend the winter, but very warm in summer. Charlevoix is the place for summer. A few days ago a big alligator came up to the lumber yard and I guess he was looking for lumber too. Everything grows very rapidly here. Corn is ten feet high now. The oranges and grapefruit are about all gone.

I have built three houses this winter, am working on the fourth and when it is finished am off for Charlevoix."

You will note how Mr. Hamlin looks at the street widening problem—a mere trifle. In a Florida town it would be just a small detail of the city's development. That's the result of broadening out, getting a wider range of vision and looking ahead to the future instead of having ones eyes and attention glued onto the ground at his feet. It's all in the way you look at it, folks.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mellencamp

Are You Interestad in Learning the Culling of Poultry?

The poultry work in Charlevoix county this year will be conducted under a different plan than the one used previously. Last year we had a series of eight demonstrations in the county which were so arraaged that they were within reach of everyone, and yet the total attendance was only 129 people, notwithstanding the fact that every farm haa a flock of poultry. Is that enough?

Elsewhere in the columns of thia paper you have noted the results obtained by the local leadership plan in the clothing project. Can we not accomplish more in poultry culling by using the same plan? Your agent thinks so and is going to give it a trial this year.

Briefly the plan is this:

1. Select or choose a leader for every community in the county.

2. The culling demonstration will be given on three different days by a specialist from M. S. C., who will meet with this group of leaders.

3. Instead of having two hour meetings, these will last all day and the work will be given in detail, not only culling but the entire field of feeding, breeding and management will be discussed.

4. After first demonstration the leader culls out his or her own flock, keeping production records. After seeond instruction, cull out a neighbor's flock in same way. After third instruction hold a public demonstration to which the entire community will be invited.

In this way more direct benefit can be gotten out of it and we will have a group of persons in the county who your agent can recommend to cull poultry.

The first demonstration for the leaders will be on July 14th, second on July 28th, and third on August 18th. Remember, we want the leaders to agree to spend at least four days on this work and put forth your best efforts.

If you are interested in poultry, can you imagine a way where you can get more information on feeding, breeding and managing or better instruction in culling than by attending these schools?

If interested, please drop a line to the county agricultural agent, Boyne City.

Charlevoix Goes Over the Top in Clothing Project

Mrs. D. B. Shutt, clothing specialist from our college, reports that Charlevoix county has made the best record of the four counties cooperating in this work, having reached 295 different families with suggestions regarding clothing, sewing and other details along these lines. The last two instructions given in this county were held at Charlevoix and Boyne City on the 25th and 26th, respectively, and in the afternoons of both days all the leaders were given permission to bring several of their friends in to have a close-up as to how the work was carried on.

WHEN THE TEST CAME

By JUNIUS B. SMITH

(©, Doubleday, Page & Co.)

JED MINOR carefully examined the gun he was holding and clicked his teeth together with a sullen frown. He had been insulted and—well he just learned about the insult. Hence the polishing of the gun, the oiling of its mechanism, the slipping into place of a clip of shells.

He would show Old Man Fuller that he couldn't take liberties with his good name. He would make him retract or—

He didn't quite complete the thought in words, but intangibly it was there, menacing, red in its potentiality, darksome in the visitation it foreboded Old Man Fuller, as he had called him.

Fuller lived down the lane some three or four miles distant. He was a farmer, like himself—a tiller of the soil—a man, head of a family, who ought to know better than to risk his life saying unkind things about the bachelor, Jed Minor.

Jed had been sweet on Old Man Fuller's daughter, to be sure, and had cause to consider his regard fully reciprocated. But— and Minor gritted his teeth . . . no one could accuse him of doing the things Fuller said he had done, without swallowing it and saying he was sorry.

There was no chance of getting the girl now, of course. Fuller had seen to that. Well, if he couldn't get the girl, he could get Fuller . . . that is, if Fuller refused to retract. The man had lied and . . .

Minor jerked a hat off the hook on the back of the kitchen door, pulled it onto his head, stuck the pistol in his shirt, where it rested against the tight-drawn belt that encircled his waist, and set out of the house, almost on a run.

He cranked his flivver and sped out of the yard into the street.

Then he turned in the direction of Fuller's house.

The wind blew a gale and he traveled in his own dust. This didn't assuage his anger. If anything his choler mounted. He'd fix him, he would. He'd show him no man could lie about him and get away with it.

His eyes were fixed on the road before him.

He sped along at a terrific rate.

And then something caught his eyes. So powerful was the attraction that he partly closed the throttle that he might look without danger of turning turtle.

On his left was the Johnson residence. The Johnson's were nice people—just the two of them, with their year-and-a-half-old baby—a happy trio if ever there was one.

A piercing shriek came to his ears—blood-curdling, terrible in its agony—that portrayed agony of mind as well as body. He saw and understood.

The Johnson home was afire!

Great flames were leaping out of the upper windows—smoke was issuing from the open door. The place was doomed—he could see that at a glance.

And even as he looked, the body of Johnson's wife, hair and clothes afire, came staggering out of the smoke-blackened hole of the door.

She fell on her knees on the ground outside, rolled in the dust to extinguish the flames, almost instantly sprang to her feet again, screamed "my baby, my baby," and staggered back into the maw of death.

Minor took it all in at a glance, then raced toward the burning building.

He almost capsized when he made the turn into the Johnson yard, slammed on his brakes when near the house, and left the machine with amazing speed.

Without a moment's hesitation he went to what might be his death.

He couldn't see for the smoke. He couldn't breathe. Remembering something he had read, he dropped to his hands and knees where the air was better and crept along in search of whoever he might find.

He felt that his lungs must burst with the holding of his breath, but he kept on, wondering where the woman had gone, where the child might be she was supremely intent on saving.

Little tongues of flame licked down through burnt openings in the ceiling—reached down and sought to engulf him, to set his clothing on fire as they had those of the woman before him. They cast a lurid glare through the smoke-laden room, dimly revealing it in outline when the smart of the smoke permitted him to look.

And then his hand came in contact with something soft and yielding and hot. A chill went through him despite the heat of the room. He knew what it was—it was the body of a man or woman—too large for that of the child—with the smoldering cloth flesh-searing in the intensity of its heat.

He threw caution to the winds and seized the body in his arms, staggered from the room into the open and deposited it on the ground—the expiring remains of Mrs. Johnson.

Others had come upon the scene. Subconsciously he glimpsed them racing frantically in at the gate.

He turned and dashed back into the house.

Stooping low, he ran first to one room and then to the other, on the ground floor, exploring hurriedly by sight where he could, by feel otherwise, the place where a body might be.

The fire itself was raging upstairs. The upper floors were threatening to fall in at any moment. He wondered about the stairs and what was taking place in the rooms that led from the landing at their top.

He knew the answer—nothing alive could exist up there. Johnson and the child—well, what was Johnson and the child—would probably be found up there—alongside himself, be mentally added, as he turned and leaped to the lurid curtain of death.

He took two steps at a bound—several bounds—then the stairs caved in and precipitated him face forward in the room below.

He remained where he had fallen.

He awoke to see angels fluttering about him. One was looking down in his face and bathing it with deliciously cool water. It was—yes, he must have been dead a long while—it was Gladys, whom he would have married but for Old Man Fuller's interference. Well, she had come to him, even though she had to pass through all eternity to do so. He closed his eyes for a moment to think.

Then he opened them again and glanced at other faces. Yes, he was certain he was dead. There was the Johnson two-year-old, unmarked, as he had seen him last—mute evidence that he was beholding the spirit of the child—for had he not been searching for the child's charred body? And he blinked and wondered if he was in heaven after all—and if so—what was Old Man Fuller doing there? He raised up on one elbow and groaned.

"What—what—where am I?" he demanded in none too strong tones. "I—died—and—"

"Thank God!" cried Gladys, slipping an arm around him.

"That I died?" He looked at her questioningly.

"No—that you didn't."

He rallied quickly. "But—I must have died. I went in that—in that—seething hell—and—I—didn't—come—out."

"Oh, yes you did—father brought you out."

"What's that?" he staggered to his feet.

"Just what I said. We saw you go inside—and father told me to take care of the baby and then he went in."

He looked toward the mass of burning tinder. The floors were all in now—the roof had caved. Johnson had returned to the dust out of which he was made.

"But the child," he exclaimed, viewing the youngster whom Gladys held by the hand—"I went in for him."

"Daddy brought me out," said the baby, "and then he went back for muzzer. Why did muzzer go back—to get daddy?"

The simplicity of it told the tragedy of miscalculation—Johnson searching for his wife, who could have saved herself—the mother searching for her babe that she did not know was rescued. There was something awful in the death of the two. It put a horror in his heart of—death.

And—the thought grasped him in its pitiless embrace—he had been en route to Fuller's house, a loaded weapon in his hands. He felt for it and found that it was gone—lost in the incinerator, perhaps—since the front of his shirt was burned away.

He looked at Fuller, scorched like himself, though not so badly—at Fuller, whom he was going to force to retract at the point of a gun—at Fuller, who had risked his own life that he, Jed Minor, might live! At Fuller—the man who had lied about him. It was a mystery as great as he had ever known. Something of its puzzlement must have shown in his blistered face, for Gladys said:

"Father learned that it was not true what he said about you. Some one had lied to him. And we were on our way over to see you, when—when—"

"You—you mean?" said Minor.

"I mean—she's yours, if you want her, Jed. I'm sorry I told her what I did—I thought it was the truth—I know different now—I—you're a man, Jed, and I'd be proud to own you as a son-in-law—I've seen enough." He reached out his hand.

Jed took it.

Then Gladys spoke: "And the baby, Jed—we'll have to take care of it—now that—that they're gone."

"As our own," he promised.

"As our own," she acquieced.

Clean Ground for Pigs Is of Big Importance

Every farmer should without delay provide a sanitary farrowing place for fall litters, says H. G. Elling, swine specialist, Kansas State Agricultural college. Several hundred Kansas swine producers who followed Elling's instructions last spring are agreed that "clean" ground for young pigs is one of the essentials of profitable pig production. Their enthusiasm about the method is selling the idea to entire communities, Mr. Elling says.

"Pigs nursing, sleeping, eating, and drinking in old hog quarters become unthrifty and subject to heavy loss. They are too young and tender to compete with the worm, lice, mange, scours, and thumps—their inheritance from unclean yards," Mr. Elling points out.

Mutton and wool are crops for the poorer land that require little labor and bring good returns.

LIVE STOCK

FARM ANIMALS MUST HAVE SALT SUPPLY

One of the most commonly used mineral elements with live stock and ous with which we are all familiar is that of salt, or sodium chloride, this material supplying the elements, sodium and chlorine, which seem to be necessary for live stock. It has been a practice with successful stock men for centuries to supply common salt to all kinds of live stock, and while there is a considerable difference in opinion as to the necessity of this, it is considered a good practice, and from the experiments that have been conducted, is doubtless a necessary one.

Salt should not be given to animals in too large amounts, as it would induce the drinking of great quantities of water, which would lessen digestion, bring about abnormal secretion of digestive fluids and other undesirable results. There is no question but that salt improves the palatability of certain feeds, and probably increases the appetite in some cases.

Exhaustive experiments were made by Babcock and Carlyle of the Wisconsin experiment station, which proved conclusively that it is absolutely necessary to supply salt, especially to dairy cows, as in every case after withholding salt for a short time, these animals evidenced an abnormal appetite for it. Every one of them reached a point where vitality was extremely low and a general breakdown occurred. This occurred in most cases after several months. In every case, when either a potassium or sodium salt containing a chlorine was furnished, a complete recovery took place. This experiment brought out the fact that it was not the sodium, but that it was the chlorine that was necessary.

The amount of salt required by animals will vary considerably, according to the locality from which the feed is secured for them. It will also vary considerably, according to the production of the various individuals of the herd. The safest and most satisfactory manner in which to supply salt to live stock is to allow them access to it at all times, and when handled in this way, no bad results should follow.

It is well to keep in mind, however, that swine and poultry are very susceptible to salt poisoning, and for this reason only small amounts should be fed to them. In no case should swine or poultry be allowed free access to salt, or solutions of brine, as this is a dangerous practice. Many cases of salt poisoning in poultry and swine are reported each year and most of them are fatal.

Avoid Many Kinds of Pig Diseases by Sanitation

Under the present state of domestication the hog is subjected to more conditions that are detrimental to his health and predispose him to disease than any other of our domestic animals. His very nature also makes him liable to many of the diseases that are contracted by him.

The hog for centuries has been considered more or less in the light of a scavenger, eating feeds or refuse of any and all kinds, and much of it in a spoiled or decayed condition. In the earlier times most people were of the opinion that such practices were safe with the hog, but in later years we have discovered they are really the cause of large losses that were often attributed to other causes. Such practices are not as common as formerly, but are still too common for the best interests of the industry.

Sanitation, proper feeding and housing and providing for plenty of exercise are known means of avoiding many kinds of sickness, and are cheap in comparison with the loss they save and must be practiced if the industry is to be profitable in the long run.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS

Nuremburgs. — Take one pint of sugar, honey and molasses; one tablespoonful of butter and one of lard, two tablespoonfuls of soda, one pint of sour cream, one-half cupful of candied orange peel, lemon peel and citron finely chopped; one cupful of nutmeats, one tablespoonful each of cloves and cinnamon. Mix and warm the molasses, honey, sugar, butter and lard; add the soda in the sour cream. Mix all the other ingredients and add flour until a stiff dough is formed—a little stiffer than that used for cookies. Let stand until morning. Roll out and cut into any desired shapes. Frost with powdered sugar moistened with lemon juice. Pack in a jar and keep a month. This recipe makes about seven pounds of cookies.

Pfeffernusses.—Take one pint each of corn sirup and New Orleans molasses, one-half pound of shortening, one-half pound of brown sugar, two and one-half pounds of flour, one teaspoonful of soda, two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful of cloves, one-fourth of a pound each of almonds and citron chopped fine, one lemon, rind and juice. Warm the sirup, add the shortening and lemon juice and the remaining ingredients, the soda mixed with the flour. Roll into little balls the size of marbles, brush with white of egg and bake until brown. These will keep indefinitely.

Chocolate Walnut Cookies.—Beat four eggs very light, add one pound of brown sugar and stir well. Add one-fourth of a pound of bitter chocolate (grated), one-half teaspoonful of vanilla. Then mix all the ingredients and add one cupful of English walnut meats and two cupfuls of flour, or enough to make a drop batter. Drop by teaspoonfuls on baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven.

Orient Cookies.—Beat three eggs, add three tablespoonfuls of honey, one teaspoonful of allspice, one-fourth teaspoonful of cinnamon, one teaspoonful of soda; one-half lemon, juice and rind. Mix, roll and cut and decorate with almonds.

QUAKE DESTROYS SANTA BARBARA

CALIFORNIA CITY VICTIM OF TERRIFIC SHOCK

Death Toll and Property Loss Mounting Daily as Work of Reclamatioo Proceeds

At least 30 persons lost their lives, hundreds were injured and enormous property damage was caused by a series of earth tremors which rocked Santa Barbara, Cal. and surrounding territory early Monday morning.

The quake reduced sections of the city to ruins. Buildings were demolished, pavements uprooted and the collapse of Gibraltar dam near the city unloosed a torrent of water which flooded the town, adding to the panic and suffering.

Santa Barbara and surrounding cities were isolated with rail and wire communication paralyzed. Special trains left Los Angeles and San Francisco with Red Cross and other relief.

The quake was general throughout southern California, but apparently centered at Santa Barbara, where the damage and loss of life were greatest. Leading hotels crumbled to pieces and business blocks were in ruins.

The first tremble was first felt at 6:45 o'clock over a large area. At Santa Barbara and other cities tremblings shook the area at intervals of 20 minutes.

Another tremble, less violent, shook Santa Barbara at 8:30 a. m., spreading further terror among inhabitants.

Buildings were demolished at Monte Cito, millionaire resort at Golita, Naples, and other cities adjacent to Santa Barbara. The Southern Pacific station at Golita was split in two and the track for miles was thrown out of line.

Airplanes and specinl trains were hastily dispatched to the stricken area with relief, when reports of the disaster first filtered through. There are a number of tall buildings in Santa Barbnra's business section and it is feared many persons lost their lives when these collapsed.

Additional shocks on the following day added materially to the property destruction and loss of life, latest counts placing the death toll at 65 and estimated property damnge at $25,000,000.

I will open a beauty parlor in the Hotel Charlevoix on July 1st and your patronage is respectfully solicited. Martha Benson.—Adv. 26-t1.

TOURING THE STATE IN A WILLYS-KNIGHT

Factory Repregentative Getting Remarkable Results

L. J. Castle, representing the Willys-Overland company, arrived in the city Monday morning, driving a 1925 model Willys-Knight six. Mr. Castle left Detroit on June 8th, headed north, with a letter of introduction to business men, dealers and bankers along the way, signed by the mayor of Detroit. He is on a tour of the state which has for its purpose the logging of the state highways and roads, to make the existing motoring conditions more familiar to the motoring public.

Mr. Castle left Monday morning for East Jordan and Boyne City, whence he will go to Gaylord and from there to Petoskey and points north.

One of the cnr's outstanding features is an oil rectifier that cuts oil consumption down to a minimum. Over one stretch of 950 miles in his zig-zag course throughout the state, Mr. Castle states that less than a quart of new oil was necessary for replacement, due to the marvelous efficiency of the rectifier which cleanses the oil as the motor runs.

MICHIGAN BELL GROANS UNDER BIG TAX BURDEN

Increase Paid by Telephone Company is Considerable

Taxes paid the state and federal government make up a big portion of the cost of conducting Michigan's telephone business, it was revealed recently when A. J. Peckham, southern Michigan commercial superintendent for the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., handed State Treasturer Frank D. McKay at Lansing, a check for $1,436,550.28 for the 1924 taxes of that company.

Government records show that the Michigan Bell Co. this year paid the federal government $531,449.78 for income and capital stock taxes, making a total tax bill of $1,968,000.06 this year. That amounts to $4.475 for each telephone the Michigan Bell Co. serves in this state.

The increase in taxes paid by the telephone company has been considerable. In 1919 the company paid $535,833.72 or $1.99 per telephone, in taxes. In 1914 $315,646.44 or $1.615 per telephone, was paid.

NEAR TOP IN CEMENT MAKING

MICHIGAN RANKS SECOND IN USE OF CEMENT.

Stands Fourth in All States of Union on Production Basis—9,162,000 Barrels in 1924.

Michigan is now converting its marl deposits, limestone and other raw materials into enough portland cement to give this state fourth place among the cement producing states, according to United States Geological Survey statements.

In the use of portland cement Michigan ranks second among all the states. Last year more than two and one quarter barrels were used for every man, woman and child in this state while the average for the nation was less than a barrel and a half. California led with a per capita use of about two and one half barrels.

In 1924 the Michigan plants manufacturad 9,162,000 barrels of portland cement, U. S. Geological Survey figures show. The Michigan plants had stocks of 966,000 barrels the first of this year. The capacity of the plants is about 12,500,000 barrels, or 50,000,000 sacks each weighing 94 pounds.

For many years Michigan has been one of the heavy users of portland cement. Homes, industrial and office buildings, bridges, dams, silos and other farm structures, all require large amounts of this building material. The extent to which this Michigan product is used is perhaps best exemplified by its use in concrete rural highways. This state with 2,042 miles of concrete roads is one of the five states with more than 2,000 miles of this type of highway. By May 23 of this year contracts had been let for 148 miles of concrete roads. Concrete paved streets are also being rapidly constructed. Michigan now has about 350 miles of concrete city pavements.

Michigan's first portland cement plant, which was established at Kalamazoo in 1885, operated but a single year before it was closed. Twelve years elapsed before the next Michigan plant was built at Bronson in 1897. Plants were constructed at Coldwater and Bronson the following year and by 1901, ten plants were manufacturing cement and six more were under construction. The present Michigan plants are located at Bay City, Bellevue, Alpena, Newyago, Port Huron, Union City, Detroit, Cement City, Petoskey, Coldwater, Chelsea, Quincy, Wyandotte and two are at Fenton.

The large deposits of marl which are found in Michigan were first utilized as a fertilizer. Michigan marl is often found in beds 100 to 300 acres in area with an average depth of 20 feet or more. This marl is a powdery white or gray substance composed chiefly of lime, and was widely employed by the earlier cement plants as one of the ingredients of portland cement. Quarried limestone has since largely replaced marl. In making cement, the raw materials undergo a highly complex manufacturing process.

In addition to the raw materials which are actually present in the finished product, other materials are also needed in large quantities. For example, last year the Michigan mills consumed more than 800,000 tons of coal in heating the huge kilns to the temperature of between 2,500 and 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit required in cement making.

HEATON & HOOPER

BOYNE CITY, MICHIGAN

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mellencamp

It was a pleasant surprise to find that 65 leaders were in attendance at the Boyne City meeting who were deeply interested in what they have had the opportunity of receiving free of charge. This work has been conducted by the home demonstration department of M. S. C. and organized in the several counties by the local county agents and is open to all ladies who wish to receive instruction in sewing.

The county agent wishes to thank all the leaders who have made this work possible and who have been so sincere in their cooperation and have given their assistance so freely in order that the work could be carried back to their own communities.

Charlevoix county has several honors credited here as a result of the successful meetings in the county. In the first place we have reached 295 families thus far, with two more meetings yet to be conducted by the local leaders, while Otsego county reached 89, Emmet 217, and Antrim 227 families. Secondly the Boyna City group has made the best record of any one group in the four counties, having reached 242 families with instruction, which is more than the total of any two groups in the other three counties. Thirdly they have had a hundred per cent attendance of leaders at the four meetings and all leaders have had their classes. High individual honors go to Mrs. Palmer and Mrs. Everts, of Clarion, who had 25 ladies in attendance at their meeting.

Mrs. Shutt also reports that in Charlevoix county as a result of this work, 76 sewing machines were cleaned and oiled properly, 71 used the binder attachment for the first time, 72 used the hemmer, and 75 garments were made, using suggestions given at these various meetings.

Mr. Weisner, Poultry Specialist, Visits Demonstration Farms in County.

In cooparation with our agricultural college, these men are endeavoring to use the most approved methods of feeding, breeding and culling of their flocks. The primary object of these farms is to have several places in the county where persons wishing to secure baby chicks can get them and be assured they are getting the right kind of stock or in purchasing hatching eggs.

These poultry flocks will be visited by a member of the poultry department at least twice yearly, so the public can be assured they are buying good, clean, healthy stock. Mr. Weisner reported the flocks all in good shape and being well cared for and having few birds that will need to be culled out on the next visit. He particularly approved of the manner in which Mr. Guild, of Charlevoix, was managing his flock.

Next year the county agent expects to have several other poultrymen conducting the same kind of work and feels in a year or two there will be no need of sending outside the county for foundation stock in any breed. In the papers they all advertise as having the best stock in the state, and how under the sun can the poultrymen know which is the best place to send.

Mrs. Wm. Sanderson, Ironton, has Barred Rocks; Mrs. G. Roy, East Jordan, has White Leghorns, and Arthur Guild, Charlevoix, has White Leghorns and White Wyandottes.

The Second Aonual Poultry Judging School

Professor W. R. Graham, head of the poultry department of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, Ontario; Professor L. E. Card, of the poultry department, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill; J. B. Hayes, poultry extension specialist and associate professor of poultry husbandry, Madison, Wis.; Professor James E. Rice, head of the poultry department of Cornell, or one of his assistants, and Doctor O. B. West, formerly of Cornell University, and now with the Quaker Oat Co., Chicago, will be speakers during the school, as well as all the members of the poultry department, M. S. C.

It is planned to make this year's school greater than that of last year, by including more poultry management problems. Doctor Kent will give several talks on feeding; Mr. Hayes will talk on the Wisconsin ration; Professor Card of Illinois, on the Problems of the Corn Belt Poultrymon, and a member of the State College staff will talk on housing. Doctor Stafseth will lecture on disease, bacillary white diarrhea, in particular, and its effect on production and the livability of the chick.

A well arranged program has been worked out for this school and every step and method of culling for production will be demonstrated. The school will be a regular short course, with lecture periods and laboratory hours, which those enrolled must attend. Saturday forenoon, July 11th, will be given over to a written examination that must be passed before a certificate will be issued. Those successfully completing the work, and passing the examination, will be given a certificate entitling them to do commercial culling work and to cull for hatcheries under the new plan of certification as adopted by the Michigan State Poultry Department of Agriculture.

The college is offering you, as a Michigan poultryman, as unusual opportunity to hear some of the best authorities in North Amreica talk on current poultry problems. They believe you will regret it if you do not attend.

A program of sports has been arranged for every evening, and a banquet for Thursday evening in the college gymnasium.

There is a registration fee of one dollar per person charged for this course, and no other expense attached excepting room and board. For those desiring it they shall be pleased to reserve rooms if notified as to the number desired. Write to Poultry Department, M. S. C.

AT THE MOVIES

Marvels of Nature in "Frivolous Sal"

Scenic grandeur rarely seen upon the screen in a dramatic photoplay forms the background for J. K. McDonald's First National picture, "Frivolous Sal," which comes to the Palace Theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday. Virtually all the outdoor scenes were photographed at Mount Rainier, in Washington, and around the Idaho silver mines. It was virgin territory from the film producer's viewpoint, and Victor L. Schertzinger, director of "Frivolous Sal," made the most of it.

"North of 36," Hough Novel, Paramount Film

Produced by Irvin Willat from the novel by Emerson Hough and featuring Jack Holt, Ernest Torrence, Lois Wilson and Noah Beery in the leading roles, "North of 36," opens a two days' run next Saturday at the Palace Theatre.

Here's a story of the pioneers—a story of Texas, that'll knock you right off your feet. The time is directly after the Civil War when the Lone Star state was almost broke and at a loss for a market for its herds.

A Real Mystery Found at Last

Mystery that mystifies throughout, dramatic situations that hold the spectator's unwavering attention, interspersed with delightful comedy bits combine to make "The Girl on the Stairs," which comes to the Palace Theatre next Monday, a thoroughly worth while motion picture. The play is an Elmer Harris production with pretty Patsy Miller starred and the story is an original treatment by Harris of Winston Bouve's magazine story.

EVANGELIST COMING TO ELLSWORTH

Will Hold Services in Open Air for a Week

The village of Ellsworth will be favored with an old-fashioned gospel meeting, under the auspices of the Pilgrim Holiness church, in a tent located on the empty lot south of the Corner Garage, beginning July 5th and continuing over the 19th.

Rev. Slater, the engaged evangelist, is a man of wide experience and deep spirituality. Five years he labored in South Africa as a missionary, a greater part of which time among the raw heathen.. (A recent note from Africa states that a certain run-down work there could be easily built up if they could get Mr. Slater.) Three times he toured parts of South America, remaining one time as pastor of a native church for some two years. God willing, Mr. Slater expects to return to Africa next December or January. Besides his missionary work in these different parts, he has labored in a number of the states as a very successful evangelist.

By his side has stood Mrs. Slater in all the trying experiences of a missionary and evangelistic career, and we are glad to announce that she will be with him in this battle, as a worker.

Also their daughter, Florabelle, will add to the meeting by song and testimony.

A treat indeed awaits the village of Ellsworth and surrounding community, and I trust that we may not only be able to make them feel they are appreciated, but as christians, put our hearts and hands to the work of soul saving while they are with us.

TWO FARM BARNS GO UP IN SMOKE

W. G. Patterson and Ira Springstead Heavy Losers

Fire of undetermined origin, which broke out about three o'clock Sunday morning, completely destroyed two barns here, one belonging to W. G. Patterson and the other which stood within a few feet of it belonging to Ira Springstead.

In the Springstead barn when the fire was discovered were three Ford cars, only two of which were saved. This barn also contained three sets of heavy and one pair of light sleighs, a cutter and a number of work and driving harness, none of which were saved. In the Patterson barn was a buggy and a large number of hoes, forks, shovels, etc., which were all destroyed.

The loss on both places was partly covered by insurance except the sleighs, cutter and harness which was the property of Chas. Edson, and on which there was no insurance. Mr. Edson's loss will be in the neighborhood of two hundred dollars.

Buy Tubes as Carefully as you buy Tires

THERE are two ways a car owner can buy tubes.

He can go out looking for price—and get it.

Or he can buy tubes that will give his casings a chance to deliver the mileage that is built into them.

U. S. Royal and Grey Tubes are built-to give mileage and get mileage.

To get all the mileage out of a new casing or to make an old casing last—put a U. S. Royal or Grey Tube inside it.

Buy Across The Counter

WHEN you buy across the counter in the stores of this town, you are using good business judgment. Why? There are many reasons, but one of the most important is this:

You can buy what you want at the price you wish to pay. You are not obliged to accept "something just as good," because you are in a position to compare values and make your own selections.

When you trade at home you are helping your friends to help you. And there is no finer thing in life than neighborly co-operation. It always pays—in happiness and satisfaction as well as dollars and cents.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR MRS. FRANK BEARSS

Fifty Baptist Ladies Meet at D. E. Ingalls Farm

Tuesday afternoon, the ladies of the Baptist Ladies' Aid Society gathered at the home of D. E. Ingalls and family, the occasion being a farewell party for the president, Mrs. Frank Bearss, who leaves next week for Royal Oak, Mich., where she and her family will make their home. Mrs. Bearss was asked to go on a fishing party with Dr. Herman Burns and wife, but was very much surprised when they stopped at the Ingalls home to find about fifty friends waiting to greet her.

A very pleasant afternoon was spent in visiting and at its close, Mrs. Eva McGhan, in behalf of the society presented Mrs. Bearss with a beautiful silver pie knife as a token of the appreciation and love of the ladies over whom she has so faithfully presided during the past year.

Mrs. Bearss, in a few well chosen words, thanked the ladies. Dr. Burns also made some very comforting and appropriate remarks, wishing herself and family good cheer and happiness in their new home at Royal Oak.

Refreshments of ice cream and strawberries, cake and coffee were served, after which they all departed for their homes, pronouncing the Ingalls farm an ideal place to spend an afternoon in the "good old summertime."

FORMER LOCAL RESIDENT PROVES A HERO

Martin C. Nowland of Detroit in Line for Caraegie Award

Under the caption, "A Hero Hides," an article in a recent Detroit paper relates an incident in which Martin C. Nowland, brother of Mrs. Robert Bonthron of this city, who formerly resided in this city, leaving some eight years ago, figures as the hero.

It seems that Nowland, who is employed by the Murray Body Company of Detroit, was returning from a day off, spent in Windsor with a fellow employee on the Detroit and Windsor ferry boat, Britania, when someone shouted that a woman had jumped off the top deck.

Nowland, sitting in his automobile on the lower deck, got out of the machine and looked over the side of the ferry. He saw the woman struggling in the water 50 feet away. Off came his coat and into the water he went. When he reached the woman's side, she was sinking. Nowland siezed her and held her up until a boat from the ferry came alongside and rescued them.

Back on board, Nowland was so beset by congratulations that he hid until the ferry had docked and most of the passengers had gone ashore. Then he got back into his automobile and drove briskly away from the wharf. At his room, Nowland, who was cited for bravery three times in the World War, said he didn't like "this hero business" and refused to discuss his adventure.

The woman he rescued was Mrs. Agnes Gould, 51 years old. She was taken to the receiving hospital, where it is said she will recover. Despondency over ill health is given as the cause of her act.

Those attending the gathering were Mrs. Baldwin and Charles Powell of Torch Lake; Mr. and Mrs. S. Ulvund, of East Jordan; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Blair of Flint; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Zimmerman and family of Kegomic; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Peterson and family of East Jordan; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Solomon of Traverse City; Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord Williams and family, Homer Burton and Dixon Warner of near Barnard.

VISITING BAND IS FAMOUS ONE

COMES HERE WITH A RECORD OF NEW TRIUMPHS

Roy D. Smith's Royal Scotch Highlanders' band, now on n tour of the United States and Canada, will be heard here on Wednesday, July 15th, the opening night of a one day and evening engagement.

The Royal Scotch Highlander's band is coming with a record of new triumphs, having featured the conventlon of the Advertising Clubs of the world in Houston, Tex., following its most successful season in St. Petersburg, Fla., its winter headquarters. It is travelling in its private pullman "Sunshine," purchased for it by St. Petersburg at the instigation of the Real Estate Board of that city. Last year an 11,000 mile trip was taken by the band during its summer "vacation."

The band is one of the most popular in the country, having a diversified musical program that meets with the approval of the most cosmopolitan of crowds, popular and classical music beIng featured along with the jazziest of jazz rendered by a saxophone octette.

Demand for the band's music became so great during the last year that the Okey Record compaay sent special representatives to Florida where the more popular numbers of the band were recorded for phonographs.

One of the stars of the organization is Bobbie Brollier, Scotch tenor, whose scotch dialect songs have been one of the most popular musical offerings of tbe Roy Smith organization for several years. Miss Dora Hilton, dramatic soprano, is another prominent artist with the organization. She has registered successes from coast to coast.

Others prominent among the roll of the band include, John Laulatta, harpist; Joe Browning and Turner Nearing, cornet soloists; John Heney, xylophone soloist; Albert Van Colo, euphonium soloist; Eddie Heney, saxaphone specialty man, and Harold Stockton, whistler and bird imitator.

SCHOOL BOARD TO MEET SOON

TWO NEW MEMBERS TO BE ELECTED MONDAY

Mrs. Shanahao Will be Caodidate for Re-electiop—Myers Will Not Ruo

The regular annual meeting of the Charlevoix board of education will be held in the high school auditorium on next Monday evening, July 13th, at 8 o'clock.

Two members are to be elected—one to succeed Mrs. Shanaban for the full term of three years; the other for a part term of one year to succeed Fred S. Myers and complete the unexpired term of Rollie L. Lewis, resigned. Mr. Myers was elected member of the board to fill vacancy until the following annual regular meetlng, which is next Monday.

Mrs. Shanahan has announced her intention of being a candidate for re-election. Mr. Myers, who has given the school district efficient and faithful service, has stated that he will not again be a candidate for the office.

It is to be hoped that the voters of the school district will turn out in force on the evening of July 13th. The election of members to the governing board of our schools is an important and vital matter and one that concerns us as intimately as any matter we have to act upon as citizens, second only to the election of our county, state and national officials. It is important that only persons of proven integrity and abillty should hold the office of school board member if we are to have the affairs of the schools properly administered and this can only be insured when the voters show a lively and intelligent interest in the work of the board.

Dance a Success

The American Legion dance at the Belvedere casino last Wednesday evening was a gratifying success from every point of view. The proceeds cleared the Legion the handsome sum of $193.50, for which the organization is indebted to the trustees of the Belvedere Club, the manager, Mrs. Sears, and the splendid orchestra.

TENTH ANNUAL OUTING MEETS AT BOULDER PARK

Will Have Big Contral Teot witb Tents for the Members Surrouoding It

The tenth annual outing of tbe Michigan Sheet Metal and Roofing Contractors' and auxiliary associations will meet in Charlevoix during the week of July 18th-24th—six days of fun.

A big tent will be pitched in Boulder Park, located about eight blocks from the heart of the business district and overlooking grand old Lake Michigan, where all the meetings will be held. Ample room has been provided for those who wish to camp out and be near the big tent. All the facilities of the tourist camp will be free to the visitors.

Interesting programs have been provided for each evening, but no program for the day, as it was thought the members would prefer to be at liberty to follow their own inclinations during the day, there being so many interesting side trips from Charlevoix and excellent fishing in its many streams and lakes.

Saturday, the 18th, will be devoted to registration; on Sunday there will be a song service; on Monday, entertainment furnished by the Grand Rapids association; on Tuesday, Detroit association has charge of the activities; on Wednesday, they are under the auspices of the Travellers' Auxiliary and Thursday is the grand finale in which the associations of the entire state will participate. The various committees are working faithfully to prepare splendid and unusually interesting programs.

The folder issued by the outings' advertising committee contains the following appeal: "Bring your family and friends to Charlevoix, the Beautiful and drink from the fountain of youth. Scenic drives, fine programs, grand bathing, wonderful fishing, excellent golf course. Be with us at the playground of a nation in the height of the resort season. Organize a party and enjoy yourself as never before at little expense."

COUNTY DAIRYMEN TO HOLD PICNIC

PLANS COMPLETE FOR EVENT ON JULY 16

To Be Held In Whitiog Park Under Auspices of Charlevoix Cow Testing Association

Plans have been completed to have a big dairy picnic on the 16th of July at the Whiting Park. This is sponsored by the Charlevoix Cow-testing association and everyone interested in dairying is cordially invited to attend.

The Charlevoix County Cow-testing association has been in operation for nearly three years and has proven itself to be the most important cog in the dairy wheel of progress. The results of the association have been far reaching and have awakened the public as to the welfare of our most profitable industry in the county. More and more we are beginning to realize that it is not sufficient to just know a cow as a cow, but most important of all to know whether she is a money-maker or not. Moral: Join the cow-testing association and find out.

Efforts have been put forth to make this a Red Letter Day for dairymen. We are fortunate in being able to schedule James Wells, dairy extension specialist of M. S. C. to be with us on that day and discuss questions pertaining to dairying. He will also give a judging demonstration at the Breezy Point farm, located on the east side of the Ironton Ferry, beginning at 10:00 fast time.

Then at 11:30 the caravan will jorney forth to the county park to enjoy a basket dinner furnished by those in attendance. After that has been thoroughly enjoyed, Mr. Wells will give a talk, followed by Clarence Mullett, cow-tester, who will give some of the results accomplished during the past year in the association. The next act on the program will be a baseball game between members of the association. You surely can't afford to miss this free act. Also remember no finer bathing beach can be found anywhere, so bring the bathing suits for all the family. A cordial invitation is extended to all the members of the Marketing association, cashiers of all the banks, business man, and all dairymen of the county. Members of the Charlevoix Calf club also will be there.

Don't forget to set aside the 16th of July and meet at the Breezy Point Farm to spend a very profitable as well as pleasurable day.

ARE MASTERS OF THE SITUATION

POLICE HAVE TRAFFIC HERE WELL IN HAND

While Tourists and Town Drivers are Travelliog Faster, Tbey Obey Stop Sigos

The police department reports that traffic problems are being satisfactorily solved this year, despite the fact that tourists seem to be making a practice of travelling faster through town than in former years, and a good many local drivers have developed a tendency to speed through the main street.

The stop street ordinance, however, is being better obeyed this year, especially by townspeople, the majority of its violators being tourists who err more from failure to see the signs in time or ignorance of our regulations than to wilful intent to violate the ordinance. The motor cycle policeman has been on the job lately and has been successful in reducing the speed with which traffic on Belvedere avenue bas been endangered in past years. Some trouble is experienced in town, however, with drivers who cut the corners.

Two things which should be the subject of an immediate ordinance, however, are the cars with three and sometimes four on a front seat. This includes the "one armed' driver menace and should be stopped. The other is the practice of rlding on the running board. Both these stunts are covered by ordinance in Grand Rapids and other cities and should be here. They are dangerous in the extreme, but cannot be checked under the present traffic regulations.

We seldom have a serious automobile accident in the streets of Charlevoix and it is a condition on which the police department is to be congratulated. Traffic is very heavy on Bridge street, in proportion to the length of the street and drivers cannot be too careful or regulations too strict to avoid accidents.

MUST HAVE MOTOR BOAT CLUB

THEN WE COULD HAVE M. V. P. B. A. REGATTA HERE

With Our Unexcellod Hotol Facilities Wo Could Take Caro of Spectators

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brady, accompanied by Mr. Brady's father, Hugh Brady, left on Friday for White Lake, to attend the Mississippi Valley Power Boat Association races—the annual regatta. They report as follows:

Doc's II, owned by Dr. VanSant, of Peoria, Ill., won first place in three races—her own class (the 725 cubic inch), the 1,100 cubic inch class and in the Webb trophy race. She also raced against time for the trophy offered by King Albert of Belgium for the fastest time made by any boat in the world capable of developing a speed of over fifty miles per hour. She attained a speed of 61.2 miles per hour, but whether or not she is the fastest boat in the world cannot as yet be determined until the returns are in from all the boats in different parts of the globe that have entered for the trophy this season. The Miss Charlevoix, owned by the Brady Boat Company of this city, is modeled exactly on the lines of the Doc II, powered with the same engine and hooked up in the same way, being connected direct instead of through a gear box, as in other types of craft. Mr. Brady says he was sorry he couldn't enter his boat, as she would have surely been good for second money, anyway.

The question arises to mind why it is that White Lake, with its meagre resources can hold these regattas each year over a crooked course, disturbed by the swells of ferry boats, while we with Pine Lake stretching an unbroken length of sixteen to eighteen miles have never been able to stage a race of this kind. With ample hotel facilities of our own, to say nothing of the crowds that might be collected from Harbor Springs, Bay View and Petoskey, it certainly seems as though this were the logical place to hold annual motor boat regattas.

The first thing to do, however, is to form a motor boat club. There are plenty of enthusiasts here who would be glad to join such an organization. It is a proposition that merely calls for leadership and initiative. Won't someone please step forward? Remember, if we have an organization Charlevoix can join the M. V. P. B. A. and in a year or two we can have that same annual regatta right here without a doubt. It would be the biggest drawing card we could have.

GREYHOUNDS TO RUN THROUGH CHARLEVOIX

Fleet of Motor Coaches Will Make Three Round Trips

At present, the Greyhound parlor coaches operate over four trunk lines in Michigan. The coaches are built with a low center of gravity, thus eliminating the chances of an upset, and they have made thousands of trips without an accident. Finished in a beautiful shade of light blue and equipped with six pneumatic tires, the Greyhound glides along easily and quietly, affording the passengers the utmost in luxurious traveling comfort. The interiors of the parlor coaches are finished in dark blue velour with individual arm chairs, air-cushioned. Large observation windows are provided and there is never any crowding. Space for luggage is provided to give passengers plenty of room to enjoy their trip.

METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday, July 12

10:30 a. m., Rev. Leroy Lightfoot, returned from Bombay conference, India. This noted missionary will give a most interesting address which we trust all our people will try to hear. In the rush of this season let us remember our need of church fellowship.

12 o'clock, Sunday school. Paul's missionary journeys are interesting to study. The most painstaking persual of the text is not too much if one wants to get the best from it.

7:30, evening service. Pastor's address will be on the theme, "The Bible vs. Infidelity." With the whole country interested in the creation history recorded by Moses, this theme will be pertinent to the time.

8:30, Epworth League. The summer schedule starts well. The many young people here now who wish a service late enough so they can attend will appreciate this hour. Several universities and colleges are represented this year as other years. We expect to use this splendid talent and to be of use to all who come among us.

Young people's prayer meeting at 8:00 p. m., Monday, in the Epworth League room.

All the church prayer service every Thursday at 8:00 p. m. We welcome you.

The music by Prof. Geo. Leo Wilkins last Sunday evening was greatly enjoyed by all. The violin and a capable artist surely has no equal. It is barely possible that Professor Wilkins will be with us again this summer.

The first young people's social in the summer series is held this Wednesday in the church recreational rooms. Under the direction of a competent leader, these play hours will refresh you.

Three splendid audiences last Sunday: morning 10:30, evening 7:30 and 8:30. We will repeat these throughout the summer. It is very encouraging to our working force to see such loyal backing by our people and the non-residents worshiping with us, for the Sabbath it surely shows a true spirit.

HOW HE FOUND HIS FATE

By MRS. C. N. WILLIAMSON

(© Doubleday, Page & Co.)

HE COULDN'T make her out at all.

Did she care for him—a little? A good deal? Or was she playing with him, wanting all he had to give, and meaning not to give anything in return?

This is a little secret, intimately concerning a man and a woman whose names you would know if I told you them; so I shan't give them any names, not even fictitious ones, for fear you might guess. I shall simply call the two "He" and "She."

He was not married, and She—well, where the state of marriage was concerned she was rather like the coffin of Mohammed the Prophet, which, of course, you know all about. That is, She lived apart from her husband, in his house, but was neither separated nor divorced. One of the things which He (the only "He" who matters in this fragment of secret history) pined, burned and yearned to find out was, did she want to be divorced? Was she willing to do some daring thing which might get her talked about, and give her prig of a husband—her remorseless, divorceless husband!—a red-blooded wish to pluck her from his family tree?

All I need to tell you about the husband himself is this: He was a professor or something. Anyhow He wrote books as dry as last year's biscuits, which nobody I ever knew would be bribed to read; and he had to live in the country to do it. Not beautiful country, where human beings would love to live, but nasty flat, treeless country, where forebears had built a house as dull as themselves, and the water was so chinky that as soon as you were old enough to be a professor, it upset your liver and made you cross. Still—(I hope I'm not telling you too much) the creature had a title. Quite a good one; and He was rich. He doled out money to his wife about as impetuously as a stalactite drips drops; but somehow or other She dressed like a dream, and was allowed to wear the family jewels, pearls among other things, for which many women would think few sacrifices too great.

The question was, what did She think?

The husband never came to London unless for some appalling convention or conference, or whatever it was, once a year or so; but She managed to run up to town for part of a day, or sometimes a day and a night, every few weeks; and when She was planning (almost plotting, you might say) one of these flying visits He would find at his club a purple-sealed envelope, the very sight of which made his heart give an extra beat.

She would begin with "My dear Friend" (often she underscored one of these three words, and which ever one it was always seemed more thrilling, more intimate, more subtle in meaning than the other) and she would go on to explain that if He "could be bothered" with her on such and such a day, She would find time between dressmakers and milliners and mere "friendlies"—her name for acquaintances who didn't matter compared to Him—for a luncheon, a concert, or a dinner.

This was delicious, as far as it went. But there were several things that worried him. She always wanted him to take her to some quiet out-of-the-way little place where no one She knew was likely to see them together. She said—or if she didn't exactly say, She hinted and intimated that She cared for him terribly. Yet She wouldn't be brave about it. She wouldn't, for instance, let him take her to a popular theater when She run up to town for a night. She wouldn't dine with him at a fashionable restaurant where the Everybodies went.

She defended herself from His reproaches by saying: "'Bold' is the word for what you want me to be, dear, not 'brave.' And I'm not the kind of woman who can do bold things. I just can't! Our friendship is too sweet, too beautiful to spoil. It's like a lovely music. We mustn't bring in a false note—a crash!"

He always looked forward with passionate eagerness to their stolen meetings, and he was happy when with her—though not as happy as he wanted to be. But when they parted there came always that question: "Is She playing?" And then like a stab, another: "Am I the only one? Or does She come to town oftener than She lets me know? Do other men get those notes with the purple seals at their clubs—the beasts? And does She call them 'My dear Friend'?"—or perhaps something far better and more like what he wanted from her for himself?

As time went on his doubts became almost unbearable; because his real object was to tear her from the professor person, and after a few social and legal worries, get her for his wife. He felt that he must learn what was really in her heart for him, and whether, as her eyes sometimes said, She was willing, indeed longing, to fling away title and pearls in order to become plain Mrs.—Never-Mind-Who.

There came at last a summer evening made for poets and lovers. She was in town. She had been busy with futile things and people all the afternoon, but She was to dine with him.

"I shall be tired," she'd written, "and it will be a heavenly treat to be with you in a quiet little place with no prying eyes, where we can talk, or not talk, as our mood bids—and just smile at each other. It will be wonderful. But you must bring me back early to my hotel, as I can have a good long sleep—and dream of you."

"By G—d, I'll find out one way or other tonight, whether she does care or whether she thinks I'm her useful, tame dog!" He vowed.

She met him at the "quiet little place"—where He was waiting for her at the door. She looked even more ethereal, more—somehow—diaphanous than usual, in gray chiffon and—oh, bang them!—those two ropes of pearls.

But She wasn't going to slip through his fingers like sea-foam this time, by being diaphanous. He squared his jaw.

He gave her iced champagne. She sipped slowly, her big eyes smiling at him over the rim of the glass. How sweet She was—how sweet!

At ten o'clock she said: "Dear Man, you must take me home now. I am tired. Be kind.

He made no protest. He had a taxi called.

"Where to, sir?" asked the chauffeur.

"Oh—er—out to Hampstead Heath," He directed. "And drive slowly."

Her lashes lay on her cheeks. She melted into her place and let him sit down beside her, without a word. But then gently pulling her hand from his, She murmured: "Dear, I couldn't make a scene or cry out that I wouldn't go, but—I can't. I—I care too much. Now you know. I daren't do it."

He had never guessed before that a man can almost faint with joy. "Now you know," She had said.

"Darling!" He spoke that word for the first time. He caught her hands and pulled her toward him. Gently, very gently She resisted. He let her resist, because—She being herself—he wasn't yet satisfied. He wanted to ask her a question and hear her answer.

"Why daren't you go with me?"

"Because—just because."

"You must tell me."

"I will, if you'll take me home—I mean to my hotel—now. I'll tell you there. I promise. You know how quiet it is in the drawing room. Everybody gone to bed at 1am, everybody who isn't at the theater. Please!"

His heart was now thumping, and he called out new directions to the chauffeur.

The hotel, where—supposedly by her husband's wish—She always stayed, was deadly respectable; one of those smartly decorated, unlicensed hotels where you have to whisper ingratiatingly to the head waiter, and ask if he can somehow manage to get a bottle of claret. He then gets it with surprising promptness. He has probably kept it in his trunk.

Through the rose-and-silver dusk of summer the two drove, the tips of the woman's fingers in the man's eager grasp.

Thank heaven, the last old lady in a cap had tottered out of the drawing room to bed! A canny manageress had had half the electric lights turned off. He and She didn't turn them on again. A pinkish twilight filtered through silk lamp shades. He let her choose a cushioned sofa. He was past noticing that it was in sight of a half-open door.

"Now!" he said, "the time has come. Keep your promise."

"What promise?" She echoed.

"Don't pretend that you've forgotten."

"Ah, I have to pretend so many things! But—you mean—"

"I mean, why didn't you dare drive in that taxi with me out to Hampstead Heath tonight?"

"Can't you guess?"

"You always answer a question of mine with another question, or put me off somehow. But I can't stand it any more. I won't. Did you mean that you couldn't trust me—or—or—couldn't trust yourself?"

"Oh—I was just—afraid. Don't be angry. Doesn't a man like a woman to be a little afraid of him?"

"He doesn't like her to play with him—forever. My girl, I've got to know tonight—the truth. Do you love me? Is there hope?"

"A—ah! Love's such a big word."

"Is it too big for you? It isn't for me. Nothing's too big. None of the consequences."

"Oh, don't! You frighten me by talking of consequences. I—"

"Do you love me?" He persisted.

"Of course I—"

"Because if you don't I'm going to end this."

She let him hold her hands, and she didn't cry out, though he must have crushed her rings into the tender fingers. "Not see me any more?" Her voice was sweet and low as the ripple of a brook among reeds. "I do love you—as much as—as I may. I—" She looked up at him, a beautiful look. But it wandered to the open door. Perhaps she had heard a step. At all events at that instant a hall-porter slowly passed.

"Oh, porter!" she called. "Please have a syphon of soda water sent up to my room."

FARM STOCK

MARKET DEMAND IS FOR FINISHED BEEF

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Well-fattened beef animals weighing from 800 to 1,200 pounds have been in demand on live stock markets during recent years, rather than animals of greater weight. This has been the result of a demand by beef consumers for lightweight, high-grade cuts. Such a demand, says the United States Department of Agriculture, must necessarily be supplied by well-finished animals from 12 to 20 months old carrying a large percentage of the blood of the early-maturing beef breeds—usually that of the Hereford, Aberdeen-Angus, or Shorthorn.

The preparation for market of yearlings, or baby beeves, requires more skill than is necessary for the production of animals marketed at more mature ages, on account of their tendency to grow rather than to fatten. To fatten yearlings successfully, they must be placed on a fattening ration when they are weaned and kept on full feed until they are ready for marketing. Every effort should be made to get the calves through the weaning period without loss of their milk fat. The grain ration should be increased so as to permit as little change in their rate of growth in fattening as possible. Some feeders build "creeps" in the pastures or lots so that the calves can get their grain without being disturbed by cows. Creeps consist of small pens with openings which permit only the calves to enter. These openings may have rollers on each side to prevent bruising the calves.

Calves from heavy milking cows should be weaned gradually over a period of 10 to 15 days. Fall calves should not be weaned until after the cows and calves are on grass. Spring calves should either be kept on grass after weaning in the fall, or be given some succulent feed such as silage. It is advisable to provide them with winter pasturage such as wheat, oats, rye or barley when soil and climatic conditions permit.

Last Finishing Touches Help to Show Animals

There are a good many little last-minute finishing touches that will help make an animal show to best advantage, advises John W. Bartlett, dairy husbandman at the New Jersey State College of Agriculture, New Brunswick.

From now until show time every available minute must be used to train the show cattle to lead and pose. This means considerable work and is an every-day task. The leadsman should walk backward slowly and teach the animal to follow gracefully. This means that the animal's head is held high and that when led into line to be judged she stands with her feet squarely under her body. Attention must be paid to the condition of the feet of each animal. If they are irregular they may be pared down with a chisel or knife.

It is not too early to start polishing horns. This can be done by scraping with a piece of glass or rasping with a rounded file. The next step is to apply emery cloth vigorously until all rough places are removed. Following this a paste of sweet oil and pumice stone should be rubbed on the horns until they feel hot. They are then ready for the final polishing with a strip of cloth applied as though shining shoes. Clipping brings best results when done just before the show. If the skin and hair seem dirty, the body of the animal should be washed with soap and water and rubbed dry. Blankets are to be used at all times during the last days previous to showing. Plenty of grooming helps to make the hide pliable and gives the hair more bloom. Feed the show animal hay rather than grass during the last two weeks, as grass-fed animals are apt to lose flesh at show time when hay only is available.

IS YOUR WORK HARD?

Many Charlevoix Folks Have Found How to Make Work Easier

What is so hard as a day's work with an aching back?

Or sharp stabs of pain at every sudden twist or turn?

There is no peace from that dull ache.

No rest from the soreness, lameness and weakness.

Many folks have found relief through Doan's Pills. They are a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys.

Charlevoix people recommend Doan's.

Mrs. Daniel Potter, 401 May St., Charlevoix, says: "I began to have severe pains through the small of my back, which were the first sign of kidney trouble. When I bent over to do my work, sharp twinges caught me across my kidneys. I felt weak and tired and my kidneys acted irregularly. I used Doan's Pills, which I bought at Metcalf's Drug Store, and they soon cured me."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mrs. Potter had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE NEED FOR A SCIENTIFIC TAX BILL

It is very probable that the ways and means committee of the house and the finance committee of the senate will assemble in Washington in September and begin work on a revision of the present revenue law. The committees will thus have plenty of time to formulate new legislation before congress convenes in December so that bills will be ready for simultaneous introduction after the first Monday in December. This will be the first session of the 69th congress, elected last November, and much depends upon its activities both from a public and political viewpoint. Naturally the people are desirous of having a scientific revision of taxes and the political parties are interested in developing assets to be used in the campaign in November, 1926. More important than the success of any particular party is the development of a rational and scientific revenue bill. If the revision is to be based on partisan possibilities it will not amount to much. If, however, it is to be a revision based on a cold-blooded analysis of the burdens of all our people and the best way to relieve them, then a good tax bill will result. It is, of course, impossible to believe that partisanship will be kept out of either the deliberations or the result, but that will rest entirely with the people.

Every citizen will know early in September that the two committees are working on a revenue bill. The press will keep them informed as to progress, but each interested citizen should keep himself advised and use every effort to compel the making of a scientific tax bill. It is only by the pressure of public opinion that partisan tricks can be discounted.

THE PRESIDENT SPEAKS

The recent visit of President Coolidge to the northwest will be viewed in the years to come as an epoch making event; not so much by what transpired, but from the opportunity presented for the executive head of the nation to state America's policy of national unity. We ask you to read a few short paragraphs and after having digested their import pass this article along to your neighbor. Speaking to the Norwegian people of the great northwest as a whole, the President said:

"An enormous power has come to you, but you are charged with equally enormous responsibilities. Those responsibilities you have never failed to meet, that power you have never failed to sanctify. Therein lies the sole title to all the glory you have achieved in the past and therein will be the sole title of all the glory that you will achieve in the future. Believing that there resides in an enlightened people an all-compelling force for righteousness, I have every faith that through the vigorous performance of your duties you will add new lustre to your glory in the days to come.

"Our America with all that it represents of hope in the world is now and will be what you make it. Its institutions of religious liberty, of educational and economic opportunity, of constitutional rights, of integrity of the law, are the most precious possessions of the human race. These do not emanate from the government. Their abiding place is with the people. They come from the consecration of the father, the love of the mother, and the devotion of the children. They are the product of that honest, earnest and tireless effort that goes in the making of our country. They can have no stronger supporters, no more loyal defenders, than that great body of our citizenship which you represent.

"When I look upon you and realize what you are and what you have done, I know that in your hands our country is secure. You have laid up your treasure in what America represents, and there will your heart be also. You have given your pledge to the Land of the Free. The pledge of the Norwegian people has never gone unredeemed."

CAUGHT TRYING TO "LIFT" AUTO TIRE

Indian Boys Land in Jail After Escapade

Sherman Morse, engineer of the pumping station over near the Charlevoix Inn, parked his car outside the station when he went in to his work Tuesday evening.

Happening to come outside for something later in the evening, he found two Indian boys in the act of "lifting" one of his rear tires. They had the rim nearly off when he got out there. Morse called the sheriff's office and the youths, who gave their names as Richard Bolton and Clarence Francis and their ages as 19 and 20 respectively, were taken into custody. They were lodged in jail and will appear before Justice Cooper this afternoon.

FRESHENING BREEZES

Wonder if anybody thought to suggest to Mr. Ford that he put in a bid for the capitol building at Washington?

If the prohibition enforcement officers could only connect with a bootlegger as quick as the average citizen along the street the rum business would shortly be classed as one of the hazardous occupations.

Although the college graduate told us all about what was the matter with the universe, there don't seem to be such a heluva lot of improvement up until the present time.

What has become of the old-fashioned tinware peddler who ust to give us a pie tin and a spoon in exchange for a couple sacks of father's old clothes?

And New in Closing

When we get so we can remember that a home in the country, a cow, a couple pigs, a flock of chickens and an oldfashioned garden don't need either a spare tire or a quart of cylinder oil, we can feel we are at last making some progress toward normalcy.

Report for Mooth of May Shows Results that Should Startle Farmers and Breeders

The month of May, beginning May 9th and ending June 8th, shows that cows ara not producing as much as during the same period a year ago and also two years ago. This may be due to several reasons: a larger number of fall cows, short pastures and the smaller amount of feed fed due to high price of concentrates this last winter. The averages of tbree years is as follows: two years ago, 31.26 pounds; one year ago, 31.10 pounds, the last year, 30.04 pounds.

Mr. Drenth's cows set a new record for one production month in the association. In the future local cows will pass the new mark if proper feeding, breeding and weeding is continued. Success comes only after all thres of these terms are taken into consideration. One alone is not enough to make for success.

For instance: one may feed a poor herd of borders and fail; one may herd of boarders and fail; one may sire and fail. And by not proper weeding, the poor ones may eat up all the good cows make as prolit.

Ten years from the date of ths ending of the first Antrim County C. T. A. year ought to show an increased production of nearly 100 pounds of butter fat for the average cow testing association cow. Each year has shown some progress in the past.

The month of May returned $1,910.91 over the cost of feed (which cost $1,247.22) to 31 farmers, or an average of $61.64 to each over the cost of feed. Could this be increased? Answer: When we have more cows like those who appear at the head of the respective classes as higheat cows for May.

THE DAIRY

CREAM SEPARATOR IMPORTANT MACHINE

To eacourge dairymen to adopt methods that will moke their cream a little more wholesome aad the separator last a little longer, the following advice is given by W. R. Brown, professor of dairying, Manitobs Agricultural college.

"(a) The manufacturer's instructions should be read with care and carried out to the limit. Better than nayone else, he understands the direct needs of the machine.

"(b) Absolute firmaess and levelness of the machine are essentinl. Failure to secure either menns that the bowl will not run true, which defect will cause aot only poor separation and loss of fat but injury to the finer adjustments of the spindle, and consequently shorter life of the machine.

"(c) The separator must be kept thoroughly olled with good separator oil, which can be obtained from the separator compnales. The dirty oil should he draiaed out occasionolly and a good cleaning with kerosens accomplished. This, in turn, should be drained off and a new sapply of good oil udded. This makes the machine run easier as well as lengthens its life.

"(d) Sturt the machine slowly and increase the speed gradually aatil the proper speed, which is indicated on the handis of most separators, has been obtained. This should be maintained steadily throughout the time that tha milk is being fed into the bowl. Any carelessness in turning will result, aot only in an injury to the machine, hut also in unnecessnry loss of fat in the skim milk.

"(e) Before the milk is turned in, run into the separator enough warm water (110 to 120 degrees F.) to fill the howl. This prevents the milk from sticklag to the bowl parts, thus making washing easier und lessening the loss of fnt.

"(f) Milk should be clean aad warm whea fed into the bowl. Every precsution shonld be taken to prevent dirt getting into the milk. It is wise, however, to make sure that no dirt is in it by asing a fins strainer plus four plies of cheesecloth before the milk is put into tbo supply can.

"(g) Hsve the speed uniform before the milk is turned iato the bowl. Open the tup to its full capacity. The float, which serves to reguiate the discharge from the supply can, should nlways be used.

"(h) Use a flush. About one quart of warm wster or fresh skim milk should be run through the bowl after the whole milk. This flushes the bowl free of any cream that may be clotted in the bowl and thus lessens the loss of fat. Warm water, if used, teads to make washing of the interior parts of the howl easier.

"(i) Allow the speed of the machine to 'die down' without npplying any brake or pressure. The fact that the bowl runs a long time is proof that it runs smoothly and the machine turns easily. Any effort to stop the bowl is apt to shitt the adjustment of the bowl or, otherwise, put it out of balance, with consequent loss in efficiency.

"(j) Wash the separator immediately after use and exercise the strictest care in getting all parts of the tinware absolutely clean. It is conceded that improper cleaning of utensils, including pails, cans, separators, etc., is responsible for a big percentage of the bad flavor that develops in milk. Unless care is exercised, the separator offers a good breeding place for those germs that develop the bad flavors.

Soy Beans for Pork

That soy bean oil meal, a by-product of soy beans, is far better in a ration with or without minerals for growing pigs in the feed lot than feeding whole or ground soy beans in their natural state is the gist of recent opinion of the federal Department of Agriculture. The soy bean oil meal is a high protein product and it has no marked effect on the carcass of the hog because it has far less fat in it, and is furthermore more soluble and digestible in the body of the hog

Buy Across The Counter

WHEN you buy across the counter in the stores of this town, you are using good business judgment. Why? There are many reasons, but one of the most important is this:

You can buy what you want at the price you wish to pay. You are not obliged to accept "something just as good," because you are in a position to compare values and make your own selections.

When you trade at home you are helping your friends to help you. And there is no finer thing in life than neighborly co-operation. It always pays—in happiness and satisfaction as well as dollars and cents.

DETLAFF GETS BOTH SENTENCE AND FINE

Judge Deals Severely with East Jordan Violator

Sheriff Charles Novak, with deputies, made a raid on the farm of Felix Detlaff west of East Jordan last Wednesday and secured one of the best moonshine equipments ever found in this region.

The still was large and well equipped. Eight gallons of moonshine and two barrels of mash were also secured. The outfit was cunningly hid in the woods, the entrance to the dugout being camouflaged with leaves and debris, while a hollowed-out sapling aerved to carry the smoke up into a large tree.

The outfit and Mr. Detlaff were brought to Charlevoix by Sheriff Novak. He was arraigned before Judge Gilbert at a special adjourned session of the May term last Friday and aentenced to serve from ten to twelve months at hard labor at the Michigan State Reformatory at Ionia, with a recommendation of ten months. In addition to this, he was required to pay a fine of $500 and costs of $200. He left Monday to serve his sentence, in the custody of the sheriff.

TEA ROOM SERVES UNDER THE MAPLES

Is Operated by Experienced St. Louis Woman

A wonderfully attractive tea room and specialty shop has been opened at 203 Clinton atreet, the old Myers property, two doors from the library, by Mrs. Josephine Scullin, of St. Louis, Mo.

The fine old house has been entirely redecorated within and furnished in a most tasteful manner. Chairs and tables of red and ebony hue have been set out under the big spreading maple trees and a skilled caterer's cook furnishes delicacies of the highest order.

Mrs. Scullin operates an exclusive specialty shop at Forest Park, the residential suburb of St. Louis, Mo., and has as her assistant at the Charlevoix shop Miss Eleanor Wagner, formerly one of the managers at Louis Sherry's famous restaurant in New York. No time, effort nor money have been spared to make the new establishment one of surpassing excellence.

He Defeats Miles, Beddow, Thorsh, Cartier and Mark

The first open tennis tournament of several scheduled for July and August was begun July Fourth on the fine courts of the Inn and ended Tuesday. There were twenty entries, about half from the resort colony.

A PLEA FOR UNIFORMITY

DIVERSE TRAFFIC REGULATIONS MAKE TROUBLE

Give Drivar a Fair Chance to Know What the Law Is and Sae that He Is Fit"

Michigan has been taking the lead in many things pertaining to the use of the automobile, by planning and carrying into completion as fine a system of highways as any state in the union, to enable her eitizens to intermingle and become better acquainted with each other, and which has been taken advantage of to such an extent thst where Mackinaw was a long way from those in the southern part of tbe state twenty five years ago, and we could only plan on getting there on a weeks vacation, it is now just a week end trip, and home Monday almost in time for business.

Of course in making such a trip we must pass through many cities and villages in some of which we leave much money in exchange for services, and in many instances we pass on with pleasant memories but our trip is marred on aecount of the different regulations for motorists whieh have been promulgated by the authorities without consulting with the neighboring towns as to any uniformity, with the result that in the town of A—we are advised by bill board, that the speed limit is 15 miles per hour, in B—it says 20 milcs per hour, in A—we are supposed to pull over to the right hand eurb before making a left hand turn—in B—we must pull to the left before doing so. In A—we must stop before making a right turn, and wait until tbe traffie officer turns the red light on us, in B—we turn when the green light shows, and no traffic to eonfuse us on tbe turn, and so on almost without number, but there is nothing to indicate to the tourist or stranger what is expected of him, untii some lusty-lunged officer corrects us, or stops us and insist we leave $25.00 with request we appear in eourt to answer for a violation of some rule that was the proper thing to do in the town we just drove through, all of which leads me to this thought.

Michigan has spent an enormous amount of money on her highways, whieh are a temptation to all who own cars to go out and enjoy the fruits thereof with the thought of pleasure, only to have the trip ruined from a pleasure standpoint, by the diversity of rule and regulations, that he has no way of learning before he starts, or that does not show on any board or sign within the municipality.

If we could all get together and agree on uniform regulations, that we might be familiar with what was expected of us when in your town, and of you when in our town, "Oh boy wouldn't it be a grand and glorious feeling," and what a pleasure motoring through our own state would be.

Yes I know just what you are going to say, that some Boobs even if this was the ease would go tearing through, violating every regulation.

Well, you have him right in your own town, there are only a few who will not obey your own regulations, only about 3 per cent, but why penalize the other 97 per cent on his accouat, he must be taugbt, and the way is elear to teach hlm, and make it expensive for him.

Under the present regulations, of course, there is only one way to be sure of hlm, and that is a cash deposit, for when you ask to see his drivers' license, there is no way of knowing that it is his, or thut his address is right on it, for he may have found it, or borrowed it, and in this way avoid the consequences of his act, unless he is made to put up a deposit, but what a help it would be if his picture was on his license same as a passport or taxi cab drivers, and with a law making it a misdemeanor if he does not put down bis new address every time he moves, you would tben, in a large share of cases be sure of the identity, or if some one runs into you and smashes you up, when you ask to see his drivers' license you would be sure you had the name of the right party.

If this regulation were only uniform throughout the United States in conformity with the resolutions of the Hoover Conference what a great step forward tbis would be.

IF THIS LAW APPLIED TO YOUR BUSINESS?

It is a strange law that compels a railroad to operate certain lines at a loss. How many of the newspapers that complain about the railroads doing this thing would operate their plants at a loss? Facts are if the railroads were operated along the same lines as private business they would cut out most of the stops tbey now make. How many tickets for example does the Pere Marquette sell for Petoskey nine months of the year? Not one in a thousand of the people who travel annually between Petoskey and Charlevoix patronize the Pere Marquette. Last winter the Pere Marquette trains were snowbound in the Thumb and the story goes some traveling man at Caro wired a bitter protest on the service to tho Detroit offices of tbe railroad. The reply suggested the travelers crank up their flivvers and travel as they had all summer. We are a great people to squawk about something that interferes with our convenience especially if the other fellow pays for it.

MANY TOURISTS AT AUTO CAMP

THEY COME FROM ALL PARTS OF THE COUNTRY—

Visitors Loud in Their Praises of Location, Equipment and Management

Manager Hugh L. Brady of the city auto camp was interviewed the other day by a Courier representative, and from his statements we gather that the camp is fulfilling its purpose in excellent fashion.

Mr. Brady states that, so far, there have been absolutely no "kicks" on the camp or its service from any of its patrons. They come from all parts of the United States and have visited most of the auto parks of the nation and seem unanimous in declaring Charlevoix's camp the best located, equipped and managed that they have found in their travels.

Quite a few improvements have been made in the lay-out and equipment of the camp this year. Four new walks have been put in, leading from the pavilion to the circular track and five new kitchens have been installed. These kitchens are made from a design of Mr. Brady's and have been received with expressions of the highest praise from the tenants of the camp. They consist of an oven and chimney, covered with a good, tight roof, the chimney projecting through the roof. They present a very neat and attractive appearance. The work of lighting the kitchens by electricity was commenced Tuesday. Thirteen new lights in all have been installed this year at different points about the camp.

The tourists are coming fast and furious, averaging from six to fourteen cars per night. Many have returned for a second stay and some have visited it for a third time this season.

According to figures turned in by Manager Brady to the city clerk's office, fifty cars visited the park during the period included between May 6th and June 23rd of this year. Later figures are not at this time available. These came from the various states as follows: Michigan, 32; California, 1; Illinois, 4; Ohio, 6; Indiana, 7. They averaged three persons to a car.

It might also be interesting to note makes of cars which the visitors drove. Of course, "Lizzie" was greatly in preponderance, there being 25 of her tribe; one Stephens, two Cadillacs, two Chryslers, one Studebaker, one Essex, two Hudsons, four Dodges, one Franklin, one Star, three Chevrolets, one Oldsmobile, one Chandler, one Overland, two Willys-Knights, one Maxwell and one Hoffman.

ITEMIZED STATEMENT NECESSARY

NEW LAW REQUIRES THIS OF SCHOOL DISTRICTS

Ruling Is Good as Tax Payer Has a Right to Koow How the Money is Spent

Inasmuch as the law of the state now requires graded school districts to publish an itemized statement of receipts and expenditures, it may be interesting to learn just what an itemized statement is.

An itemized statement, as construed by the courts, means the particulars. The three following cases illustrate the rulings that have been given on this subject:

"An item, as used with reference to an itemized account, means the article, a separate particular in an account." Baldwin vs. Morgan, 18 South, pp. 919, 920, 73 Miss. 275.

"To itemize is to state in items or by particulars." Lovell vs. Sny, Island Levee Drainage Dist. 42 N. E. 600, 602, 159 Ill. 188.

"An itemized account is one which states the items making up the aggregate of the demand." Stato ex rel Francis V. Smith, 14 S. W. 557, 89 Mo. 408.

Orders drawn in accordanee with established contracts may be grouped. For example, teachers are hired for the year and the salary is established. The board could give the teacher's name, the purpose for which she was hired, the total salary for the year, and comply with the itemized statement. The same would be true for janitors who are hired for the year, or it would be true with any other item paid in accordance with a contract which fixes the price for the term for which the money is to be paid.

Knowledge of the law and how it is interpreted by the state department of public instruction may make it unnecessary for a district to publish the second time. The secretaries of school boards have been notified concerning tbe requirements for publication.

The Courier believes that the law is a good one for the reason that the taxpayer has every right to know how his money is being spent and where it goes. He is entitled to know teachers' salaries and running expenses of the schools. He can get all this from a properly itemized statement.

In this, as in many other localities, the statements are so boiled down that it is impossible to tell where you are at after reading them and for a time no statements whatever were published by the various school districts. The city council publishes a weekly statement of its proceedings and itemizes the bills it orders paid, so that the people know from time to time what they are doing with the tax money. If there is anything wrong with their conduct of the city's financial affairs, it is known in time to protest or remedy when the occasion is fresh and the data at hand, rather than possibly months later, when changes have possibly been made in the personnel of the board and the records are not easily consulted. It is entirely right and fitting that the people should have the same advantage in connection with the work of the school board.

K. OF P. PICNIC GREATLY ENJOYED

Some 250 Members Partook of Feed and Frolic

The K. of P. picnic held at Eastport last Sunday was one of spectacular activities. A large crowd gathered, consisting of some two hundred and fifty members from Traverse City, Charlevoix, East Jordan, Bellaire, Central Lake, Elk Rapids, Gaylord and Kalkaska lodges.

The picnicers enjoyed a big feed and then came the fun, bathing and baseball serving to pleasantly while away an afternoon.

Judge Archie Gibbs was duly severe with the offending K. P.'s brought before his court and it is safe to say that they will act gentle as lambs at the next picnic.

LITTLE GIRL ALMOST WAS DROWNED

Kathleen McCall Sinks Wheo Water-Wings Fail

Little eleven year-old Kathleen McCall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McCall, Jr., of East Hurlbut avenue, had a narrow escape from drowning last Monday afternoon.

The young lady had entered Lake Michigan, near the pier, with a pair of water wings and, trusting to their buoyancy, ventured out well over her depth. The water wings collapsed und Kathleen, who swims a little but is not very proficient at the art, became panic struck and sank to the bottom in about six feet of water.

Roy Myers, a member of the coast guard, on watch at the pier, seeing the little girl's plight, promptly jumped in with his clothes on and succeeded in getting her safely to shore. It was a couple of minutes before she could get her breath, but aside from having swallowed quite a bit of water, she was unhurt and accompanied two older girls to her home.

Pentwater Paving Done by Sloan Gets High Praise

The highway publication, "Michigan Roads and Pavements," for July 9, 1925, carries on its front cover a view of an attractive little spot on M-11, near Pentwater, showing a stretch of the concrete paving recently completed by the Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering Company of this city.

This paving, which extends for a distance of four and a half miles north of Pentwater and two and a half miles south of that village, is said to be the most perfectly constructed stretch of concrete paving in the state and has been the subject of special comment on the part of highway construction experts and engineers. "R. F." and his efficient staff are to be congratulated.

CITY MUST BE FREE AND SAFE

ACCOSTING GIRLS ON STREETS A SERIOUS OFFENSE

Five Young Men Brought Before Magistrate Last Friday and Pay Heavily for Diversion

Last Friday five young men, two being from Charlevoix and the others living in East Jordan, were arrested and taken before a magistrate charged with accosting several young girls on Belvedere avenue the previous Wednesday evening. It seems that these young men had two cars and after asking the girls to take a ride and being refused followed them the length of the street, finally driving one of the cars across the sidewalk near the Hotel Hallett. One of the girls appealed to Mr. Hallett for help and Joe proceeded to take the license numbers of the autos, whereupon the gang hurried away. City Attorney Fitch made an investigation and filed a complaint for violation of the city ordinance. The men pleaded guilty and heavy fines were imposed.

This kind of a thing has become somewhat prevalent in the city of late and it was time that something were done about it. Charlevoix is a resort town and parents bring their children here not only to get the benefit of the summer climate but to be free and safe. The people intend that all, young and old, and especially young girls and women shall be safe anywhere in this city. It has got to be so. Social and business interests demand it without regard to the moral side of the matter. It might be expected that outsiders coming here and who are looking for entertainment of a sordid nature will occasionally commit these offenses, but it is hard to understand why our own young men citizens will go so far in this damaging business.

The officials, backed by the solid sentiment of the community, propose to take active measures to put an end to these depredations, and drastic action is promised in every case. There is one disappointing feature in these cases. Silly young girls with a mistaken idea of a good time, and with what seems a total disregard of propriety and good sense, give young men every opportunity to invite them from the street into an auto and the rest can be imagined in most cases. As a result, decent girls have to submit to the insults of this class of men, or stay at home. It is hoped that Charlevoix will be one place where such conditions will not be permitted to exist.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mellencamp

The following letter, under date of July 9, has been put out by County Agent Mellencamp. The letter explains its purpose:

"Dear Farmer:—You are cordially invited and urged to attend the big Charlevoix county dairyman's picnic to be held at the county park on the 16th of July. This picnic is sponsored by the cow-testing ass'n. and everyone interested in dairying, either directly or indirectly, is invited to attend.

An attractive program has been arranged. We are indeed fortunate in having with us for that day Mr. James Wells, dairy extension specialist, who will give a practical judging demonstration at the Breezy Point Farm on the east side of the Ironton Ferry, beginning at 10:00 o'clock fast time. At 11:30 we will all crank up the Fords and start for the Charlevoix county park picnic grounds, where a basket dinner will be furnished by those in attendance. Next, James Wells will favor us with a talk on dairying, followed by Clarence Mullett, cow-tester, who will give us some of the accomplishments of the past year. Others will also speak. Lest we forget—there will be a baseball game between members of the cow-testing association. Also remember the bathing is fine, so bring bathing suits for all the family. Don't forget your dinner basket.

You will spend a very profitable as well as pleasurable day, so plan on meeting at Breezy Point Farm at 10:00 o'clock fast time on the 16th of July."

HOT BREADS FOR COOL DAYS

Rye Popovers—Mix and sift two-thirds of a cupful of rye meal, one-third cupful of flour, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Add gradually one cupful of milk, one teaspoonful of baking powder or one-half teaspoonful of soda, if sour milk is used, two beaten eggs and one teaspoonful of butter. Turn into very hot iron gem pans and bake in a hot oven about one-half hour.

Cream Delights.—Mix and sift one and one-half cupfuls of good pastry flour with one teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoouful of baking powder. Add very slowly enough thick cream to make a dough soft enough to roll out. Pat and roll as thin as possible. Shape with a cutter, prick with a fork and bake in a moderate oven. Serve with salad.

Currant Nut Muffins.—Mix two tablespoonfuls of sugar with three tablespoonfuls of melted butter, one well-beaten egg, and two cupfuls of sifted flour with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Add one-fourth cupful each of dried currants and nut meats, one cupful of milk and beat well. Drop into greased muffin pans and bake one-half hour in a moderate oven.

Rice Muffins.—Mix and sift two cupfuls of flour with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one tablespoonful of sugar. Work in one cupful of cooked rice—the brown variety is best—add one well-beaten egg, two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Beat well and bake in hot greased gem pans for one-half hour in a quick oven.

Drop Doughnuts—Take one and one-half cupfuls of flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, a pinch of ginger and a grating of lemon rind for flavor; add one beaten egg and one-half cupful of milk; add a pinch of salt, mix well and drop by teaspoonfuls into hot fat. Roll in sugar and serve warm.

Eliminate Early Molter From All Laying Flocks

The beginner with poultry soon finds that there is a time in the fall when the egg returns become very low and often it is just the time when feed bills are high and he wishes to buy all feed not raised on the farm and stock it up for winter. This period of slack production usually occurs somwhere between August first and December first, and the length of time it lasts depends on the skill of the poultryman. Why do the egg returns fall at this time? Because there are too many early molting hens in the flock which have ceased producing eggs. And the pullets are not the early hatched birds that lay in the early fall and keep it up throughout the winter.

ONLY A DIFFERENCE IN METHOD

By GARDNER HUNTING

THE streets of Hometown lay still and white under a February moon when the Ghost first came back to use the gift that had been given him. Only one young man stood shivering and wavering at the corner of the alley. It was the message from him that had reached the Gifted Ghost," by that sort of radio to which the ears of ghosts are attuned.

"What's the matter, Terry?" he asked in that voiceless whisper that penetrates where grenter noises seem quite unable to reach.

"I'm through—see?" answered Terry. "I'm going down there and take that money! It belongs to me by rights!" He seemed as unsurprised as if wraiths who asked questions about your predetermined undertakings, after you have finally scouted the last of your weekly persistent misgivings, were not so uncommon as men say they are.

"What money?"

"That package of twenties that lies just inside the vault, exactly where I put it tonight, when I carried it in from the teller's cage!"

"If it belongs to you, why does it happen to be there?"

"Because old Melville hasn't paid it to me in salary this three years I've been working my heart out for him!"

He wasn't much more than a boy, Terry Darell, though he was teller in the old First National in Hometown. His lips trembled visibly; the Gifted Ghost felt sorry for him.

"But if it's yours," he queried, "why didn't you take it home with you, instead of waiting till frosty midnight to go back and get it—almost like a thief?"

"I'm not a thief!" The words came like a cry.

"Of course you're not—or President Melville would hardly keep you on."

"He's the thief—every day that he makes me work for my salary, when I'm ashamed to face the girl I'm to marry and tell her there's no raise for me yet!"

Frank statement of inside facts seldom surprises a ghost; he rather expects them. Besides, this one lived in Hometown and knew Terry—and Nellie Patterson.

"I suppose you've told Nellie about this?" he asked.

Terry Darell gulped, and made no reply audible even to a disembodied spirit.

"Of course, it's for her you want this money that belongs to you?" pursued that inquisitive entity.

"I've got a right to it," Terry found tongue to answer and he turned and plunged into the dark alley.

The back window of the bank proved to have been left unlocked. As Terry raised it with exquisite care, the Ghost was at his elbow again.

"When you hand the money over to Nellie, will you tell her you got the raise you wanted?" he inquired mildly.

Inside, a dim light burned beside the vault door. By its illumination Terry appeared to see only familiar objects. He seemed quite blind to the sinister shadow that crouched at the corner of the filing cases beyond. The Ghost was aware of the black figure, but it was not his first concern.

"I suppose it's going to make you and Nellie quite happy, this money?" he continued his catechism.

"I'm going to have what's mine!" sneered Terry, peering around the partition at the barred front door. "I know what's right!"

But again he seemed strangely unable to see. Another form, more bulky than the first, was creeping stealthily across from the teller's cage toward the vault.

"Often the only thing that's wrong with a deed people call a crime is the method of doing it, Terry. You're dead sure your method is right?"

"It's the method I'm going to use!" returned Terry.

He began to draw himself erect. It was just then that the man creeping toward the vault came into the light. Without warning, the other, by the files, sprang to his feet. Almost simultaneously two pistols spat rose-flame and the confined space roared with their din. And the bulky men by the vault gave an horrid groan and slumped to the floor.

Next instant the other man was at the phone. "Hello! Central! This is the bank watchmen! Tell John Melville a robbery's been attempted here—and the town marshal that I've killed a man!"

Terry still stood hidden by the partition.

"Lucky you didn't get out there first," whispered the Ghost, who noted how the boy was quivering.

Of course a little crowd came. And then John Melville. But, though the back window was still open, Terry Darell did not run away. He watched his chance and mingled with the crowd. Later he faced John Melville in his little side private office and shut the door; but the Gifted Ghost had slipped in, too.

"Mr. Melville, but for luck and the grace o' God, I'd be lying out there in that dead thief's place!" Terry said, trembling, but more with deep emotions stirred in a boy's uncalloused heart than with fear. "I came down here to rob you tonight!"

"Well," whispered the Ghost, "maybe this is carrying things to an extreme, but it took nerve to do it—and confessing the truth is never a wrong method."

"You?" gasped the old banker. "Why?"

"Because," said Terry, "I was so bitter that you pay me so little. I—"

But the Ghost had slipped over to John Melville's side. "Listen, you old skinflint," he whispered; "you think that thief out there deserved what he got, because he tried to rob you. You've robbed this boy for years—and you know it. Do you know it's only a difference in method that makes people call what that yegg did a crime?"

Queer—but, in the following April, the Gifted Ghost looked on, unnoticed—but unoffended—at a wedding in Hometown.

Make Odd Attempts to Control Weather

Despite all the achievements of science, nothing of moment ever has been done about the weather. Civilized men may boast of his conquest of the elements, but in the face of a hot, dry spell he relapses into fatalism, ameliorating his condition only with puny devices as artificial ice and electric fans.

Less enlightened races contrive to put a better face upon the matter. Knowing less about the natural causes of weather, they manifest a greater optimism in dealing with it. Their methods may accomplish nothing, but the very fact that they are doing something serves to divert attention in some degree from their physical discomfort.

Many simple and intriguing methods are open to the sweltering reader who is willing to try magic as a last resort, says the New York Herald-Tribune. In the East Indies, according to Frazer's "Golden Bough," custom ascribes exceptional rain-making qualities to cats. In Sumatra a black cat is thrown into a river. The Japanese bathe a cat or two, enhancing the ceremony with processions and music. The natives of central Angoniland bury a pot of beer, asking rain in return for it. Whether or not rain is forthcoming, they find solace in the rest of the beer.

The traditional fleetness of the Finns perhaps is rooted in the wind-controlling powers of their wizards. The old Finnish wizards were famous for the wind knots they sold.

These were untied to produce, as desired, a moderate wind, half a gale or a hurricane.

We may smile at the efforts of primitive people to control weather. They probably would reciprocate at the sight of the lords of nature flying to the mountains or the seashore without making any attempt to regulate the weather at home.

The Superior Insect

When the moon shall have faded out from the sky; and the sun shall shine at noon-day a dull cherry red, and the seas shall be frozen over, and the ice cap shall have crept downward to the equator from either pole, and no keels shall cut the waters, nor wheels turn in mills, when all cities shall long have been dead and crumbled into dust and all life shall be on the very last verge of extinction on the globe; then, on a bit of lichen, growing on the bald rocks beside the eternal snows of Panama, shall be seated a tiny insect, preening its antennae in the glow of the worn out sun, representing the sole survival of animal life on this our earth—a melancholy "bug."—W. J. Holland.

Nightingale Great Lover

The wonderful British nightingale is "chiefest of the little nimble musicians of the air," as old Izaak Walton quaintly said. "Aedon," the singer, as the Greeks called him, since there is one singer only whenever he utters his flutelike notes, his "music of the moon." As the male nightingales come first, it has never been doubted that their songs are genuine love-songs and signals to lure mates. Bird catchers have a curious legend that if a bachelor bird be captured it may live as a captive even for 20 years. But if taken after it has fallen in love, wooed, and mated, it will pine to death, which goes to suggest that genuine passion throbs in the nightingale's heart, as in his music.

Odd Clock Keeps Good Time

A clock in a church tower at Lullington, England, has neither face nor hands, but has given the parishioners accurate time for nearly four centuries by striking the hours on the church bell.

Built in the Sixteenth century by the village blacksmith, it comprises two heavy stones, a rope 30 feet long and a crude escapement. It is wound up daily by the sexton, the winding barrels being of oak, like the beams in which the iron bearings work.

A carvane of live stock feeders over the entire country shows that pure breds make about 40 per cent more product for their owners than scrubs or common stock when fed in the same way.

FARM STOCK

MANY DEVICES USED TO EXERCISE BULLS

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Many a valuable bull is rendered useless by improper care and management, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The importance of exercise is often underestimated, and many bulls, after their value has been proved, are found to be sterile or slow breeders, due largely to close confinement and lack of activity. This is more true of dairy bulls, perhaps, because of their temperament, which makes them more difficult to handle.

Regular exercise helps materially to keep the bull in good condition. Any method that will make the sluggish bull take exercise regularly and without overwork is satisfactory. The main point is for him to get it. In some countries bulls are yoked like oxen and used to pull a plow, to haul manure, or to do other farm work. Where there is only one bull, special hitching arrangements for work on a cart may be made. Thus the bull not only gets his exercise but at the same time does useful farm work. A treadmill is sometimes used, but is not always satisfactory because the bull sometimes learns tricks for stopping the machine and needs to be watched.

A pen large and roomy enough for exercising may be all that is needed for some bulls, but others are lazy and need to be forced to exercise. A young bull turned in the lot with an older one will usually cause the older one to take his "daily dozen." The younger bull will usually be active enough to keep out of danger if the pen is large enough to prevent his being cornered. The owner should use his judgment as to the merits of this plan.

Bulls may be induced to exercise themselves with an empty barrel or keg by hunting or rolling it around the pen. The keg may be left on the ground or hung by a rope or chain low enough so the bull can butt it with his head. A block of wood, with the corners removed, will serve the same purpose. Some bulls spend hours playing with contrivances of this sort, while others pay little attention to them.

When an exercise pen is not available, it is a common practice to tie the bull to a ring which slides on a suspended wire or cable 75 to 100 feet long and high enough above the bull's head to prevent him from getting his feet over the lead chain, which should be 12 to 15 feet long. A revolving sweep will give the bull some exercise, if he will use it.

Many Animals Inspected During Year Just Ended

Slaughter of nearly 80,000,000 animals in establishments operating under federal meat inspection during the year ended June 30, 1924, is shown by figures recently compiled by the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture. The exact total is 79,814,060, which is more than 6,000,000 more animals than were slaughtered during any previous fiscal year.

Hogs were the most numerous of all classes of stock, there being 54,416,481 of these animals slaughtered. This number, nearly three-fifths of the total, is also a new high mark.

Calves slaughtered during this record-breaking year numbered 4,667,948, which is also the largest number on the records of the United States meat-inspection service for any year. Cattle and sheep killed under the supervision of government inspectors numbered 9,188,652 and 11,505,001, respectively.

This record slaughter of animals indicates an increased total meat consumption in the United States, as would be expected with the growing population. It also shows what a comprehensive service the United States Department of Agriculture renders in the inspection of the nation's meat supply.

Stage Scrub-Bull Trial at Farm Bureau Meeting

The trial of a scrub bull in which every part of the proceedings—except of course, the prisoner—was taken by boys' and girls' club members, recently occurred at a farm bureau meeting in Lincoln county, Oregon. The event took place during a picnic and was the chief attraction of the day. The bull was found guilty. The 200 spectators rendered an additional verdict, unanimously, that the work of the boys and girls was extremely creditable.

In reporting the event to the United States Department of Agriculture J. R. Beck, county agent of Lincoln county, Oregon, described a scrub-bull exchange plan recently inaugurated. Under this plan the owners of pure bred cattle list their surplus bull crop to scrub-bull owners at a flat price of $30 each if taken by the time the bull calves are six weeks old. The purchaser must agree to butcher his scrub bulls as soon as the pure bred calf is old enough for service.

Cause of Lumpy Milk

The usual cause of a cow giving lumpy milk is the inflammation of that quarter of the udder from which the bad milk comes. Ordinarily this condition will not continue for a very long time. Incomplete milking is often the cause. The application of turpentine and lard, or camphorated buhrl cant will aid materially in restoring the udder to its normal condition. The administration of epsom salts is also advisable, as the bowels are apt to be sluggish.

Mrs. Mary A. VanDusen

In loving memory of our dear wife, mother and grandmother, who departed this life one year ago today, July 15, 1924:

"Dearest wife, mother and grandmother, you have left us;
Gone into the light that shines so fair,
Gone from this earth of sorrow and care,
Resting those dear hands that did their best;
Gone, dear wife, mother and grandmother, gone to rest.
You bade no one a last farewell,
You said goodbye to none;
Left the home you loved so well,
How much we loved you no tongue can tell.
God loved you, too, and thought it best
To take you home with Him to rest.
How we miss your gentle footsteps,
How we miss your dear, sweet face,
Your cheery smiles and kindly ways
Are a pleasure to recall;
You had a kind word for all.
Dearest mother, how we long for you,
But some day we hope to meet you
And together we shall dwell.
Dearest wife, mother and grandmother you are gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember,
None on earth can take your place.
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill."

From Those who miss her most.

POLITICIANS AND UNREST

The recent visit of President Coolidge to the northwest, followed so closely by the death of Senator La Follette, acknowledged leader of discontent in this country, will probably have a tremendous bearing on that section of the country which for years has been fertile soil for the growth of radicalism in this country. Radicalism in the northwest had its inspiration in the economic difficulties of the people, but the real trouble was to be found in the politicians who sought to capitalize existant unrest into actual attacks on national institutions. We do not hear so much nowadays of the non-partisan league or Townleyism, but we know that there is a steady propaganda going on throughout the country, backed by Moscow, and by our own trouble-makers, looking to the promotion of the Russian idea, even after that idea has proved to be merely a bubble, a snare, and a disaster. The supreme indifference of our people to what they regard as minor matters has long been noted, but it is equally true that they are fundamentally sound, devoted to the Constitution and to the institutions of the United States and if ever they are driven to anger by direct attacks on our form of government, there will be short shrift for those who make such an attack. In the meantime, the poison of communism is pereolating through our schools and colleges and even through our churches. Labor unionism has always been a fertile field and today our so-called intellectuals, who set themselves apart as a privileged group, are preaching the doctrine of unlimited license, and no government or social restraint. It is time to realize the situation.

GASOLINE VS. STEAM

The Pere Marquette railroad last week announced that hereafter trains running between Grand Ledge and Lansing would be freight and passenger mixed, the new schedule calling for one train a day each way and with no attempt at prompt connection with main line trains at Grand Ledge. Until this action the Big Rapids-Ionia division was considered one of the important links in the great Michigan system of the Pere Marquette and plainly shows how complete is the surrender made to bus transportation. At the present time, there may be a tendency to let this be the problem for the railroads alone to solve, but the time is near at hand when every railroad system in Michigan will be forced to follow a similar course and transportation will be so seriously affected that the entire state will suffer as a consequence. Every community in Michigan, now being served by a railroad, has a real problem confronting it. It is easy to occupy a seat in a bus during the balmy days of summer and autumn, but when the winter storms are over the world the old passenger coach again becomes the haven of our desire when we would journey hither and yon. The bus is with us and it will remain, but in our desire to accept this mode of transportation we should not forget at the same time it is to our interest to see that the railroads of this state are protected from complete financial collapse.

PROTECT THIS CUMMUNITY

Peddlers selling everything from mouse traps to rain coats ply their trade in this community with regularity and with more or less success. Dresses and lingerie, silk hose and salve, coffee and vacuum cleaners, all are distributed by the ardent callers who work on women with their various wiles.

We ought to remember, when these folks call, that the men who are paying the bulk of our town taxes to keep things going, and through whose efforts the town is the good place to live in it is, are selling the same articles of probably better quality at lower prices. It isn't fair to pay cash to the peddler and make the home merchant wait. It isn't fair to the merchant to buy of peddlers at all.

The old-fashioned gent who ust to daub a little stove polish on his brogans on a Sunday morn, now has a son who thinks it's a mere trifle to shoot fourteen shekels for a pair of golf shoes.

GOOD ROADS

BIG VALUE OF GOOD ROADS IN ARKANSAS

The value of good roads has been clearly demonstrated to the residents of Phillips county, Arkansas, by the recent completion there of 61 miles of concrete pavement. The county is largely dependent for its progress upon the cotton and sweet potato crops. There are two seasons when cotton needs extra labor. Formerly it was the practice to hire negro families temporarily, housing them on the plantation. Nowadays it is hard to find families for this temporary work. Last year the cotton crop was saved by hauling bus and truck loads of women and children from Helena to the cotton fields each morning and taking them back that night. Laborers would work that way who would not live upon the plantation. Without the concrete roads this transportation would have been impossible.

In former years sweet potatoes were taken to market as soon as they were dug, because if they were stored to wait for higher prices the roads would get so rough the potatoes would be bruised and spoiled in transport. Now planters have big storage rooms and sell potatoes when the price is best, getting double what they have received during the summer months.

Traveling over the concrete pavement a truck will haul 100 crates of sweet potatoes to town, making four trips of 25 miles each a day. Before the pavement was built it would have required four mule teams to do the same work now done by the one truck.

Phillips county, says Sebastian Strnub of Helena, Ark., in describing the benefits of the new road system in the Concrete Highway Magazine, lies in the crotch formed by the confluence of the Mississippi and White rivers.

"The soil," he explains, "is an alluvial deposit varying from a sandy loam to gumbo. The lower end of the country is subject to overflow by backwater from the Mississippi. Originally the land was entirely covered by a dense growth of timber. Lumbering first removed the valuable trees, then some farms were cleared and planted to cotton or corn. This latter development has occurred within the last ten years, and there still are great tracts of uncleared land which, if developed, could be made into some of the richest cotton plantations in the state.

"One drawback has been the difficulty of getting to the more remote corners of the county. The earth roads, raised but little above the surrounding low land, are often impassable to loaded vehicles for eight months in the year. During that time people go to and from town on the train or horseback. Even in good weather six miles were required to pull a two or three-ton load over an earth road to the nearest railway siding and a 12-mile trip to town required the whole day. On that account much of the good farm land lay as the lumberman had left it, covered with small trees and underbrush."

The new 61-mile concrete highway which connects Helena with the outlying sections is 14 feet wide, but on curves it is 19 feet in width, to conform with standards of the United States bureau of roads. The pavement is six inches thick.

In the past nearly all cotton was hauled to the nearest railway siding and shipped directly to Helena. Now, however, farmers can haul forty or fifty miles to Helena, load their cotton on a boat bound for New Orleans and save 20 per cent of the rail freight charges, or about $3,050 on a 7,500 to 10,000-ton cargo.

Influence of Hard Roads

The influence of paved highways is reflected in better farming conditions. Those farmers fortunate enough to be near a newly paved road can turn from the staple farm products and develop those types of farming which bring better and quicker returns. On the unimproved roads truck gardening is usually limited to a radius of 2 or 3 miles from the city market. But with the coming of paved roads and the use of trucks this radius is extended to 10, 15 and in some cases 20 miles from the market. Naturally the value of the land in this radius is considerably increased.

Last Toll Bridge

The bridge across the Mississippi river from Fulton, Ill., to Clinton, Iowa, is the only toll bridge in the Lincoln highway system between New York and San Francisco. The bridge was erected about forty years ago and it cannot meet the present needs of traffic. Efforts are being made to replace it with a new $1,000,000 bridge. A toll of 15 cents a person is exacted.

Make Tractor Pay Board

Every farmer who owns a tractor should plan to use it as much as possible during the winter season. Sawing wood, grinding feed, shelling corn and hauling are among the duties to which the tractor can now be put. It is much easier and warmer to grind one's own feed at home than it is to drive several miles to a feed mill in cold weather. Naturally, the number of jobs available to the tractor in winter time is limited the same as is true of the horse.

MOTOR BOAT RACES TO FOLLOW REGATTA

August 1st Is Date Set for Power Craft Contest

On August 1st, following the regular regatta, a series of motor boat races will be held on Pine Lake. It is expected that some 15 locally owned motor boats will be entered for these races and there will be some 12 or 15 entries in the outboard motor class. For the latter, the Johnson Motor Company of South Bend, Indiana, are putting up the cup, through their local agent, the Brady Boat Company. These races should prove exciting and interest a large number of spectators. Vessels equipped with outboard motors have attained a speed of twenty-one miles per hour.

A serious attempt is being made to organize a motor boat club in Charlevoix, as this will entitle local boat owners to membership in the Mississippi Power Boat Association, the west's largest organization of its kind.

FARM POULTRY

BREEDERS ENTITLED TO COMPLETE REST

Both the males and females in the breeding pens having fully done their duty during the summer are now entitled to a well-earned rest. It is imperative that they be permitted to fully recuperate at this time if they are to prove worthy breeders again next season. The numerous progeny disporting themselves on the range is ample proof of the past labors of the breeding birds.

This strain on the fowls that comprised the breeding pens has been no small one, so we should allow them a complete rest and provide for their every comfort. It is extremely unwise to still persist, as some do, in encouraging the fowls to keep up laying by feeding stimulating foods. The breeding birds are entitled to a good rest and the conscientious poultryman will see that they get it.

The first thing in order then, is the breaking up of the pens and the separating of the sexes. The females should by all means now be freed of the annoyance of the males. It is essential to their obtaining a complete rest. The females can now be run together and given the use of the range. A range with plenty of green stuff offers an ideal place in which the hard-worked females may spend their summer vacation. Little attention need be given them, merely seeing to it that they have sufficient feed, clean, cool water, and comfortable, vermin-free sleeping quarters.

The food ration of these breeders should be such as not to stimulate production. Only two meals a day need be provided, but they should be full meals. While no surplus of food is needed for egg production now, yet sufficient quantities should be provided to enable the fowls to grow their new feathers, for molting will now be in order. And the tissues, affected by the wearing labors of production, must undergo repairs at this time, and the proper food and in sufficient quantities, are essential. When the fowls have liberal range, the animal and vegetable food secured by them will benefit them greatly.

The male birds should be penned apart and given roomy pens, so they may obtain the necessary exercise. If it is possible to arrange it so the males can also have the use of the range, it will be just so much better for them. It is always good policy to take the very best of care of the male, as he is always half of the pen. We have only one male where we have ten or more females. When we lose a good male we lose half our pen and often more—very much more—for often a male as good in every respect cannot be secured to replace him. Therefore it will readily be seen that to lose a good pen header for any reason is to sustain a big loss. A little extra pains exercised in the care of our pen headers, after the breeding season is over, will be time and labor well spent. It is preferable to have small runs for each male and have the runs covered with some suitable tha sun and weather.

It is a good plan at this time to cull out the less desirable hens. With the hens kept for laying purposes only it is a good plan to cull out those that have had their second laying year. It is seldom that they prove profitable after this when kept for laying only.

DRESSING TURKEYS OF BIG IMPORTANCE

[Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.]

The need for taking special care in dressing and packing turkeys for market this year, in view of the abundant supplies, is pointed out by the United States Department of Agriculture. The quality of live turkeys coming to tha Washington market last season was generally satisfactory, but many shipments of dressed birds showed carelessness in killing, dressing and packing, the department says. Many of the turkeys, although well-fleshed and of good quality otherwise, were poorly bled, resulting in discoloration, poor appearance and low prices.

The department commends producers and shippers who kept off the market thin or poorly developed live turkeys, pointing out that such birds could not have been satisfactorily marketed. The few weeks between the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons will give opportunity for birds of this kind to flesh and fill out, thus making them more in demand and to bring a better price.

Some of the dressed turkeys were carelessly dressed, resulting in broken bones, torn skin and bruised flesh; others indicated a combination of defects and made it difficult to dispose of the birds at a price which they would easily have brought had they been properly dressed. The department urges that the turkeys be carefully dressed so that they reach the market in a neat, attractive appearance that will appeal to buyers.

Many of the birds which have been well handled were poorly packed. Shippers should be careful to see that the turkeys are thoroughly cooled out before packing, as otherwise conditions frequently develop that result in loss of the birds and nearly always in lower prices, the department says. If turkeys are not dry picked and shipped under proper refrigeration, it is desirable that they be ice-packed, particularly if weather conditions indicate unfavorable changes. It is poor economy to take chances with valuable shipments, and carelessness in any of the details necessary to put the birds on the market in good condition frequently results in loss and waste all the way from producer to consumer.

The Christmas trade is problematical, but producers and shippers should realize that high quality birds properly cared for are always in much greater demand than ordinary turkeys and turkeys which show carelessness in dressing or shipping to market, the department says. Particularly when the commodity is in abundant supply, neglect of these details results in loss, inasmuch as only attractive and high quality produce can be sold to advantage.

Ventilation Is Needed for Health of Poultry

Ten hens breathe off more than a pint of water a day. Are you providing ventilation to get this out of the house, or do your hens take a cautious cold bath day and night without a towel for a rub down? Even you would get the roup under such conditions. Watch out for moisture on the windows and frost on the walls. Put in 1 square foot of this cloth curtain to every 15 square feet of floor. Keep this curtain open whenever weather permits. Drafts and damp air and floors cause more colds than zero weather. Exercise helps to prevent colds. Light feeding in a clean, dry litter 8 inches deep induces exercise.—O. C. Krum, Colorado experiment station.

Cure for Scaly Leg

The oil drained out of the crank case of an auto is excellent for controlling scaly leg or for painting roosts, etc., to control mites, says G. L. Stevenson, professor of poultry husbandry at South Dakota State college. A rough, scaly condition of the hens' feet and legs is often thought to be an evidence of age, whereas in reality it may be a diseased condition brought about by the activity of a kind of mite which burrows under the scales of the legs and sets up an irritation finally resulting in the condition indicated.

Nebraska farm poultry flocks which had had two years of care and management by improved methods which are a part of the accredited farm-flock work conducted by the co-operative agricultural extension workers, gave their owners an average increased return of $81 per flock over the returns of flocks which had had little care only one year, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture of the work in 1923.

Live Stock Facts

The loss of little pigs will mean the loss of big profits.

• • •

• • •

Too much skim milk or too much thin slop tends to produce a "pot-bellied" type of pig. Middlings should not make up too much of the ration for either the sow or the pigs for it causes the pigs to scour.

A Buyer's Advantage

MICHIGAN CROPS STILL ON DECLINE

EVERY CROP BELOW THE TEN YEAR AVERAGE

Rains Came Too Late to Materially Help Grain, Hay and Pastures —The Official Report

Michigan crop prospects have continued to decline during June, with the exception of grapes which maintained the June 1 condition figure. Every crop is below the ten-year average and all except corn were below the July 1 condition of last year, according to the monthly statement issued recently by L. Whitney Watkins, commissionor of agriculture, and Verne H. Church, U. S. agricultural statistician. General rains in northern Michigan and local showers in other sections were beneficial, but they came too late to materially help gain, hay and pastures except in a few northern counties. The drought over much of lower Michigan on July 1 was the severest in more than thirty years.

Corn: The acreage remains the same as that of last year, 1,686,000. While a slightly larger acreage was intended, adverse weather conditions and poor germination in late planted fields offset the increase. Early planted fields on good soil are showing good stands, excellent color, and a normal growth. The condition of 81 per cent is four par cent below normal and ten per cent better than one year ago. This outlook, if followed by average weather to the end of the season, would result in a production of 53,261,000 bushels, nearly ten millions more than the 1924 crop.

Wheat: Winter wheat lost ten points in conditions during the month, the percentage being 65, equivalent to a production of 12,579,000 bushels as compared with 19,888,000 last year. Harvest began during the closing days of June, a little earlier than usual. The straw is short, many fields have quite thin stands and a considerable proportion of small heads. Indications point to the lowest yield per acre recorded since 1912. The condition of spring wheat is 80 per cent, or a forecasted production of 112,000 bushels against 126,000 in 1924. It is estimated that six per cent of all wheat produced in 1924 is still on farms.

Oats: The straw is extremely short and many fields will be difficult to harvest with the usual machinery. The outlook is for 59 per cent of a crop as compared with a condition of 78 per cent one month ago, 84 per cent one year ago, and 84 per cent the ten-year average. This indicates a crop of 38,997,000 bushels, more than 28 millions less than last year, and the smallest production since 1921.

Potatoes: According to correspondents' reports, the acreage planted is ten per cent less than last year. Most of the early planted fields have good stands but dry wheather has affected the germination of the later plantings and the fields are uneven. The preliminary estimate is 263,000 acres, and the present condition figure of 83 per cent is equivalent to a crop of 22,920,000 bushels, the smallest production since 1916. Last year's crop was 38,252,000 bushels.

Beans: An increase of 12 per cent over last year in the acreage planted is indicated by the reports from correspondents. A greater increase would undoubtedly have resulted if drought had not prevented some planting and germination of some that were planted. The early fields have good stands but the later planted ones are more or less uneven. High winds did some local damage in certain sections. The condition of 82 per cent is five per cent below the average and is equivalent to a production of 6,396,000 bushels from the 624,000 acres devoted to the crop.

Hay: The condition of tame hay dropped from 71 per cent on June 1 to 45 per cent at the end of the month. On this basis, the production indicated is 2,328,000 tons as compared with 5,010,000 last year. Many old meadows were a failure and some of last year's seedings were but little better. Alfalfa is demonstrating its high value to Michigan farmers through its greater ability to withstand drought. Its condition is 73 per cent against 41 par cent for clover and timothy.

Sugar Beets: Some stands are good and others poor. Considerable replanting was necessary but thinning operations are well advanced. Many fields are withstanding the drought very well. The condition is 75 per cent as compared with 84 one year ago and 88 the ten-year average.

Pastures: Pastures are very dry, especially on rolling lands, and some farmers have been forced to either feed their stock or turn them into meadows and grain crops. The condition is 53 per cent as compared with an average of 87.

Fruits: Apples show fairly good prospects in many northern orchards but conditions elsewhere are quite spotted.

The peach crop is estimated at 640,000 bushels as compared with 464,000 last year. Conditions are very spotted, the crop being confined mainly to orchards on favored locations.

Pears have dropped heavily during June, and now show only 32 per cent of a crop, or 463,000 bushels as compared with 810,000 last year.

Blackberries and raspberries have been and still continue to be the most promising of any of the fruits, but dry weather has lowered the condition to 65 per cent of a crop as compared with 87 per cent last year.

The melon outlook is rated at 60 per cent in comparison with a ten-year average of 80 per cent.

AT THE MOVIES

"The Thundering Herd" is Historical Action Romance

"The Thundering Herd," which comes to the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday, is bound to appeal to all levels of humanity. It will be hailed with the keenest delight by the average movie-goer because it contains some brand new thrills and bristles with exciting action. It will meet with the universal favor of the younger generations because it combines just the right proportions of drama and romance. And it is certain to attract the scholar and student because of its historical background.

The picture is based on Lucien Hubbard's adaptation of Zane Grey's famous novel, and is a story of the lawless west of 1870-76, when vast herds of buffalo roamed the plains and the Indian war cry was a thing of terror.

Greater Than Play

As a stage play, presented several years ago, "The Warrens of Virginia," was interesting and proved successful, but when compared to the new William Fox screen version, which comes to the Palace Theatre next Monday, the motion picture comes out with flying colors.

The picture was directed by Elmer Clifton, who staged "Down to the Sea in Ships," and other recent photoplay successes.

The screen's best actor of western roles in a story by America's greatest writer of western fiction. Coming to the Majestic Theatre next Saturday and Sunday. Bret Harte's famous hero, "Tennessee Pardner," brought to life on the screen by Harry Carey, foremost interpreter of the Eternal West.

Height of Happiness Found in Contentment

Oh, happy day for him who gives up striving to outshine his fellows and settles down content to be himself! And when abates the fever of possession and he perceives that the riches of the rich, the joy of the happy and the strength of the strong are his as well, then indeed for him has the millennium dawned. Then shines the sun for him; for him blooms the rose; for him the waters murmur and the wind sighs in the forests or croons to the rustling corn. He shares the speed of the trout and the song of the wren. He welcomes the souls that are coming and bids Godspeed to the souls that are parting. Alone on the mountain or one of the crowd, everywhere is he in touch with the heart of humanity. All joys are his joys; all sorrows are his to assuage. Child is he with childhood, everywhere. To him flow the love and heroism of the world, for he has no longer a private and particular life. His bark has sunk "to another sea"—sails now on the serene and smiling waters of the Universe.—Stanton Davis Kirkham in "The Ministry of Beauty."

Letter Writing Nation

In the United States on the average each person dispatched last year 112 letters; the English figures were only eighty-four per head. For Germany the figure was twenty-five, and for Italy twenty-four per head.

Buy Across The Counter

WHEN you buy across the counter in the stores of this town, you are using good business judgment. Why? There are many reasons, but one of the most important is this:

You can buy what you want at the price you wish to pay. You are not obliged to accept "something just as good," because you are in a position to compare values and make your own selections.

When you trade at home you are helping your friends to help you. And there is no finer thing in life than neighborly co-operation. It always pays—in happiness and satisfaction as well as dollars and cents.

MRS. WILLIAM SEYMOUR DEAD

WELL-KNOWN RESIDENT DIED AT AGE FORTY-EIGHT

Hopes for Her Recovery Disappointed by Rapid Decline at End of Illness

Josephine Genett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maxim Genett, was born at the latter's farm home in Norwood township, June 29, 1877. She was married to William Seymour of the same community, June 10, 1895. To this union one son, Verail, was born.

The community was shocked at the news of Mrs. Seymour's death, which occurred on Thursday, July 9, 1925, although it came at the end of a three weeks' illness. It was believed that she was recovering, for the evening before she spent in the living room visiting with the family and friends. But a change was noticeable the next morning and, shortly after the noon hour, before her mother was able to summon help or the members of her family, the end came.

She was a faithful member of St. Mary's church and of the Altar Society of this city and as a wife and home maker for her family she will indeed be greatly missed.

Besides her husband and Versil, she is survived by her mother, two brothers—Plenny Genett of Norwood township and Reed Genett of Bellaire, and a large number of relatives and friends.

The funeral service was held at St. Mary's church at 9:00 a. m., Saturday, July 11th, the Rev. Fr. L. Wegenar officiating. Interment was made in the Catholic cemetery.

Among those from out of town who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Supernaw, Mrs. Dan Bacot, Mrs. Lillian Yettaw and children from Flint; Mr. and Mrs. John Waffle from St. Ignace; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kidder and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Holecheck from Cadillac.

GOOD MUSIC AT THE BEACH HOTEL

Florentine Trio Makes Hit Among Summer People

The dance and concert music at the Beach Hotel this season is certainly the finest ever offered there and far surpasses any other music in this part of the country.

The dance orchestra under the direction of Mr. Bernie Nieder, keeps the steppers stepping on every number and especially on such numbers as "My Sugar," "See You in My Dreams" and "Copenhagen." And the way they put on "Oh Kathrina" would make Paul Whitman envious The boys are all fine musicians, full of pep and snap and their neat appearance immediately wins admiration from the audience.

The concert music is furnished by the Florentine Trio, a superb combination of three excellent artists, namely: Miss Margaret Conrad, violinist; Miss Hilda Hinrichs, cellist, and Mr. Preston Graves, pianist.

Never have resorters had the opportunity of enjoying such a wonderful ensemble. Each member of the trio is a finished artist on their respective intruments and their repertoire ipcludes trios by such masters as Rachmaninoff, Beethhoven, Mozart, Arensky, Liszt, etc.

The trio is becoming immensely popular as evidenced by the great demand for their concerts and also the fact that the sun room and lobby were crowded to overflowing at last Sunday evening's concert.

We understand everyone is welcome to these delightful musicales and it would pay every reader to go and hear them. Their feature programs are given Thursday afternoons from 3 to 5 o'clock and the special on Sunday evenings from 8 to 9:30.

SAYS BRIDGE ST. LIKE NOAH'S ARK

Frank Lamphear Believes a Million Could Be Well Spent

Frank Lamphear arrived Sunday morning by rail from Clearwater, Fla., and will spend a month here visiting his nephew, Lee R. Smith and other relatives and friends. He is stopping at the Bartlett. Mr. Lamphear says if we would spend about a million dollars on Bridge street and the Round Lake waterfront, it would not be too much, and we would get back returns fourfold. He says the street now looks like Noah's Ark.

He quotes William Jennings Bryan, who recently in a public meeting in St. Petersburg, told the assemblage—"You believe you have a beautiful city here and you are correct in this assumption, but I can tell you that there is one spot in the United States more beautiful than St. Petersburg and that is Charlevoix, Michigan."

Mr. Lamphear also made the statement that Charlevoix is sadly in need of more amusement facilities. He said, "We had the same trouble in Clearwater with reactionaries who couldn't see the need of improvements as you have in Charlevoix, but we flooded the place with northerners and outvoted the standpatters and since then we have been steadily progressing."

HOSPITAL NOTES

Mrs. Fred Sutton, of East Jordan, was operated on last Thursday.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Donald T. McHugh of this city, Saturday morning, July 11th, a girl, named Kathleen, weight 8 3-4 pounds.

The following patients have recently been discharged in excellent condition: Paul Ammond, Norma Green, Mrs. Harold Richman and baby daughter, Mrs. Charles Wanek, Mrs. Reuben Pop, Isaac VanderVenter, Theodore Peck, Miss Viola Smith, little Billy Hansen.

A. missionary at large, also secretary of national spiritualists' organization, will be the principal speakers.

The pupils of St. Mary's school will hold a bazaar on August 6th and 7th. Fancy goods, ice cream and cake and other attractions.—28-t3.

NEW "MICHIGAN BOOK" SOON TO BE PUBLISHED

Will Contain All Sorts of Data on Michigan Cities

The Michigan State Teachers' Association is now busy compiling information for a new volume of data regarding Michigan cities which will be published within a few months. The book will be known as the "Michigan Book" and it is believed that it will find its way into the public and school libraries, township libraries, public offices and private homes.

The points to be covered are the following: name of city, population in 1925, location, description, history, noteworthy features, manufacturers, art and architecture, chief street, important citizens, points of interest, local legend, stories, etc., educational system, environs and roads, hotels, transportation, amusements, literature. They are also asking that the committee send maps and all pictures possible of local historic events, roads, farm animals, people, schools, children, prominent men and women, scenery, architecture, fish, birds, forests, buildings, etc.

The returns are to be made not later than September 1st.

The local committee asks that local people with photographs and maps, historical stories, or anything of interest to the book, see that it is turned in to the advertising committee of the Chamber of Commerce or leave at the Courier office.

Bay View Assembly

The detailed program of the Bay View Assembly for the season of 1925 is now off the press and for the convenience of tourists all program numbers are scheduled on central standard (railroad) time. The program includes the usual number of interesting lectures, musical numbers and sermons and an attractive series of motion pictures.

POULTRY

SOUR MILK PRODUCES LARGER SIZED EGGS

It is estimated that approximately one-half of the farm eggs marketed weigh less than 22 ounces to the dozen. This condition can be remedied to a great extent by paying more attention to the balancing of the ration to increase the size of the eggs produced. The poultry department of the University of Idaho, at Moscow, has been working for ten years on the influence of certain feeds on the size of eggs produced. During this period, very definite results have been obtained. It has been found that a combination of wheat, corn and oats in the scratch ration gave larger eggs than a ration of wheat alone, or one in which corn, oats, barley or peas were used with the wheat. The grains ranked in their ability to increase the size of eggs, when fed with the same dry mash, as follows: corn, oats, barley, peas and wheat. When grains were fed without a dry mash, small eggs resulted.

The outstanding results were obtained when certain protein feeds were fed. Pens of single-comb white leghorns gave much larger percentage of marketable eggs, when fed sour skim milk in unlimited quantities than when 20 per cent oatmeal, 20 per cent tankage or 20 per cent peameal were used in the dry mash. When 20 per cent peameal was used in the dry mash and unlimited sour skim milk given only 17 per cent of all of the eggs produced were below 22 ounces to the dozen. When an unbalanced ration was used, containing in the mash only bran, shorts, cornmeal, and ground oats, in equal parts 62 5-10 per cent of the eggs produced were below marketable size. Peameal alone, in the dry mash, did not give any increase in the size of eggs produced over the dry mash not containing it. Eighty-five per cent of the eggs produced were above standard weight, when the dry mash contained 10 per cent meatmeal and unlimited sour skim milk was given. The cost of producing the eggs with this ration was too high, however, and the profits over feed cost did not justify the use of the meatmeal. Tankage in the ration gave a larger percentage of marketable eggs than did meatmeal. Milk whey does not contain sufficient animal protein to give the larger eggs. When dried buttermilk was given with peameal, the eggs produced were large, but the cost of producing was too high.

The largest number of marketable eggs at the lowest feed cost, resulting in the greatest profits, have been obtained by the use of 20 per cent peameal and sour skim milk.

Poultrymen Disagree on Merits of Drawn Fowls

Poultrymen still discuss the relative merits of drawn or undrawn poultry. The practice varies in different communities. Opening the body undoubtedly exposes to the air the internal surface and thus decomposition is hastened. On the other hand, the viscera decompose more rapidly than other parts of the body, and if left in the bird they may taint or infect the rest of the flesh.

In the long series of experiments conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture it was found that undrawn birds spoil the least quickly and that the fully drawn ones from which not only the viscera but the head and feet have been removed, spoil more quickly than the partly drawn ones.

Housing Different Hens

Too often we find hens of all sizes and ages being housed together in one pen, all getting the same feed and same treatment and each expected to do as well in egg production as the other. This method of housing the different hens should not be resorted to, as such methods will not bring in the best returns.

Poultry Hints

A flock of standard bred Barred Plymouth Rocks round out a well-balanced farm program.

• • •

There are undoubtedly more chicks lost each season through overfeeding and killing than through any other one cause.

• • •

The number of eggs a hen will lay per month depends on her capacity to digest food. Do not breed from birds with pinched backs, little depth in rear and which lack fullness in the abdomen.

• • •

Ducks can be profitably bred for four years. Geese can be bred for many years—for a period that seems incredible.

• • •

Where chicks that are hatched from pullet eggs are smaller, they fail to overcome this defect, but make slower growth during the entire season.

• • •

There is perhaps no greater factor contributing to the lowering of the vitality of chicks than the continual breeding from pullets mated to cockerels.

CHARLEVOIX COURIER

VOLUME 32. NUMBER 29. EIGHT PAGES COURIER, CHARLEVOIX, MICH., WEDNESDAY, JULY 22, 1925 PRICE $2.00 PER YEAR

HAS PRACTICALLY A FULL HOUSE

INN MANAGEMENT REPORTS BEST SEASON IN YEARS

Will Exceed All Previous Years for Guests Housed During the Month of July

When President Alfred of the Pere Marquette railroad company made the great improvements to the property of The Inn in 1924, it was probably the key-note of the unusual success of the present season. In an interview with A. I. Creamer, manager of the Inn, we were informed that the hotel opened June 27th with practically a full house. During July the big hotel will entertain more people and guests than ever in its history, this will be possible because the Inn is one of the most beautiful and best equipped hotels in the country.

Looking over the improvements made, we find a modern passenger elevator running in a fire proof brick shaft, this feature alone costing $12,000. All beds in the hotel are equipped with box springs and hair mattresses, and observation shows that they are up to the standard of those found in the best of private homes. The dining room, with its excellent service and good menus, is absolutely de-luxe.

Last season a new garage was erected to take care of the cars belonging to the hotel guests, and is meeting with unusual success in doing this courtesy for the patrons. Think of a garage building costing $25,000 for a three months' business, yet Mr. Alfred did all this for the benefit of the Inn guests.

The new pier constructed on Pine Lake is open to all who wish to bathe and dock their boats en route on trips. It certainly is a wonderful sight on an afternoon to see the kiddies running up and down the sandy beach, and swimming in pure water and listening to the music of the Inn orchestra.

The music at the Inn is exceptionally good for dancing and concerts in the evening. Every other night the dance program is changed, and the casino and the Dutch grill room afford luxurious places to dance in.

A. I. Creamer certainly deserves much credit in making the Inn what it is today, and his guests and friends sincerely congratulate him in maintaining the management of this beautiful hotel. His warm, welcoming hand-shake, and good feeling towards everyone is highly appreciated.

Among the prominent guests who are staying at the Inn this season are the following: Judge L. Rosenfeld, St. Louis, Mo., whose hobby is golf; Judge Harry Hoffheimer and two daughters from Cincinnati, O.; May. Nusbaum, Betty Nusbaum, Jean Simon, S. A. Stye, S. J. Hirsch, Mrs. Wm. A. Thomas, Mrs. G. Forrest Bell, B. E. Burgess, Mrs. Edna Letsinger, Mr. and Mrs. M. Gidwitz, Mr. and Mrs. A. Gidwitz and L. M. Hill and wife, all of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. R. B. King of Detroit; Emilie Seitner and Edward from Saginaw.

M. Malini, the great magician, will give an entertainment for the guests on Saturday evening at eight o'clock.

The members of St. Mary's church will hold their annual bazaar on the 6th and 7th of August. Ice cream and cake will be served and fancy baked goods sold, besides many other attractions.—Adv. 29-t2.

CARRY A SPUD WITH YOU ON YOUR VACATION

An Ontario fisherman's guide, who knows every black bass in northern waters by his first name, has discovered what he says is a sure cure for the agony of sunburn. It's not copyrighted and costs practically nothing. It's merely a sliced raw potato.

He has tried it on hundreds of visiting fishermen and says it has never failed yet. Those who have tried his treatments report that the pain vanishes from the burned skin and a cooling, soothing sensation follows. Furthermore, if used in time, the burned skin does not even blister.

He slices the potato just as though it were to be fried. Then with a slice in each hand, the patient rubs his face and neck vigorously until the pieces dry and new ones are used. One potato will do the trick. No more burning and no more pain.

WILL BROADCAST AT STATION W. H. T.

J. J. Howe Had Been Ill for Only Local Talent

Charlevoix radio fans are sure of hearing some excellent music if they will tune in on WHT, Chicago, Wrigley Building station, Monday evening, July 27, at 7:00 p. m., Chicago time.

In a letter received by the Courier from Miss Annnbel Comfort, one of Charlevoix's talented musicians, she states that on the evening mentioned above a number of her own compositions will be broadcasted from station WHT, besides a program she has arranged to be given by students of the summer session of the American Conservatory of Music. According to Miss Comfort, the program will be well worth hearing, and she urges Charlevoix fans to tune in at this hour.

In connection with the above information, the letter contained the folowing statement: "I have accepted the position as supervisor of music in the public schools at Niles, Michigan, for the coming school year."

ARRESTED FOR JUNK STEALING

FOUR EAST JORDAN MEN APPREHENDED FRIDAY

Emmet County Sheriff Picks Up Men with Two Trucks Loaded with Stolen Goods

A Petoskey dispatch says that a sensational arrest of four men wanted for stealing old iron, machinery and engine room parts from the old brewery building, north of the city, took place at 2 o'clock Friday morning of last week on the streets of Petoskey. Sheriff Carpenter and Police Officer Kurtz apprehended four men aboard two trucks and soon had the men in jail and the two trucks loaded with junk in the Sly garage.

The men taken were Lance Kemp, 32; Ira Olney, 28; Ray Olney, 23, and Archie Olney, 21, of East Jordan.

Officers say the four men admit having taken the junk from the old brewery building, from which much valuable brass, copper and iron fittings have been missed from time to time in the last year.

The men were discovered working at the plant by Frank E. Hazelton, who was at his new home at the intersection of highways M-11 and M-13. Mr. Hazelton was unable to get connections with the sheriff's home, and called Angus Fochtman, who drove in by another route and informed the officers.

Reports from autoists who passed during the late night are that several touring cars were seen leaving the ground shortly before the trucks pulled out.

It is believed officers will make a search at East Jordan and other places for copper and brass parts of the brewery equipment, engines, etc., which have been stolen within the last few months.

The brewery building was practically destroyed by fire some time ago.

FLORENTINE TRIO AT M. E. CHURCH

Will Give Brief Musical Recital Sunday Morning

The Florentine Trio of the Beach Hotel will give a brief musical recital at the Methodist Episcopal church next Sunday morning at 10:30 a. m.

Each member of this trio is an artist of distinct individuality, and they have succeeded in merging their art and personalities to such a degree that their ensemble work has been praised by well known critics.

The trio is superior to others, owing to the fact that they can play the best classics, solo numbers and duets, and give a variety to a program.

Those who attend the Methodist church next Sunday will have the pleasure of listening to very fine music, and also a good address to be given by the pastor.

CHARLEVOIX A BEAUTIFUL PLACE

SUCH IS VERDICT OF SENATOR JAMES COUZENS

Says Evolution Trial Reminds Him of a Two-Ringed Circus—Not Worried About Ancestors

Hon. James Couzens of Detroit, Michigan senator, and J. E. Tausig, president of the Wabash railroad company, were guests at the Belvedere Hotel for a few days last week.

It was not a surprise to one of the Courier representatives when Mr. Couzens made the statement, "I believe that Charlevoix is one of the prettiest resorts that I ever have had the opportunity to visit."

The senator, seeming to be very much at ease and taking quite a fancy to his surroundings, also spoke several times about the beautiful grounds that encircled the hotel. Of course we all know the hobby of such personages, and it was not long before golf was the subject of conversation, and the senator wanted to do his "stuff." We are sure that he did not have to look very far before discovering one of the best golf courses in the state.

Owing to the fact that Mr. Couzen's philosophy is often quoted on the deeper themes of thought of the day, he was asked in regards to his criticism on the "Evolution Trial" that is taking place at Dayton, Tennessee.

The first statement that the senator made on this subject of discussion was put in the form of the interrogative. "Did you ever attend a circus?" Mr. Couzen's opinion was easily interpreted, and it certainly applies to the case exactly. We do not even blame a United States senator, and especially one from our own state, for denunciating that his ancestors are being kept in a zoo today.

Our honored visitor next stated that he doubted very much if any court in the country could hold such a law pertaining to "evolution," as a legal status. Laws made that have appurtenance on the belief of "evolution" are not for a court to decide, but for everyone. Each individual must have his or her own final conception of their creative powers.

One of the main featured sideshows of this "Dayton Circus," we would suggest, that it is a fine advertising bureau for Willism Jennings Bryan, and also for some very prominent lawyers, that would like to know if they are really descendants of the monkey race or not.

Senator Couzens and J. E. Tausig and their party are touring this part of the state to determine just what certain localities need for better transportation. It is their purpose to connect and extend several small un-operating railroad and boat lines that will improve shipping facilities for cities, lake ports, and resorts in northern Michigan.

"Mutt and Jeff" Show Coming

"Mutt and Jeff," advertised as a "joyous jumblo of rip roaring fun," will play in Charlevoix, Tuesday, July 28, on the vacant lot at rear of the Masonic block. The show will start at 8:15, preceded by a concert commencing at 7:30. Vaudeville specialties, music, dancing and singing form the program, which is presented in a large waterproof tent. The management advertises a good clean show.

PARK COMMISSION UP AND DOING

CITY PARK NOW A PLACE FOR RECREATION

Erection of Band Stand, Lunch Tables and New Walks Appreciated by Public

Charlevoix has one of the finest and best located city parks in this part of the state. During the past few weeks there has been many improvements made regarding the upkeep, equipment and general out-lay of the park.

One of the principal improvements being made is a new band stand, that will be able to accommodate our musicians in proper style in any kind of weather, when giving their splendid concerts.

The next main feature of improvement consists of concrete side-walks and steps. At the head of the steps, there will be large brick posts, with over-head lights. This will enable anybody to go through the park down to the beach in comfort, without having to try to act like a leaping deer. Thanks to one of our new park commissioners, William Wallace.

At the west end of the park a new picnic and lunch hall is being constructed with suitable tables to accommodate our out-door patrons who love to nourish a good square feed in God's nature parlor.

Now then folks and outsiders, when you use this picnic-palace as a place to eat, will you please put your paper and other such left-overs in the waste baskets that are put there for that purpose. Let us keep the park just as clean as possible. The park commission and the people in the vicinity of the park also wish that patrons when building fires would be very careful and not build too large a fire and be sure to extinguish it when left.

Next year the park commission plans to develop an extensive playground for children. Swings, roller-go-rounds, slide shoots, etc., will be erected, and bathing facilities more carefully planned for the little ones.

The park commission also states that there will be many prohibitive signs posted throughout the park, such as "No Horse-Back Riding," "No Hunting," etc. These laws must be cheerfully obeyed, or the offender thereof will be duly prosecuted.

The citizens of this city certainly are fortunate in having a live, up-to-date park commission and we sincerely congratulate them in making these improvements.

MOVE TO ORGANIZE BASEBALL TEAM

All Players Are Urged to Get Behind Movement

Baseball fans of the city wish to state that they are trying to organize a club to represent this city for future games.

All prep-school and high school players are eligible candidates for the team and are asked to see John Knight, of the Belvedere Hotel, for try-outs.

If a suitable team can be organized in time, they will have the opportunity to play Central Lake's team, at the north side ball park, at 3:00 p. m. next Sunday.

The Rebekahs will hold a baked goods sale at the Sanitary Engineering Co.'s store, Saturday, July 25.—Adv. 29-t1.

Putting on a New Edge

DEATH TAKES WELL KNOWN RESORTER

Colonel Schoenberg Dead at His Home in St. Louis, Mo.

Colonel M. Schoenberg died suddenly at his winter home in St. Louis, Mo., early Sunday morning at 2:00 a. m. Mr. Schoenberg had for some time been susceptible to apoplexy. Last summer, during his vacation at his summer home on Michigan avenue, he was taken with an attack, but was not seriously stricken. Since that time, however, the Colonel has been the subject to several attacks, the last one being the worst, the Saturday before he succumbed.

Mr. Schoenberg was a strong promoter in making Charlevoix one of the best resorts in northern Michigan, and had one of the finest summer residences constructed in this city.

The Colonel's business interests were mainly connected with the "Mays" department stores of St. Louis, one of the largest in the United States.

DIED FROM SHOCK OF OPERATION

DEATH TAKES ONE OF CHARLEVOIX'S PIONEER WOMEN

Mrs. P. R. Bogart Passes Away at Charlevoix Hospital at Age of Seventy-two

Mrs. P. R. Bogart, mother of William J. and James Bogart of this city, died at the Charlevoix Hospital, Friday morning at 7:30, following an operation for triple goitre performed on Mooday, July 6. Mrs. Bogart's health was such that if immediate relief was not affected she would probably lose her mind. Her advanced age and physical condition, however, proved unequal to the shock, and death relieved her from her sufferings Friday morning.

Catherine Doughtery was born in Martintown, Glengary, Ontario, Canada, August 27, 1853. In the fall of 1870 she moved to Muskoka, where she was united in marriage to Rodney Bogart, August 27, 1872. Coming to Michigan in the spring of 1882, she with her husband settled on a farm in Barnard, Marion township, where they resided until they moved to Kingsley, Michigan, in 1907. She resided there up until three or four weeks ago, this time being spent with a daughter at Central Lake, who took care of her during the latter part of her illness.

She is survived by her husband, P. R. Bogart; six sons, William and James of Charlevoix, Henry of New Lathrop, Edmund of East Jordan, Rev. Amos of Revenna and Ray of Kingsley; four daughters: Cerintha and Ina of Flint, Effie of Central Lake, Mary of Kingsley; and a sister, besides a host of friends who greatly regret her demise.

Funeral services were held from the home of her son, William J. Bogart, Monday, Rev. John Clemens of Traverse City, and Rev. H. R. E. Quant of the local Methodist Episcopal church, officiating. Interment in Brookside cemetery.

And thus we are again called upon to chronical the passing of one of the few remaining pioneers, who braved the hardships of the early days in Charlevoix county. Mrs. Bogart has been a kind and loving mother and lived for those near to her. For this exemplary life the children have given her their respect and esteem in return, and she goes hence with that affection and respect still lingering in their memory.

DESPITE THE SUDDEN STORM IN THE EVENING

Local Band Boys Will Realize a Nice Sum from Entertainment—May Visit Us Again

Roy D. Smith's Royal Highlanders band of St. Petersburg, Florida, arrived in Charlevoix early Wednesday morning in their private car, "Sunshine," and gave a musical program that the people of this city will not forget.

Nearly one thousand spectators witnessed the afternoon concert given at the north side ball park. One of the most prominent features of this entertainment was the two vocal solos sang by Miss Cora Hilton, soprano, "The Story of the Rosary," and "Give Me a Rose to Remember." This last piece of music was written by J. Will Callahan, who has spent the past four years in Bay View and Petoskey. Bobbie Brollie, Scotch tenor, took the cake, so to speak, when it came to singing those old Scotch songs, such as "Blue Eyed Bonny," and "The Reason Why I Wear My Kilts," and was also continuously called back to interpret Harry Lauder. Among the other musicians that drew much applause were John Laulatta, harpist; John Henney, xylophonist; and Eddie Henney, saxophone player.

The evening concert was seriously hazarded by a torrent of rain which came just as the program was under way, and the band immediately had to find other quarters to finish their musicale. Finally, after much confusion, the Belvedere casino was selected to afford accommodations. At the close of the program, everyone was invited to attend the dance given at the Beach Hotel under the auspices of the band's famous saxophone octette, which has been asked to record several of the their best popular numbers by the Okey Record Company.

The band is one of the best organizations of its kind in the country with every member an artist. Each number rendered, by the band or by an individual artist, received most pronounced applause. The program was of a mixed nature, affording pleasure to everyone in the audience.

Many of our citizens are under the impression that our own band lost heavily on account of the weather conditions that prevailed during the evening program and the somewhat small aggregation of people that attended both concerts. This was true in one sense. They did lose a considerable amount on account of the storm, but there was no financial loss on the project itself. When complete returns are accounted, a substantial sum will result to aid the local band boys.

Indeed, the Charlevoix band considered everything a pronounced success and they are going to try and reproduce the same musicale later in the season. If our band can put on such a delightful entertainment for the benefit of the public, why not boost our band's activities and let them know that we are behind them as an asset to our city.?

METHODIST CHURCH

10:30 a. m.—This is a service for worship. The pastor will preach unless otherwise announced. Special music by the Beach Hotel trio. We have been considering the foundation stones of our christianity and discussed the bible, prayer and the church. We will at this time think along the line of confession.

12 o'clock, Sunday school. "The Council at Jerusalem" is the main topic. This early church, the present ecclesiasticism in the making, is being studied now with zest. Read your lesson and come to Sunday school and tell us about it.

7:30 p. m.—This service is full of the good old songs. We spend just an hour. We call upon all of our people to be present. There are excellent congregations. Hear the pastor this Sunday on "What is a Christian?"

8:30, young people's meet. Splendid crowd. The group is growing. The register reveals university and college students from many states. Get in on the summer young people's series. It is a real school of religious instruction.

Young people's prayer meeting every Monday night at 8 o'clock. Learn Psalm 91:1-6.

This Wednesday occurs our second social. In the program we have arranged five. This lawn party, with good ice cream and cake, while second in the series, was second to none in quality.

All the church prayer meeting this Thursday at 8 p. m. Attendance and interest large last week. Spend an hour in the mid-week in prayer.

The Bay View program is on. Copies of bulletin can be obtained at our church. Good, rich, intellectual and spiritual instruction. It is not well to miss all of this if one can take it in.

Charlevoix is surely "The Beautiful." People from distant parts, coming here for the first time, are exubrant in their praise for the cleanliness and beauty of our city.

The trio of the Beach Hotel will render two numbers at our morning service this Sunday. Hear them.

From an address by Rev. James Moffatt:

"Men and women, the christianity of the Lord Jesus Christ is a fire which He came to kindle. 'I came,' He said, 'to kindle a fire.' You and I are not like a group of men upon a lonely moor, kneeling down to prevent a little spot of fire being blown out by the great winds of the world, although to listen to some people you would think we were. The christian church is not nervously engaged in trying to prevent the extinction of christianity from the universe; christianity is in far wiser hands than ours, as it has always been. What you and I have to do is to keep in touch with the fire. The fire will always burn; the question is whether it will burn in our lives, whether it has got material to use in our devotion and thought and perseverance that will enable God to do the work of lighting and warming our age. That is the problem for our service, and that is where we are to learn again the great truth that the christian religion, the christian service implies first-hand acquaintance with God."

Poultry Demonstretion Held on July 14

The first of the series of a 3-day poultry school waa held on July 14th at Arthur Guild's, Charlevoix. Attendance was 27 and represented all sections of the county. J. A. Hannah, poultry specialist, was present and conducted the school in his usual highly capable manner.

Instead of having several two-hour demonstrations in the county as in the past, we are giving the poultry farmers the benefit of 3-days instruction, at which times the subject of culling will be discussed and practiced in detail. Also feeding, housing and managing will be considered. In return each leader will put on a public demonstration in their respective communities so that the work will be within reach of all.

All poultry enthuslasts present were loud in their praise of the demonstration and are anxious to attend the next two meetings.

Sunday and Sabbath

Sunday is the first day of the week aad is celebrated as a day of rest aad worship by the Christian world in memory of the resurrection of Christ oa that day. The reason given for the observance of the seventh day, according to the fourth commandment in the book of Exodus, was the commemoration of God's rest on the seventh day nfter creating the world. In the early Christian church for some time the Jewish Sabbath was observed as well as the Lord's day or Sunday. The Law of Constantine in 321 A. D. first established Sunday as a legal day of rest.

Rare Mollusk Has Drill

A cone of the mollusk family called "Glory of the Sea" is the rarest and most sought specimen of sea shell; only a dozen are known to exist. They are of exceptional beauty. Their ivory background is touched with delicate rose and orange, over which is a marvelous lacelike fretwork of small triangles ranging from yellow to chestnut brown. They are equipped with a proboscis that has 60 sharp teeth arranged in pairs and barbed like fishhooks. With these they can bite or drill into the shells of the other mollusks in order to feed on the defenseless animals within.—The Mentor.

NERVES ALL UNSTRUNG

Charlevoix Folks Should Find the Cause and Correct It.

Are you all worn out? Feel tired, nervous, half-sick? Do you have a constant backache; sharp twinges of pain, too, with dizzy spells and annoying urinary disorders? Then there's cause for worry and more cause to give your weakened kidneys prompt help. Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys.

Charlevoix folks recommend Doan's for just such troubles.

Mrs. Mabel Bassett, 110 Wood St., Charlevoix, says: "I had bearing-down pains in the small of my back and when I stooped to do my housework, knife-like twinges caught me across my kidneys. I felt worn out and gradually became nervous and all out of sorts. My kidneys didn't act regularly, either, but after using Doan's Pills, from Fessenden's Drug Store, I was cured."

WHO ARE THE CORPORATIONS?

There was a time when a corporation was a soulless thing, whose actual human owners could not be located, but this is no longer so. A corporation today is an aggregation of business men, wage earners, school teachers, doctors, lawyers, farmers, who unite their savings in order to create a prosperous business. A corporate share of stock is a fine popular investment for all classes of people. We now know corporations by the factories that furnish labor to thousands and thousands of men, by the savings banks that are the trusted depositories of our savings, by the mines and salt blocks and quarries that develop our natural resources. We no longer think that a corporation has no soul; we know now that it has a thousand souls, and we know that it is the greatest ageney for the development of prosperity that a state can have.

Michigan last year charged eorporations six million dollars for the privilege of doing business inside its boundaries. This in addition to the taxes on their property, which they paid like anyone else. Solely for the privilege of being a corporation, Michigan collected that tax. We are not quarreling with that tax, but we do remember how great has been the industrial development of Michigan in the past few years. The automobile industry alone has multiplied, giving employment to thousands and thousands of our young men. It has made Michigan the outstanding industrial state of the union. We are wondering how much more we can charge eorporations for the privilege of doing business in iMchigan, when they can do just as well in any other state in the union. We know of no reason why the automobile belongs to Michigan. Where is the point at which we ean put this corporation tax, at which corporations will begin to withdraw from this state, and we will lose their great revenue, their great payrolls, their great contribution to every state activity? This is a great question, not for the corporation, it is a question for every taxpayer in the state, for everyone who benefits by the fact that here in Michigan we have created this great industrial agency of employment and prosperity.

Suppose Henry Ford or the General Motors withdrew from this atate. The effect would be felt in every hamlet in Michigan. We do not assume that there is a chance of that, but we ought to give some thought to the question whether we might not kill the goose that lays the golden egg by increasing this particular burden.

We think every corporation, just like an individual, should pay his fair amount of state tax on his property, and if direct corporate tax here is not enough, then it should be raised, but these special taxes have in them elements of danger. Wisconsin taxed hundreds of industries out of that state and is now reaping the whirlwind of unwise tax legislation. We should avoid a similar experience here in Michigan.

RAILROAD TAXES IN 1924 HIGHEST IN HISTORY

Taxes paid by the big railroads of the country in 1924 were the greatest in history. Reports filed with the interstate commerce commission, tabulated by the bureau of railway economics and published recently, show that taxes paid by the Class 1 railroads last year were $349,342,067. This was an increase of $8,426,608, or 2.5 per cent over the amount paid in 1923. The tabulation of the bureau of railway economics brings out that while there is a net increase in the taxes paid by the Class 1 carriers, federal taxes were slightly lower than in 1923. The net increase was due to state taxation. Of the total amount paid, $256,945,732, or nearly 80 per cent, went to the states. In thirty-five states, chiefly those where there is greatest railroad mileage there was an increase for the year of more than 7 per cent. In only thirteen states was there any decrease of railroad taxation reported to the interstate commerce commission. This state of affairs emphasizes the admonition of President Coolidge that while the federal government is decreasing expenditures and taxes, the state governments are piling up both items. Of the tax bill of the railroads in 1924, $73,367,510 was paid to the federal government. This was a decrease of $3,700,000, or nearly 5 per cent, compared with 1923. The average daily tax bill of the railroads in 1924 amounted to $929,896. Out of each hundred dollars of operating revenue obtained by the railroads during that year $5.80 went for taxes. In 1923, the average taxes daily amounted to $909,357. Of each hundred dollars of operating revenue, $4.40 was taken. Taxes paid by the railroads in 1923 were an increase of 187 per cent over the amount paid in 1913, and an increase of 25 per cent over 1920. The tax bill of the railroads in 1924 exceeded by nearly 10 per cent the dividends paid by the carriers to the stockholders. In New York state the railroads paid $22,102,534 in 1924. This was the largest of any state. Illinois ranked second with $20,043,496; Ohio third with $18,723,906; New Jersey fourth with $16,946,127; California fifth with $12,854,397; Indiana sixth with $11,867,979; and Pennsylvania seventh with $10,884,197.

TIME TO CHECK UP

Eleven years have passed since the first gun was fired in the World war, and for the first time in all that period can we be said to have reached the stable, economic basis prevalent before the universe was so suddenly and tragically plunged into that malstrom of death and destruction.

Now is a good time to stop and check up on our present condition. We are at peace with the world; our finances were never in better shape, labor is more generally employed at good wages than in all our past history. Economically and industrially we are strongest we have ever been; our imports and exports reveal a more nearly level basis than was possible for us to have as the storehouse of the world, feeding and clothing people engaged in each other's destruction.

Government securities were never higher and the demand for them by the small investor is reaching unheard of proportions. Given good crops, sensible and sane legislation and we will attain now heights in national development. It is time that the government confine itself to governmental affairs, and not so much to the private affairs of our citizens.

We are the most happy, properous and contented of any nation in the world. Nowhere is opportunity so profuse in her gifts as here in America, yet there are those who would go about sowing the seeds of discontent; who would give us experimental legislation at a time when it would be most ruinous; who would exchange our present form of government and throw this nation into chaos.

What our people most need is the opportunity to work out their own destinies without hindrance; we do not want paternalism that saps away our manhood; we are willing and able to stand upon our own feet. We can retain the splendid things we now have only by eternal vigilance. It is time that we checked up on our manifold blessings and drove from our shores those who would tear down this great structure of free government that has been raised in America.

UNIONISM MUST DEVELOP DIFFERENT TYPE OF LEADERSHIP

It may not be amiss to make a suggestion to unionist leaders throughout the country who would avoid the chaotic disintegration of their own organizations. All large organizations of workers today have accumulated funds and invested them. The administration of their savings demands a different type of agitator and labor politician. If organized labor is to operate banks, coal mines, office buildings, and sit on the directorate of railroads in which it has stock interest, it must develop financiers, executives, and administrators who can conserve its property, and this inevitably means a new breed of leadership and a new point of view. The days when Gompers swayed, directed and controlled the organization through personality and adroitness and through his influence with a certain type of politician, have died with him. A new unionism must be developed which will recognize economic relations and laws. The death of Gompers and La Follette ends a period. A new day is here, and unionism must meet it not merely in a conscientious spirit or in a spirit of Americanism, but in a spirit of intelligent consideration for itself, for industry, for the country.

COMPENSATION

There has been considerable agitation in certain quarters in recent months seeking an increase in the rate paid injured employees under the state compensation act. Investigation of the compensation of several states, both industrial and agricultural, reveals that Michigan is among the most liberal states in the union in dealing with the injured employees. Recently an investigation was made for the purpose of ascertaining the amount per case paid out by the various states where this information was obtainable, the committee reporting as follows:

Michigan	$200.42
Wisconsin	172.00
Minnesota	133.00
Massachusetts	139.62
Ohio	47.24
Illinois	109.20
California	192.93

It would appear from the foregoing table that Michigan has been extremely liberal with the man who is injured while at work. Not only has he been liberally paid for the injury received, but there seems to be a precedent in this state that personal interest in the injured employee does not end with the payment to him under the compensation act, but which is continued long afterwards for his benefit and advancement.

OUR OWN MICHIGAN

Recent rains over the land of the Wolverine have given promise to splendid crops this fall. Despite the extremely dry weather during the fore part of the spring and early summer, everything now indicates we were more scared than hurt and that we will be bounteously rewarded for our labors again by Mother Nature. There seems to be something peculiar to Michigan soil and atmosphere that keeps us from a complete crop failure during any single year. Other states suffer much more than we do and when they come around telling of the wonderful advantages of Florida or California it is a good plan to pass them on the other side of the street. There is no greater state in the union for real opportunity than right here at home. Get that story over to your boy and girl and have them planning for a business career right here in the land of their nativity.

AT THE MOVIES

Huge "Quo Vadis" Film Coming

The locale of "Quo Vadis," First National'a new and gigantic picturization of Henryk Sienkiewicz's novel, which comes to the Palace theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday, unfolds a most sensational, thrilling and dramatic story.

The scenes, varying from pagan pomp to Christian simplicity, lend the picture a powerful religious significance, as well as a love story that has become a classic.

Colleen Moore's latest starring vehicle, "So Big," which comes to the Palace theatre next Saturday and Sunday, brings with it a cast resembling a veritable "Who's Who of Filmdom."

Colleen's support includes such screen luminaries as Ben Lyon, John Bowers, Wallace Beery, Jean Hersholt, Sam De Grasse, Gladys Brockwell, Rosemary Theby, Phylis Haver and other favorites.

"So Big" was adapted from Edna Ferber's novel, and was directed by Charles Brabin under the supervision of Earl Hudson.

Aileen Pringle is known as one of the best-dressed women on the screen. She is the fashion leader in the social and motion picture sets in Hollywood and will be seen in some of her attractive and unique creations at the Palace theatre on Monday in "His Hour," the Elinor Glyn story which King Vidor directed for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

MAJESTIC THEATRE

Tom Mix Returns

There probably will never be any story-book character more appealing —especially in the feminine mind— than a good bad man, a beloved outlaw, a generous bandit. For that reason, if for no other, "The Deadwood Coach," the William Fox production, which comes to the Majestic theatre next Saturday and Sunday, is destined to be popular.

The story is adapted from the famous stage play, "The Orphan," and Tom Mix, on Tony, rides triumphantly through scene after scene filled with hair-raising incidents with all the gay abandon of his old time films.

So Mix is back again on Tony, riding hard, shooting straight and leaping from crag to crag to make rescues which make the heart beat fast and the pulses thrill.

BANDITS HOLD UP ELK RAPIDS BANK

Escape with About $2,000 and Some Bonds

Two young bandits held up an Elk Rapids bank shortly after the noon hour Monday and escaped in an old Ford touring car. Last seen they were headed south towards Traverse City.

The men, one a youth about 18 years old and the other a man of thirty, were seen about Elk Rapids some two or three days prior to the holdup, but no one learned their name nor where they were from.

The two entered the bank, pulled down the door curtain, covered the cashier, teller and bookkeeper with a revolver, and backed the trio into a rear room where one remained guard, while the other proceeded to scoop up all money, securities and bonds in sight.

Ernest Schuler, son of the teller, witnessed the robbery from across the street and spread the alarm. Both men hurriedly left the bank, jumped into their car, and drove out of town at a terrific speed.

A check-up revealed a loss of nearly two thousand dollars, besides about two hundred dollars in un-negotiable securities. An organized man hunt was immediately established and a concerted effort made to apprehend the men, but as we go to press, no trace of them has been found.

CHEBOYGAN GETS NEW FLYING FIELD

Station Officially Dedicated Friday and Saturday

One of the most important events for northern Michigan in many years took place at Cheboygan on Saturday of last week, when the first northern Michigan flying field was dedicated.

The field is Cheboygan's own field, municipally owned, and is located at the foot of Duncan Bay. The location allows for both land and water type planes. The celebration in connection with the affair continued through Sunday, flyers coming from Detroit and remaining over for the Sunday doings.

The opening of the field is the outgrowth of the work of Detroit business men. The move is the first organized effort to give northern Michigan a field to take care of the increasing number of aircraft coming to resorts in this section.

PITCHED A NO HIT NO RUN BALL GAME

Former C. H. S. Pitcher Takes Mackinaw Into Camp

Dagwell was in the box for Brutus and pitched a no hit no run game, striking out nineteen men. The score at the end of the ninth inning was 13 to 0 in favor of Brutus.

Dagwell, a graduate of the 1925 C. H. S. class, did splendid work for the local team while here, but seems to have blossomed out into a real pill twirler.

OPENING WAS A DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

The "Rendezvous" Filled with Delighted Guests

The opening of the Rendezvous at "Mont's" place Monday evening was a very delightful affair and was enjoyed by all patrons.

The remodeling and decorating of the Rendezvous is very unique, the colors being blue and cream, and it is an attractive place to dine and dance in. There are about twenty-five tables for guests, and plenty of room for after dinner dancing.

The menu offered at the Rendezvous is superb and served in de-luxe order.

The Belvedere orchestra furnished the music at the opening of the Rendezvous, and it is considered as one of the best places in this city to entertain one's guests for an evening.

DAIRY FACTS

SILOS IMPORTANT FOR FEEDING COWS

Business farmers and experiment stations have found that a silo not only increases the yearly profits of the farm but eliminates many uncertainties of live stock raising; and dairy farmers are realizing more and more the place of the silo in the successful feeding of dairy cows.

Many products which if fed dry have little feed value are converted into splendid feed by a silo, says W. J. Keegan, extension dairy husbandryman at Clemson college, in discussing the importance of silos in dairying. Sixty per cent of the feeding value of a good corn crop is in the ears and 40 per cent in the stalks and leaves. When the crop is a partial failure, a much greater percentage of the total nutrients is in the roughage, and in the event of protracted drought, the roughage often contains practically all of the food elements. Putting the corn in the crib, therefore, does not mean that the crop is all harvested. Can the farmer afford to waste 40 cents out of every dollar when by putting his corn crop in the silo, he can get its full value, 100 per cent? No.

Silage has no equal as a succulent and economical feed for dairy cattle. It keeps up the flow of milk when pastures are short, and during the winter months it keeps up milk production at less cost than dry forage alone.

The Ohio experiment station has shown that a silage ration produces butterfat for 41 per cent less cost than does a grain ration. Besides, a silo is a very economical storage place, as ten tons of silage can be stored in the same space as one ton of hay.

The filling of the silo can be done in wet as well as in dry weather, while other crops would be entirely lost if harvested under these conditions. If enough silage is produced all the year round, the pasture acreage can be reduced and thus a larger acreage may be used for cultivation.

Another great advantage of the silo is that the land upon which silage is grown is cleared early in the season and ready for fall and winter crops, either rye or oats for winter pasture or oats and vetch for hay. Furthermore, the use of silage during the summer is particularly applicable on high-priced land. In pasture, it requires one to three or more acres a season for each cow, while one acre of corn in the silo will supply succulent roughage for several cows for a like period.

It will not pay to build a silo for less than ten head of dairy cows, but the farmer with at least the minimum number should at once plan to build a silo. The dairy farmer who in the fall has a silo or two full of good corn or sorghum silage, need not worry about what his cows are going to eat.

Average Production of Holstein-Friesian Cows

A total of 20,030 pure bred Holstein-Friesian cows now have completed yearly production records in the advanced registry of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America with an average of 15,603.2 pounds milk and 528.49 pounds butterfat, equivalent to 660.6 pounds butter, according to the report of the superintendent of advanced registry for the last fiscal year recently closed.

The average yearly production for 7,109 full-age cows is 17,548.2 pounds milk and 742.9 pounds butter; for 1,445 senior four-year-olds, 16,540.7 pounds milk and 697.3 pounds butter; for 1,605 junior four-year-olds, 16,011 pounds milk and 678.4 pounds butter; for 1,773 senior three-year-olds, 15,444.3 pounds milk and 651.7 pounds butter; for 1,993 junior three-year-olds, 14,531 pounds milk and 614.5 pounds butter; for 2,312 senior two-year-olds, 13,971.7 pounds milk and 591.7 pounds butter, and for 3,793 junior two-year-olds, 13,060 pounds milk and 555 pounds butter.

Of these 20,030 cows 84 hold yearly records of over 1,000 pounds butterfat, or 1,250 pounds butter, and 56 have in 365 consecutive days produced over 30,000 pounds milk.

FARMER MUST KNOW PRODUCT OF COWS

That utensils exert the greatest single influence on the bacterial count of fresh milk has been shown many times by experiments, says F. C. Button, professor of dairy industry at the New Jersey State College of Agriculture.

Professor Button points out that having clean, sterile utensils is the most important of the "Big Four" in clean milk production, clean cows, small top pails, clean utensils, and prompt cooling. Utensils may be clean so far as the eye can discern, but unless they are thoroughly sterilized they may contribute enormous numbers of bacteria to the milk coming in contact with them.

Utensils should first be rinsed in water that is clean and cold or lukewarm. This will remove any milk that might otherwise be cooked to the sides of the utensils later when hot water is used. They should then be washed in hot water containing an alkali or washing powder. Scrubbing with a stiff brush is necessary to get into the cracks and seams. Wash rags, soaps, and greasy powders should not be used in the dairy. A final rinsing in clean water prepares the utensils for sterilization. Steam is the best sterilizing agent. Live steam should play upon the utensils for five minutes. After that the utensils will dry quickly when inverted on a rack. Boiling in water for five to ten minutes is next best to steaming. The drying of utensils after sterilization should not be overlooked, and protection from dust, flies, and chickens is important.

The importance of washing utensils immediately after using them is very great. Experiments showed that when utensils were washed directly after milking, the average bacterial count of the subsequent milking was 666,000 in 25 drops of the milk. When some of the utensils were left unwashed for eight hours and then washed in the same manner as the other utensils, the subsequent milking had an average count of 1,677,000 bacteria in 25 drops of the milk.

Improved Milk Shipping Methods to Avoid Loss

To develop better methods for handling and shipping milk from the farms to the city market is the object of an investigation of practices in various milk plants, which is being made by the dairy division of the United States Department of Agriculture. Milk losses during shipment have a marked effect upon the price that the consumer must pay for the product, and upon the price that the farmer receives for the product. The losses are of two kinds; those resulting from milk souring in transit, and those from theft, spoilage and leakage. Both are believed to be avoidable if the farmer, country dealer and city dealer will work together.

Dealers are being asked to give information on various subjects, such as the methods used for transporting milk from the farm to the dealer, the protection provided for milk while in transit between the dealer and the city market, and the relative efficiency of different types of refrigerator cars.

Feeding Dairy Cow

It is easy to let the cow slip down in her milk production, but very hard to bring her back. The cow that milked well during the early part of the summer, when the pastures were good, if allowed to go down when the pastures are poor and the flies a torment, will never come back and milk in the fall and winter as she should. A little feed will not only hold her from going down, but make it possible to keep her up to a good level for months to come.

RED KELLY AND HIS BLACK EYE

By G. P. WILSON

(©, Doubleday, Page & Co.)

RED KELLY is a big, strapping Irishman and one of the best catchers that ever broke into the big league. He loves a fight better than a baseball fan does a winner, so I was not surprised the other night when I found him, in a secluded corner of the hotel lobby, nursing a black eye.

"That's some shiner you have, Red," I smiled, as we shook hands.

"A fellow will get 'um once in a while," he grinned, sheepishly. "I pulled a regular 'movie' stunt last night."

"Played a regular dashing, two-fisted hero, I suppose," I said.

"No. I was the goat," Red answered. "It was this way. I got put out of the game yesterday for kicking about a strike they called on me that didn't come any closer to the plate than the Eighteenth amendment has to prohibition and I was sittin' here wondering why umpires was classed as human beings. I hadn't got over my mad spell. Pretty soon, along comes a guy and sits down by me. He was a little fellow, swell dressed, and I judged him to be one of these jazz-dancing, flapper trappers.

"He looked me over carefully, like I was something a museum wanted but hadn't got. 'Are you afraid of head waiters?' he finally asks.

"'No,' I grunts, wondering if he's a nut or just pickled.

"'Did you ever have a waiter make you check your hat?' he says, as serious as the boss when it rains on Sunday.

"'If your figuring on springing a joke on me, you're flirting with trouble,' I warns him. 'I ain't in no joking mood.'

"'Nor me,' he says. 'My girl's turned me down and I'm desperate, otherwise I wouldn't have bothered you.'

"'Let's hear the rest of it,' I says, gettin' interested.

"'You'll probably laugh at me, but here goes,' he says. 'Last night I went to a restaurant and passed up the check girl like I didn't know she was among those present. I did it because the young lady I was with said it couldn't be done. I was feeling pretty chesty about it until the head waiter came and made me check my hat.'

"'Without a struggle?' I asks.

"'That's the point,' he says. 'I had a case of buck fever and handed it over without a murmur. And I've been trying to persuade the girl I was with to marry me for some time. Now it's all off. She's a great believer in this red-blood hero stuff and now she won't have anything to do with me.'

"'I don't blame her,' I says. 'Why didn't you soak him one?'

"'He's as big as you are and I didn't have the nerve,' he admits. 'I want you to go there with me tonight and show that waiter up.'

"'Not me,' I says. 'I ain't no bodyguard.'

"'You understand me,' he says. 'I'll do all the fighting myself. What I want you to do is to start a quarrel to get me warmed up. Push me into the ring, you understand. You see I'm not a self-starter so have to be cranked. Once started, I'm a regular wildcat.'

"Somehow or other I began to like this little guy. He talked like he meant what he said and I was curious to see whether he did or not. Course I was taking a chance of him quitting and leaving me with a lot of trouble on my hands, but I had a grouch on anyway and trouble was what I was looking for.

"'Let's go,' I says.

"'Thanks,' he says, and we left.

"We passed the check girl like she wasn't there and marched in the restaurant holding our hats where everybody could see them.

"'I'll take your hats and have them checked for you,' says the head waiter, after he had us sented. He was big, all right, and didn't look soft and flabby like most waiters do.

"'I'll keep mine,' I says.

"'It's a rule of this place,' he protests.

"'Exceptions are what prove a rule,' I says.

"'I'm sorry,' he says, looking mean. 'I can't allow the waiter to serve you unless you check your hats.'

"'Are you looking for trouble or just a tip, you big slob?' says my small friend, bristling up like a bull pup.

"'Is your little boy talking to you?' says the waiter, looking at me. 'I don't understand baby talk.'

"'Maybe you'll understand this,' says the kid, and pokes him between the eyes.

"Things began to happen then. Waiters showed up as thick as phenoms in the spring and we started as pretty a rough house as anyone could wish for. The kid didn't have much weight but he handled what he had an nifty as any kid I ever saw. Me and him was holdin' our own, all right, until the reserves arrived from the kitchen and then they put us out. It's no use for two men to try to whip an army.

"The kid was pretty well used up. His nose was bleeding and both of his eye were beginning to swell. He stood on the sidewalk watching the crowd that had put us out as they filed back into the restaurant and then he shook his head like a bull does when it's mad.

"'Let's go back in there and clean that joint out before my eyes swell shut,' he says.

"Right then he made a friend for life out of me. You can't judge a man's nerve by his size.

"'You're on,' I says, and we started for the door.

"Before we got across the sidewalk a girl came out of the restaurant and rushed up to the kid.

"'I didn't check my hat,' says the kid.

"Then they clinched. I saw that the fighting was all over, so I called a taxi, looking every minute for the police to show up. When they left me at the hotel they both insisted on me coming to the wedding."

Red threw his cigar away and stretched. "About time I was turning in," he declared.

"Did you know which one of the waiters blacked your eye?" I asked, as we moved toward the elevator.

"I never said any of 'um did," he answered, rubbing his injured eye tenderly. "A foul tip busted a wire in my mask this afternoon and done that."

Blood of Mastiff and Lion in Pekingese Dog

Pekingese dogs, which are now so fashionable, belong to the oldest breed of dogs kept by man. A Chinese legend traces their origin to the days of Ah Chu, a saint who flourished thousands of years ago. One day a king among lions asked Ah Chu: "May I marry a marmoset?" "Yes," said Ah Chu, "provided you are willing to sacrifice your strength for the sake of love." The lion agreed to this, and mated with the marmoset, the result of their union being the Pekingese, in which (say the Chinese) can be traced the tenderness and beauty of the marmoset eye and the gorgeous ruff and dignity of the lion. Death accompanied by fearsome forms of torture used to be the penalty prescribed for anyone taking the "lion" dogs out of the precincts of the palace of Peking, and it was only in 1860, after the looting of the summer palace, that two of them were taken to England.

He Didn't See Any

The Scotch are notoriously inclined to place at least a fair valuation on themselves, and as exemplifying this quality an instructor at an Eastern golf club tells this story:

"Angus McCree, a prosperous bachelor, was called from his business in Glasgow to London to confer with a large exporting house. Upon his return his old mother was very anxious to learn about his trip and she was especially desirous of knowing exactly what an Englishman is like.

"'Now, Angus,' said she, 'tell me what an Englishman at home is like?'

"'I dinna see ony,' replied Angus. 'I only dealt wi' heads of departments an' ye ken they're a' Scotch.'"—Kansas City Star.

Ewes Often Overlooked

Every ewe that does not raise a good lamb and fleece should be culled. Usually from one-third to two-thirds of the income from the flock is from wool, so that the fleeces of breeding ewes are important. Ewes that are weak in the back, shallow bodied, narrow chested, high in the flank, light in the hind quarters, leggy and poor milkers, should be weeded out.

PLAN TO COVER BROADER FIELD

TOP O' MICHIGAN POTATO SHOW ADDS CLASSES

Will Endeavor to Encourage Beginners in Exhibiting Products They Have Grown

The potato growers of northern Michigan will be interested to know that the board of directors of the Top O' Michigan potato show have made some changes in their premium list for the 1925 show which will enable a man who has never exhibited potatoes before to meet men of his own class and, possibly, win handsome cash prizes instead of being obliged to compete with skilled exhibitors and being hopelessly outclassed during the first few years while he is learning the art of showing potatoes. According to the report sent out by the secretary, A. C. Lytle, the directors have decided to institute a "beginners' " division in the 32-potato class, this division being open only to those growers who have never exhibited potatoes before at any regular potato show. The prize money offered in this division will be fully as much as that offered in the open classes.

Fred Brudy of Wolverine, one of the directors as well as one of the skilled exhibitors, says, "A number of new exhibitors have hesitated about entering for the first time at the Gaylord show because they considered themselves so completely outclassed by growers who have been exhibiting for a number of years. We believe that this new class will bring in many growers who have never 'shown' before and will thus be the means of extending the influence for good of this annual event. After all, that is the main purpose of the show—benefitting all of the growers and not just a few chosen ones."

Due to the interest manifested in the Top O' Michigan potato show by growers in all parts of Michigan, the directors authorized another change in rules. The 60-pound seed class, up to this time confined, along with the other classes, to the growers living in counties which are giving the show financial support, has been opened to state-wide competition. Any grower in Michigan may enter potatoes in this class and compete for the prize-money. That this will not affect the chances of our growers in northern Michigan, is the belief expressed by one of the directors, because they have been winning very consistently at the state shows in the past and no doubt they will continue to do so at the Gaylord show this fall. At the same time, it will keep these growers on their mettle and will help in advertising our territory.

All the other classes will be limited to growers from counties which have appropriated toward the show. Several boards of supervisors, including Emmet, Otsego, Antrim and Alpena, have indicated their intention to do so this fall.

The 1925 show will be held at Gaylord on November 4, 5 and 6.

Sweet air, blow soft; mount, lark, aloft!

FOOD FOR THE FAMILY

Oysters are so universally liked that any variation in serving them is welcomed.

Broiled Oysters.—Drain large oysters, wipe dry, season with salt and pepper and arrange in a fine wire broiler; broil over a quick fire until the edges curl. Serve on toasted crackers and spread with Maitre d'Hotel Butter.—Beat one-fourth of a cupful of butter to a cream, beat in one-half teaspoonful of salt, a dash of pepper and add very slowly one tablespoonful of lemon juice.

Velvet Cake.—Cream one-half cupful of butter, add gradually one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, the yolks of four eggs beaten thick, and one-half cupful of cold water. Mix and sift one and one-half cupfuls of flour, one-half cupful of cornstarch and four teaspoonfuls of baking powder; add to the first mixture, then add the stiffly beaten whites folded in lightly. Put into a pan and sprinkle with almonds and powdered sugar. Bake forty minutes in a moderate oven.

Raised Doughnuts.—Crumble one yeast cake into one cupful of scalded milk which has been cooled. When the yeast is well-blended add two eggs beaten light, one-third of a cupful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt, two tablespoonfuls of butter, and about four cupfuls of flour; mix to a soft dough and knead ten minutes; cover and set aside over night out of drafts. In the morning roll into a sheet one-half inch thick and cut into rounds; let stand until doubled in bulk, fry in deep fat. Before serving, shake in a paper bag with a few tablespoonfuls of sugar, one doughnut at a time.

Sweet Potato Waffles.—Mix one cupful of mashed, cooked sweet potatoes, pressed through a ricer; add one cupful of sifted flour, one-fourth cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of melted butter or fat, and one cupful of milk. Add one well-beaten egg yolk and the stiffly-beaten white; fold in at the last. Cook on a greased waffle iron.

When to Retire

Bruce Barton, discussing the age of retirement in Hearst's International, tells the following story:

Somebody once asked the late J. P. Morgan why he didn't retire. The old man glowered at the questioner.

"When did your father retire?" he demanded.

"In 1895," the other replied.

"When did he die?"

"In 1906."

"That's the answer," said Morgan. "If he'd had sense enough to keep on working he'd be alive and healthy today."

It is always well for the ambitious to remember that Dr. Cook's last stand is a long ways removed from the Arctic circle.

"INTERESTING BITS OF INFORMATION CLIPPED FROM OUR EXCHANGES"

A man who searched a hotel at Saginaw for liquor is held on a charge if impersonating an officer, although he may only have meant to impersonate a guest.

Search is being made for the southern boundary of Owosso, which has lately been missing. The fear that Owosso may get out some dark night is lending much vigor to the search.

There was a very evident note of sincerity about the post card message of the Michigan boy stranded in Florida, who wrote to his father for funds and added, "Wish you were here."

Those burglars who obtained $2,000, the entire receipts of one day, from the safe of a picture theater at Grand Rapids, should have enough now to attend a regular show some evening.

"So many carp were thrown up on the shore of Green Bay by a high wind that 'one could take a bushel basket and scoop them up.'" Or, if a bushel of carp was too many, one could take a half pint cup.

Eggs kept in cold storage in a frozen condition for nine years still retain their original vitamin potency, according to a Lansing item. Another experiment is to be made soon to see whether they retain any eggs.

Alpena points with pride to the fact that a former resident of the city came 2,000 miles to attend a home-coming celebration. It seems a little surprise, though, that Alpena will admit it is that far away.

A farmer released from jail at Lapeer, where he had served 90 days for stealing chickens, was immediately taken to Caro on another charge. This is under the well-known agricultural principle called rotation of jails.

On account of a water shortage, St. Joseph citizens have been ordered not to sprinkle their lawns on Saturday nights. By this means, we suppose, they will make sure of having enough to sprinkle the lawns on Sunday morning.

Some one took 25 silver dollars from a Saginaw home and made his getaway in a car. It was thoughtful of him to clear away 25 silver dollars, but earlier in the season he might have been arrested for overloading a truck.

Distracted by something that lit on his forehead and stung him, a Blissfield motorist crashed into another car. By being constantly on the alert, we nearly always manage to brush away those little runabouts before they can sting.

Getting Nowhere

Frank A. Vanderlip said in an argument about the oil scandals at a dinner in New York:

"We don't know the whole truth yet, and from half truths optimistic and pessimistic conclusions can with equal justice be drawn. This gets you nowhere. It's like the two clubmen.

"'Marriage,' said the optimistic clubman, 'is a preventive of suicide.'

"'And suicide,' said the pessimistic clubman, 'is a preventive of marriage.'"—Detroit Free Press.

Off The Beaten Path

The real charm of touring lies in leaving the main-travelled highways and exploring the thousands of alluring side-paths. These dirt roads and trails lead to spots of rare beauty unvisited by the throng—where better camp-sites may be found—finer fishing and loveller scenery.

In a Ford car, you can enjoy the thrill of exploration and discovery. It is the one satisfactory means of travel for these narrow roads—light—yet so powerful that it will bring you through—easy to handle—sturdy and economical.

It will carry the whole family and the saving in cost often pays for the entire vacation.

Buy Across The Counter

WHEN you buy across the counter in the stores of this town, you are using good business judgment. Why? There are many reasons, but one of the most important is this:

You can buy what you want at the price you wish to pay. You are not obliged to accept "something just as good," because you are in a position to compare values and make your own selections.

When you trade at home you are helping your friends to help you. And there is no finer thing in life than neighborly co-operation. It always pays—in happiness and satisfaction as well as dollars and cents.

SATURDAY, JULY 25TH IS TAG DAY

Benefit for Starr Commonwealth Well Organized

Official permission has been granted to hold a tag day in Charlevoix, Saturday, July 25th, for the benefit of the Starr Commonwealth for boys of Michigan.

The Commonwealth is caring for the younger incorrigible boys of the state who are under the state Reform School age. The object of the Commonwealth is to maintain a real home for the homeless, friendless and dependent boy, to give to the wild, wayward child of the street, the so-called "bad boy," a chance to make good by directing him wisely in the right path. The Commonwealth is supported by products of its forty-acre farm and by popular contributions obtained through tag days and private gifts.

Headquarters for the tag day will be at the Holley Gift Shop and will be open from 8:30 a. m. until 8:30 p. m. The committee is not yet complete, but the following ladies are sponsoring the drive: Mrs. Harry Quant, Mrs. A. F. Bridge, Mrs. Nellie Iddings, Mrs. T. B. Dimmick, Mrs. R. B. Armstrong and Miss Adeline Holley.

Local merchants are donating prizes to be given to the girls and boys who collect the largest amounts of money from the sale of tags. The young people will work with sealed banks which will be turned in to the Charlevoix County Bank to be counted. Prizes will be on exhibition in one of the display windows of the Charlevoix Hardware Co.

VALUE OF COW-TESTING PROVEN

COUNTY ASSOCIATION DOING GOOD WORK

Dairymens' Picnic at Whiting Park Thursday Was Well Attended—Ball Game the Climax

The annual gathering of the dairymen of the county was held July 16th under ideal conditions. This year's picnic was sponsored by the cow-testing association and represented one added milestone to their list of accomplishments.

The crowd assembled at the Breezy Point Farm at 10 o'clock fast time, where practical judging demonstrations were conducted by J. G. Wells, dairy extension specialist. First in a ring of four mature cows, then on a sire, and lastly on a ring of three calves. The last was conducted for the benefit of the Charlevoix boy's and girl's calf club and attracted the praise of all present.

Promptly at 11:30 o'clock the caravan started for Whiting park, where the picnic dianer was well taken care of.

The feature of the afternoon program was the talk by Mr. Wells. He drove home several things concerning dairying that will be of great benefit, especially the value of cow-testing work. The feed value of milk was emphasized, the importance of good feeding, the necessity of using good sires, and the knowledge of being clean and sanitary with milk products.

Clarence Mullett, cow-tester for the past two years, gave an interesting talk on what the cow-testing association has accomplished for the members and what the cow-tester does in his work.

The value of cow-testing to the members was proven by the testimonials that were given by Geo. Meggison, Charlevoix; Dr. Simmons, of Loeb Farms; Arthur Shepard of East Jordan, and Dan Swanson of East Jordan, all of whom were loud in their praise of this type of work.

It was very gratifying to hear what the banks of the county thought of dairying and their willingness to assist in the dairy program. Glen C. Townsend, president of the Bankers' association of the county, voiced the sentiments of the banks in a highly capable manner. He assured us that they are for dairying, but emphasized the need of more business judgment among the farmers if they were going to succeed. They backed the calf club work to the limit and henceforth will act as sponsors for the club, as well as making it possible to have attractive premiums at the County Fair.

A fitting climax was the ball game after the program. Who won? No one knows, but oh, what a game.

MARKS HAS QUALIFICATIONS OF STAR

Local Veteran Says He is Best Player in State

The Belvedere Club tennis tournament, ably managed by handsome and affable Johnny Knight, was finished Monday afternoon before an appreciative gallery. The weather was ideal and courts in good shape.

One of the best matches of the tournament proved to be the doubles finals, the Belvedere team of Leland and Knight facing Mark and Schilling. The latter team went to the net and smashed out a victory in three straight sets, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3. Many rallies were long and spectacular. All four players made many good gets.

In the singles finals Herbert Beddow of the Inn met W. G. Parker of Charlevoix. Parker seemed unable to get his drive working smoothly and fell back to a safe game, running Beddow all over the court, as the veteran had done with Mark Saturday. Parker took the match at 7-5, 6-3, 6-3, making the second tournament he has won this month.

The work of Ferguson, Knight, Leland and Schilling was promising. Parker is of the opinion that Kenneth Mark of Hillsdale college, is the best player he has seen in Michigan and predicts that he will become a star.

LOST THREE FINGERS IN SAUSAGE GRINDER

Peculiar Accident in Milton Block's Market Saturday

A rather peculiar and also unfortunate accident occurred in Milton Block's meat market Saturday evening, when Sanders Halverson, an assistant in the market, lost the ends of three fingers of his left hand.

Halverson stood near the sausage grinder talking to Mr. Block, when he carelessly laid his hand across the top, or opening, of the grinder. Having orders for ground meat to fill he applied the power to the machine, with the result that as soon as the knives of the machine began to whirl, they nipped the ends of the first, second and third fingers of the left hand, cutting off the second finger at the first point and tearing out the tendons.

He was given immediate medical attention, but it will be some time before he will be able to work again.

RESULTS OF RACES WATCHED WITH INTEREST

Cnntests on Pine Lake Start Friday—Event Attracts Hundreds nf Visitnrs

All yachtsmen are interested in several races that are being held on the great lakes this week, July 25th to 31st.

The most prominent of these is the annual Chicago to Mackinac Island contest. This race will bs under the auspices of ths Chicago Yacht Club. George Armbrust is chairman of the rcgatta. Fourteen sloops, ten yawls and nine schooners, representing the speediest sailing craft of the Milwaukee, White Lake, Macatawa Bay, Columbia, Jackson Park and Chicago Yacht Clubs, will enter the race.

In thc schooner division there are three brand new Malabars, whose performance against eastern built yachts will be watched with particular interest to soe whether Lake Michigan yacht builders can equal those of the east. These three yachts are Amite II, owned by Henry Shufeldt, of Milwaukee; Elizabeth, owned by Lynn A. Williams, and Privateer, owned by Robert Benedict of the Cbicago Yacht Club. There are four sloops which are being seleeted by expert yachtsmen as the most likely winners of the 331 mile race to the island. The one with the largest number of supporters is James O. Heyworth's Polaris II.

The Port Huron-Mackinac Island yacht race will commence at the same time as the Chicago-Mackinac Island race, and much interest will be shown in this regatta by Lake Huron yachtsmen.

At mid-night, August 29th, the Mackinac Island-Charlevoix yacht race will start. The time of starting will allow the speetators at Charlevoix to see the finish of the race about Thursday noon, July 30th. This regatta will be under the auspices of the Charlevoix Yacht Club. Entries are open to all schooners, yawls and sloops of Chicago Yacht Club Mackinac ratings, and the course will cover nearly 49 nautical miles.

The starting point of this race will lie between Round Island light and the race committee flag on the Island, and the finish line will be between the two pier heads at Charlevoix.

The Pine Lake regatta will be under way at 2:00 p. m., Friday, July 31st. This race will be twice around a triangular course, and the starting and finish points will be between the Charlevoix Inn and the east entrance to Round Lake.

The prize awarded to the winner of the Mackinac-Charlevoix race will be a $125.00 twelve inch solid sterling cup, handsomely engraved, and will be envied by all other contestants. These prizes are given by the Charlevoix Yacht Club and other local associations.

We are certainly proud of our new organization, the Charlevoix Yacht Club, and trust that they will plan another regatta next year.

Beautiful Fette Chinese Rugs are now on exhibition at Mrs. Broad's Gift Shop at the Belvedere Hotel. Talks about them will be given by Mrs. Merrick, the importer, on Tbursday and Friday, July 30th and 31st, at two-thirty p. m. An invitation is extended to all who are interested.—Adv. 30-t1 pd.

Under the new order the applicant swears to the affidavit and then returns in five daya for the license.

Tbe law as approved by the legislature is as follows:

"No license to marry shall be delivered within a period of five days immediately following the date of application therefore; provided, however, that the judge of probate of each county, for good and sufficient cause shown, may, by aa order in writing signed by him, authurize the county clerk to deliver auch license immediately follawing the application therefor."

SUNDAY AT THE CONG. CHURCH

Olivet Collaga Spaakers Hold Attantion nf Audience

Dr. Ernest Bouraer Allen, of Oak Park, Illinois, presented ths needs of Olivet College at tbe Congregational church last Sunday morning in an able address, showing the contribution of the christian colleges to the life of tbe nation.

E. B. Ludwig, a representative of the college, also assisted in the service and remained in the city to do some soliciting for the campaign to raise a million dollars for Olivet, one half for repairs, extension and new buildings and one half for an endowment fund, the interest only to be used for annual current expenses.

Fred Tyler sang very effectively the solo part in the anthem of the morning and as Mr. and Mrs. Tyler expscted to leave the following day for their new home in the west, the pastor took occasion to express the appreciation of the church for the faithful and efficient help which these friends have rendered in the choir during their residence here. The best wishes of all go with them.

EVENT WILL ATTRACT STARS

MANY NOTED PLAYERS EXPECTED AT TOURNAMENT

Annual Tennis Tournament at The Inn Sanctinned by United States Lawn Tennis Association

The first annual tennis tournament at Charlevoix to bs sanctioned by the United States Lawn Tennis association, and wbich is being given under the auspices of the Western Michigan Tsnnis association, will be played on the tbree splendid Inn courts beginning Thursday, August 13th, and ending Saturday.

Manager A. I. Creamer of the Inn has besn very gsnerous and in addition to donating the use of the courts, will entertain a number of the visiting players. He is pleased that the local club has joined the Western Michigan organization, one of the chief advantages of which is the consideration by the ranking committees of the records made here. A sanctioned event, tbsrefore, attracts the stars, and receives wide publicity in different ways.

Gordon Parker, dean of local players, arranged matters with the Inn management. A. I. Creamer knew Parker 31 years ago, when Parker won the Newcastle, New Hampshire tournamcnt, defeating Yale and Brown University champions. Parker was then a schoolboy, that year winning the national interscholastic contest. Mr. Creamer admires the veteran, who has won many tournaments covering threo decades. This will be about the last tournament for Parker, who will hereafter give his spare time to promoting tennis tournaments for Charlevoix publicity.

Harold Cartier, secretary, has been very active in getting out letters, hand-bills, etc., for the coming event and in other ways is proving of much assistance.

Already many entries are in and it is predicted that an even bracket of 64 players will be on haud for tbe opening.

Local players and resorters are urged to hand in their entries for singles and doubles aa aoon as possible. This will give the committee a chance to plan ahead. Make entries to Harold Cartier or Archie Livingston.

LOCAL INDEPENDENTS LOSE THE FIRST GAME

Are Defeated by Central Lake by Scora of 22 to 10

The final score was Central Lake 22 and Cbarlevoix 10. Owing to the fact that Charlevoix has just recently organized a resorter team, it did fairly well against their more experienced opponents.

Joe Ferguaon, of Country-Day school, St. Louis, Mo., the fourteen year old pitcher, certainly did splendid work in bolding tho opponents to a score of thirteen to eleven uatil the ninth inning, when the Bellaire team opened fire and brought in nine runs.

DEPLORABLE LACK OF PLACES TO DOCK

SHORTAGE IS MORE APPARENT THIS YEAR THAN EVER

Yachtsman Who Would Spend Days in Charlevnix are Passing Us Up for This Raason

Lack of sufficient dockage on Round Lake wuter front was never more apparent than at the present time. Visiting pleasure yachts are unable to find a convenient place to land even for a few hours, and if they should want to apend a week or ten days with us, there is practically no place for them to stay other than anchoring their craft out into the deep waters of Round or Pine lakes.

This is a serious condition and should be remedied at once. It not only forces yachting parties touring the Great Lakes to leave Charlevoix off their list of visiting points, but is costing our merchants, hotels and eating houses hundreds of dollars in business loss.

Pleasure boat owners are at present, and have during past years, used Charlevoix as a one night stopover for tbe reason there has been no place provided for dockage. The annual yacht regatta and races are scheduled here during the present week. An event of this kind will attract hundreds of visitors, especially owners of water craft. The deplorable condition of our water front will shorten their stay.

The question naturally arises that if yachting clubs are interested enough to take advantage of our natural geographical location, why not provide them a placs to land their boats. They cannot understand why a harbor like Charlevoix's, with its two beautiful inland lakes, and miles of scenic shore line, has no docking facilities.

As summsr seasons come and go more people who can afford a vacation of any length of time are building their own privats boats to take their outing in. It is an easy matter to sail on any of the Great Lakes and go where they please. These people are accepting the hobby, "lead the mariner life on the Great Lakes in the summer time and take the motor life in the winter through southern states."

There is no better place in all northern country to spend a week or two in than Charlevoix, the haven of rest for vacatiunists. But they will not come here unless better docking facilities are given them. Think this over, Mr. Merchant and Tax Payer. The problem can easily be solved by converting all east of Bridge street into a water front park. Provide suitable docks along this water front and we predict you will see hundreds of water craft in Charlevoix harbor during the entire season.

WM. J. BRYAN FOUND DEAD IN HIS BED

William Jennings Bryan, three times a candidate for president of the United States and for 30 years a dominant figure in tho political deliberations of the Democratic party, was found dead in bed at the home of Richard Rogers, at Dayton, Tennessee, last Sunday evening about 4:45. He had been dead about 20 minutes when found.

Death came only a few hours after the Commoner had won a scoro of ovations from thousands of natives, whom he had addressed from the rear platform of his train. Tears and applause, of which through his long career he probably received more thaa any one leading man, a world figure, the most renowned orator of recent deeades, known because of his activities political and religious from one end of the earth to the other, his passing occurred among people of the simple and lasting faith that was his and in homely surroundings he loved most.

MOVE TO CHANGE SCHOOL BOUNDARY

State School Officer Prasides at Recent Meeting

A very important school meeting was held July 27tb, in Melrose township. The purpose of the meeting was to re-divide the township of Chandler into new school districts. Previous to this meeting, the township of Chandler was experiencing much difficulty in regulating its school administration, owing to the fact that it was made up into fractional school districts, adjoining other townships.

The school boards of Bear Creek, Melrose, Springvale and Chandler, also the bordering townships uf Emmet county were represented at the Melrose school. At the meeting it was voted to change the boundaries of Chandler township, and make it possible to carry on school work in the township in a much better fashion.

Mr. Reinhart, of the state department of public instruction, was present at this meeting, and helped to settle the various legal questions that were involved.

CULL THE LIARS FROM THE LAYERS

25 PER CENT OF FARMERS' HENS UNPRODUCTIVE

Are Nnt Paying Their Board and Should Not Be Carried Over as Next Year's Layers

Twenty-five per cent of the hens on Charlevoix county farms are not paying their board and should not be carried over for next year's layers. This conclusion by the Blue Valley Creamery Institute is based on a summary of reports uf henculling campaigns in areas whers poultry conditions are similar to those prevailing in this county.

It is easier to detect a slacker hen than a poor producing cow, according to the institute. The poultryman need but step into the poultry house at night and by feeling the ends of the hen's pelvic bones, convince himself absolutely whsther that particular hen is a layer or a liar. In an undeveloped pullet thess bones aro very close together but as she approaches the laying period they gradually spread further apart to permit the egg to pass between the pelvic hones in leaving the body. When laying stops the bones tend to draw closer and closer together. Since an egg measures two to two and one-half fingers in width, it is readily seen that the hen with bones not spread the width of an egg is not laying while those with bones extended are producers. It will also he noticed that the vent of the layer is moist and expanded while the non-layer's vent is small and dry.

This is the best time of year to start going through one's flock to cull out the non-layers and early-molting hens, the instituto says. Hens tbat stop laying in July and August are generally the poorest layers and it is a mistake to assume that they will lay more eggs this winter because they ceased laying early.

The Charlevoix Hospital, a gift to the city from our summer psople, has proven itself an institution of great value to this section. It is patronized not alone by local peoplo, but by those from adjncent territory reaching south to Bellaire, east and north to Boyne City and Onaway. Under the present management it is open to all, and its success is largely due to the present open-duor policy.

The present board has accomplished a great deal during the past two years along the line of enlarging the hospital's housing capacity. From a 15-room hospital it has been increased to twenty-two rooms. The new addition includes a nursery, delivery room, additional operating room for minor cases, and a practical re-arrangement of the entire institution. Since the new addition has been completed, with but one or two exceptions, thsre has bsen ample room for all patients, whether the demand was for private rooms, semi-privato or ward.

A considerable amount of money has been required to carry out this program. Through the generous response of our summer people as well as local residents, the necessary amount was donated, and today the hospital is entirely free from debt.

It must be remembered, however, that not five per cent of hospitals today are doing the necessary amount of business to pay running expenses. This is true with ths Charlevoix Hospital. Its yearly expenditures over its receipts will average twenty-five per cent. This amount must be raised by donations, tag day drives and other money-raising stunts. It does not amount to a great deal to any one individual if all do his or her part. And it is absolutely necessary if the hospital is to be continued.

The annual Tag Day will take place on Wednesday, August 15. Charlevoix's leading hotels will put on their usual hospital benefit entertainments sometime during the season. The required amount to carry on is estimated nt $5,000. Double this amount has been raised in previous years and the raising of this small amount should require no extra effort. Let's all pull together and the result will surprise you.

Cancerts Tuesday and Thursday

The Charlevoix City band will give weekly concerts every Tuesday evening in the North Side Ball Park and Thursday evenings at the corner of State and Mason streets from 8:15 to 9:30 p. m. These concerts will be weekly events for the balance of the season.

NET RESULT OF SHOT FIRED 11 YEARS AGO

After several years' work the League of Nations has finished the first complete assessment of the material losses of the World war, officially compiled from all tho nations that participated.

9,998,771 known dead.

2,991,800 presumed dead.

6,295,512 seriously wounded.

$29,960,000,000 property loss of tho war.

$33,551,276,280 is the capitalized value of loss of life.

In assessing the capitalized value of life loss the league figured the value of a human life for war purposes at $4,720 for Americans, $4,140 for British, $2,900 for French.

O friend, there is no answer to the great but often inarticulate cry of the world, "What must I do to be saved?" There is the answer,—faith in the finished work of the Lord Christ Who died, and that justifies it; faith in the unfinished work of Christ, the work that is going on still in you and me, by which we are saved.—J. Stuart Holden.

August 3rd, Monday night, is official board meeting. This is the last month of the conference year. Business leading up to the closing of the year's work will be taken into consideration. PREVENT SPREAD OF DISEASE OF CHICKS

The method of spread or transmission of white diarrhea is well known. That method is this: Chicks that survive the white diarrhea, contain the organisms in their bodies and a certain percentage of the eggs laid by that hen when grown are infected before hatching. The chicks come out of the shell with the disease and immediately show symptoms of white diarrhea and this spreads through their first four days of life to all the other chicks in the flock. During the first four days of life, if one chick comes out of the batch infected, others of that particular batch will become infected.

Prevention consists in hatching chicks from eggs free from infection. If your chicks get the disease, treatment is practically useless. Attention would be better given to prevention than to treatment. Kill all noticeably diseased. Remove all free from disease away from infected premises.

The only satisfactory method of determining whether a hen is infected is by means of blood test. Draw a small vial of blood from each hen that is to be bred from. The college is testing blood free of charge at the present time and will soon have a bulletin available explaining this method.

The proper time to test for white diarrhea is in the fall after culling. Test all hens you propose to keep over for breeding purposes. One test may not eliminate all disease. Test at least every year, or every six months, until you know they are free. Do not add to your flock any bird you do not know to be free from this disease.

All may soon be forced to test as people are going to stop buying indiscriminately from hatcheries or breeders whose eggs come from unknown, untested stock. They will buy from the hatchery that tests the hens that lay the eggs. The blood test is the only means at all satisfactory for the elimination of white diarrhea, as it eliminates the hen that lays the eggs that are infected.—Dr. H. E. Newsom, Pathologist, Colorado Experiment Station.

Convenient Nests Easy to Keep in Good Order

Good nests are easy to clean and easy to get at when collecting eggs. They are most convenient to reach when located under the dropping boards or on the side walls. Unless the dropping boards are at least four feet from the floor, the nests should not be under them.

There should be one nest for every four birds in the pen. A box 12 by 12 inches is the most suitable size for the average bird. A 1 by 4-inch piece placed about four inches in front of the nests will give the hen a place to step from into the nest. By hinging this strip it can be used to close the nests against pullets in the fall and the broody hens in the spring.

The New Jersey experiment station ranks nesting materials in the following order: hay, shavings, sawdust and straw. To make cleaning easy, they suggest building nests in sections 12 by 12 by 16 inches, with a strip in front of 1 by 4-inch material to hold in the nest filler and a similar strip for the back of the nests. This sets on a platform the width of the nests and as long as the row of nests is to be. The nests are covered with a top of matched lumber which answers for the platform for the second tier of nests. When it is desired to clean the nests, they are simply pulled off the platform and all the nest material falls to the floor. These nests can be used either under the dropping boards or on the side walls.

MAMMOTH BRONZE IS MOST FAVORED FOWL

The Bronze turkey is the best all-round variety in the opinion of most breeders, as shown by its great popularity and the wide expanse of territory over which it is raised by the thousands. This breed was developed by crossing the wild North American birds with the Black turkey. The Black variety may refer to specimens selected from the wild flocks or it may refer to the Blacks reared so long in England and known as the Black Norfolk. It is said that this variety has been greatly improved by crossing with the Mammoth Bronze.

Going still farther back E. Richardson of California, a writer of turkey history, says the turkey was introduced into England from Mexico by Cortez and his followers, about the year 1524, five years after the first specimens had been sent to Spain by the discoverer and general made famous by the "Conquest of Mexico." This is from the writings of Prescott the historian. Richardson traces the name from the Tamil (Hindoo) word "toka," meaning "peacock" (which was one of the early names given by the Spaniards to the American bird) to "tukki," the Hebrew translation, and through this channel into the English "turkey."

George Ent, describes this bird very graphically when he says: "I can conceive of nothing more ornamental, taken all in all, than a stately wild gobbler, with his beard almost touching the turf, his wide-spread tail with its black bars and rich chestnut edging, his trailing wings, the crimson and blue coloring of head and neck and all the colors of sky and sea, and autumn leaves glistening upon each feather—such a bird and its half-dozen mates strutting about the lawn and shrubbery of a gentleman's grounds. Such a sight would take the mind of the busy city resident back to his childhood on the farm; or—if so unfortunate as to have been born in a town—back to his father's or mother's childhood, as often related to him."

Coccidiosis Is Disease Causing Poultry Losses

Poultry specialists from Kansas State Agricultural college had calls to a large number of farms where the growing chickens were not doing well. The usual story is that the chicks had started out nicely and grew well until four or five weeks of age. Then they seemed to stop growing, their feathers became dull and dirty, their shanks and beaks became pale, their combs became pale and half as large as normal, and their bodies thin. In some flocks almost all of the chicks were affected. Birds that survive are stunted in size and very susceptible to colds and roup.

Coccidiosis is the disease causing the trouble. It is seldom found in small flocks where natural methods are followed, where the chicks have plenty of range on sodded ground, and where their coops are kept clean. The majority of flocks affected have been those raised on ground bare of tender grass and where sanitation is not the best.

The method of control is in the proper feeding and brooding with special emphasis placed on green feed and sanitation. Raising chicks on ground free from contamination and away from old hens that may be carriers of the disease gives the best results.

Meat in Growing Mash

Do not feed over 10 per cent meat in the growing mash, as a high protein ration will mature the pullet instead of developing growth. Thirty-five pounds of cornmeal, 25 pounds bran, 25 pounds middlings, 10 pounds meat scrap and 5 pounds bone meal is suggested. Milk may replace the meat, but do not leave out the bone meal, particularly in this case.

Remedy for Scaly Leg

Scaly leg is a common summer disease among poultry. It is caused by a small parasite that burrows into the scales of the bird's leg, causing them to protrude. One good way to cure it is to fill an empty fruit can with coal oil and keep the legs of the bird immersed in this for a few minutes. If this is done twice a week for a month it will usually kill the parasites, but it is well to supplement this treatment by using lard as an ointment for the legs.

THREE GATES

If you are tempted to reveal
A tale someone to you has told
About another, make it pass
Before you speak, three gates of gold,
Three narrow gates: First, "Is it true?"
Then,, "Is it needful in your mind.
Give truthful answer, and the next
Is last and narrowest, "Is it Kind?"
And if to reach your lips at last
It passes thru these gateways three,
Then thou may tell, nor ever fear
What the result of speech will be.

TAX REDUCTION POLICY OF THE PRESIDENT

A general reduction of normal, surtaxes, and inheritance taxes is the announced taxation policy of Preeident Coolidge. The small taxpayer will be given a reduction through a lessening of the normal tax. He will also be given a reduction in his cost of living through a reduction in the surtax. The proper adjustment of inheritance taxes is one of supreme moment. A policy of confiscation of inheritances speedily dissipates capital, since it is in large fortunes that a great part of the capital invested in industry is to be found. The president has prepared a rational plan. It informs the people that the cant of politicians must not be considered seriously and that the purpose of the government is to see that every taxpayer gets a fair reduction. As to whether the maximus surtaxes can be reduced below 25 per cent, the president will not pass an opinion at this time because he lacks the final estimates from the treasury upon which to base such an opinion. The president is not the kind of man who will give detailed figures without knowledge of facts. He leaves that to the politicians. The president, however, is apparently convinced that the inheritance taxes with a maximum of 40 per cent should be reduced. It is indicated that Mr. Coolidge does not feel the federal government can repeal the inheritance taxes at present, but rather that they should be extinguished gradually. The president wants a tax reduction which will reach all the people, and it is difficult to see how any congress can evade providing such a bill. The tendency in the last congress among certain groups was to fight for high surtaxes. The tendency today, as indicated in the newspapers, is of wholesale reduction. One position is as bad as the other, and just as unscientific. Taxes must be reduced in accordance with surplus, and with the necessities of the government. The fundamental thing is to give to all classes a fair reduction, and to make these reductions so that they will benefit not merely the individual, but industry in general, through the release of capital now in tax-exempt bonds.

FOREIGN TRADE AND CREDIT

We are indebted to the bulletin of the National City Bank of New York for the following comment on foreign trade and credit:

"Foreign trade in the fiscal year just closed has piled up another large trade balance in favor of the United States. We sold more and bought less than in the previous year, and, for the eleven months ended with May, the favorable balance was $1,034,481,000. Our foreign loans have been enough to settle it, and without these loans Europe either could not have bought so much or could not have made the progress which has been accomplished toward re-establishment of the gold standard.

"Credits are standing here now in favor of Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy, Sweden and Denmark for sums aggregating approximately $600,000,000 for the purpose of stabilizing their currencies. The movement to gold resumption is at a critical stage, and a general rise of exchange rates in favor of the United States is at present undesirable.

"The credit situation in this country remains very easy and favorable to business expansion. The clearing up of western banks which has resulted from improved conditions in the wheat belt has increased the supply of credit available, and since inventories are generally low, business is running with a minimum of bank accommodations.

The reduction of the short term debt of the United States in the past year to the extent of about $250,000,000, in addition to that accomplished by the regular operations of the sinking fund, of course throws that much capital into the market for new investments.

SENATOR NORRIS DECLINES

In the words of the small boy, Senator Norris has "ducked." He was offered the place of the late Senator La Follette as leader of the Third Party, but declines to take it. He points out that he was not in favor of the Third Party movement last year and that he is still of the opinion the movement was a mistake. The Senator says party ties "rest very lightly" on him, and that he would like to see a situation in which the people vote independently of all parties. That is entirely contrary to our experience, and the experience of every nation in the world which has a representative government. It would mean a score of petty parties in congress, effectually putting an end to any business by that body. The political party is the logical system in this country, and through the party system the people express themselves. It would be very interesting for the citizen to try to find out the position of the government with ten or fifteen separate bodies in congress, and a bunch of little leaders trying to dominate them all. If that is the best Senator Norris has to offer, we are quite content that he shall remain the sole proponent of individualism in politics. But Senator Norris is wise. He knows that the Third Party is dead and he did not want to have the empty honor of so-called leadership.

POPULAR OWNERSHIP OF CORPORATIONS WIDE-SPREAD

The Academy of Political Science, an organization under the auspices of Columbia University, devoted its spring session to "Popular Ownership of Property; Its New Forms and Social Consequences." The pamphlet containing the papers prepared for the occasion and discussion thereon is now available and will repay examination. Several of the papers set forth the interesting facts relative to the distribution of stock-ownership in corporations which are now doing a large part of the business of the country. The tendency to wide-spread ownership is so evident that it must be regarded as a permanent and growing factor in our industrial and social life. The day for thinking of corporations as a foreign and more or less unassimilable element has gone by. They are being assimilated into the body of the people. There is no reason why prejudice against accumulations of wealth should influence the public attitude toward corporations when the accumulations which the corporations represent are owned by the masses of the people. The corporate organization is demonstrated to be a practical means by which the ownership of large enterprises may be taken from the hands of a few and placed in the hands of the many.

FARMERS' FINANCIAL PROSPECTS GOOD

The financial prospects for farmers for the current year are good, according to the United States department of agriculture. In its July review it says: "Given strengthening live stock markets and fair feed crops, plus fair returns from wheat and cotton, farmers would come out of 1925 better than they have in most years since 1919." It points out that much can happen between now and the harvest of fall crops, but, "taken as a whole, the main crops promise fairly well, except in the case of winter wheat. The present nice balance in both live stock and crop production is a tribute to the readjustments made by American farmers since the fall of 1921." The central fact in the present outlook, it is stated, is that while production will be ample to meet consumption needs, agriculture will not be in the market this fall with any large surplus of the major products. The determining factor today, in the opinion of President Coolidge, is the farm situation, and it is announced that he is working with his advisors in a close study of all its problems. He is not without hope of a successful solution of the farmers' problem, if there be active co-operation between the farmers and the industrial interests.

NOT ONLY THE FARMER

Recently a noted American economist in discussing the present financial and industrial situation made this trite statement:

"If the American farmer would stop living out of tin cans, riding in automobiles when he cannot afford them, obtain reduced taxation and start increasing production of milk, sugar and wool, the American farm industry would be stabilized, and the American farm problem would be solved.

The world has only four basic industries. These four basic industries are agriculture, the lumber business, mining and fisheries. The American farmer, being the prime producer and the final consumer in actuality, sets in motion all the wheels of finance, industry, commerce and transportation."

This man talked sense. While some of his suggestions may not be entirely applicable here, yet much of what he said will fit any community.

And it should also apply to other people. Living out of the tin can and having an automobile that cannot be afforded is the secret of financial difficulties in most families.

FRESHENING BREEZES

Nature has been responsible for some wonderful things, including the gent who etops you and atarts in to explain how that evolution fight first started down in Tennessee.

The first of September ust to be portrayed as a young lady standing in a shady pool. Now it's the time when the coal miners quit digging for coal and start digging for more gold.

A woman says that war can be talked to death. Probably goes on the theory that as soon as one of the fair sex starts in to argue the most of us guys come in and surrender.

What has become of the old-fashioned keeper of the town tavern who ust to reckon that about twenty-five cents would be enough to pay for your dinner?

A hick town is said to be a hamlet where most of the natives still know the train schedules by heart.

A southern Michigan man is said to have had the last word with his wife. He yelled "good night" just as she started the kitchen fire with a can of gasoline.

Instead of standing around wondering what has happened to the industrial situation why not try rolling up your sleeves for a while.

Remember to break your match before throwing it away. Broken matches won't start many fires.

Economy can be said to be a national trait when we are able to ask for something a little cheaper and not have it charged.

The controversy down in Tennessee is said to have started in a drug store. Up here in Michigan we don't start any arguments in a drug store—we know the druggist will say "no" anyway.

A hick town is a place where the natives still believe that the politicians will keep their campaign promises.

And Now in Closing—

Remember that the wheels of industry are not the ones that are under the family flivver parked out in the back yard. It is just as necessary to shovel a little coal now to keep industry humming as it was in the old days when the full dinner pail made us the proudest nation on earth.

AT THE MOVIES

"Charley's Aunt" a Riot of Laughter

The old joking phrase "louder and funnier" was never so apt as in the case of "Charley's Aunt," which opens next Tuesday at the Palace theatre for a run of three days, for Al Christie may safely be credited with having produced a feature-length comedy which is funnier than any we have ever before seen and at which audiences laugh louder than they have laughed in months, if not in years.

When the situations progress the laughs come thick and fast until they develop into howls of merriment. Syd Chaplin, the star, in the title role of "Charley's Aunt from Brazil where the nuts come from" is undeniably at his best and this is the high point of his career so far. He hits the high spots of comedy as do the others in the cast.

About all that need be said is that the picture has more laughs than the play, so it is assured that those who go to the Palace theatre next week will have an hour and a half of "joy unconfined."

Seldom have we seen such a combination of cast, production and story as in "The Great Divide," the Metro-Goldwyn picture which will be shown at the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday.

The story, which is from the famous stage play by William Vaughn Moody, is strong and full of numerous twists and thrills that keep one spellbound from start to finish.

The cast headed by Conway Tearle and Alice Terry, contains also the names of Wallace Beery, Huntly Gordon, ZaSu Pitts, Allan Forrest, George Cooper and William Orlamond.

Cyclone Rider Coming

"The Cyclone Rider" is coming to the Majestic Theatre next Saturday and Sunday. It is a William Fox special and is billed as the best melodrama that Lincoln J. Carter ever conceived. Directed by Tom Buckingham, it is said to be one continuous string of thrilling scenes and contains one of the greatest automobile wrecks ever shown upon the screen.

Live Stock Notes

The market docks the lambs when the sheepman doesn't.

• • •

Pure bred live stock on every farm will add millions to the value of the agricultural output and increase the prosperity of the individual farmer.

• • •

Cowpeas provide a very good supplement with corn in a pig ration. They contain about 24 per cent protein and experiments show that a ration of half cowpeas and half corn gives very good results.

• • •

If you do not dock the lambs in spring, the market man will dock the price in fall or winter.

• • •

It is likely that green apples might cause abortion in sows because it is known that indigestion or the feeding of fermenting slop or damaged feed may do so.

• • •

A great many flock owners encounter disease among their sheep and think that some medication is necessary while in reality variety of food would check the trouble.

• • •

Pennsylvania steer feeders find that they gained an average of $15 a steer, over four years, by having silos.

• • •

Young calves appreciate shade and water on hot days. They will show it by more growth and thrift.

GET AT THE CAUSE!

Many Charlevoix Folks Are Showing How to Avoid Needless Suffering.

There's nothing more annoying than kidney weakness or inability to properly control the kidney secretions. Night and day alike, the sufferer is tormented and that with the burning and scalding, the attendant backache, headache and dizziness, life is indeed a burden. Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys—have brought peace and comfort to many Charlevoix people. Profit by this Charlevoix resident's experience:

Mrs. H. H. Faiee, 110 Robinson St., says: "I had a dull ache through the small of my back and when I tried to do anything around the house that required stooping, cutting pains darted across my kidneys. Then as time passed, my eyes were blurred with little, flickering specks. At first my kidneys were weak and then they become sluggish and failed to act often enough. Two boxes of Doan's Pills were all I needed to rid me of the trouble."

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT AUG. 31 TO SEPT. 5

Event to Be Held in Grand Rapids on Above Dates

G. A. R. plans its Encampment Great Session will be held in Grand Rapids August 30 to September 5. Michigan will entertain the national encampment this year for the last time in history, for the old veterans are passing so rapidly. The average age of the remaining soldiers is from 83 to 93 and in five or ten years most of them will have answered the last bugle call.

A historical pageant and parade is being planned as a feature of entertainment for these visiting "boys of 61." The feature of this event will be pageant productions of civil war events. One float will carry a cyclorama, 80 feet long by 12 feet high, depicting the battle of Gettysburg, Sherman's march to the sea and the origin of the G. A. R. Other floats will tell of progress of the nation from Civil war days to the present time.

The visiting veterans, instead of parading this year, will be given places of honor upon reviewing stands, this being done to preserve the health of the few remaining heroes. Forty-three states will be represented at the encampment by those who are able to travel the distance from their homes. Detroit entertained these heroes in National Encampment in 1914.

It was 60 years ago that the "boys in blue," resting upon the battle fields made sacred by the blood of their comrades, awaiting word that would take them back home, conceived the idea of forming this organization, the Grand Army of the Republic, that would endure until the last of them had passed on to join those who already had given their lives that the Union might be made "one and insoluble forever."

ROAD BUILDING

OUTLINE PRINCIPLES OF HIGHWAY SAFETY

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The bureau of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture believes that consideration of highway safety is of the greatest importance in view of the great increase in highway traffic and highway accidents. A careful study of existing conditions has led to the following statement of basic principles:

1. The development of safe roads by elimination of all known dangers in so far as such elimination is possible within physical and economic limitations.

2. Warning of uneliminated dangers by means of easily recognized signs and other devices of standardized form, uniformly placed with respect to the danger.

3. The development of safe vehicles by perfection of running parts and adoption of safety devices.

4. Diligence and care in the licensing of drivers of motor vehicles to eliminate the incompetent, careless, and irresponsible driver.

5. The development of simple, uniform, and effectual traffic regulations and the education of the whole public to a complete acquaintance with them.

6. The rigid enforcement of traffic regulations.

There is little doubt that a solution of the problem worked out on the basis of these principles would have the effect of reducing the dangers of the open road to a minimum. The bureau especially urges the necessity of uniformity of action by the various states in working out the means of applying these principles. It believes that the work of a committee of the American Association of State Highway Officials on the problem will be an important factor to this end.

Engineers of the bureau state that the problem can best be solved by the selection of the best methods and practices from the various states rather than the working out of new methods and practices.

Paved Highways Help to Solve Freight Problem

The motor-truck has largely solved one of the greatest problems of freight handling—the short haul. This has added greatly to the expense of freight handling by the railroads in the past, and has been an inconvenience to the railroads as well as a source of extra costs in transportation.

With the development of even-surfaced paved roads the motor-truck has come to the aid of the shipper and the railroads. The shipper may move his goods with less delay and at smaller cost; and the roads are saved the trouble of handling short haul freight, which often results in a loss to them.

Realization of the importance of the motor-truck in this role has caused many transportation authorities, together with leaders in the automotive industry, to consider seriously the building of an extensive system of heavy-duty, paved highways, the primary purpose of which will be to accommodate motor-truck freight service, although these highways would serve other vehicular traffic.

Already this is being put into effect in some places. Reinforced concrete pavements of extra strength are being built on streets and highways that accommodate heavy freight traffic. One of the most notable of this kind of pavements is the concrete highway, recently completed between Los Angeles and its harbor at San Pedro. An unusually large amount of freight is carried by motor-truck over this harbor truck boulevard, as it is called, to the docks at San Pedro, where it is loaded on ships for distant ports.

Other parts of the country have followed this policy to a wavering degree to increase freight handling efficiency by giving heavy-duty highways and streets.

Good Property Builders

It is asserted that farm lands along cross-state highways in Missouri already have been showing an increase in values. There is nothing unusual in that condition. Property along a well-paved road practically always commands a premium over that less fortunately located, just as property along a leading street or boulevard of the city has a value above the average. Good roads and good streets are property builders, says the Kansas City Times. It has been the general result that the building of paved roads increases business in towns along the routes, gives the farmer ready access to market, links him up with the outside world and makes his property more desirable.

Better Crop by Plowing

Where one has horse power and time he usually can expect a better crop of either corn or potatoes by plowing in early fall and again in early spring. There is usually so much work to do in the spring that the more common practice is to plow but once, preferably in the fall, then disk thoroughly in the spring. For best results, spring plowing should be well disked before planting to pack the furrow slice down against the subsoil.

NEW COACH RIDES LIKE A PULLMAN

H. R. Fowler Greatly Improves Motor Bus Service

H. R. Fowler has recently put into service a new Reo Parlor-car on his bus line, Charlevoix to Petoskey.

The new car is undoubtedly one of the best equipped coaches in this part of the state. It can accommodate twenty-five passengers, and rides like a Pullman.

The seats are cushioned with the finest upholstery, and their springs make riding a pleasure. The lighting system of the car is superb, passengers being able to read at leisure, and there is no danger of other vehicles not seeing the car at night. Passengers will not have to ride in a stuffy coach with no air, as the ventilation of the coach is so arranged as to give a constant circulation. At the rear of the coach there is a smoking room for gentlemen, and this affords a convenience that is not experienced in other makes of motor bus transportation.

Mr. Fowler deserves credit in putting such a motor bus in operation, and we predict his passengers will be pleased with this future service.

SAYS CHARLEVOIX A SUPERB RESORT

Jackson Prison Warden Entertained by Dr. C. J. Winder

Dr. C. J. Winder, proprietor of the Charlevoix Hotel, entertained guests at a very delightful yacht party given on Pine Lake last Sunday evening.

The party was held in honor of Deputy Warden Hunter, of the Jackson state prisons, who states that Charlevoix is the superb summer resort of Michigan.

Dr. Winder for some time was state dentist for the Jackson prisons, and has done much to improve the health of the prisoners. Later he became interested in the local hotel business, by the transfer of property in the southern part of the state.

P. T. Mitchell, city manager of Petoskey, was also a guest at the party. After a cruise on the lake, the party returned to the Charlevoix Hotel, and enjoyed a very de-luxe dinner.

PRACTICAL HINTS ON MARKETING TURKEYS

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Turkey time's a-coming! If you want top prices for your birds, here's a few tips from the United States Department of Agriculture:

Range fattening is more satisfactory than pen fattening, the department says. Begin fattening about three weeks or a month before marketing, and proceed gradually by feeding lightly on corn in the morning and again in the evening, a short time before the turkeys go to roost. Increase the quantity of corn fed gradually until the birds are getting all they will eat. Be careful not to feed new corn too heavily until the turkeys have become accustomed to it, in prevent digestive troubles.

Good-sized, well-matured birds in good condition for fattening can often be marketed to best advantage at Thanksgiving. Small, immature turkeys should be held until Christmas, for further fattening, but if the birds are unthrifty market them at once. Sales outlets to raisers within express shipping distance of good markets are local consumers, local buyers and dealers, more distant buyers or dealers and car-lot shippers, and receivers or commission merchants of live or dressed poultry in large cities. To determine the best available outlet study shipping charges and keep in touch with both local and distant buyers as to price. Distant buyers will mail quotations on request.

Most producers market their turkeys alive. Shipping dressed turkeys to markets is justified only when making local sales or there is an unusually favorable outlet for the dressed product. Shipping coops should be high enough to enable the birds to stand up. A coop 3 feet long, 2 feet wide and 20 inches high will accommodate five or six turkeys. Overcrowding may result in bruising, which detracts from the market value; overcrowding may also cause death and complete loss.

If the birds are on the road only a few hours, do not feed before shipping. If they are on the road a longer time water and feed liberally to prevent shrinkage in weight. Ship in time to place the turkeys on the market a day or two before the holiday. Late arrivals may reach an overstocked market, and arrival after the holiday usually means lower prices.

Killing and dressing birds is simple when properly done. Hang up the turkeys by their legs and, with a single stroke, push the point of a sharp knife up through the roof of the mouth into the brain. When properly done, this operation paralyzes the bird and loosens the feathers so that they come out easily. Then sever the veins in the throat just beyond the skull for bleeding. The turkey should be dry-picked, and plucked clean. Thoroughly cool the carcass after plucking, inasmuch as failure to remove all animal heat promptly will result in early spoilage. Cool either by hanging outdoors, if the temperature is between 30 and 45 degrees, or by immersing in cold running spring water or ice water.

When thoroughly chilled, the carcasses are ready for shipment. A barrel is a convenient shipping container. Place a layer of cracked ice in the bottom of the barrel, then a layer of turkeys, followed alternately by layers of ice and turkeys, and topped off with a layer of ice. Tack burlap over the top of the barrel.

If you are building up a permanent turkey business be sure to retain as many of the finest, largest, quickest-growing young birds needed to rear the next year's flock, and send the rest to market.

RAISE POULTRY FEED BY HAVING TWO LOTS

When open range is not available and hens must be confined, we recommend the division of the hen yard into two lots, so that green food can be grown on one side while the other patch is being grazed. As soon as the green stuff is two or three inches high the hens may be turned on it, while the other lot may be prepared and sowed again. This plan provides plenty of green, succulent feed throughout the year for the average farm flock. Sooner or later we will have two or more such lots fenced in on our farms, with the hen house so placed with reference to convenience for the caretaker. Lots containing an acre or more, divided by fences, and large enough to provide considerable pasturage for the family cow and a growing heifer are very desirable for growing farm poultry. The pigs should not be turned in, however, for as a rule pigs and chickens do not go well together.

There are times when the poultry do some harm to some of the crops at or soon after planting time, but after they have a good start this is not very often the case. Take corn, for instance, after it is a foot high and from then on it is hard to find a better run for poultry. They help work the crop, destroy insects, and the corn in turn furnishes the much-needed shade. Hawks, by the way, can do little harm to birds on range in a corn field.

The green crops to be grown should be suited to local conditions as well as to the proper time to plant in order to have a succession of green crops throughout the year.

There are times when these lots should not be grazed too closely, not allowed to get a fresh start, so here is where the other yard comes in play. Birds can be shifted from one to the other, thus saving both pasture lots much longer.

From April 1 to July 1 on growing yard 1—Oats, chard or lettuce, clover or vetch, sunflowers, cowpeas, rape. For feeding purposes on yard 2—Winter rye, winter vetch, sweet clover and various other green clover crops.

From July 1 to October 1 the oats, chard and lettuce, clover and vetch, cowpeas and rape on yard 1 may be fed, while buckwheat, dwarf Essex rape and flat turnips are grown on yard 2.

From October 1 to April 1 the growing crops on yard 1 should consist of oats, winter rye, winter vetch, sweet clover and crimson clover, while at the same time yard 2 could be growing buckwheat, dwarf Essex rape, flat turnips and soy beans.

We, in this state, are blessed with a climate that makes it possible to have some green pasturage crop growing at all seasons. It is one of the very best and cheapest foods for our poultry as well as other live stock.—Allen G. Oliver, In Charge, Office of Poultry Extension, North Carolina State Agricultural College.

Proper Plan of Packing Will Prevent Breakage

Careful packing prevents breakage in market eggs. The poultry department of the New Jersey experiment station recommends this plan of packing. First, place an excelsior pad in the bottom of each compartment of the crate. Directly upon this pad place a filler and fill with eggs as usual, packing the eggs small end down. If no flat is placed over the pads, the eggs will bed themselves in the excelsior and ride safely. Three layers should be packed as usual, alternating flat and filler, with an excelsior pad instead of a flat on top of the third layer. Continue to fill the crate, using filler, flat and filler. On the top use an excelsior pad with no flat.

Pullets in Quarters

The reason some pullets are late in laying in the fall is because they get started wrong in their winter quarters.

Pullets should be established in their winter quarters before the egg organs are developed; otherwise a change of house disturbs them and interrupts the egg yield.

Separate Late Molters

Late molting hens should be separated from the pullets about ready to lay. These hens have performed well and now need plenty of fattening feed to build them up ready for early spring laying. Eggs from these hens will be valuable for hatching and should be reserved for that purpose.

Sell Old Hens Early

Pullets make the most profitable layers. Hens are always a good price if sold just before the breeding season is over, but they drop fast when farmers are selling their stock after they drop down in production. Eggs at this season are low in price, and it will pay to sell two or three weeks before they stop laying rather than risk a sudden slump in price. Feed heavily of corn for a week or ten days before you sell, and keep off free range.

Regularity in feeding plays an important part in getting all out of a ration that is possible. Also care in seeing that every detail is taken care of thoroughly. Feeding a good ration and allowing the supply of fresh water to run low is poor economy. The hens must have an abundance of water and plenty of oyster shell and grit. Sometimes all these are supplied and succulent green feed is lacking, and the egg basket is not as well filled as it might be.

• • •

Caponize all late cockerels.

• • •

An abundance of shade is a help in keeping the birds thrifty.

• • •

Hens cannot produce eggs without raw materials for their making. Feed 'em well, summer as well as winter.

• • •

Avoid the thin crow-headed pullets which are rather flatless and generally lacking in pep.

• • •

Retain the pullets that feather early and have plump meaty bodies. The active singing birds with good marking for their breed are the kind to save.

• • •

Provide the goslings with free range, plenty of good shade and green grass to eat. Feed a mash of fine ground grains. Also be sure that they can get plenty of grit.

• • •

A double range is often a help where the pullets are developed. Then corn and sunflowers can be planted in the spring and the birds given the range when the plants are about a foot high.

• • •

Guineas are subject to lice like all other fowl. These pests are found on the head and about the vent as in chickens, and also between the quill feathers of the wings as in turkeys. Sodium fluoride will rid them of the lice, but it is well to use a little salty grease along the base of the quill feathers as well as the powder.

SEPARATED MILK IS VALUABLE FOR PIGS

The Michigan experiment station has recently reported an interesting experiment in growing pigs on corn and water as compared to corn and separated milk. Two pigs that got milk gained 221 pounds each in five months. Those on corn and water gained only 9.5.

At the end of five months the milk-fed pigs were marketed and the two stunted pigs put in separate pens. Pig No. 4 got shelled corn, water and a good mineral mixture. Pig No. 3 got corn and separated milk and though he only weighed 43 pounds at seven months old he weighed 350 pounds at a year old, a gain of 307 pounds. Number 4 gained only 28 pounds, weighing 76 pounds at one year. Then No. 3 was marketed and No. 4 got separated milk and corn for five months. At the end of this time he had gained 274 pounds, weighing 350 pounds, showing that separated milk can bring out even a stunted pig to make good gains. The gains with separated milk cost 6.7 cents per pound, with skim milk at 35 cents per 100 pounds. Gains without milk cost 19.7 to 39 cents per pound.

Although separated milk contains valuable mineral matter this was evidently not what was lacking in the corn. The main deficiency was in protein and in the growth-promoting vitamines, both of which were supplied abundantly by the separated milk. Many people try to feed pigs on corn alone, while others who have dairy cows separate the milk and throw the skimmed milk away. Both are making a serious mistake. If separated milk is not available one should use alfalfa pasture, tankage or some other protein supplement along with corn.

Some will say that they get better results on corn alone than were obtained by the Michigan station. This is probably true where pigs are getting some grass or weeds to supply them with mineral matter and vitamines and with some of the supplementary proteins. The main thing to remember is that corn is not a complete feed for growing animals.

Separated milk should be considered as a supplementary feed, not as a complete feed in itself. Where fed in moderate quantities, two or three pounds of separated milk may take the place of one pound of corn. In large amounts count eight or ten pounds of milk equal to one pound of corn. A good rule is to count 100 pounds of separated milk worth half the price of corn per bushel.—Charles I. Bray, Colorado Agricultural College.

Worm-Free Pigs Bring Top Prices on Market

Hog raisers of Clay county, Nebraska, have built more than 1,000 movable hog houses during the past two years, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture, in order to keep their herds on clean ground and prevent roundworm infestation. Farmers of the county became interested in hog-lot sanitation in 1922, when the county agricultural agent arranged with two hog raisers to carry on demonstrations of the method and the results obtained by following the system. The litters which were farrowed and kept on clean pastures were in both cases much more thrifty than those kept in old, infested quarters. In one case, where 35 litters were farrowed in clean quarters and kept on clean pasture, 228 pigs were weaned without a runt. These pigs topped the market in six months, when they averaged 185 pounds each. Litters on the same farm which were kept in old hog lots soon developed runts. A farmers' automobile tour was organized to visit the demonstrations and a number of individual visits were also made by farmers from all parts of the county. The economic advantage of hog-lot sanitation was so evident that farmers throughout the county are successfully following the practice or are building movable hog houses and completing other arrangements to adopt the system.

TO INSURE CROP OF VIGOROUS LAMBS

Breeding ewes which are in good condition in the fall need little or no grain in winter until about a month before lambing, if given all the bright leguma hay they will eat with an allowance of silage or roots in addition, writes Dorsey McAtee in the Prairie Farmer. At this time or earlier, if they are not in thrifty, vigorous condition, they should be given a limited amount of concentrates up to one-half pound per head with roughage.

The best roughages for ewes are the legume hays—clover and alfalfa—which they like and are rich in protein, and help ward off constipation, a serious danger of the ewe. Other roughages useful to feed with legume hay are bright corn fodder and oat straw which has some hay in it. Timothy hay is too constipating for ewes.

To insure a crop of strong, healthy lambs, exercise for the ewes is essential. They should have access to a dry, sunny yard, well protected from wind and storm, and on all fair days should be forced to exercise by scattering roughage over a nearby field. When the snow is deep, paths should be broken out with snow plow or stone boat. On stormy days the sheep should remain indoors.

To avoid udder troubles, ewes should be given but little grain for two or three days after lambing, and the allowance gradually increased with the demand for more milk by the lamb. With good roughage, not over two pounds of grain per ewe daily is necessary. After being turned to pasture the ewes need no additional feed, if grazing is good.

In about 147 days or five months after the ewes are bred the lambs may be expected. It is wise to be close at hand during lambing time to assist the ewes or any weak lambs. Pens should be provided for the ewes and their newly born lambs. Here each ewe and her young may remain for a couple of days until they are wanted to each other and the lambs are strong enough to look out for themselves among the flock.

Corn Stover Silage Is Good for Winter Feed

The custom of raking up and burning corn stalks is considered a huge waste. While somewhat depending upon local conditions and the feed supplies, the destruction of corn stover is rightly regarded as a loss. Corn stover, plowed under, has a theoretical value in fertility of about $2 a ton, but this can hardly be figured on the mere basis of tonnage grown because stalks are hard to handle in plowing under. The feed value is far more than $2 a ton.

Feeding tests have shown that corn stover silage—made from the dry stalks by the addition of water—has a value of about two-thirds that of corn silage for wintering beef breeding cows, and probably is worth 60 per cent as much as corn silage for feeding dairy cows. By corn stover we mean, of course, cured shock corn minus the ears. A considerable percentage of the feeding value of a crop of corn is located in the stalks and leaves. In trials at four northern experiment stations the mature ears weighed 4,415 pounds an acre, while the stover weighed 3,833 pounds an acre. About 25 per cent of the digestible crude protein of the corn crop is in the stover and about 37 per cent of the total digestible nutrients.

By destroying the stover we actually throw away a good portion of labor and expense, to say nothing of the soil fertility elements going into the make-up of the corn crop.

Keep Ewes in Flesh

Permitting the ewes to become badly reduced in flesh is a very poor practice and one that usually causes heavy losses. As the lamb begins to draft heavily upon its dam for daily nourishment, it is necessary to not only supply additional food to maintain a steady flow of milk, but also to preserve the flesh of the mother as well. It is very natural for a nursing dam to favor her offspring and consume sufficient food to not only maintain her own system, but supply nourishment for her lamb.

Live Stock Hints

A normal, healthy pig should weigh 200 pounds when it is 200 days old.

• • •

The flock owner who is desirous of encouraging a strong flow of nutritious milk to force the lamb crop forward as fast as possible, should lay plans to supply the flock with plenty of supplementary forage.

• • •

Hogs from pasture and finished by hogging off corn shrink less in shipping to market than yard-fed hogs.

• • •

Thousands of sheep will suffer from stomach worms in spite of the fact that it only costs one cent per head for material to treat for this trouble.

• • •

Range men sometimes give away the smallest of a pair of twins because the average range ewe can only look after one. The practice is becoming more general however, to keep and raise them.

Must Produce Eggs

To be most profitable a flock must produce eggs the year around, in winter as well as summer. There is small profit in summer eggs, but when they get up to top-notch winter prices there is a handsome profit in them. The flock that does not produce a reasonable number of eggs during the period from November 1 to April 1 of each year is often kept at an actual loss for the year, as it is almost impossible to make an animal profit from the flock that lays all its eggs when the market is sagging.

Means of Ventilation

If no means of ventilation are provided it is a good plan to remove several panes of glass from the windows in the south side of the poultry house and replace with cheesecloth or unbleached muslin. Fresh air is admitted through the cloth and the stale air from the inside is permitted to escape. These cloth-covered openings do not lower the temperature of the interior of the building. Some contend that the house is warmer when arranged in this way.

Dehorn Bull Calf Early

If a bull calf is dehorned early in life it should be done with caustic potash soon after the animal is a week old. If neglected at that time it is better to wait until the bull is becoming old and shows a tendency to become ugly. Then the removal of the horns will calm the bull and make him more easily handled for quite a long time. Some bull calves are neglected and not given the beat of rations or a clean stable. This helps to reduce their vitality and it never pays

Difficult to Determine Sex of Young Chickens

Experienced poultrymen find it hard to realize how difficult it is for the inexperienced to tell the sex of chickens, even at three months of age. Cases are known of cockerels of that age being shipped as pullets with the very best intention on the part of the seller. The Storrs station gives the following helpful directions for detecting the males:

"Perhaps the surest and most satisfactory method of determining the sex of those individuals about which one is uncertain is to examine the feathers on the back and saddle. On the males these feathers will be long and pointed, while the edges will show a characteristic sheen and an absence of the barbules which give the web of an ordinary feather its solid appearance. In other words, the ends of the barbs on the back feathers of a cockerel are perfectly smooth, and there is a very definite space between them. The pullet feathers, on the other hand, have a short, rounded and blunt appearance, an entire absence of sheen, so that the whole surface of the web presents the same general appearance. If these differences are kept in mind there will be very few individuals in the flock which cannot be correctly classified as to sex."

Crate Fattening Favored

If you have been keeping a supply of cockerels for table use, these will be much improved if specially fattened for two or three weeks before killing. Crate fattening is a simple method of producing remarkable improvement in quality of flesh, and in most instances the gains in weight secured during the process cost less than any realized during the growing period. If crate fattening is not convenient, at least shut the birds up in a small pen and feed them heavily.

Chicken Lice Destroyed by Dipping in Solution

Chicken lice can be easily destroyed by dipping the birds in a solution of sodium fluorid and water. Five ounces of sodium fluorid dissolved in a tub containing five gallons of water will be sufficient to treat 100 adult birds or twice that number of chickens ten to twelve weeks old. Every bird on the place should be drenched in this solution to entirely eliminate poultry lice for the next few months. Select a warm day and dip the birds early in the forenoon.

WILDWOOD

Haying is about completed in this neighborhood.

Uncle John Crawford is still in a very critical condition.

Mrs. Ellen Wilson and Leslie Hosler spent Sunday with the former's mother, Mrs. Emery.

Frank Lewis, of Central Lake, has moved his family onto the Jim Wilson farm, where he has employment for the summer.

Alex Bruce and wife of Detroit, are house guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Wilson for a few days. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce were formerly Lakeview residents.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Detrick, daughter, Pauline, and son, Paul, and Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Detrick and two children, all of Kenton, Ohio, left the last of the week for their homes.

The latest arrivals at the Wildwood resort include Mr. and Mrs. Fansworth and two daughters of Grand Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur and Mr. and Mrs. Boardman of Jackson, Michigan, and Mrs. Mayfield and two daughters of New Orleans, La.

ANTRIM CITY

Alfred Brooks was on the sick list a few days last week.

F. H. Brooks has bought 10 acres of hay from Henry Elzinga.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Baker attended the dance at Eastport Friday evening.

C. L. Stott's father and mother from Gaylord, also their uncle from Detroit, drove over Sunday for a day's visit.

Two Ford cars stopped at the Antrim City cemetery Sunday. We do not know who the drivers were. The cars were filled with people. They looked the cemetery over, ate their lunch at the northwest corner and drove away. Now, we do not want to keep what belongs to these people, so if they will call they can get the empty cans and old paper they left to beautify the cemetery and mark their lunch ground.

English Women Preachers

After the recent appointment of one woman to a pulpit in England, the movement to admit women to the cloth spread rapidly and already the National Free Church council is about to elect one as its president. Women preachers are rare indeed in England, although in America there are more than 2,000 clergywomen distributed among 40 sects and there are quite a few in Iceland and Switzerland. England started to admit women in 1916, but the movement was crushed. In the Anglican church are several assistant preachers who are women.

The annual crop of stories about squirrels gathering golf balls is now due.

Buy Across The Counter

WHEN you buy across the counter in the stores of this town, you are using good business judgment. Why? There are many reasons, but one of the most important is this:

You can buy what you want at the price you wish to pay. You are not obliged to accept "something just as good," because you are in a position to compare values and make your own selections.

When you trade at home you are helping your friends to help you. And there is no finer thing in life than neighborly co-operation. It always pays—in happiness and satisfaction as well as dollars and cents.

BAD STORM ENDANGERS YACHTSMEN

MANY BOATS ARE FORCED TO QUIT RACE

Yacht Fleet Piloted by Ray Hamiltoo Reaches Ludington—None Have Completed Ruo

Sailing craft entered in the Cbicago-Mackinac yacht race, scheduled to leave Chicago Saturday, were forced to quit on account of the high winds prevailing that day. Five or six of the yachts made Chicago after being battered about by the waves for hours. The Fleet, owned by Mr. Shaw of Boyne City, and piloted by Ray Hamilton of this city, entered Ludington harbor Saturday evening, tbose on board having had a battle for their lives and completely exhausted in their fight to keep afloat. As we go to press (at 3:00 p. m. Wednesday), none of the boats entered in the race have completed tbe run, although Hamilton on the Fleet is expected hourly.

"Half a dozen of Chicago's wealthiest sportsmen today probably owe their lives to their presence of mind in stuffing a psir of overalls into a leak, an inch wide and three feet long, that appeared in their yacht, Polaris II, outstanding favorite to win the 331-mile Chicago-Mackinac Island race.

The yacht came dangerously near foundering in a gale that sent fivn others of the 21 entrants scurrying to shelter. A seam neur the keel opened and four feet of water sceped into the cabin.

Every available man of the 12 aboard turned to with buckets and bailed frantically for two hours untii the location of the lesk was discovered and plugged with the overalls. Lawrence A. Heyworth, wealthy real estate operatnr and shipper, ssid that a foot more of water in the cabin would have foundered the craft. The craft carried only a dinghy large enough for three men.

Aboard the Polaris II, in addition to Skipper Heyworth, were Joseph M. Cudahy, the packer, and Sydney Smith, the cartoonist."

The members of St. Mary's church will hold tbeir annual bazaar on the 6th and 7th of August. Ice cream and caks will be servod and fancy baked goods sold, besidos many other attractions.—Adv. 29-t2.

PROCESS IS AN INTERESTING ONE

One Dopartmeot Alone Deserving of Iospectioo

Just how mnch activity there is in this department may bo gained from the fact that 125 miles of steel ribbon is used daily in the production of roller bearings at the present output schedule, permitting the assembly of 51,600 complete bearings evcry day.

The steel ribbon used is five thirty-seconds of an inch thick and about half an inch wide. It is wound in Ford designed and built machines known as "winders" and when it emerges from these machines is in the form of a heavy spiral rod with a narrow opening through the center. The rods are cut into proper lengths for the rollers, and the short lengths are then hardened and tempered.

Grinding operations in which the rollers are ground to very close limits are carried on in other Ford designed machines, known as "centerless" grinders in which the precision necessary in the rollers is easily regulated.

The last operation before the rollers nre finally assembled and welded in the cages is one through which every finished bearing must pass—the process of being de-mngnetized. Practically every bearing after having passed through the various mnnufacturing operations cerries a certain amount of magnetism. If this remained the rollers wouid have a tendency to pick up and retain small pieces of steel that might by chance get into the sleeve of the bearing. It is not likely, of course, that any harm would result even if this magnetism were not destroyed, but the policy followed is another bit of evidence that the Ford Motor Company leaves nothing undone to insure the utmost of service in all its products.

ELK RAPIDS AGAIN VISITED BY YEGGS

Four Business Places Entered Last Sunday Evoning

Four business places in Elk Rapids were burglarized last Sunday night despite the fact that thoy were just recovering from the excitement caused by the bank robbery just a week previous.

The places burglarized were the elevator of tbe Elk Rapids Co-Operativo Marketing Association, the jewelry store of Frank Martinek, the grocery store of A. P. Wilson and the hardware store of Fred Andrus.

They were apparently after cash, the officers believe, and they found little. A few watches wera taken from the jewelry store, a fsw knives from the hardware, and a little cash from the tills of tbe grocery and jewelry establisbments.

It is thought the robbery was pulled off by local talent, because they spraad red pepper on their tracks, ostensibly to foil pursuers. This is Elk Rapids' second thrill within a few days, for just a week ago bank robbers hold up the People's bank and escaped with $2,500 in cash and some bonds. It might be well for the sheriff to keep under cover, or the yeggs will steal his official badge.

FARM STOCK

TUBERCULOUS HOGS BLAMED ON CATTLE

Tuberculous cattle are the isuin source of tuberculosis in hogs. The disease is most commonly conveyed by feeding hogs os unpasteurized skimmed milk, and by allowing them to follow tuberculous cattle in the feed lot and feed upon the undigested grain in the droppings. It is very significant that tuberculosis is most common among hogs in sections where the disease is also most prevalent among cattle and where the feeding practices above mentioned are commonly followed. Hogs also contract tuberculosis from feeding os tuberculous carcasses of various animals, including fowls, and on uncooked garbage and slaughterhouse offal.

Prevention lies in ths pasteurization of milk fed to hogs, especially that from creameries, and in allowing hogs to feed behind adult cattle only when the cattle have passed the tuberculin test; also in thoroughly cooking nll offal or carcasses before they are fed to hogs.

Young steers or young beef animals as a ruls do not spread tuberculosis among hogs. Therefore no change need ba msde in the very profitable practice of allowing hogs to follow feeders end stockers, unless these are not healthy.

When tuberculosis already exists in a drova of hogs all the affected animals, whether hogs or cattle, should be removed from the premises. The hogs should be sent to market for slaughter at sn abattoir under federal inspection. The tuberculin test should be applied to all cattle on the place, and those reacting should be properly disposed of. The pens and stables should bs thoroughly cleaned and disinfected before restocking.

Swine Paralysis Due to Deficiency in Minerals

Thet swine paralysis is due either to a mineral or vitamin deficiency seems to be a matter of general agreement. As to minerals that may be given with tbis feed or water the following has been recommended by several of the experiment stations: Air-slaked lime ur wood ashes and salt equal parts by weight; air-slaked limo, bone meal and salt, equal parts by weight; nine parts bone meal or ground rock phosphate and one part tanksge; wood ashes ten parts, acid phosphate ten parts and salt one part by weight. These ingredients are all easily obtained. A few ounces of any of these mixtures with this feed once a day will be sufficient. The Illinois station does not recommend the use of air-slaked lime, but other stations do and the results appear to be quite satisfactory.—Geo. H. Glnver, Veterinary Department, Colorado Agricultural College.

Disinfectants and Oil Destroy Vermin on Hogs

Lice must be elimnated frnm hogs and their quarters if the animals are to thrive. If not checked, lice will seriously handicap younger pigs. During the fall and winter season when the hogs spend more time within buildings, there is greater need for precautions agninst lice.

Coal oil emulsion, crude oil or coal tar dip may be used for spraying the hngs end tbeir sleeping quarters. Sleeping quarters should be frequently clenned and treated with one of these disinfectants. Oilers may be provided for the hogs. The animals will soon learn to rub agninst these and will keep themselves free from lice.

Coal oil emulsion can be made by dissolving one bar of laundry soap in one gallon of hot wnter. Then add one gallon of conl oil to the mixture and stir thoroughly. This may be diluted to make five gallons of the mixture.

Growing and Fattening Pigs for Early Market

The self-feeding of corn and tankage on pasture proved, at the Illinois experiment station, to be an economical and labor-saving metbod of growing and fattening pigs for the early fall market. A number of experiments bava recently been conducted at that station to determine the amounts of concentrates most profitnble to feed growing and fattening pigs on pasture.

Without concentrates, young pigs made very small gains on either rape or alfalfa pasture. Where pigs were fed a light ration of corn during the summer, tbey required more concentrates per bundred pounds in the fall, in order to reach 225 pounds. A medinm corn ration during the summer ellowed the use of a greater amonnt of new corn in tbe fall, but the hogs sold on a luter and lower markst.

Nipping "Wolf" Teeth

Nipping of the "wolf" teetb shortly after tbe pigs are farrowed is one of the littin things tbst will help to reduce tbe loss of yonng pigs. Only tbe nnter half of tha teetb should be taken nff. Breaking tbem off down to tbe guma breaks the membranes and gives infections a cbsnce to get in snd cause sore mouth. Cutting off these teeth prevents the pigs from cnttiag esch othsr's mnntba when they bito and strike at each other whlin sncking.

CEMENT BARGE HIT BY SEVERE STORM

J. B. John Has Spars eod Masts Brokeo in Sunday Blow

The steamer J. B. John, owned by the Petoskey Transportation Company was seriously damaged in a severe storm which wus encountered about eight o'clock Saturday night, when the bont was en route from Milwaukee to the Petoskey cement plant.

The storm was of a phenomenal nature, and one the crew will never forget. It seemed as though an earthquake was taking pluce under the water, and that the ship would be shaken into a thousand pieces.

The derrick spars on the ship are made of steel, well riveted into their pisces, but the storm was too much and it was not long before they were out of place, badly bent. The main spars were also destroyed. It is conceded by the officers of the ship, that they will have to sail to the Detroit shipyards for repairs.

The J. B. John is well known by mariners in Charlevoix, having laid up herc in Round Lake during previous winters for repairs and overhauling.

BELVEDERE CLUB PLAN NEW COURSE

ORGANIZATION IS NOW WELL UNDER WAY

New Associatioo Not to Be Limited to Club Members Only—Work May Start This Fall

Plans for the new golf course to be laid out for the Belvedere Club are nearly completed. The new course will be marked out near the old Wakefield farm, one mile south of the city.

The new club house will be a mecca to all those who enjoy golf. Members and guests can enjoy a good rest and luncheons during intermins. For some time a new golf course has been in need. Owing to the large number of people playing the game, the need became imperative, and action was taken at once to plan such a course. Resorters in Charlevoix have repeatedly stated that the crowds of players using courses in this vicinity and other nearby resorts, are making golf playing for real sport a handicap.

Early this season one of the prominent golf enthusiasts of the Charlevoix resort, A. B. Scarborough, organized a committee of three men, Logan, G. Thompson, Vernon Clark and W. B. Stewart, to start action on plans for a new golf course and club house. Since the organization of this special committee, the vision of a golf course has rapidly progressed into a reality.

The new golf association's membership will not bo limited to resorters. It is the plan of the association to obtain at least twenty members from the business and professional men of this city. Half the quota for membership of the local citizens has been established. The new members are as follows: W. S. Richardson, Robert Bridge, J. H. Koch, L. P. Adams, R. B. Armstrong, Archie Livingston, Earl A. Young, A. J. Usher, Martin Block and W. W. Mitchell.

In our interview with A. B. Scarborough, it seems that the remaining quota for membership in our locality ought to be easily signed up. The new golf course will mean much to Charlevoix. Work that haa been dons by the committee in trying to make our resort more beautiful, should be highly appreciated. Now then, you local golf enthusiasts, get out of your hibernating shell and sign up as aoon as possible.

Just as soon as suffieient funds have been subscribed, the work on the eourse will be atarted. Monday, a golf architeet and builder was consulted, and options on propcrty are being taken care of.

SLICKER FLIM-FLAMS LOCAL MERCHANTS

Natiooal Travelers' Guidance Club Proves All Bunk

Several Charlevoix business men are out from five to ten dollars. A smooth talking, well dressed guy from out of town approached them with a proposition whereby they would get $24 worth of gasoline foi five bucks, and they rose to it like a trout to a fly. Now they are saying "Never again, never again."

The salesman, driving a fashionable car, entered the town about three weeks ago and made a quick clean-up. He approached the business men, selling them an applica:tion for membership in the National Travelers' Guidance Club for five, ten or more dollars, according to how readily they bit, and with the membership card went a book of $24 worth of gasoline tickets. He was "just out of books," he said, but promised to supply them later. They were good, he said, at the Standard and Sinclair stations.

He worked the same game down the line until he ran into a guy at Manistee to whom the proposition didn't look good. This fellow wired the point the stranger designated as headquarters, and the response was negative. But the alleged slicker got away with what he was after—the coin. Our local fellows who were taken in on the proposition are now looking for the man who stung them.

THE GOVERNMENT MAKING CHICAGO TOE THE MARK

When the city of Chicago lost its tilt with Michigan to prevent the windy city from using so much water from Lake Michigan through the drainage eanal, one of the provisions was that Chicago should provide for metering the city's water supply.

This has not been done, and Tuesday of last week the Chicago city council was warned by Maj. Rufua W. Putnam, U. S. distriet engineer, that if metering is not at onee provided the government will eut the amount of water the city is allowed to use for sewage disposal purposes from 8,500 feet a second down to 4,156.

Evidently the vietory achieved by Attorney General Andrew B. Dougherty of this county when he trimmed Chicago in the water ateal case was no empty conquest. Evidently, also, Chicago now realizes it.—Mancelona Herald.

The condition of the shores of Lake Michigan and other lakes warrant the above aetion. The water is the lowest in history and is causing heavy financial loss to both lake shipping and lake front property owners.

SHOOTS HIMSELF WITH SHOTGUN

ARTHUR J. ZIPP TAKES HIS LIFE WHILE DESPONDENT

Friends aod Relatives Shocked at His Uotimely Eod—Laid to Rest Monday

Arthur J. Zipp, one of Charlevoix's well known business men and lumberman, took his own life Saturday during the noon hour and was found dead shortly after in the basement of his home on the south side. No reason for the act other than temporary derangement or despondency can bo found, and the news of his death came as a shock to bis relatives and friends.

Deceased was born in Markham, Ontario, October 18, 1857, being 57 years of age at time of death. He came to Charlevoix many years ago and during his long residence here was chiefly occupied in the lumber industry.

He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Robert Scott and Mrs. Waneta Puckett of Cleveland, Ohio; a grand-son, Stewart Jones of this city; two brothers, Gsorge Zipp of Petoskey, and Homer Zipp of Grand Rapids, and a sister, Mrs. Herman Darling of Central Lake. He was a member of the local Masonic order and Knights of Pythias.

Funeral services were held from the home Monday forenoon, Rev. B. G. Mattson officiating. The remains were taken to the family burial lot in the Mancelona cemetery.

Not one of his acquaintances but feel a personal share in the grief which his death has caused, and the sympathies of the entire community are extended to the bereaved family.

VIRGINIAN, INTREPID AND CELARETUS WINNERS IN CHICAGO-MACKINAC RACE

CONTESTANTS MAKE RUN DESPITE HIGH WIND AND EXTREMELY ROUGH SEA

Mackinac- Charlevoix Race Postponed Until Next Year—Rainbow of Chicago Yacht Club Winner of Pine Lake Race—Increased Interest Shown in Event

American yacht racing history would not be complete without the Chicago Yacht Club's great annual sailing contest, the Chicago-Mackinac race. Sailed first in 1898, and placed regularly on the C. Y. C. race scbedule in 1004, it has dominated the summer's racing on Lake Michigan ever since.

It is three hundred and thirty miles from Chicago to Mackinac Island by steamer eourse and during one race or another, every mile has seen competing yachts strive for momentary advantages. Skippers and crews have exhausted every trick of skill and judgment in efforts to increase speed or better the posltion of their ships in this race, of all races.

Sailed usually in the latter part of July each year, every condition of weather has been met with, from gales of seventy miles or more, testing the nerve and seamanship of every yachtsman in the race, to baffling calms when the lake is like glass and men's souls are tried, and patience becomes the supreme virtue. Changes in wind direction and weather are expected. In only a few races has the wind at the beginning held throughout the entire length of the race.

The recent Mackinac Island race took placd under the worst storm conditions that ever occurred on Lake Michigan. Out of the twenty-two yachts entering tbe race at the Chicago Yacht Club, only seven finished the course. At four o'clock Saturday afternoon, July 25th, the sloop, Celaretus, sailed into Mackinac Island harbor, first. It will be interesting to Charlevoix resorters to know that this ship is owned by Mr. Price, who is a business partner of Geo. D. Webb, president of the Belvedere Club. The Intrepid came in second, Virginia, third; schooner Elizabeth, fourth; Privateer, fifth; sloop Flight, Charlevoix Yacht Club entry, took sixth place, and the Chaperon seventh. Although the Virginian finished third, it took first place, owing to her handicap, and won the Chicago-Mackinac trophy. The Intrepid took second place with her handicap, and left the Celaretus in third place.

The Mackinac Island-Charlevoix race was not held on account of so few boats being left at the finish of the Chicago-Mackinac Island race, and also a great many sloops, schooners and yawls that had to leave for Georgian Bay on party trips. This race, however, will be held next year, and we hope under more favorable circumstances. The same trophy will be awarded the winner of the contest, a twelve inch sterling silver cup.

The annual Pine Lake regatta and motor boat races were held Saturday and Sunday, August 1 and 2, under the auspices of the Charlevoix Yacht Club. Ray Hamilton was chairman of the racing committee, and bandled both races in excellent fashion. The starting and finishing point of the races was a direct line between a buoy off the Inn pier and the judges' boot.

Yawls: Rainbow, of Chicago Yacht Club, winner of first prize, a barometer, and the Siesta, awarded second prize, pair hip-boots.

Motor boat prizes are as follows: Free-for-all race, won by Miss Tennesse, Geo. A. Shwab's entry, was awarded a cup given by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce. The winner of the Handicap race, the Holly-Hoo, E. L. Hollinsworth's entry, was also awarded a cup from the Chamber of Commerce. The out-board motor race was won by Roy Brady, and a prize cup was given by the Johnson Motor Co.

The Charlevoix Yacht Club is certainly gaining prestige every year among the other yacht clubs in holdthese events, and making the Chardue Ray Hamilton for sponsoring these races, and making the Charlevoix Yacht Club what it is today. A yacht club house is being predicted in the very near future.

SOO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WANTS FACTS

Representative Visiting City Says Tourists Ask About Attractioos of this Region

Facts about the roads, the hotels, the scenic beauty spots and other features of Charlevoix and adjacent resort district was gathered here last Wednesday by William J. Cummings, assistant secretary of the Civic and Commercial Association of Sault Ste. Marie, in the upper peninsula. Mr. Cummings wants tho facts for use in his office at the Soo, which city, he says, is thronged with motor tourists who are "on their way" and call at the Chamber of Commerce by the scores daily, in seareh of information about the best places to go to sight-see.

Sault Ste. Marie is in the line of several streams of tourists, Mr. Cummings pointed out here Wednesday. In that city the Dixie Highway, the Roosevelt Highway and the Transcontinental Highway leading from eastern Canada to the western states, eonverge and daily empty hundreds of tourists there for a view of the longest locks in the world and the other historic spots. In addition to these three highways, whieh utilize M-12, a fine gravel road from the Straits of Mackinac to the Soo; the Great Northern or King's Highway in Ontario; and M-25 through Newberry to Marquette and the Copper country westward; there is the beautiful highway leading directly from Chicago through Milwaukee and up the beautiful shores of Wisconsin and the upper peninsula. This highway passes Escanaba, Menominee and Manistique in upper Michigan and is a smooth flowing ribbon of pavement and splendid gravel all the way without a single detour, into northern Michigan.

Due to these highways, all terminating in the Soo, the thousands of motorists on arriving at that city are faced with the need to ehoose a return route home. Thus Mr. Cum-

MANY CHANGES IN GAME LAWS

OPEN SEASON FOR DEER CUT TO FIFTEEN DAYS

Hunters' Liceose Fee Raised from $1.00 to $1.25—Cao Shoot Cock Pheasants

The new game and fish laws of the state to be in force this fall, while following in a general way the old laws, have some changes of which the sportsman will be well advised to inform himself.

First in importanee is the raising of the resident small game license fee from $1 to $1.25. There is probably little chance of this particular change being overlooked providing, of course, that the hunter applies for a license.

This, as before, applies to all persons over seventeen years of age and entitles him to hunt for small game and all fur-bearing animals except beaver and bear.

The resident deer license remains at $2.50 with the other deer licenses same as before, viz: camp permit $3, and non-resident, $50.

Non-resident small game license remains at $10, and all fishing licenses are the same as last year.

The hunter and trapper will still find the beaver on the protected list, his day of reckoning postponed from November 1 this year to November 1, 1930.

The law forbidding the carrying of loaded firearms in an automobile has been amplified to cover also the magazines of guns as well as their barrels.

Under wild waterfowl legislation no gun of greater size than 10-guage will be lawful or will more than one gun to each person be allowed to a boat. A six-shot shotgun is still legal however despite the agitation to ban this alleged weapon of the "game hog."

Deer Season Cut Five Days

Deer hunters will find the "one buck law" still in force, the only notable change being the season, which has been shortened five days and will now comprise November 15 to 30 inclusive. Moose, elk and caribou are still on the closed list.

The intrepid rabbit hunter will have to control his fevered pulse for 10 days longer this fall, as the season opening has been advanced to October 25 on both eottontails and snowshoes. January 31 remains the closing date on the bunnies and February 15 on the jacks as in previous years. The limit remains seven in one day and ten in possession at one time. The 25 limit in season has been removed.

The fox squirrel season has been cut to six days, being October 25 to 30 inclusive. Five in one day and 15 in season limits remains the same.

Black and gray squirrels are put on the proteeted list for still another year in advance, the present date being Oetober 25, 1927.

Along with the beaver, the otter, fisher and marten are on the elosed list until season of 1930.

Muskrat On Closed List

A surprise is in store for many would-be trapper to find the muskrat also protected this year. His closed season maintains until 1927.

Minks also may not lawfully be trapped until 1027, though they may be taken otherwise from February 1 to March 31.

Skunk may be taken the same as last year from November 1 to March 31 inclusive, the law however is clarified on certain points. It is unlawful to have them in possession taken during closed season and their house or holo must not be destroyed or molested.

The season on rnccoon has been changed materially, now reading from October 2 to December 31 in-

Take your Ford and venture forth into the delights of the unknown. Leave the beaten path to others. Go where you will—whether the road is paved or not.

It is the car of the true adventurer; the car that no going—be it sand, dirt or rocky road—can halt; the car that will take you safely, certainly and happily to where nature hides her true loveliness.

Charlevoix Co-Operative Assn.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mollencamp

The cow-testing association gives every indication of having its best year in existence if interest, enthusiasm and quality of herds means anything to work of this kind. Last year proved to be a mighty successful and beneficial season as the testimonials of several members at our recent dairy picnic will attest. This work is proving to be more popular each year as shown by the fact that there are 110 associations in the state operating at present and more being organized every day.

The association in Charlevoix county is very fortunate in being able to secure Clarence Mullett to start the new year off and to assist with the dairy exhibits at the coming county Fair. Mr. Mullett has endeared himself with all the members by his conscientious work and readiness in offering advice, suggestions and guidance with their dairy problems.

The new year began August 1st with 25 herds on test, consisting of around 325 cows. The membership is as follows:

Bean Club Members Visited

On the 24th of July, P. G. Lundin, assistant state club leader, was in the county inspecting the fields of beans which the members have planted and are caring for. During the day nearly all the members were visited. The members have certified robust beans, secured by the county agent, and keep and accurate account of the acreage, quality, yield, and exact dates of all the operations put on their field. On the 14th of August there will be an elimination contest at Gaylord to pick out the best team of 3 members each to represent northern Michigan at the Detroit Fair, with all expenses paid. At Detroit the best team is given a trip to Chicago to the Livestock and Grain show. The county agent will choose the best 3 from this county to represent us at Gaylord. Mr. Lundin reported much interest among the members and assured us we have an excellent chance to have the best team.

Calf Club Members Visited

The membership was divided into three different groups, one meeting being held at Boyne City at the home of Howard Fineout; another at Bert Elliott's, Charlevoix, and the last at the home of Wm. Severance, East Jordan. Nevels Pearson, state calf club leader, was present and gave the members instructions as to how to fit and show their animals.

One of the requirements of the club is for each member to show his or her calf at the county Fair, and it is essential that each member know how to show to the best advantage. The members are deeply interested in their work and Mr. Pearson states we have an excellent bunch of calves in the club.

The three best members of this section will be given a fine trip to Detroit and the best team there will be sent to the Chicago Livestock Exposition as a reward. So let up hope Charlevoix county will be selected.

2nd Poultry Demonstration Held

J. A. Hannah, poultry culling expert, gave a poultry demonstration at the farm of Wm. Sanderson, Ironton, on the 29th of July, at which place the poultry leaders of the county to the number of 31 were in attendance. As has been announced previously, each of the leaders attends three different all-day schools held in various places, then at the conclusion of each will put on a public demonstration in each community.

During the forenoon, Mr. Hannah discussed the subjects of feeding, housing and incubation, while in the afternoon, culling was practiced entirely. The leaders are becoming more enthused each meeting and are surely getting much useful information.

WHY SUFFER SO?

Get Back Your Health as Other Charlevoix Folks Have Done.

Too many people suffer lame, aching backs, distressing kidney disorders and rheumatic aches and pains. Often this is due to faulty kidney action and there's danger of hardened arteries, dropsy, gravel or Bright's disease. Don't let weak kidneys wear you out. Use Doan's Pills before it is too late! Doan's are a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Here is one of many Charlevoix cases:

John Stephens, 209 W. Upright Ave., says: "My kidneys were weak and acted too frequently, often causing me to get up several times during the night to pass the secretions. The passages of the secretions burned a great deal. Doan's Pills relieved the trouble and made me feel better in every way."

MANY CHANGES IN GAME LAWS

clusive. The old law was from November 1 to March 31.

Bears for the first time have been taken out of the bracket with coyote, wolf, lynx, et al, and are now protected except from November 15 to 30. The bear hunter must have a deer license in his possession in order to hunt and kill bear with firearms. It is unlawful to trap or poison Bruin.

Many Changes in Bird Laws

Some notable changes have been made in the bird laws. First in importanee is the opening of the law on Chinese ring-necked pheasants. These haughty birds will suffer legally from October 25 to 31 and this by the way is also duration of the new open season on partridge. The cutting down to the minimum of the season on "pats" was not unexpected by the majority of sportsmen. The ruffed grouse limits are reduced to 20 in season but remain five in one day and 10 in possession. The pheasant bag limit is four males in possession and two in one day.

Prairie chicken are also on the open list for those same few days, October 25 to 31, with a bag limit of five in one day, 10 in possession and 25 in season. This will mark the first legal hunting of prairie chickens for several years. Spruce hens, homing pigeons, mourning doves and quail remain on the protected list and perhaps will remain so for all time.

Duck Bag Limit Cut

The duck season remains the same, September 16 to December 31, the bag limit however has been reduced from 25 to 15 in one day, with 30 in possession instead of 50 at one time.

Coots and gallinules have the same season but the bag limit has been changed to 25 of the combined species in season, all of which may be taken in one day.

Geese and Brant are likewise legally taken from September 16 to December 31 but the bag limit further restricted. The new law brings this down to five in one day, 15 in season and eight in possession.

Black breasted and golden plover and yellow legs have the same open season as ducks. The bag limit of 15 in one day remains the same, but the season bag has been cut to 20 with 15 legally in possession at one time.

Rails remain the same as before with the same open season as other water and shore birds and bag limit of 25 in one day except the sora, which is 50 in accordance with the federal migratory bird law.

Wilson and jack snipe remain unchanged. Other shore birds are on the protected list for another year. Woodduck are of course still stringently protected.

Little Change in Fish Laws

The fisherman next spring will find very little change in his restrictions. The so-called white bass are now specifically mentioned and are put in the same class as sunfish. They may be caught during any season of the year but must be seven inches in length; 25 in a day, and in possession mark the bag limit. This is the same as the sunfish except that the "sunny" may be one inch shorter, when he is deemed legal prey.

This year also marks the first appearance of the grass pike in the game fish list. Though specifically mentioned for the first time the protection does not amount to much as this fresh water shark may be taken during any season of the year with hook and line and may be speared through the ice during January and February.

The trout season, May 1 to September 1, remains the same and the bass season is also the old familiar June 16 to January 1 for the southern peninsula with a two weeks later opening date in the northern peninsula.

AT THE MOVIES

Great Western Drama is Coming

One of the most romantic phases of the world's history, and certainly the most spectacular in American chronicles, is slowly vanishing. The passing of the old American West, the cowboys, the cattle, and the hardy pioneers who invaded and conquered a great empire, these are the highlights of "Sundown," the First National production, which comes to the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday.

Earl Hudson's story, as presented in "Sundown," has raised the question in the minds of Americans as to the future meat supply of this nation.

How a group of big cattle-owners gathered their vast herds and made a final and sensational drive across the border into Mexico; the mountains; the bitterness existing between the cattlemen and the "nesters" who have come to encroach upon the land they pioneered; these are some of the outstanding points of "Sundown." Interwoven with the theme is a beautiful love story.

"Janice Meredith" Used by Schools as History Study

"Janice Meredith," Marion Davies' new picture of Paul Leicester Ford's romance of the days of the Revolution, will be shown at the Palace Theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday. Men who have made history, heroes of '76, names famous in every country, appear in this magnificent, dramatic photoplay, directed by E. Mason Hopper and distributed by Metro-Goldwyn.

Paul Revere, George Washington, General Cornwallis, Patrick Henry, Alexander Hamilton, Benjamin Franklin, the Marquis de Lafayette, Major Pitcairn, King Louis XVI, and Lord Howe—all prominent figures in the early history of the American republic, are enacted by well-known players in one of the most beautiful productions on the screen.

Martha Washington and Marie Antoinette also are present for a share of the glory of this interesting and exciting period of history.

Instructors of public schools and universities are taking their pupils to see "Janice Meredith," as a part of their study of American history.

Lillie Hayward adapted "Janice Meredith" to the screen, and Joseph Urban designed the gorgeous settings.

MAJESTIC THEATRE

"Gold Heels," the William Fox picturization of "Checkers" the celebrated stage play by Henry M. Blossom, Jr., is coming to the Majestic Theatre next Wednesday. Peggy Shaw, ex-Follies beauty, and Bobby Agnew have the leading roles. It's a race-track story.

Alsike on Wet and Sour Soils Thrives

Plant Is Hardy Enough to Stand Severe Winter.

Those who have grown alsike clover for a number of years pronounce it just the thing for wet and sour soils. Its growth is intermediate between medium-red clover and white clover, but it will grow where red clover will not. Being a perennial, it produces crops for hay or seed for several years and is hardy enough to stand a more severe winter than red clover.

Alsike clover is fine in hay and pasture mixtures, but those who have grown it alone do not advocate this practice since it has a fine stem which causes it to lodge, says a writer in Successful Farming. When seeded with timothy and red clover, it makes a good horse hay, free from the dust that is always present in clover hay. This is because alsike clover has a smooth plant. Many plant this mixture who formerly only used red clover as an insurance against failure.

Where the ground is too wet for red clover, alsike will usually take its place, and it is not attacked by the clover anthracnose which red clover is subject to. Since alsike will not make the growth red clover will, it should not be substituted for red clover if this can be grown. However, where red clover is uncertain, a mixture of the two with timothy has advantages.

Some make a practice of seeding alsike broadcast on winter grain when the ground is checked with frost or after a light snowfall, so that the seed is carried into the ground by the melting of the snow. Harrowing when the ground is dry is a good plan in this case. It is best put in with a drill when sown with spring-sown grain.

Since alsike clover seed is about half the size of red clover, one-half part of alsike and one part of red clover seed makes an even mixture. When seeded in this proportion, the quality of the hay is increased and the stand is thickened. It is claimed that the mixture will yield a greater weight of hay than either alone.

Treating Hard Milkers

Hard-milking cows are treated by the persistent use of dilators or by cutting the lining membrane of the teat with a teat bistoury. After this is done a little milk must be stripped away often during the healing process. In some cases it may be advisable to cut away a small portion of the tip of the tent. These instruments may be obtained and used at home, but it is usually best to have the work done by a veterinarian unless one is skilled with the instruments.

HUMAN FLY CLIMBS SIDE OF DRUG STORE

Claims He is Original Climber and Oldest in Business

Billy O'Brine, "human fly" and all round dare devil entertainer, was in Charlevoix Saturday and Sunday and gave his thrills before the home folks and summer tourists. Saturday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock he climbed up the northeast corner of the Central Drug Store with apparently little effort and pulled other stunts.

Sunday afternoon at the same location the first act was an exhibition of double-jointed arm work whereby his wife released herself from the straight jacket while being suspended, head downward, from a rope attached to the roof of the building. Mrs. O'Brine accomplished what seemed the impossible in a very few minutes. Then O'Brine himself made the difficult climb to the top of the building.

The stunts pulled were hair-raising to the extreme, many in the crowd turning their eyes away, fearing the man would crash to the ground. The couple also gave an exhibition of their dare-devil work at The Inn Sunday afternoon.

YACHTSMEN FETED AT THE RENDEZVOUS

Prizes Tendered to Winners of Yacht and Motor Boat Races

About fifty yachtsmen from various yacht clubs held a banquet at the Rendezvous at eight o'clock last Sunday evening. The banquet was in charge of the Charlevoix Yacht Club and Chamber of Commerce.

F. E. Cartier and Ray Hamilton presented the prizes to the winners of the yacht and motor boat races held Saturday and Sunday afternoon.

Captain Bonner gave a very interesting address on sailing fifty years ago, relating some thrilling experiences.

Strychnine Used to Destroy Mice

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Pocket mice in certain parts of the state of Washington have increased to the point where they almost constitute a plague, according to the district leader in rodent-control work under the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture. Even where there is probably only an infestation of 10 or 15 mice to the acre the harbors of the mice are along the weed-covered fence rows. After conducting poisoning operations in one 100-acre field 1,500 mice were estimated poisoned around the edges of the field.

Enormous Grain Loss.

Unusual activity on the part of pocket mice in Adams and Franklin counties caused enormous losses to the standing grain. Nine demonstrations on the use of steam-rolled oats poisoned with strychnine were held in August in these two counties and 2,500 pounds of poisoned grain were distributed during the month through the co-operation of the county agent of Franklin county, where 2,700 dead pocket mice resulted from six demonstrations.

Damage Done in Winter.

As a further instance of pocket mice as a pest may be cited the case of two flower growers of Olympia, Wash., who reported that moles and mice were responsible for the loss of 500 flower bulbs during the spring. The loss was not noticed until the bulbs were dug for transplanting. Damage of this kind is usually done in the winter and early spring, so that it is not discovered ordinarily until too late to apply preventive measures. Plans for rodent control in the Washington district include a great deal more work on pocket mice.

How to Keep Celery Until Late in Winter

Celery that has been grown and banked up and touched by light frosts can be saved so that it will last well into the winter, say horticulturists at Iowa State college. Before the plants get a hard freeze it is advisable to cover them about two inches deep with a mulch of straw or manure. This will prevent the plants freezing and will keep them blanching for some time. As soon as the ground begins to freeze dig up the plants, saving as much roots as possible, and remove them to the cellar. Place the plants in a bed of sandy soil in a cool place, although not directly under a window or they will be frozen.

In keeping the soil moist, be sure that water is placed on the roots, but keep it away from the tops, as they soon become rotten. By careful handling, celery may be kept in this manner until March.

Cattle Tuberculosis Is Routed in Many States

During August 461,186 cattle were tested for tuberculosis by the bureau of animal industry, United States Department of Agriculture, in co-operation with the various states. Of this number, 13,780, or about 3 per cent, reacted to the test, indicating that they were infected. Workers for the eradication of bovine tuberculosis now have more than 8,000,000 cattle under their supervision.

Under the plan of accrediting counties which have less than one-half of 1 per cent tuberculous cattle there are now 40 counties which have been officially designated as "modified accredited counties." Nineteen of these counties are located in North Carolina, Michigan has seven; Indiana, Tennessee, Florida three each; Kansas, two; and various other states the remainder.

Lime Needed on Meadows

Many of our grass meadows are sour and timothy and red clover will be killed out if lime is not used. Ground limestone will be better than burned lime for the purpose. The fall is a good time to use the lime. Remember that lime alone will not keep up the fertility of the land. There must be at least as much plant food supplied as is taken away in the hay each year. A good mixture of chemicals should be used along with the lime.

The sloop Flight, representative of the Charlevoix Yacht Club in the Chicago-Mackinac Island race, has docked in the shipyards of Hamilton & Son for repairs.

Charlevoix yachtsmen are proud of this craft. This year it finished fifth place in the race and stands a good chance of being winner in the 1926 contest.

She is owned by the Shaw brothers of the Michigan Extracting company, Boyne City, and is sailed in contests under the supervision of Ray Hamilton of this city.

While the sloop was docked at the Chicago Yacht Club House she created considerable eomment on her trim appearance and was chosen as winner of the race by numerous admirers. Charlevoix people now have the opportunity of thoroughly inspecting the sloop while at the Hamilton dock.

ECONOMY RULE WORKS CHANGES FOR TROOPERS

COM. ALAN G. STRAIGHT RE ORGANIZES SAFETY DEPARTMENT TO MEET BUDGET LIMIT

Alan G. Straight, recently appointed commissioner of the Department of Public Safety of Michigan has put into effect sweeping changes which amount to a reorganization. This has been made necessary because of the action of the legislature in allowing only about one-half of the appropriation requested to enable the department to function at full strength and perform all duties assigned to it. Since 1923, when other divisions of the state government were merged with the State Police, the department has been given many new duties but little additional funds.

It is estimated that 100 additional men would be required ware the policing of the state trunk line highways to be carried out fully.

Uniformed men of the State Police have been divided into five troops with headquarters at Negaunee, Gaylord, St. Clair, Paw Paw and Flat Rock. Each of these troop commanders has responsibility for a district. All supplies and purchases for each district must be approved by the commander in that district. All matters of criminal investigation and highway patrol in the district are under supervision of the commanding officer.

Force is Divided

Supervision of the uniformed force will be directed by Captain C. J. Scavarda from East Lansing. He is also in charge of the State Police school where recruits are trained. Under a law passed by the 1925 legislature local police officers may also attend sessions of this police school in order to better fit them for their work. Lieutenant J. C. Clegborn is assistant to Captain Scavarda.

The Negaunee headquarters, in command of Captain A. N. Downing, has the Upper Peninsula as its field, the Gaylord troop, under Captain John Fagan, operates in the northern section of the Lower Peninsula, the St. Clair troop, under Lieutenant Frank Walker has the Bay City-Saginaw-Flint-Port Huron district, the Flat Rock troop under Lieutenant Joseph Kearney has the southeastern corner of the state and the Paw Paw troop, under Lieutenant Ora E. Demoray, the southwestern section.

The state detective bureau and the state identification bureau will work in conjunction with the uniformed State Police as well as with local officers. Men displaying a special aptitude for crime detection have been assigned to the detective bureau. The need of such a bureau lies in the fact that many counties of the state have no trained detective force to deal with serious crimes. This bureau also conducts investigations for the governor, attorney-general and other state officials.

Free Lance Squad Formed

Captain I. H. Marmon has been placed at the head of a free lance squad to deal with problems arising from gambling places, disorderly roadhouses and the like. A number of places where the laws were violated have been closed.

A special squad has been detailed to deal with prohibition law cases. The uniformed men are utilized to conduct raids upon evidence secured by the members of this squad.

The duties of the State Police go far beyond routine police duty. The force is charged with the destruction of seized alcoholic liquors and a number of men are kept busy at this disagreeable task practically all of the time. Transfer of prisoners from one institution to another and from prisons to road camps is also under the State Police. Several men are engaged most of the time in bringing back prisoners who have escaped from Michigan to other states.

Other Divisions

Use of convicts to build state highways has been made possible through the employment of State Police to guard these prisoners. This has resulted in a large saving to the state in construction costs.

Some of the burden of prohibition law enforcement has been taken away by the consent of federal officers to assume charge of a part of the border patrol against smugglers. Owing to the small number of men in the State Police, enforcement of the prohibition laws in the cities is also left almost entirely to local officers.

One of the divisions of the Department of Public Safety which has had to be restricted in expenditures owing to the cutting of the budget is the state fire marshal's office. This has the general task of fire prevention in the state and the more specific work of investigating all suspicious fires and inspecting theaters, public buildings, rural schools, public institutions and the like.

Oil inspection is a division which takes all of the time of some inspectors and part time of many officers.

Supervision of paroled prisoners also is a work of the Department of Public Safety.

DESTROY LIQUOR TO SAVE STORAGE COSTS

State Rids Itself of Stock Accumulated in Raids.

The finest collection of liquor in the central part of the United States was destroyed recently at East Lansing. It was the accumulation of confiscated beverages taken by the State Police since the Michigan prohibition constitutional amendment went into effect and amounted to thousands of quarts of whiskies, wines and other liquors. The work of breaking it up required several days and was supervised by Commissioner Alan G. Straight in person and by a representative of the attorney-general's office.

This hoard of liquor was kept for a time in a basement downtown in Lansing but for the past two years had been stored in a building at State Police headquarters where it was a source of considerable worry as well as some expense since it had to be guarded. Withdrawals from it were made for the use of hospitals and public institutions, under proper inspection.

There had been no additions to the stock in a long time as it has been the practice of the department to break up liquor as seized and condemned. Just how much of a task this is may be deduced from the fact that the routine work for June included the destruction of 21,223 quarts of whisky, 93,489 quarts of beer, 895 quarts of wine, 393 quarts of gin, 14,160 quarts of mash and a considerable quantity of other liquor.

SAVE REPUTATIONS OF TWO YOUNGSTERS

That it is better not to make arreste when results can be obtained by other methods is a part of the courtesy policy of the Michigan State Police. Here is an instance.

Captain I. H. Marmon and two other members of the "free lance squad" which operates against disorderly roadhouses and gambling places, came upon a parked car near a roadhouse in which were a young man and a young woman, both unconscious from liquor.

Because of their youth, Captain Marmon decided not to arrest them. The young woman was taken to a respectable hotel while the young man was taken to the home of his father, a well known banker.

Next day both of the young people told their parents that it was the first time they had ever been under the influence of liquor and that they would not repeat the experience. They had been given a salutary lesson without being made the victims of scandal.

DAIRY FACTS

The dairyman who is receiving less than 200 pounds of butterfat from his cow is being poorly paid for his labor.

The silo provides the best and cheapest form of succulent winter feed, which helps to keep the cows healthy and productive when dairy products are highest.

LIVE STOCK

REDUCE DEATH LOSS IN SHIPPING HOGS

At nine of the principal live stock markets during a six-months' period in 1922 there were received a total of 28,875 dead hogs and 38,708 in a more or less crippled condition. Very recent reports from the yards at Denver show that the losses there during the past two weeks have been extremely heavy, five or six dead hogs in a car being nothing uncommon, and in one instance thirteen dead hogs were found in one car-load.

In eliminating the losses the first thing, of course, is to get at the cause. The minimum load for a freight car is 17,000 pounds. In the case above where there were thirteen dead hogs in the load, at the point of origin this load weighed 23,000 which is 4,000 pounds in excess of the maximum allowed by the insurance companies. The insurance company, of course, refused to meet the loss because the car was loaded in excess of their specified maximum. In most of the cars coming into the Denver yards with dead hogs the cars were overloaded, so that overloading is without e doubt one of the principal causes of loss in shipping.

There are other factors which cause losses in shipping during hot weather. Over-feeding at time of loading is without question important. A hog with an empty stomach has a much better chance of reaching the market in good condition than one that has had a full feed just before being loaded. Hogs which are over filled are very apt to become overheated and get sick. If the weather is warm, it is better to feed a little less at the last regular feeding period before loading.

The shipper should see that the car is well cleaned out, especially if it has manure in it as manure is very liable to be a cause of a great deal of heat in the car. After the car is well cleaned, it should be bedded down with two or three inches of sand or fine gravel; cinders are also good but possibly not as cooling in the summer as sand or gravel. Before loading the bedding should be well wet down. Ice in gunny sacks hung in the center of each half of the car will also help to lower the temperature.

When loading hogs in the summer time keep in mind that the greatest cause of death is due to overloading. It is better to load a little under the 17,000 pounds minimum rather than over it.—H. H. Smith, assistant professor animal husbandry, Colorado Agricultural college.

Tankage Will Increase Rate of Gain in Hogs

During the summer of 1923 36 hogs were carried on a 120-day feeding test by the University of Nebraska to determine if tankage is necessary when good alfalfa pasture is available. The 36 pigs, weighing around 67 pounds apiece, were placed in separate lots. Two lots were seeded to alfalfa and the third was dry.

The highest daily gain per head was made in the alfalfa lot that received shelled corn and tankage. The gain in that lot was 1.4 pounds as compared with .65 pounds in the alfalfa lot receiving no tankage and 1.25 pounds in the dry lot where corn and tankage were fed.

The feed cost per 100 pounds of gain ran highest for the pigs on alfalfa that received no tankage and lowest on the alfalfa lot fed tankage. The three lots ranked as follows: Alfalfa, shelled corn and tankage, $5.11; dry lot, corn and tankage, $5.69; alfalfa and shelled corn, $6.86. Prices at that time on corn were 75 cents a bushel; tankage, $65 a ton, and pasture, one-half cent a day.

The pigs in the lot which received no tankage practically destroyed the alfalfa by rooting, while those receiving tankage and alfalfa did not root at all. It was found that tankage greatly increased the rate of gain, reduced the cost of 100 pounds gain and saved the pasture.

Grinding Buckwheat for Cattle or Hogs Is Best

Buckwheat can best be fed to fattening cattle or hogs by grinding it rather coarsely and feeding it dry. Much better results are secured where buckwheat forms only about one-third of the ration, especially when fed to hogs. Because of its coarse outside hull, buckwheat contains too much fiber to give the best results when fed alone to hogs. The best results will be secured when it is fed along with corn and tankage in a mixture of 60 per cent corn, 30 per cent buckwheat, and 10 per cent tankage. Practically the same results will be secured as where a ration of 90 per cent corn and 10 per cent tankage is used.

Water Supply for Stock

An abundant supply of water is an essential affecting profits in fattening live stock for market. Often hogs do not get enough water, particularly during the hot summer months. Watering twice a day or morning and evening is not sufficient. They should be watered at least three times a day. It requires only a small expenditure to make home-made automatic waterers. A barrel inverted in a cut-down barrel of a larger size makes a satisfactory waterer if kept well filled.

GREYHOUNDS ARE GOING TO CHICAGO

New Line Recently Established Out of Grand Rapids

About the 10th of August, the Safety Motor Coach lines operating the Greyhound parlor coaches in western Michigan will open a new route to Chicago from Muskegon and Grand Rapids. Six specially designed observation cars, with railing and canopy at the rear are to be placed in service in August, the famliar Greyhound parlor coaches making the runs until the new machines arrive.

With the opening of the Chicago route, the company will be operating six main trunk lines, four of them running to and from Muskegon. The Greyhound routes will then be Muskegon to Grand Rapids, Muskegon to Ludington, Muskegon to Grand Haven and Holland, Grand Rapids to Fremont, Traverse City to Petoskey (opened in July) and the Chicago line.

Announcement of the time schedules and the stations along the new Chicago route and in Chicago, will be made in the near future. A test run was made last week to determine details of the work. Everywhere the beautiful Greyhound parlor coach appeared there was universal admiration and dozens of inquirers who wanted to know all about the line.

The Greyhound observation coaches will be unique in Michigan. Due to the fact that there will be no gravel roads along the route, passengers may sit on the rear covered platform and enjoy a cool, clean, dustless and comfortable ride.

WHEN you buy across the counter in the stores of this town, you are using good business judgment. Why? There are many reasons, but one of the most important is this:

You can buy what you want at the price you wish to pay. You are not obliged to accept "something just as good," because you are in a position to compare values and make your own selections.

When you trade at home you are helping your friends to help you. And there is no finer thing in life than neighborly co-operation. It always pays—in happiness and satisfaction as well as dollars and cents.

MOVE MAIL BOXES AWAY FROM ROADS

THIS IS REQUEST OF POST-OFFICE DEPARTMENT

Many Postal Receptacles Are Deemed Menace on State Highways

An effort to have all rural mail boxes moved back from the edge of the gravel or concrete of the roads is being made by the state highway department. This is so that they will be out of the way and not dangerous to traffic.

It is specified that the posts be placed one foot outside of the shoulder line of the road. The present custom is to have seven-foot shoulders on 18-foot roads and six-foot ones on 20-foot roads. In cases where there is deep sand and the carrier cannot get out to the box, the department would like to have a load of gravel dropped in by the maintenance force.

The co-operation of the federal postoffice department has been obtained and Frank Rogers, state highway commissioner, has addressed a letter to every postmaster in the state calling attention to the rural boxes that are placed too near the road and requesting their co-operation in getting them moved back.

At the same time he addressed a letter to each hoard of county road commissioners asking their help in getting this condition corrected.

The U. S. postoffice department issued the following statement some time ago relative to this subject:

"It hns been brought to the attention of the department that it is the practice of some postmasters and rural carriers to insist that the boxes of rural patrons shall be erected on the edge of the road of hard surfaced roads. It is the experience that boxes so iocated are an obstruction and dangerous to traffic and seriously interfere with the operation of muchinery used in maintenance of roads in this particular.

"It is deemed essential that there be co-operation between the representatives of this department and it is directed that the postmasters shall when required by the state highway department or other competent authorities require rural patrons to erect their boxes on the shoulder line of hard surfaced roads in such position at the edge of the roads that they shall not be an obstruction or a menace to traffic while at the same time accessible to the carriers without the necessity of leaving their conveyances.

"Although not a requriement, it is the opinion of the department that it would be of advantage if persons having boxes on improved roads and those having heavy traffic would paint the posts white because it would add to the visibility at night and tend to reduce accidents."

The resident engineers are asked by Mr. Rogers to make reports to bis effice August 15 stating just what has been accomplished, citing any instances which may exist where patrons have refused to comply with this request.

GAVE CHARLEVOIX THE ONCE OVER

mings is seeking information about Charlevoix and the Little Traverse Bay region and other resort spots of beauty in the lower part of Michigan, so as to give these tourists direetions as to where to go.

The Sault, through its Commercial Association representative, is advertising in papers throughout Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Wisconsin and believes that this advertising is bound to bring tourists to the Charlevoix region either on their trip up or downbound.

"Boost us and we'll boost you," is the Sault slogan as expressed by Cummings. "These thousands of tourists which nre coming into the Sault from Canada and Chicago and Duluth don't stay in our beautiful city forever, despite all the attractions we offer them in the way of tourist camps, fishing, tho locks, golf accommodations, etc. We must send them somewhere. So I'm here to get the dope on what you have to offer them. There is no jealousy between the upper Michigan resort places. The automobile has made a roving, shifting nation of us. Folks want to see all there is to see. And, if you, here in this beautiful region will enlighten tourists on the fact thst they can get to Sault Ste. Marie on splendid roads or boat, or train, we'll reciprocate by sending others here in great droves."

ELEVEN SURVIVE BAD CAR WRECK

Machine Demolished But Occupants Escape Serious Hurts

In one of the worst automobile smashups of the last few weeks in northern Michigan, eleven people miraculously escaped serious injury Thursday night of last week when their mschines crashed on the highway, near Wabmeme, six miles south of Petoskey. A Star car in which nine persons were riding, was smashed to kindling wood, while a Jewett eosch was badly stove in when the two met, head on, at considerable speed.

The accidents resulted when the driver of the Jewett swung his ear sharply to the left to avoid hitting a Ford truck parked beside the road. According to the people in the two wrecked cars the truck was witbout lights, having apparently been deserted there by its driver.

In the Star were Mrs. John Newville and four children, going to Petoskey to see her husband who was at Petoskey hospital for treatment for injury to his eyes; William Hunt and Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis and son, all of Boyne City. Mrs. Newviile was cut about the face and Mrs. Lewis had her legs injured. Her son had one finger dislocated, and all members of the party were much bruised, shaken and cut by broken bits of glass. In the Jewett car were A. Dochstader, of Petoskey, and a lady friend. Neither were seriously injured.

AMERICAN LEGION DRIVE HAS STARTED

Campaign to Raise $5,000,000 is Now Under Way

The American legion campaign for a $5,000,000 endowment fund for disabled world war veterans and orphans of veterans was officially began last week by the state commander of the legion, John F. Roehl.

Michigan's share of the nation-wide effort will be the immediate objective. The work of organization will begin at once, Commander Roehl said. In explaining the need and purpose of the fund, the commander said:

"Fifteen disabied veterans of the world war are dying every day. Fifteen yesterday, 15 tomorrow and 15 the next day. Many of them die without knowiedge of the great machinery erected in the Veterans' bureau for their help. It became and continues to be the duty of the legion to find them, take them to the bureau and arrange for temporary care and permanent cure before it is too late.

"Thus our task, while a humanitarian one, a task that is a duty, becomes also one of haste, for every moment's delay means one more veteran has died without knowing what a grateful country has done for his welfare. The legion has been caring for these men, but now needs a fund to insure permanence."

SHEET METAL WORKERS HAD A GLORIOUS TIME

Secretary Ederle Writes Appreciative Letters to President Cartier and Mayor Bergeoo

Charlevoix made a hit with the Michigan Association of Sheet Metal Contractors, who held their annual outing in Boulder Park, July 18 to 24, as the following letters will testify:

Letter to President Cartier

Grand Rapids, Aug. 6, 1925.
Fred E. Cartier,
Assn. of Commerce,
Charlevoix, Mich.

Dear Sir:—At the conclusion of our annual outing which was held in your city, a unanimous vote of thanks was made and I was instructed to convey to yourself and the members of your organization our appreciation for the hospitality extended.

The outing was more or less of an experiment, but now that we know what a fine time we ean have on occasions of this character, we propose to repeat the performance, and some day we will again turn our sights toward "Charlevoix the Beautiful."

The Michigan Association of Sheet Metal Contractors wish the members of the Charlevoix Association of Commerce the best of luck in their undertakings.

Men nnd women of Charlevoix, again we thank you for your kindness.

Cordially,
F. E. Ederle, Secretary.

Letter to Mayor Bergeon

Grand Rapids, August 6, 1925.
Arthur Bergeon,
Charlevoix, Michigan.

Dear Sir:—In behalf of the members of our organization who attended the annual outing, I wish to thank you and the members of the council for the very cordial manner in which you took care of our requirements.

Every person seemed to enjoy themselves to the utmost, and I hope that at some future time we may be permitted to visit your fair city again.

Your courtesy of extending the lights to Boulder Park just seemed to provide tbe finishing toucb for a successful party.

Charlevoix is on the map so far as the Michigan Sheet Metal Association is concerned, and we don't care what Hugh Gray has to say about it, either.

Cordially yours,
F. E. Ederle, Secretary.

What could be more gratifying than to receive letters like this? And who can estimate, in dollars and cents, the returns from a meeting of this kind. Practically every member of this association was a Michigan man. Some had visited Charlevoix before, but the majority had not. The memory of their visit will be a lasting one. They have expressed a desire to come back at some future date, and we hope they will.

Charlevoix is a natural meeting place for convention of this kind. They could visit few, if any places, that are more attractive, have more beautiful drives, better bathing facilities, better water and a better place to camp than Charlevoix. And Charlevoix's officials and members of the Association of Commerce did all they could to maks their stay a happy one. It is the proper and only way to do. Charlevoix is on the map—and on to stay. We hope the number of meetings of this kind during 1926 will be more than double that of 1925. It requires but little effort to entertain in the proper manner—and best of all, those who have been here have all expressed a desire to come again.

Elected to Tailors' Guild

Charles Carson, of East Jordan, has been elected to membership in the Born Tailors' Guild, a national association of master tailors, according to word from the headquarters of the organization in Chicago. The guild, with the slogan "Tailors are born and not made," aims at lifting the tailoring profession to a higher plane of perfection in the art of making clothes and to establisb in the minds of men and young men in definite appreciation of style, fabric and tailorship in clothes.

HOSPITAL TAG DAY SET FOR AUGUST 15TH

The annual Tag Drive for the benefit of the Charlevoix Hospital will take place on Saturday, August 15.

This is an annual event put on for the purpose of raising funds to earry on hospltal work. It will be well to remember that few hospitals other than those conducted as prlvate enterprises, do the volume of business necessary to pay running expenses.

This is true wlth the Charlevoix Hospital. During tbe years' 1923-24, receipts were enough to pay 80 per cent of running expenses. Receipts from July 1924 to June 30, 1925 will cover about 75 per cent of running expenses. The deficit must be raised from other sources if the hospital continues to do business.

The hospital trustees have decided not to conduct the annual membership drive this year, but will leave it to our year round residents and summer people to donate to this eause as liberally as they can. When you are asked to buy a tag on Tag Day, don't slip the boy or girl selling the tags a dims or a quarter—dig down and give in a substantial way.

STRICKEN SUDDENLY THURSDAY

CITY MOURNS LOSS OF WELL KNOWN RESIDENT

Death Calls Mrs. Alson Wood Shortly After Seven O'clock While Engaged io Moroing's Work

The Angel of Death visited our city early Thursday morning and took from our midst one of the most beloved and reverenced of our community, Mrs. Alson Wood. Death came without warning shortly after seven o'clock while she was clearing the breakfast table, apoplexy striking her down while at work. Ths remains were taken to the home of her son-in-law, John H. Bugbee, on South State street, from which place she was laid to rest.

Lucy Ellen Bromley was born in Kenosha, Wisconsin, Marcb 6, 1843. She was married to Alson Wood, March 16, 1865. She came to Norwood with her husband and two daughters, Mrs. John Bugbee and Miss Angie Wood, both now deceased, in 1886. Ten years later they moved to Charlevoix, where she resided until death. She is survived by two grand-children, Alson Bugbee of Charlevoix, and Mrs. Ben Blank of Detroit, besides a brotber and sister living in California.

The life of Mrs. Wood was a model one, she being the embodiment of sympathy, love and self-sacrificing charity. Many a desolate home has been brightened by her cheer and comfort and many weary souls strengthened by her sympathetic counsel and teaching. When trouble and distress came into ones life she also came, like an angel of mercy, and alleviated the suffering by her gentle administering.

The body was laid in state at the home of her son-in-law to give those who had reverenced her a last opportunity to view the sweet face all held so dear.

Funeral services were held from the Bugbee home, Saturday, at 2:00 p. m., conducted by Rev. Herman Burns of the Baptist church. Interment in Brookside cemetery. The floral gifts were many and beautiful, in a measure showing the great respect she was held in the community.

ORGANIZATION COMPLETED AT SATURDAY'S MEETING

Capitalizatioo Set at $75,000 With a Membership Limited to One Huodred

The first preliminary meeting of the Belvedere Golf Club was held at the Belvedere Casino Saturday forenoon at 10:30. The object was to formulate plans of organization, preparation of by-laws and election of officers.

Mr. Remler was appointed temporary chairman and I. S. Holden temporary secretary of the meeting. Some twenty prospective members were present. The first order of business was the organization of what will be known as the Belvedere Golf Club Realty Co., which would own the property of the golf club and also which should be a stock company not for profit. Money subscribed for the property will be held as preferred stock and will be used to construct the necessary buildings and preparation of grounds, to be leased to what will be known as the Belvedere Golf Club. A board of directors of the holding company were named as follows: J. W. Ferguson, Geo. Schwab, Logan Thomson, W. B. Stewart, R. V. Clark, J. H. Koch and A. B. Scarborough. This board was clothed with authority to close land deals and contract for ground construction.

Par value of the Realty company stock was placed at $100, the company to be capitalized at $75,000, divided into 750 shares. Membership will be limited to 100 members.

Matters relative to the formation of by-laws were left to a committee of three, to be submitted at a later meeting for approval. A more general outline of the organization will also be submitted at this time.

The proposed golf club will be located south of the city on the Marion Center road, the land to be purchased lying south of the old cement plant right of way, and will consist of lands purehased from Mrs. H. M. Blackwood, M. B. Hooker, D. H. Alexander and Frank Supernaw. The club will start with a nine hole course, this to be immediately enlarged to a regulation eighteen hole course. Work of putting the grounds in condition will start at once.

ANNUAL MEETING ATTRACTS FEW

LACK OF INTEREST SHOWN IN IMPORTANT MATTERS

Seven People Other Thao Members of Board Atteod Annual Electioo Wedoesday Eveoiog

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Charlevoix Hospital took place in the council chambers last Wednesday evening. Seven people other than members of the board were present. Three of these seven were invited in to make up the necessary fifteen to constitute a quorum and hold a legal meeting.

What's the matter, anyway. One cannot help but come to the conclusion that it takes a "riot" or something else of like nature, to interest our local people in affairs of vital importance to them. Or, is it a case of "let George do it?" However, the hospital will continue to be one of our leading institutions despite this state of affairs.

The meeting was called to order promptly at 8:00 o'clock by the president, M. A. Levinson. After the regular routine business had been transacted, the election of officers followed. Trustees H. A. Craig and F. E. Cartier were elected to succeed themselves. Geo. W. Weaver was the choice of the meeting to succeed Ira A. Adams.

The financial affairs of the hospital are in good condition, as is shown by the audit of the treasurer's books, made by Oluf Nordrum, reproduced below.

The present members of the board are as follows: President, M. A. Levinson; vice president, Geo. Glados; secretary, C. N. Bridge; treasurer, A. J. Usher; W. H. Miller, H. A. Craig, Fred E. Cartier, P. D. Campbell and Geo. W. Weaver.

Below will be found the complete audit of the treasurer's books, showing all receipts and disbursements. The annual report of Miss Bertha S. Larsen, superintendent, follows:

HOLD ANNUAL CONVENTION AT INN AUG. 27-28

Program of Sports and Entertainment Arranged—Charlevoix a Conventioo City

The Michigan Independent Oil Mens' Association will hold its annual convention in Charlevoix, August 27th and 28th.

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the gathering and it will be the largest convention of its kind ever held in this state. Nearly five hundred members of the association with their families are expected to be present.

The headquarters for the assembly will be established at The Inn. Meals and reservations for all are planned in the hotels. Mr. Gilmore of Grand Rapids, president and secretary of the association, is the administrator of affairs.

Brown & Wallace and other oil jobbers of this city are assisting the Chamber of Commerce in making out the pleasure program for the oil men. The program is extensive and those members who follow it will never regret their outing in Charlevoix.

Golfing, boating, motoring and bathing are sports offered to every member and his family. Special boat trips will be taken on Pine Lake and motor trips to other nearby resorts. Swimming contests will be held under the supervision of experts. The old "potato," three-legged and sack races will come into the lime-light and such games as "Who has the bucket" and "Who kissed the first maid" will astonish audiences.

The Chamber of Commerce sincerely trusts thnt the citizens and business men of Charlevoix will do all they can in welcoming the oil men and making them feel at home.

Charlevoix is gaining more popularity every year in the eyes of large manufacturing and commercial concerns as the ideal location to hold their conventions.

OFFER SPECIAL CLASS PREMIUMS

Special Class With $100 In Cash Prizes Will be One of Features of Big Meet

A special class with $100 in cash prizes is to be fostered by the state department of agriculture at the Top O' Michigan potato show, according to A. C. Lytle, secretary of the show. To compete in this class, an exhibitor is required to furnish one bushel of field run potatoes, one half of which he must have graded according to the Michigan grading law, thus dividing this half-bushel into three lots—U. S. No. 1's, U. S. No. 2's, and culls. All three of these lots will be inspected by an expert on the enforcement of the grading law to see if any potatoes have been misplaced. Hence, the premium would be awarded strictly on the ability of the producer to interpret the Michigan grades. The first prize will be $50 in cash.

Announcement of this class was made in a letter from A. C. Carton, director of the bureau of agricultural industry of the state department. He said, "The thought struck me that much good could be accomplished by the management of the different potato shows by giving a premium to the producer who would do the best job of grading in accordance with the Michigan grading law. This department, being interested in the enforcement of the grades, the premium offered could be entitled "State Department of Agriculture Special." We all realize how important the grading of different products is becoming and something should be done to stimulate the producer along this line. It will set them to thinking and give them a chance to try out and see how near they can come to doing the thing the way it should be done."

F. J. Shipp, president of the Top O' Michigan potato show, and a prominent business man at Gaylord, said, "This is but one of the many concrete indications of Mr. Carton's sincere interest in the problems of the potato growers. He has the welfare of the farmer at heart at all times and never passes up an opportunity to be of service to them. His department also contributes generously toward the financial support of the show. Not only will the growers in northern Michigan choose the best way of showing their appreciation by entering this class in large numbers but they will also be selecting a class from which they will receive the most direct benefit. No one should fail to make an entry in the "State Department of Agriculture Special" and make a desperate attempt to capture the $50. Our show will be on November 4-5-6 at Gaylord."

POULTRY

INEXPENSIVE HOUSE FOR POULTRY FLOCK

Proper housing is essential to winter egg production. Several types of house have given satisfaction in different sections. The type described in Extension Bulletin 224-A is in use in many places and is giving good results with the farm or town-lot flock. This plan, however, is not recommended for the commercial poultry plant with several hundred birds.

Two pens are provided, each 16 feet square. A considerable improvement can be made in farm poultry by selecting yearly a breeding pen of the best, giving them range and confining the pullets and ordinary layers by themselves during the breeding season.

The combination type of roof gives protection from storm and extremes of temperature and is recommended for narrow houses. Shiplea are most economical in the long run particularly for the eastern part of the state, where they should be dipped in creosote to prevent curling, and laid over a tight roof.

The concrete floor is ratproof, sanitary and permanent. If properly constructed it is dry and warm. Eight to ten inches of straw should be maintained on any type of floor to induce exercise and protect the feet of the birds from injury. Dust from dirt floors irritates the respiratory system of the fowl and such floors eventually harbor disease. Intestinal troubles result from eating grain out of the accumulated filth.

The back wall is called above the droppings board. Drafts are the most frequent cause of diphtheritic roup. If the siding does not make tight joints when laid, if it is green or if the house is exposed to high winds, two-ply roofing may be applied to the back and ends of the house on the outside.

For detailed plans send to the Extension Service, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, for Extension Bulletin 224-A, "Colorado Farm Flock Poultry House."

When Pullets Begin to Lay Put Them in Coop

Experienced poultrymen have found that if pullets are allowed to remain very long on the range after starting to lay, the change to winter houses is sure to check them and may cause a full molt. Cornell backs them in saying that as soon as the first eggs are found on the range, at least a third or fourth of the best developed birds should be placed in winter quarters. When the remaining birds show maturity, they should be put in winter quarters also.

A thorough cleaning and disinfecting of the houses and pens in which the pullets are to live is advocated. This is especially true if the birds that formerly occupied the building have been diseased or have had worms.

Fattening Cull Hens Is Good Improvement Plan

Many a load of cull hens could be improved by a short fattening period before they are taken to market, says L. E. Card of the University of Illinois. Though gains to be made are considerably less than is possible with broilers, the improvement is still sufficient to more than pay for its cost. A simple mixture of two-thirds cornmeal and one-third wheat middlings mixed with enough skim milk or buttermilk to form a thick batter will give good results. This should be fed to the hens twice daily giving only what they will clean up in 20 or 30 minutes. No water should be given except as it forms a part of the milk used in mixing the soft feed.

This makes it highly important that the birds be kept in a place that is cool and comfortable.

Poultry Hints

• • •

There is nothing better than range for the development of vigorous fowls.

• • •

If you keep your fowls where they have any difficulty in getting all the green food of the kind they should have during the summer, plant some dwarf Essex rape handy for them. It is excellent.

• • •

Don't try to choose the place for your geese to make their nests for it only disturbs them. If you just give them a nice clean place with plenty of dry bedding, they will take care of the nesting proposition.

• • •

Clean poultry houses are essential if the comfort of the fowls and their laying capacity are to be maintained.

• • •

Pullets lay more eggs than hens through the winter and early spring and are in poorer physical condition when the spring hatches start.

• • •

The choice between brown and white leghorns must be a personal one. Both are good layers, and neither one can be said to be the best under all conditions. They are probably equally easy to raise.

WHAT THIS GRADE-MARK TRADE-MARK MEANS TO YOU

ON YOUR Old Reliable HEMLOCK LUMBER

Know the Hemlock Grade-Mark

The initials N and H of the design signify that the lumber is Northern Hemlock—your native building lumber. The numeral within the diamond is the grade of the piece on which it is stamped by the expert grader at the mill.

It means responsible manufacture and uniform grading at the mill—every piece plainly identified and in accordance with the rigid grading rules adopted by this association.

It saves you money and takes the guesswork out of your lumber utilization, Northern Hemlock grades being based upon the broad economic ground of their relative usefulness to you.

On your Hemlock load-bearing dimension—studding, rafters and joists, it guarantees they are extra standard size (more wood and strength to the piece) insuring greater strength and rigidity to your framing.

Add to this the facts that native Hemlock is immune to dry-rot, that it takes and holds paints perfectly and you'll appreciate the many advantages and investment value in Northern Hemlock construction—framing, underflooring, sheathing, siding and exterior trim.

Yes, it pays to use good lumber of known quality and full standard size. BUY BY THE GRADE-MARK. Save money. Your Lumber Dealer will gladly assist you in selecting the right grade for the right purpose.

ANALYSIS OF STATE LEGISLATION

A committee appointed by the American Bar Association to study Noteworthy Changes in State Law considered 4,436 statutes and resolutions covering 8,724 pages, as the legislative output of 1924. This committee did an exeellent job and revealed some facts which are of interest. Massachusetts established a continuous study of court procedure, Mississippi has joined the income tax states, woman suffrage is an important factor in the acts of many states, further equalizing men and women before the law, particularly in property matters. Five states joined to enact uniform state laws in 1924. The automobile, it is revealed, is a fruitful subject for legislation and automobile taxes are car-marked for roads which it is pointed out interfere with the budget makers. There were many acts facilitating farmers' credit and cooperation. Analyzing in this way the legislation of the various states, it will be possible to point out good, bad, unnecessary and interfering legislation. Of course, it is a tremendous task, but one may well bring home to the people the necessity for limiting legislation to necessary statutes, emphasizing the fact that the enactment of laws that confuse or interfere is of dubious value where it is not dangerous. As a nation, we are given more to law-making than law enforcement.

RELIGION VS. EVOLUTION

With the untimely passing of Bryan, central figure in the now famous trial at Dayton, it is more than likely that evolution as a live controversial subject will cease to exist. Very few people, in the first place, took the controversy in a serious manner. In fact, the great mass of American people were inclined to be amused over the antics of those who were self-appointed and who affected to speak for religion and science. Intelligent men and women, whether church members or not, feel there is no material dispute between religion and science; that there is no necessity of denouncing science in order to uphold religion, or ridicule religion in order to sustain science. The fundamental trouble in this whole matter is due to a petty desire to interfere with the liberties of the people, with their thinking, with their feelings, and with their activities. We have demagogues in politics who insist that industry and finance and the whole economic world must be regulated, ruled, directed, and controlled by statue, and that governmental appointees must tell us, under penalty of punishment when we fail to heed them, just exactly what to do and what to say. There is no question as to the simplicity and power of economic law. Economic law always vindicates itself and it does not require the petty aid of petty men with petty theories molded into petty statutes. The demagogue in the economic world is an industrial irritant; the demagogue in the religious world merely make trouble. Wherever there is also an irritant, and both of them is high intelligence, the demagogue in politics, in religion, and in science fails to be interesting, and succeeds in being only diverting. Where there is little intelligence, there is lacking a sense of humor, and that which should be diverting becomes irritating and an inspiration for trouble.

FAVORS SURTAX REDUCTION

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader in the senate, has come out for the reduction of surtaxes from 20 to 25 per cent. The senator has also made it plain that he is opposed to the federal inheritance tax and would like to see it abolished. Substantially, Senator Robinson is in accord with President Coolidge on important phases of tax revision. It would look as if the plain and unvarnished demagogue who knows nothing whatever about taxation, but who seeks only to promote unrest and strife, would be a lonesome figure in Washington this winter. Senator Robinson has the confidence of his party in the senate and he is what might be called a Progressive Conservative; progressive in seeking the best interest of the people, and conservative in refusing to be stampeded into quick remedies that are of no importance except possibly as political shibboloths. Senator Robinson is wise in his generation and knows that political shibboleths usually degenerate into epitaphs.

ECONOMIC CONDITIONS FAVORABLE

In a foreword of the Commerce Year Book of the Department of Commerce for 1924, Secretary Hoover reviews the economic conditions in the United States and expresses the opinion that the general situation is very favorable. He points out that the American people have little cause for complaint regarding economic affairs. The agricultural situation, according to the secretary of commerce, showed a marked improvement in 1924, and industrial activity was only slightly less than in 1923, when new records were established. Foreign commerce was in much more favorable condition than in 1923, and more stable conditions were being enjoyed. "The American people," Secretary Hoover wrote, "have little right to complain about our economic situation during the year 1924. Even agriculture has shown some partial recovery from its three years of extreme difficulty. Our industrial production was only about 5 per cent less than in 1923, which was 13 per cent greater than in 1919. There was practically no unemployment in a distressing sense, the mid-summer decrease in activity showing itself to a considerable extent in part-time work. There was no boom under way in 1923, and therefore the minor decrease in production in 1924 was the result of a very short recession during the spring and summer months. Transportation showed increasing efficiency, and its very efficiency has resulted in a mild revolution in distribution of goods. Under assured delivery, long advance orders to manufacturers are becoming less in volume, thus tending to reduce the capital invested in current national stocks of goods and consequently the cost of distribution. Building and other construction in 1924 showed a even larger volume than in 1923, registering the highest total in our history. While it seems that the construction shortage resulting from suspension during the war should be overtaken by this time, yet the rising standards of living are demanding improvement in housing and office conditions which maintain the industry at high pitch."

WHICH SHALL IT BE?

Taxing industry as an excuse for greater extravagance in public expenditures is an economic folly that should be discouraged. The imposition of excessive taxes has always resulted in driving capital into tax exempt securities and a consequent lessening of productiveness in lines of industrial development. The old idea that higher taxes raised a greater amount of income has been exploded and more and more the small taxpayer is coming to realize that the general prosperity of the country depends upon an equitable distribution of the burdens of government. It is time that we insisted upon strict economy in public places and less of the plan to place extra loads upon industry through new forms of taxation. What we want in Michigan is full factory payrolls and prosperous communities, not silent smokestacks and men looking for work.

CLARION PIONEER LADY PASSES ON

Had Been a Resident of Section for Over 45 Years

Mrs. J. E. Darrah, one of the oldest pioneer women of the Clarion region, died at Petoskey, Tuesday evening of last week. Mrs. Darrah fell and broke one hip about four weeks ago and never recovered. She was about 86 years old. She came to Clarion about 45 years ago and was active in affairs of the village church and social life. BEACH BON FIRE AND "WEENIE" ROAST

M. E. Epworth League Gives a Rousing Beach Party

On Wednesday evening of last week occurred one of the most successful efforts of any year to give young people, both summer visitors and those who live here the year round, a good evening's entertainment.

In a series of social events put on by the Epworth League of the Methodist church this summer, the big bon fire was staged. One hundred "dogs" squirmed and squealed in the embers and came out hot and sizzling, fit subjects to appease the hunger of the five score of young folks present at the roast.

Encircling the fire this youthful hundred ardently played "three deep in sand knee deep." With ukeleles and many voices glad songs rang out. With the splendid beach of old Lake Michigan, and the high quality of young folks frequenting this section, it is really ideal to feature a gathering of this kind.

It is commendable that this society does this bit of social service, and that the work is not only for the young people of the local community, but includes visitors also. In the group of last Wednesday evening were people from Louisiana, Tennessee, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan.

BAD CHECK WRITER WORKS IN CITY

Thirty Dollar Checks Prove No Good When Banked

Dan Murray and wife are the latest culprits apprehended in passing bogus checks on local merchants.

Robert Bridge of the County Bank reported three spurious checks and the State Savings Bank two checks drawn on merchants' accounts Monday morning. Checks were signed by Murray and also his wife.

The checks were made out in thirty dollar amounts, and were cashed by M. A. Levinson, L. P. Adams, A. E. Mason, John Slezak and B. A. Hermnn.

Sheriff Charles Novak has traced the guilty party to Detroit by using a signed baggage check as a clue. Here it is believed they registered in a hotel under the assumed name of Connelly.

Murray and wife could not be classed as strangers in Charlevoix, both having worked here during the past month or so.

Because of court being in session the teachers' examinations will be held in the Methodist Episcopal church, August 13th, 14th and 15th. A. C. Belding, County Commisioner of Schools.—Adv. 32 t1.

Practical Methods of Wintering Bees

One of the best methods of wintering over bees is to pack them in cases, using leaves, straw or hay. Even oats may be used. Prepare an ordinary packing box so that it will hold about two hives. Set the hives so that the entrance will be clear. That is, arrange it so that there can be ventilation through the entrance and then fill the space between the hive bodies and the packing box with material such as sawdust, straw, hay, etc. After your hives are well packed in the packing boxes, cover the boxes carefully with roofing paper or something of that nature to prevent the water soaking in on the packing material.

A still simpler method, which is very successfully employed by many people, is to remove the covers from the hives and place a cloth over the frame, put on a super and fill with straw or chaff. Then place the regular cover on and tack on a good thick layer of newspapers so that they cover the entire hive, except the entrance. Even cover around the bottom of the hive, as well as the sides and top. Over this good, thick coating of newspaper tack prepared roofing cut to fit. This roofing may be fastened securely by means of strips of lath or something of that sort. Or you can use oilcloth instead of the roofing if you desire. The object is to keep the newspapers dry in order to insure good insulation.

Alsike Improves Hay

Alsike improves the quality of the hay but only produces one cutting a year. It can be grown on any soil that will grow red clover. On very wet and sour soils some farmers seed a mixture of three to four pounds of alsike and ten to twelve pounds of red-top for hay. This is seeded in the same manner as red clover and timothy. A mixture of alsike and timothy makes a good horse hay. When a field is to be left in meadow or pasture for more than two years, two pounds of alsike clover in the mixture of red clover and timothy will take the place of timothy after the second year.

Precocious Pullets Are Producers of Few Eggs

Pullets that are precocious develop rapidly but never attain sufficient size and are apt to be a flash in the pan. One flock owner had an example one year that was typical of this condition. After a growth of about four and a half months, production started. This pullet was a little, undersized individual that was lacking in reserve. Her production during the year was shown by the trap nest to be a heavy lay of about 20 eggs that utilized the reserve and was followed by a resting period of almost a month. She finally finished the year with a rather low record. There was not enough chicken there to stand the grind.

Oyster Shells for Pullets

If the pullets receive plenty of oyster shells in the fall they may be able to build up a reserve of lime which is useful when egg production begins. Then there will be very few soft-shelled eggs, and this reduces the danger of the egg-eating habit during the winter. Supplying the mineral ration to hens seems to give them something they crave. In return it reduces the prevalence of the common vices during winter confinement such as the feather-pulling, egg-eating and other habits of indolence.

Stacking Soy Bean Hay

In stacking and mowing away soy bean hay, if the hay is slightly damp, alternate layers of other hay or straw can be used to good advantage. Where large acreages are grown side delivery rake and hay loader can be used with other hay, but use all tedding machinery in the morning when the leaves are tough.

Insure Dry Poultry House

In the Middle West every poultry house should be made with double walls, with a dead air space between. Such a construction will ordinarily insure a dry house and for a very simple reason. Moisture collects on the walls because the outside is cold and the inside of the wall is warm, just exactly as in a warm room moisture collects on the outside of a water pitcher containing ice water. Of course the process is reversed, but the principle is the same.

CADILLAC TOURING CAR TAKES BATH

Plunges Into Round Lake from Place Where Parked

A Cadillac touring car owned by the O'Neil Bus Line, took a bath in Round Lake Tuesday afternoon at five o'clock.

The car was parked on the driveway which runs parallel with the garage from Bridge street to the lake. Just before the accident two taxi drivers were sitting in the car and both declare the emergency brakes were set. The real cause of the machine running backwards into the lake is not known.

It certainly was a peculiar sight to see a perfectly good "Cadillac" at the bottom of the lake. Later in the evening the car was raised and restored to its owner by Charles Munyan with his moving outfit. The machine was only slightly damaged and none the worse for its exploration.

Because of court being in session the teachers' examinations will be held in the Methodist Episcopal church, August 13th, 14th and 15th. A. C. Belding, County Commisioner of Schools.—Adv. 32 t1.

MANY ENJOY DAVIS LECTURE

UNDER AUSPICES OF CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY

His Subject Was "Christian Science: It's Availability in Human Experience."

A large and attentive audience from Charlevoix and neighboring cities listened to a lecture on Christian Science at the Palace theatre last Sunday afternoon. Dr. F. H. Wilkinson of the local Christian Science society, gave a brief explanation of the purpose of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship and introduced the speaker, a member of this board, Richard J. Davis of Chicago.

Mr. Davis chose as his subject "Christian Science: Its Availability in Human Experience," and spoke in part as follows:

"One of the distinctive features of Christian Science is the fact that the power to heal and regenerate mankind is open to all. It is yours to-night. It belongs to no privileged class or group of people. It is true that there are thousands of consecrated men and women who are devoting their lives to the ministry or practice of healing as taught in Christian Science, but to-night any one of you, earnestly seeking Truth, may commence the study of Christian Science and its actual practice, up to your highest light. To-night you may begin to approximate the understanding of Christian Science and apply it in your life and the problems of your daily living. Do you believe it blasphemous to assume the right and power to heal as Jesus did? Do you believe that Christian Scientists are assuming too much in their loving endeavor to lift the heavy burdens of their brothers and let the oppressed go free? Shall Christian Scientists be criticized for their effort to completely fulfill the injunction of the Master to heal the sick? Are we so remote from God, so separate in belief? Have they taken away our Lord that we know not where they have laid him? People strangely marvel at what they call miraculous manifestations of divine power. But why should they marvel? Should it surprise us to see concrete evidence of that one omnipotent God who governs the universe and man in perfect harmony and order? The works of healing and regeneration seem incredible only because humanity has continued on its sorrowing, suffering way in ignorance of its Redeemer. 'God is not in all (their) thoughts.' The operation of God's law should seem the most natural thing on earth to us. If God is All and ever-present, should we not have that attitude which naturally expects to see the power and glory of God manifest at every hand?

'If the Bible statement, 'In him we live, and move, and have our being,' be true, and logic and reason coincide with revelation in declaring that it is, how, it may well be asked, can humanity expect to go through life, day after day and year after year, with hardly a thought as to that divine, all-inclusive presence in whom we actually exist? Is God to be left out of His own creation? Is man a separate and separated entity revolving in an orbit of his own? The Psalmist said, 'Whither shall I go from thy spirit? or whither shall I flee from thy presence? . . . If I take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea; even there shall thy hand lead me, and thy right hand shall hold me.' As has been said before, Jesus declared, 'I and my Father are one.' This is no separation but a distinct and eternal unity and he demonstrated its value to the race by his works. Christian Science teaches that all men will sooner or later be awakened out of this false sense of separation and realize that to know and love God, Mind, and demonstrate our unity with that Mind must be the dominating motive of our lives. Godless living with its inevitable results, sin, sickness, and death, forces men eventually to turn to Spirit for a solution of their problems, but why wait to be forced? Thousands of people today are turning from the fleshpots of materialism and are coming to God through the understanding of Christian Science, instead of the way of suffering.

As a first step in this direction let us assure ourselves of our love for God, good. Do we really love the Lord our God with all our heart, with all our might, and with all our mind? With the materiality of modern life so beclouding spiritual sense, how often through the day do most people think of God, even for a moment? Without question almost all will say that they very much need and desire the love of God, but to what extent are they loving Him? At this first step in growth a young student may frequently remind himself, 'I do love Thee, God, with all my heart and what I most desire is a knowledge of Thee and of Thy law.' This child-like turning to the Father-Mother God, this sincere desire for righteousness, is the beginning of true prayer in Christian Science.

Christian Science commences where it finds us, it may be in sin, disease, or poverty, and begins right there the process of redemption and salvation. This redemption of the individual is not accomplished in a moment, by a kind of supernatural transformation of human beings into angels of light, rather is it the gradual and daily putting off of evil and erroneous ways of thinking, replacing them with thoughts that have their being in the one God, divine Mind. There is no record in the Bible that Jesus instantaneously turned people into saints. He met the immediate need, destroyed the specific disease or sin, and then said, 'Go, and sin no more,'—clear evidence that the process of salvation was to be continued by the individual, in better ways of thinking and living until all evil disappeared. The life of Christ Jesus revealed the way of salvation but it remains for each one of us to study that Christ-way in the Bible and Science and Health and then, up to our highest light, endeavor to walk in it.

You will note that I speak of the study of Christian Science, of study as contrasted with reading. My acquaintance with Christian Science goes back many years, to early boyhood, in fact. During these years I have discussed the subject with many people. Every now and then I meet an individual who, when Christian Science is mentioned, will say, 'Christian Science—oh, yes, I've looked into Christian Science, but there's nothing in it.' Looked in? Looked into Christian Science, the Science of all Truth or true being! What estimate do you suppose people would place upon me as a thinker, if I were to so casually remark, 'Mathematics—oh, yes, I've looked into the science of mathematics, but there's nothing in it.'

My friends, Christian Science is a science, the demonstrable Science of being, and it has to be studied. There is no other way to get it. As in our academic work we study the science of mathematics, and step by step, master certain of the basic rules and then proceed to apply them to the common mathematical problems that come into our experience, so it is with Christian Science. Here a little, there a little, through study of the textbook, together with the Bible, we acquire a growing knowledge of the divine Principle which we may apply and find available in the minutest details of human living. Let us take for instance the all too prevalent tendency to lose one's temper. Few of those afflicted with this unpleasant habit wish to keep it. Many struggle to overcome it and suffer great remorse whenever it seems to manifest itself. King Solomon never spoke a truer word than when he said in Proverbs, 'He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city.' Quick temper, as we all know, is often the cause of broken friendships, unhappiness in families, and discordant relations in church and business. Just as soon as one commences the study of Christian Science, however, he begins to see the true meaning of self-control, real self-government; that divine Mind being the only intelligence of man can and will govern and control every thought and motive aright. He discovers how to check this disposition, as people often say, 'to fly off the handle' and to maintain the poise and peace of spiritual dominion. In Christian Science we perceive that hasty temper sometimes arises from a too ready impulse to misunderstand our brother's motives or jump to a conclusion without having thoughtfully considered all the elements concerned. Even a slight perception that divine Love alone governs man shows us how to restrain our impatience. It shows us, too, how to stop and say to ourselves, 'Now, see here, this man even though he entertains a point of view different from my own is entitled to his opinion. If he is wrong certainly no exercise of anger, force, or human will is going to convert him to my way of thinking. Besides, my own thought in this matter may be wrong, and if it is, I want to give it up, because I would not willingly hold to any erroneous or unintelligent way of looking at things.' Checking ourselves in this way, we naturally learn to respect another's opinion. Resentment, intolerance, and self-will are cast out and replaced by the mental qualities of brotherliness, poise, and forbearance. The way opens up for a mutual understanding of the point under consideration. With anger out of the way, all parties concerned see and think clearly, and unanimity of thought is finally manifested. Complete dominion over temper and irritability may not be attained at once, but it is a blessed thing to start this overcoming process. Thousands of people can testify that gradually through the earnest application and study of Christian Science real success in this direction has been achieved."

Sow More Wheat When Late

One must sow wheat late in the fall to avoid the Hessian fly, and late sowing need not detract from the yield in anyway. I have always sowed my wheat late, and can get just as good a crop that way, but it is well to sow an extra peck to each acre, says a writer in the Farm Journal. The peck will surely be more than returned at harvest time. I have raised wheat for many years, sowing red clover on it in the spring to be plowed back green in the fall. This supplies humus and nitrogen for another wheat crop.

Eradicating Wild Onion

Crow garlic is the name frequently applied to the wild onion. Probably the best method of exterminating the wild onion is putting the ground down to grass for a few years, and pasturing it closely. Simply plow the ground deeply and seed heavily to the grass and keep a heavy sod, maintaining it by full sowings of additional grass seed each year. Pasture just as closely as possible. It is advisable to run sheep on such pastures, rather than dairy cows, of course.

Farm Hints

The legume and live stock trail is a smooth short cut to prosperity.

• • •

• • •

Don't look on the compost heap as a waste space, keep it growing larger.

• • •

The farmer who wants to be really self-supporting must have a good garden.

• • •

Home-grown seed of acclimated variety and of good quality will outyield imported varieties.

• • •

Clean out the corn crib and make it as near rat-proof as possible, as rats carry away much corn.

• • •

Inaccurate farm and shipping scales will take their cost out of your pocket several times over in a year.

• • •

The farmer must meet larger investment and operation costs in farming with better production and marketing methods or he will meet failure.

• • •

It's a long lane that has no turning and the weary road through the valley of agricultural depression has at last turned toward better conditions.

AT THE MOVIES

Two Famous Comedians in a Celebrated Play

When Woodrow Wilson arose in his box and, unsolieited, said: "I hope the spirit and sentiments of this beautiful play will soon grip the world," it was the first time in the history of the theatre that a president was known to publiely extol the merits of a play-he was witnessing.

Now that same play, enhaneed by the sueeess of its many seasons on the speaking stage, comes to the sereen to stir the imagination and understanding, and turn on the faucets of laughter. The piece of Aaron Hoffman and Samuel Shipman, made rounder and finer and heartier through its rebirth on the sereen, now emerges as a master film, as nearly approaching perfeetion in every respect as one could dare to hope a pieture might.

And added to all this are Weber and Fields, a team that has been before the amusement world for half a eentury, a national institution upholding the highest traditions of comedy and scintillating extravaganza of the better kind.

"Friendly Enemies" will be shown at the Palace theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Jackie Coogan Coming Soon

Baek to his "enduring rags" once more, Jackie Coogan will eome to the Palaee Theatre next Thursday and Friday in his latest Metro-Goldwyn pieture, "The Rag Man." Those folk who have been demanding to see the Jackie they first loved in "The Kid," will have their opporunity, for he is said to have a similar role that gives him just as much chanee for pathos and even more for comedy.

Heroes Re-Enact Parts Played in Argonne Tragedy

Men of the famous Lost Battalion, who for six days held on grimly while they were eut off from the Amerieun army and entirely surrounded by Germans in the Argonne forest, took part in the filming of "The Lost Battalion," motion pieture which is eoming to Majestic Theatre next Mondny and Tuesday. The late Colonel Charles Whittlesey, eommander of the battalion; Captain George McMurtry and other offieers and men who went through that tragic test in the beleaguered forest, helped to direct the picture and aeted in it.

Keaton's Laugh-Makers

Buster Keaton has a great cast of laugh-makers in his latest Metro-Goldwyn eomedy, "Seven Chanees," which is eoming to the Majestie Theatre next Saturday and Sunday.

"Sally" Here Soon as Lavish Movie

In addition to a story of unusual heart appeal, eomedy, pathos and poignant drama in "Sally," First National's newest starring vehicle, in which Colleen Moore is the star, is coming to the Majestic Theatre Saturday and Sunday, there is promised a seenie magnificenee that has rarely been exeelled upon the screen.

We Must Work Together

Every thoughtful citizen of this community is interested in its development and progress. There's no question about that! We all want our children to enjoy better homes, better schools, better parks—more agreeable surroundings and greater comforts.

We all want our town to keep step with its neighbors, to take the lead in civic affairs. So there is only one sound plan for us to follow:

We must work together to increase the wealth of this community by doing everything we can to encourage local business.

When you and your family patronize our advertisers—the stores and banks in our town—and keep your money in circulation right here at home, there is no power on earth that can prevent our progress.

AUTO THIEVES NOW IN JAIL

CAUGHT TUESDAY AFTER AN ALL NIGHT CHASE

Youngest of Pair Tells Story of Theft in Detail—Quick Work of Officials

Two young lads, one a few months over 15 years old and the other in his twenties, are in the county jail, charged with stealing an automobile. They were picked up Tuesday forenoon in Traverse City after an all night chase.

The pair are Gerald Warner, age 15, who claims Lansing as his home, and Algie Dow, age 20, of Boyne City. Warner claims he was never in trouble before, while Dow has been a source of trouble to county officials for some time. Both had been employed at the Belvedere for the past week or so.

They are charged with stealing a Ford sedan owned by Harley I. Ochs, from in front of his home on State street about eight o'clock Monday evening.

In an interview with Warner this morning, he told the story of the escapade as follows: "Dow and I had worked at the Belvedere in the pastry room for the past eight days. Neither of us liked the work, and he proposed that we steal an auto and head for Chicago. At first he (Dow) wanted to steal a big Packard from the Belvedere, but I objected, and so we passed it up. Tuesday evening about 7:00 we walked down State street and saw a Ford sedan standing in front of a house. Dow proposed to steal it. I again objected. Then Dow saw the magneto key was gone and he got its number. We went to the Ford garage and got a key of the same number. Then Dow told me to take my suit case and wait for him on the corner. In a few minutes he appeared with the sedan, and we started south towards Traverse City. First thing we knew a man stopped us near the fair grounds in Traverse City. He grabbed Dow and I skipped. Later I came back and he took us both to his home, where he telephoned the sheriff. While he was talking we both made our get-away. From then until we were again taken in custody, the cops were red hot on our trail. Several times they passed within a few feet of us, and we had several narrow escapes. We made our way to the P. M. depot and intended to ride the blind baggage out of town. Then the cops again found us. This time for good. One of the cops pulled a gun and made us put 'em up."

Such is the story told by this 15-year-old lad. Only a kid, away from home and presumably influenced to some extent by an older companion. He does not fully realize the seriousness of the trouble he is in. Asked if he wanted his father notified, he said "No."

The sedan was taken shortly before eight Monday evening. Mrs. Ochs saw Dow enter the car and drive away, but thought it was Mr. Ochs. When the driver turned west off State street, she became alarmed and called Mr. Ochs at the Central Drug store. Then the theft was discovered.

Sheriff Chas. Novak was notified and the search began. Towns in every direction were notified to be on the look out for the pair. It was Deputy Sheriff Gothrow of Grand Traverse county who stopped them and from whom they made their get-away.

Sheriff Novak was notified of the capture and immediately left for Traverse City, accompanied by Deputy Marshall and Prosecuting Attorney A. L. Fitch. After learning of their escape he continued the search all night. Three posses were organized and it was Novak whom the boys referred in the above interview, as passing close to them.

It was Deputies Gothrow, (whom they escaped from) and Marshall who placed them under arrest. They were brought to Charlevoix and placed in the county jail. At a hearing before Justice Cooper and Probate Judge S. A. Correll, (Warner being a minor) Tuesday afternoon, they were placed under $1,000 bonds and bound over to circuit court. They will probably be brought before Judge Parm C. Gilbert Monday.

The quick work on the part of Sheriff Novak and his assistants in apprehending the pair cannot be too highly commended. It may act as a warning to others who may possibly have the idea that they can pull off

THE KIND OF A TIME WE WANT THEM TO HAVE

A local merchant showed us a postcard he had picked up in his store that someone had dropped after writing it, which he later mailed for the party on which was written:

"Still going north. Lots of fish and having a helluvatime."

We believe this is the sentiment that is voiced by most of the people touring the upper part of the state this year. They may not all be able to express it so forcibly as this party did, but the sentiment and the spirit is general, and the experience and the things they meet with to make their trip wonderfully attractive and interesting and fill them full of those experiences they hoped to enjoy when vacation time came. There is always a lot of satisfaction and comfort in the anticipation of any such event. People live in the anticipation of these trips and then to go out and meet up with the fulfillment of those anticipations, and have them prove more than true is what makes for a most happy and wonderful summer outing.

Reports showed the church in a good condition. The new board was organized and everything arranged to begin with September first.

This is a fitting recognition of the good work accomplished by Rev. Quant during his pastorate here, and the official board and members of the church are to be congratulated on the wise choice made.

O'CONNELL CHAMP AT TENNIS MEET

STAR CHICAGO PLAYER DEFEATS ALL OPPONENTS

Ideal Weather Conditions Make Tournament a Success—May Get State Meet Next Year

George O'Connell of Chicago, Michigan state champion, won the Charlevoix tennis tournament last Sunday by defeating Dr. W. Thwaites, Grand Rapids city champion in the finals, score 6-2, 6-3, 6-3.

In the doubles, O'Connell and his partner, Frank T. O'Brien, defeated Thwaites and W. Gordon Parker, our local champion, score 6-3, 6-1, 6-3.

Local players did fairly well against the invading stars. Harold Hallett reached the quarter finals through defeating Charles Fox, Jr., of the Belvedere Club and Ted Joslyn of Grand Rapids. Hallett ended his part in the tournament when he lost to Benedict, Yale star.

George Neeves, ranking number seven of Chicago, came very close in upsetting O'Connell, being within two points of the match at one time. Neeves defeated N. Maxwell, Detroit, 6-2, 6-2, and F. C. Elwell, ranking number one in Detroit, 6-1, 6-2.

The big upsets in the tournament were the defeats of Oscar Zemon, Detroit city champion, by Charles Wagoner, 6-0, 6-0, and the defeat of Dale Hodges, Detroit star, by C. Tobias of Cincinnati, who is resorting in Charlevoix.

F. T. O'Brien defeated James Vose, playing number two on the University of Michigan team, 1-6, 6-3, 6-1. Vose was unable to handle O'Brien's high lobs.

One of the most interesting matches of the tournament was the defeat of the Irwins, father and son team of Grand Rapids, by Maxwell and Wagoner of Detroit, 7-5, 6-8, 7-5.

W. Gordon Parker won his first two matches easily, defeating Paul T. Cohen, Buffalo district champion, and William Gorhy, of Terre Haute, Ind., but lost to Benedict.

The week end was fortunate in having just the kind of weather for good tennis and the gallery was full of spectators at all times. The players were entertained by A. J. Creamer at The Inn. Next year The Inn plans to increase the present number of courts to six. This will make Charlevoix eligible to hold the Michigan state tournament.

Charlevoix citizens and resorters wish to thank Gordon W. Parker and Harold Cartier for handling the tennis tournament and making it the success it proved to be.

SEASON'S LOW GOLF SCORE MADE

Allan M. Loeb Covers Eighteen Holes in Sixty-eight

The season's lowest score for the full 18 holes on the Charlevoix Golf Club course was made Monday afternoon by Allan M. Loeb of the Loeb Farms, Mr. Loeb covering the links in 68.

This remarkable low score was made in a foursome and is fully verified as being correct. Mr. Loeb made the first nine holes in 33, the second nine in 35. He drove one ball out of bounds and missed two putts. This record will probably stand during this season at least.

HORSE SHOW WAS EVENT OF SEASON

HOOKER'S PADDOCK CROWDED WITH SPECTATORS

Lovers of Horseback Riding Participate in Each of Ten Classes—Proceeds Over $150.00

The Charity Horse Show and Gymkhna held at Hooker's paddock Friday, August 14th, was a wonderful success. The proceeds of the show totalled $150.00 and were given to the Charlevoix hospital benefit fund.

Many prominent lovers of horseback riding took part in the fancy dress costume rides and races.

Judges for Class I—saddle horses, were Mrs. Leo Keiler and Col. Leo Keiler of Louisville, Ky., and W. H. Weil of Chicago, Ill. Prizes awarded were donated by Mesdames William Cohn, Chicago; J. Karger, Chicago; S. J. Straus, Chicago; E. J. Block, Chicago; Fred Lazarus, Columbus, O., and Mr. Sanderson, Chicago.

The Charlevoix band played for the musical ride and refreshments were served by M. B. Hooker & Son and A. W. Sankey, manager of the paddock.

The girls and boys fancy dress costume ride certainly was a display of color and the most unique show ever seen in Charlevoix.

Winners of the girls costume ride were: 1st, Miss Dickie Weil, Michigan avenue; 2nd, Mary Straus, Michigan avenue; 3rd, Anne Stevens, Belvedere Club; 4th, Mary McDonald, Chicago Club. Boys ratings were: 1st, Jack Goldman, Michigan avenue; 2nd, Charles Pierce, Chicago Club; 3rd, Edward W. Scott, Chicago Club; 4th, James Flynn, Belvedere Club.

The ladies' saddle tandem was ridden by Mrs. Logan Thomson, Mary Jane Loeb, Justine Godchaux and Louise Ederheim. M. B. Hooker won the potato race. The musical ride, open to everyone, closed the grand Gymkhna.

Affairs of this kind tend to stimulate interest in horseback riding and furnish entertainment to hundreds of our summer people. Plans are already under way for an event of this kind next year.

AT THE MOVIES

Welding of East and West Shown in "Iron Horse"

The story of the wires and the nails which first linked the west with the east, has been recorded on the screen for the first time. Described by Robert Louis Stevenson as a greater achievement in the world's history than the building of Troy, this tremendous theme furnishes the basis for "The Iron Horse," the William Fox super production which opens a 3 day engagement at the Palace theatre Saturday.

Names which have come down in history and will go on forever, appear in the cast. Lincoln, Grant, Dodge, Buffalo Bill Cody, Wild Bill Hickok and Bat Masterson are just a few of them. The picture is not a melodrama, but a spectacular cinema record of the linking of America, based on historical records.

Big Cast Supports Corinne Griffith

In support of Corinne Griffith in the First National picture, "Declasse," which comes to the Palace theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday, are many popular screen players. Among them are Lloyd Hughes, Hedda Hopper, Rockliffe Fellowes, Lilyan Tashman, Louise Fazenda, Clive Brook, Joan Standing, Eddie Lyons, Mario Carillo. The direction was in the hands of Robert Vignoin. The picture is an adaptation from Ethel Barrymore's stage success of the same title.

All are signs of kidney sickness!
Here's Charlevoix testimony:
Mrs. Frank Coatta, Jr., 108 Robinson St., says: "I had a dull ache through the small of my back and when I moved quickly, or stopped, sharp pains like the thrust of a knife darted across my kidneys. I became nervous and irritable and was in a run down condition. My kidneys were weak and acted too freely. Several boxes of Doan's Pills, from Metcalf's Drug Store, cured me."

POULTRY

ROASTING CHICKENS FINISHED ON MILK

Much of the poultry sold to the consuming public is in an unfinished condition. Fleshing or fattening puts weight onto the birds, improves the flavor, causes the muscles to become tender and the bones brittle. Theoretically the fat is distributed between the muscle fibers in a way similar to the marbling in roasts and steaks. In the roasting method of cooking poultry, the fat assists in shortening the time of cooking. This may be contrasted with the lean bird which requires longer cooking and from which the water evaporates, leaving the bird in a dry and tough condition.

Most milk feeding of roasting chickens by the producer is done in the fall when the weather is cool and the birds can better stand confinement. The time just preceding Thanksgiving and Christmas is most desirable. Young birds weighing from 3½ to 4½ pounds are about the right weight for fall feeding. Broiler fleshing is done in the spring when the birds weigh about one-half pound less than the market demand, which is normally two pounds.

Two common methods of feeding are pen and crate fattening. For farm purposes pen fattening will be satisfactory because no special equipment is needed. The birds are confined to a limited coop area where they will get little or no exercise. The lack of exercise helps to make the bird tender.

Purdue university has found the following ration and method of feeding quite satisfactory:

Two pounds ground corn
One pound ground whole oats
One pound flour middlings
Eight pounds liquid buttermilk.

This is mixed at the feeding prior to the one it is to be fed. When fed, it should pour and be of a thick cream of pancake-batter consistency.

The birds should receive no feed for 24 hours previous to their first milk feeding. This is done in order to free the intestines from feed and to get the birds hungry. Thereafter they should be fed in troughs twice a day, early in the morning and late in the afternoon. From 10 to 14 days is the usual length of time for feeding. For the first three or four days until they are "on feed," the feed should be in front of them for only 10 minutes; for the next three or four days, 15 minutes, and for the last days, 20 minutes. The birds should be hungry at each feeding. If they are not hungry at each feeding, that feeding should be withheld.

Only in very hot weather should anything other than the two regular feedings be given. At such a time the birds may have a very thin mixture of the ration given at noon.—L. H. Schwartz, Purdue University.

Summer Hardest Season to Produce Good Eggs

Summer is the hardest season in which to produce quality eggs and for that reason a producer of such should have very little trouble getting a few cents more per dozen. It really costs no more to produce a good egg than a poor one, though it is perhaps a little more work.

The first thing to do when producing quality eggs is to dispose of the roosters. This is the greatest trouble with summer egg production. The egg starts to incubate and then the embryo dies leaving the egg unfit for food. The second thing to do is to never neglect gathering the eggs twice a day.

The third thing to do is to keep the eggs in a cool cellar or cave. They should never be kept in a musty place as an egg will take up odors as quickly as milk. By following these three rules you will not find it difficult to produce eggs that will be a credit to the producer.

FLOCK SEGREGATION IS GOOD PRACTICE

Segregating the flock, which means separating the hens according to the approximate time they cease to lay, is advocated as good summer poultry management by the poultry workers at the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca. After the separation has been made, the different groups should be put on range by themselves for the rest of their "vacation."

This practice, the poultryman at the college say, should result not only in keeping the egg yield at a uniform level, but also should result in a better quality of birds retained for layers or breeders.

In segregating the hens, "they should be transferred to other buildings, and, if possible, separated from the location of the laying flock, turned free on a good grass or alfalfa range, and fed plenty of hard grain," says R. C. Ogle of the college staff. "After being thus permitted to rest and recuperate for a period of six to eight weeks, they may be returned to the laying house and should produce a good percentage of large-size eggs through the most profitable egg-marketing season of the year.'

"This procedure of flock segregation may start in August. Regular selection may be made every 15 days, starting about August 15. By this plan, every opportunity is provided for the birds to recuperate, gain their body weight, and store up a surplus of fat in preparation for the winter laying.

"Selection should of course be continued through September, but then the selection may be for the breeding flock. Each group should be handled similarly while on range. Breeders should not be pushed for production until spring.

"Flock segregation pays well and should be in more common practice."

Roup in Poultry During Bad Weather Is Serious

During bad weather, roup puts in its appearance among many flocks and fowls. Drafts, dampness and filth usually are its main causes. Swelled heads, closed eyes, hoarse breathing, sneezing, canker mouth, drooping without apparent cause and wasting away gradually—all are indications of some form of roup.

Roup is a term applied by some poultry keepers to nearly all diseases of the fowl's lungs and throat, but when considered in this broad manner there are different forms as well as different stages of severity, lumps, abcesses and canker or similar sores following after it. In its contagious forms there is a very foul odor discernible.

There is no cure for some kinds of roup. In severe cases it is cheaper to kill all the afflicted hens, disinfect the whole place or move the coops to new ground and begin anew.

For light cases of roup use a mixture of one part spirits of turpentine and three parts sweet oil, anointing the head and face of each fowl with a few drops daily, with ten drops down the throat. A tablespoonful of potassium chlorate in each quart of drinking water also is a good remedy. Others prefer to use the well-known pink solution of permanganate of potash in all drinking water; it helps cure afflicted fowls and helps prevent well fowls catching the disease.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS

The summary of general business conditions for June and early July issued by the Federal Reserve Board shows a further small seasonal decline in industrial production, but no serious recession, and a production level considerably above the comparable period of a year ago. Factory employment declined in June, while freight shipments and the volume of wholesale trade increased, and wholesale prices, after declining for two months, advanced in June. Production in basic industries, as indicated by the Federal Reserve Board's index, declined about 1 per cent in June to the lowest level since the autumn of 1924, but 17 per cent above the low point of last summer. Output of pig iron, steel ingots, lumber, newsprint, petroleum, and mill consumption of cotton declined in June, while production of bituminous coal, sole leather and wheat flour increased. The declined 1 per cent and factory pay rolls over 2 per cent between May than in May. Factory employment number of automobiles manufactured during June was slightly less 15 and June 15, reflecting substantial declines in the automobile, boot and shoe, textile, and iron and steel industries. Building contracts awarded during June were larger in value than during May and almost equaled the peak figure for April. In square feet of floor space, the June awards were a little smaller than those of May. Residential contracts exceeded those of a year ago.

HOW ABOUT IT, SAMUEL?

We wonder if the postoffice department has ever thought to inquire into the methods of a new form of salesmanship that has lately sprung up and which has for its successful conduct the use of the United States mails? Mr. Business Man opens his morning mail and is surprised to find a box of hose supporters, or other small articles of wearing apparel enclosed. A printed letter extolling the virtues of the articles accompanies the shipment and suggests that if the recipient desires to retain them a dollar bill in the self-addressed envelope will pay the charges. No postage to return the shipment, in case you don't want the articles, is sent along, tbe reason being obvious. The box is usually pushed aside and generally mislaid or forgotten until a couple weeks later when Mr. Business Man receives a letter mildly suggesting that he either remit or return the shipment. In the meantime the box has disappeared and rather than be classified as a deadbeat he does, just as they knew he would do, and instructs his secretary to mail them a check and close the incident. The postal department should adopt a ruling putting an end to this wholly unfair system of merchandising.

PLAYING FAIR

It is an old adage that says, "You can't have your cake and eat it," neither can you have legislative extravagance and lower taxes. For a long while the idea prevailed that "taxing the rich" was a short cut of the folly of reckless expenditures, but gradually the truth is becoming understood that industry overburdened is a menace to progress and reacts first upon those dependent upon their daily wage for a livelihood. Unless industry is made attractive to capital it naturally follows that capital will be diverted into other channels and the demand for labor lessened. Legislators must learn the lesson of fairness and place labor and capital upon an equal footing if we are to continue prosperity at high tide in this country. Excessive and unfair taxation always leaves a trail of ruin and disaster.

PROSPECT OF BUSINESS BEST SINCE 1920

Charles E. Mitchell, president of the National City Bank of New York, asserts that there is every promise for better business than this country has had since 1920. Mr. Mitchell says: "All of the reassuring conditions which contributed to the revival of business at the beginning of this year are still present and the confidence then generally expressed is being justified. Since that time there has been enough pessimistic talk to hold optimism in check and to discourage all enterprise which could be discouraged; but in spite of it, the volume of business has been greater than in the first six months of any other year, and if the crops come through as they now promise, a new impetus will he given to all business."

MAKE LICENSE FEE HIGH

Many Micbigan communities are becoming tired of the peddler nuisance and are passing ordinances calculated to put a curb on this class of gentry, whose doorbell ringing has been like a funeral knell to legitimate business enterprises. Not only, as a rule, do they insist on selling inferior merchandise at high prices, but of late many of them are getting so bold they have no hesitancy in insulting the woman of the household who refuses to purchase their wares. Signs, "Peddlers Not Wanted," seem to have no deterrant effect and the only way to lessen their tribe is a high license fee rigidly enforced. In this way they can be made to pay a part at least of the cost of municipal government.

FRESHENING BREEZES

Has anybody thot to inquire what became of the village cutup who announced last spring he was going to spend his vacation in Canada where they had four-point-four?

Speaking of the disappointing weakness of four-point-four, the story is told of the two fellows wbo started to row across the river in quest of a couple bottles. When out in the middle of the river tbe boat sank and they swam back to Detroit.

The trial at Dayton succeeded in clearing up one mystery—we know who the monkeys are now.

We always get a good laugh when somebody buys the Brooklyn bridge or the Masonic temple, but we still have with us the old-fashioned zebe out in the sticks who persists in buying the stock of some worthless concern without first consulting the town banker.

We hope that in announcing the campaign for national aridity so far in advance that the government will make sure none of the bootleggers are caught off their guard.

A good definition of a hick town is a place where they still have a wooden pump on the corner of the village square.

The man who is continually predicting trouble with the yellow race is probably the same individual who is never on speaking terms with any of his neighbors.

They say Mr. Ford is turning out a new model this summer. How many of you folks remember the old one with tbe brass trimmings and the carbide lights?

The old-fasbioned gent who ust to wear a nightcap now has a grandson who is unable to reach slumberland until he has tucked two or three away under his belt.

What has become of the old-fashioned farmer who could hardly find time to go to town on Saturday night?

And Now in Closing—

It may interest you, and then it may not, to know that a good day's work is just as essential now to prosperity as it was in the days when the full dinner pail was a thing to be pointed to with pride.

WHEN BILL WAS LEFT ALONE

By G. VERE TYLER

(©, Doubleday, Page & Co.)

Nobody would ever think of denying where Bill hailed from, or that he brought along with him certain of his inheritances.

Bill, just careless, no intention, was something of a bon vivant, at any rate a lover of ease, the good things of life. Comfortable home, always a good meal on the table, no stinting, temperament expressed in these things As time went on, the way Bill insisted on living showed on him. He grew to look like his habits, comfortable in his forty-second year, a little bald and bordering on being stout. Rather good-looking was Bill, fine teeth (of which he was somewhat vain) and a smile, the charm of which was never questioned. In fact, Bill had several smiles, different smiles for different occasions, different people, occasionally condescending. But the real smile, the pronounced one, and above par, was for women. It was a peculiar smile, this smile of Bill's for women, indulgent, patronizing, playful. It seemed to say to them, any of them, young or old, married or single—"No matter, you were made to be loved."

Quite naturally, Bill's wife was a beauty. Quite naturally, also, she adored Bill, and what was worse, alas, for the imaginative temperament, she was extremely jealous of Bill, and more especially of Bill's smile for women. He had a good deal to bear from it—suspicion, questioning, days of estrangement, mild scenes—a good deal to bear. But nothing could kill that smile, gallant and persuasive, that Bill had for women, all women. He offered it as their due, and to see him offer it certainly hurt his wife, so that as much as possible she drifted to the background, taking Bill with her, of course.

When she was thirty-eight she fell ill. Something wrong. Cancer, whispered. There is a world of woe in that word. Two years of suffering, mostly in bed during the second one, with Bill constantly at her side, the bed side. Sundays all day long at the window where her eyes could rest upon him, and her feeble voice reach him, sat Bill, Sunday papers in his lap or on the floor at his feet.

Always in the beautiful stricken eyes of his wife, so that at times he rather dreaded to meet them, Bill read a question: What was he doing when away from her; who was receiving his smile?

Yes, Bill knew this question was ever in her mind, and he suffered under it. For her own sake, her peace of mind, he wished he could have her perfect confidence, and what he could do to insure this he did. Straight home from the office, and all day Sunday, the window, three feet from the bed, and the papers. Sometimes sitting there in the quiet of the sick room, he would fall asleep and that was the time when her eyes rarely left his face, the time when she could take her full of the features she loved so, while thinking perhaps of the smile, sleeping also, not troubling her now.

They had three children, all boys—twenty-two, twenty, thirteen. The boys. Bill spoiling them or "cussing them out," as the case might be, nagged at them sometimes, the ailing mother protesting. Nerves. No wonder. Mentally and physically he was a bit tired—work at the office, confinement to the house, nursing.

Bill had lots of friends, and what was predicted among them was (as was inevitable) that when Bill found himself alone he would break loose in some mild way; that the apartment, with only the male element left, would undergo changes, wake up. Bill had been housed up and held down quite a while, they argued.

Well, one day Bill did find himself alone. It was all over at last, the beautiful one gone, and all the vigilant and questioning eyes that had been on Bill, loving eyes many of them, became more vigilant and questioning. Everybody wondering what Bill would do now that he was a widower.

"Well, Bill, how are you, old fellow?" Handshake on a street corner.

"All right, Jim."

"Looking a little thin, Bill."

"Not thin at that." Ghost of Bill's smile.

"Be on the lookout for someone to cheer you up, won't you, Bill?"

Sharp look out of the corner of Bill's eyes, almost an angry flash. No smile. Then softly: "Old friends, yes, Jim. Any place around here we can get a drink?"

They walked off.

Bill had a pretty good position, somewhere up in the thousands. Capable man. The eyes of women were even more questioning and vigilant than the eyes of his men friends. More especially widows, dreamers with vanished loves and luxuries. They all assailed Bill, each in her own way. He needed a housekeeper, some one to look after the boys. Their eyes and voices bespoke that he needed a new love.

Bill, who had an astute mind as well as a pleasing way and smile, saw all this, knew perfectly well that the men expected him to break away—expressed it, and that the women regarded him as a catch. He didn't feel unkindly to either. Perfectly natural, thought Bill, trying to go along as usual. Business.

One of the things that bothered Bill was that when five-thirty came, even though he might be at the moment in the very midst of the dazzling electric signs of Broadway, he couldn't resist heading his car homewards, and what bothered him even more was that Sundays that window called him.

The Sunday invitations came thick and fast—men from the club or their own homes; women's voices over the phone, glad and cheery. But there Bill sat, just as he had done when the beautiful wife was lying in the bed with her eyes on him, the papers in his lap or strewing the floor.

Once while Bill was sitting there this way, tears he wasn't in the least thinking of came to his eyes and overflowed. A moment later, to his surprise, his face was buried in his hands and he was sobbing.

One of the boys, his eldest, found him so, and quickly laid a hand on his shoulder. "What's the matter, father?"

"Nothing, son." Bill looked up—cloudy eyes, wet cheeks, not the ghost of a smile. "Bob!" he said.

"Yes, father?"

"What we want," and Bill's voice was rather fierce, "is to keep this place sacred. Understand? Sacred. No card playing, nor drinking, no actresses' pictures around, nothing—understand!"

"Yes, father."

"Sacred to your mother!"

"Yes, sir."

Silence, and then Bill: "Your Aunt Margie has had a pretty hard struggle with life since her husband died."

"Sir?"

"I was speaking to you about your Aunt Margie. Has a hard life. I haven't thought enough about her, always taken up here with your mother, and you boys. I've neglected her."

"No, father—"

"Don't tell me, 'no father'! I know I have, and I'm going to try to make up for it. I'm going to ask her to come here to live, and keep this place sacred. You boys, with your cigarettes and what not, will give her occupation enough. Look here, Bob, if either of you boys or for that matter, myself, want to do things your mother wouldn't have approved of, that would have grieved her—she made this home!—why the world's large and New York is a mighty big city!"

"You mustn't grieve so, father."

"Mustn't grieve! Why not? Don't you think she would have grieved for me? I loved your mother, Bob, and it seems to me that I'm about the only one who realizes it. Go and answer that phone."

As his son left the room, Bill's eyes became fixed on a picture of his wife, a merry picture of her of the long ago, in which she seemed laughing at him.

"I loved you, girl," he said.

Wife After Marriage With Penurious Man

If you marry a man who is penurious you have a husband who will be unfailingly true to you, because it costs money to stray, says the New York Sun.

He will grumble over the cost of your hats and gowns, but he is not buying hats and gowns for any other woman. When not engaged in business he will be at home reading books from the free library or watching the gas meter. He is not always cheerful, for life, measured by pennies, is a serious proposition. He does not readily "see" a joke, and if, in this atmosphere, you retain your God-given sense of humor, you are a wonderful woman. But you won't. So slowly you will never know when the process began you, too, will confine your reading to books from a free library; you too will view the gas meter with alarm, and you too will rarely smile.

"Asks Too Much of Life"

The saddest pessimist is one who asks too much of life and of the living, one whose ideal is so high, whose conception of what men should be, of what men might be is so noble that the sordid reality, as it creeps upon the dull and muddy earth, breeds nothing but perpetual disappointment and despair.

Human souls might be glorious in hope, in aspiration, in love, even in actual achievement; and they are—what they are.

So you turn away sadly into the "ivory tower," where ideal thought and beauty dwell, there to weave dreams and visions with exquisite words and phrases that cannot die.—Gamaliel Bradford in Harper's Magazine.

The Ants and Flies

Six-year-old Ruth had two aunts who held a very real place in her affections. When she accompanied mother to the reunion of her college class at commencement, Ruth found herself possessed of many new aunts—nice, but not the same. The first she received with surprise, the second graciously, the third stolcally, the fourth, well, to help things on a bit mother explained:

"Ruthie has lots of aunts."

"Oh, yes," Ruth agreed, "the ants are my aunts and the uncles are as thick as flies."

RUM SMUGGLERS USE TRAFFIC LIGHT CODE

State Police have discovered that the liquor smugglers along the Canadian border have copied the system of lights employed to direct traffic in city streets and made it a safeguard for their vessels. Red, green and yellow lights are shown on the boathouse or dock where the cargo is to be received at night.

A red light indicates that police are in the vicinity, a green light that the smuggling vessel may come to dock safely while a yellow light indicates that the smugglers had better stop on the Canadian side of the line for awhile.

Inasmuch the Detroit and St. Clair Rivers are in places less than a third of a mile wide, the traffic system works to aid the smugglers in making quick dashes.

ARSONIST CONFESSES, DRAWS STIFF SENTENCE

Russell Boyer, pool room owner, confessed to firing his place to secure insurance after evidence had been obtained against him by Lieutenant Joseph Kearney and Trooper Aldrich of the Michigan State Police. He was sentenced to Ionia reformatory. It was three months after the fire, and after other officers had failed to solve it, that the troopers secured the evidence. Boyer also confessed firing two other buildings in the vicinity.

We Must Work Together

Every thoughtful citizen of this community is interested in its development and progress. There's no question about that! We all want our children to enjoy better homes, better schools, better parks—more agreeable surroundings and greater comforts.

We all want our town to keep step with its neighbors, to take the lead in civic affairs. So there is only one sound plan for us to follow:

We must work together to increase the wealth of this community by doing everything we can to encourage local business.

When you and your family patronize our advertisers—the stores and banks in our town—and keep your money in circulation right here at home, there is no power on earth that can prevent our progress.

CIRCUIT COURT CLOSED MONDAY

IMPORTANT CASES TRIED AND VERDICTS RENDERED

Bennett, Liquor Violator, Draws Sentence of Hard Labor—Stay of Proceedings in Brady Case

The August term of circuit court held in the Charlevoix county court house, adjourned Monday, all cases having been duly tried and verdicts rendered with the exception of a few delayed court sentences. Judge Parm C. Gilbert of Traverse City, presided.

Petitions for naturalization were granted to the following applicants for citizenship: Alice Gornell, Charlevoix; Geo. Coplice, Boyne City; Lawrence Sand, Bay Shore; Gus Oganek, Boyne Falls.

Criminal cases tried by jury and parties found guilty of misdemeanors: Adolphus Newman plead guilty to violation of liquor laws and was released on a $500 bond. He will appear later in court for sentence.

Calvin Bennett, found guilty by jury trial of violating liquor laws, was fined $400 and costs of $200. In default of paying the fine and costs he was sentenced to serve from six months to one year at hard labor in the Ionia Michigan State Reformatory.

Homer Brady, found guilty of violating liquor laws, was released on bond for ten days. This action was taken to allow his attorney to file bills of exceptions and to appeal for another court decision.

Archie LaDere plead guilty of having stolen goods in his possession and is held in custody of the sheriff to await sentence.

Fred Alphonse and Joseph Saudenburgh were found guilty in circuit court for having caught and shipped under-sized fish. They paid fines aggregating $300 and costs of $75, also paid the State of Michigan the value of the fish shipped.

Thomas James, arraigned in court on charge of non-support for wife and child, plead guilty. He is held in custody of the sheriff awaiting future sentence.

PRICES CUT BY DODGE BROS., INC.

Reduction is Made Possible by Constantly Increasing Production

Announcement of a reduction in the prices of Dodge Brothers motor vehicles, both passenger and commercial, effective Monday, August 17th, has been received by Benj. Brown, local dealer.

New list prices, f. o. b. Detroit, are as follows:

Standard Types
Touring	$ 875
A-Sedan	1195
B-Sedan	1045
Coupe	960
Coach	1035
Screen Commercial	885
Panel Commercial	960
Special Types
Touring	$ 975
A-Sedan	1280
B-Sedan	1145
Coach	1135

The price of the roadster, $855, and that of the chassis, $730, remain unchanged.

"These new prices come at a time when Dodge Brothers product has reached the highest peak of mechanical perfection in its history," declares Mr. Brown. "In an attempt to supply public demand, factory production has been stepped up since the first of this year from 900 cars a day to the present rate of over 1,100 and now Dodge Brothers are pushing as rapidly as possible an eight million dollar expansion program to give them buildings and machinery for a production of 1,500 cars a day.

"This price cut is just the application of Dodge Brothers policy of faithfully returning to the buyer the saving made possible by increased production. Since the first of this year production has been steadily increased month after month. The first six months of 1925 were the largest in the factory's history—more than 11 per cent greater than the first six months of 1924. The problem for Dodge Brothers executives has been, not to find a market for their product, but to increase production to supply a ready market.

"The constantly increasing, yet never satisfied, demand for Dodge Brothers motor cars is convincing evidence that a motor wise public is more and more appreciative of the greater value made possible by Dodge Brothers sound policy of constantly improving a basic design instead of bringing out a new model every year."

SALVATION ARMY MAKE WORTHY APPEAL

Local Committee Hope to Raise Their Full Quota

The Charlevoix committee of the Salvation Army, of which Robert Bridge is chairman will make its annual appeal for its state Home Service Fund next week. Similar campaigns are also being held in Boyne City and East Jordan, the two other large towns in the county. The local committee hopes to raise and if possible exceed the quota of $300 which is suggested by the divisional commander and the state committee. Mrs. Robert Bonthron will again be chairmun of the women's committee and Mrs. O. D. Hammond will have charge of the Tag Day, August 22nd. Other members of the several committees will be announced shortly.

This year Archie Livingston will serve as treasurer. The men's committee will make the canvass of the business section and the women's committee the residential district. In view of the splendid work which the Salvation Army is carrying on from year to year, or year in and year out, it is hoped that a most generous response will be gladly given as last year.

NO FISHING LIKE IN MICHIGAN

TYLER FAMILY HAVING WONDERFUL TRIP WEST

Reports Roads Are Excellent and Comments in General Way on Country Passed Through

The Courier has received a very interesting letter from Fred V. Tyler, formerly of the Courier force, who with his wife and daughter, Marian, are motoring to California with Mr. and Mrs. Dee Marsa. One of the first things mentioned is a request to forward all copies of the Courier since they left to Fullerton, California, their final destination.

Fred says he is very anxious to learn of the happenings at home since leaving, and knows of no other way of getting it than through the columns of the home paper. He speaks of looking for a "rattler." We cannot imagine for the life of us why he is so interested. Our recollection of him is that his first thought upon seeing a snake would be to shinny up a tree. Maybe, however, he has absorbed some of the western atmosphere, and is ready to tackle anything he meets.

His letter, mailed at Twin Falls, Idaho, with personal references deleted, follows: "We are having a wonderful trip and surprisingly little tire trouble. The roads have been excellent all the way. A six mile strip of 'wash-board' this side of Pocatello, Idaho, was the worst we have found on the trip so far and that was not bad. We have seen lots of game along the road—rabbits, prairie chickens, woodchucks, etc. Coming through the sage bush lands of eastern Idaho we noticed dead rabbits in the road at intervals of about 100 feet or so, sometimes more. It was possible to count 25 or 50 in a mile, evidently blinded by car lights and run over. Only thing we haven't been able to find is a rattle snake. Looked for them even in the bad lands of South Dakota and have not seen one on the entire trip. Wild doves are thick in this country. Trouble is there is a closed season on pretty near everything now. No fishing to be compared to Michigan so far on the trip except in Yellowstone Lake."

LAST EXAMINATION THAT CAN BE TAKEN

Teachers Must Hereafter Have Normal Certificates

Six applicants took the teachers' county school examinations last week. A. C. Belding, county school commissioner, supervised the examinations and reported very good standings.

It is interesting to note these examinations are the last which may be taken by any teacher applying for a teachers' certificate in Charlevoix county.

The new school laws passed by the legislature of the state of Michigan and recommended by the department of public instruction will go into effect September 1, 1925. One of the laws require every teacher to have a normal school certificate before applying for a position. This law does away with the old formality of county school teachers' examinations.

The six applicants for teachers' certificates this year were: Cecil Ogden, Charlevoix; Bernice Courier, East Jordan; Francis Gould, East Jordan; Mable Maddock, East Jordan; Ethel Furst, North Manitou Island; Lucille Gilistie, St. James, Beaver Island.

COYOTES TRAPPED IN GRAND TRAVERSE

Two Were Caught Last Week in Traps Near Honor

Coyotes, drifting in from the northern peninsula, have invaded the Grand Traverse region. Two of them were caught this week near Honor.

The Indian Hills orchards, near Honor, have been systematically robbed of turkeys and other fowl for the past few weeks and in discussing the matter at Honor recently one hunter said it looked like the work of coyotes. Neil Conklin, town fireman at Honor, said he'd give ten dollars to see one.

Leon Hart and John Peckins of Honor, set traps near the Indian Hills and early this week they found a coyote in one of them. He was caught by the foot and was taken alive to Honor, where he was turned over to Conklin, who now has him in a pen. Yesterday Hart and Peckins found another in their traps but this time it was caught by the jaw and so severely injured it had to be killed.

This is the first time that coyotes have ever been reported in the Grand Traverse region. The animals are not native to Michigan but for the last few years have been sifting into the upper peninsula from the western states. Sportsmen are at a loss, however, to figure out how they crossed the Straits and came down into the lower peninsula. The coyote is half way between a fox and wolf in size and is a distinctly destructive animal. It not only preys on farm fowl but is one of the greatest known enemies of the partridge, and the proof that they are now in the Grand Traverse region will be bad news for sportsmen.—Traverse City Record-Eagle.

Neighbors

By ROBERT STEAD

Author of "The Cow Puncher" and "Zen of the Y. D."

The story of Frank Hall and Jean Lane, neighbors in childhood in a little Ontario town; neighbors again, fifteen years later, on adjoining homesteads in the Saskatchewan country. The romance of their lives runs smoothly until something occurs which upsets all expectations—including those of the reader.

A story which breathes the spirit of the prairie and foothills country and whose characters are vividly alive. Interest grows from the start and reaches a climax of tension in the closing chapters. An outstanding novel by an outstanding writer.

INDEPENDENT OIL JOBBERS TO BE HERE THURSDAY

Thursday Registration Day with Program io Afternoon—Boat Ride and Visit Loeb Farms

The summer assembly of the Michigan Independent Oil Mens' Association is scheduled for Charlevoix, at The Inn, Thursday and Friday of this week. On their literature they say, "we have prepared an alluring program—Charlevoix is a most charming meeting place—but, in the final analysis, the most charming and the most alluring feature of this meeting is to be the presence of the ladies—God bless 'em."

Charlevoix likes to entertain a bunch of people like the Oil Jobbers. They are out for an outing—that means a good time—and they will have it without doubt. Charlevoix is the proper place to come for a good time. Our business men will do their part in seeing that there is something doing every minute, and when they leave for home they will say, as they all do, "we will be back again."

The program for the two-day meeting is substance, follows:

BAD STRETCH OF ROAD NOW CEMENT

Half Mile Near Bay Shore to Be Opened Sept. 1

After having been compelled to drive over about as bad a piece of road as can be imagined for the past five or six years, motorists will be relieved to learn that the gap between Charlevoix and Emmet counties, at Bayshore, has been straightened and rebuilt of concrete.

The new road runs diagonally across the field to the east, eliminating two bad turns, joining the Petoskey macadam road about 60 rods from the south corner.

The work was done by Maisman & Tabor, road contractors from Grand Rapids, and will be opened up on September first. The cost of the improvement was $13,000, and was built under state supervision.

FREE FAIR SCHOOL TICKETS ARE MAILED

Award Made on Average Standing During School Year

Frank F. Bird, secretary of the county fair, has mailed free school tickets to students in the county who passed all requirements. The tickets are good all four days of the fair.

The old plan for awarding tickets for one day to school children not absent nor tardy for a given period has been discontinued, and the students' average standing will hereafter be taken as a basis of award.

All children in the city schools of the county having an average standing for the past year of 85 per cent or over are entitled to a season pass. Also all children in the rural schools having an average of 80 per cent or better for the same time.

WINNERS IN THE SPEED BOAT RACES

EVENTS WITNESSED BY HUNDREDS OF SPECTATORS

Entry from Elk Rapids Has Strenuous Trip to Scene of Race—Local Motor Club Next

Many spectators watched the handicap and free-for-all motor boat races held last Sunday afternoon, August 23rd. Elk Rapids motor boat race fans and entries made up a large aggregation and their speed boats are hard to beat.

The "Laura-B," owned and driven by Julius Gilbert of Detroit, won first place in the handicap race. The trophy presented to the winner was a first class rain coat slicker, given by the Charlevoix Association of Commerce.

The "U-Tel-Um," owned by Alex Parks of Detroit, entered in the race as the Elk Rapids representative, came in third and won the pair of deck shoes.

The free-for-all race was won by Roy Brady of Charlevoix. The "Miss Charlevoix," driven by Brady, sure can show speed and easily captured first place. The boat is capable of making fifty to sixty miles an hour and was watched with great interest.

The "U-Tel-Um" finished second in the race and is also considered one of the fastest boats on Lake Michigan. Roy Brady drove this speed craft from Elk Rapids to Charlevoix for Parks, and made the trip in one hour and eleven minutes.

When the "U-Tel-Um" left Elk Rapids for Charlevoix the first time Sunday morning a serious fire occured in the motor room. Parks with three other companions jumped for safety in the water, but Brady stuck to the boat until the fire was extinguished. After examining the damage, it was decided to return to Elk Rapids for repairs, then head again for the race. Although the "Bear Cat Special" did not take first or second place in either race, it showed alarming bursts of speed and gained on her contestaats at all times. It is hoped next summer the craft will be in better condition.

It is predicted more fast bouts from Elk Rapids will enter the Charlevoix races next year and quite an enthusiastic rivalry will be worked up between the two motor boat clubs.

The Charlevoix Association of Commerce are making plans for a motor boat club and it is up to every owner of a speed craft in Charlevoix to join. The first thing we know the Mississippi Power Boat Association will be holding their races on Pine Lake.

WILL HONOR THE UNKNOWN DEAD

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES AT MACKINAC FRIDAY

Little Cemetery Cootains Bodies of 15 or 20 Men Wbo Fell in Battle to Capture Fort

At eleven o'clock Friday morning, August 28, will occur on Mackinac Island the unveiling of a memorial to honor the unknown soldiers who died in the Battle of Mackinac Island in the war of 1812.

This memorial is the gift of the Michigan Society Daughters of 1812, and a group of members going from various cities in the state will have charge of appropriate dedicatory exercises.

A large bnulder, having a suitably inscribed bronze tablet, is placed on a pieturesque knoll near the road running from the fort to the British Landing, not far from the Wawashkamo Golf club. This is the site of the Battle of Mackinac Island, where the Americans on August 4, 1812, under command of Lt. Col. George Croghan attacked the British forces under command of Lt. Robert McDonald.

In this engagement the American troops, while attempting to out-flank the British advances and cut it off from Fort Mackinac, were thrown into confusion by a destructive fire from the Indians who were concealed in a nearby thicket. After heroic attempts to retrieve the disaster, a retreat was ordered to the ships, which were anchored at the British Landing.

The brilliant and gallant Major Andrew Hunter Holmes, who led the Americans in the attack, was killed in actinn. Captain Isaac VanHorn, Jr., and Lt. Hezekiah Jackson were mortally wounded.

Mujor Holmes' body was taken by boat to Detroit for burial but the little grave yard on the Island contains in the neighborhood of 15 or 20 graves of his brave soldiers, whose names are no longer known. It is to honor these unknown soldiers that the Daughters of 1812 have erected the beautiful memorial.

The bronze tablet is appropriately inscribed:

"To the memory of the unknown soldiers led by Major Andrew Hunter Holmes, who gave their lives on this site in the Battle of Mackinac Island, August 4, 1812.

Erected by National Society U. S. Daughters of 1812, State of Michigan, 1925."

Formal presentation of the monument will be made by Mrs. Clarence J. Chandler, president, Michigan Daughters of 1812, while Major John Emrey, Grand Rapids, will deliver a short address of acceptance. An invocation by Rev. Hanks, chaplain of a Michigan regiment in the Spanish-American war, the placing of a wreath tied with the blue and gray ribbons of the society by Mrs. J. D. Candler, first vice-president of the society, and patriotic music will be other features of the ceremony.

The exercises, to which the public is invited, will close with the sounding of taps by Frank A. Kenyon, superintendent of parks, Mackinac Island. The committee in charge of this memorial consists of Mrs. Gordon W. Kingsbury, Detroit, chairman, Mrs. Job Tuthill and Miss Dorothy Chandler.

FOR THOSE WHO GAVE THE MOST

LEGION TAG DAY ON SATURDAY OF THIS WEEK

Charlevoix's Quota for American Legion Endowment Fund Set at $475—City Must Go Over Top

Saturday will be Tag Day for the raising of funds for the American Legion endowment fund. Your bit will go to aid those "who gave the most"—the disabled men and the orphans.

All America helps. Some states have already gone over the top, and Michigan is now making a drive for its quota. Charlevoix has the privilege of raising $475, its quota.

What is it? Who is behind it? What is it for?

The American Legion is raising during 1925, an endowment fund of five million dollars of which the income (estimated at $225,000 yearly) will guarantee a solid financial basis in perpetuity for the program of disabled men's rehabilition and child welfare.

The Legion is asking this endowment fund from its own members and the American public jointly. President Calvin Coolidge is honorary chairman; James A. Drain, national commander of the Legion, is national chairman; Hon. Joseph W. Fordney is state chairman; Dr. W. W. Mitchell is local chairman. R. L. Lewis is commander of the local American Legion post, under whose direction the local drive for funds is made.

A human problem: To restore to physical, mental and spiritual health and to a status of self-support and self-respect, a man who has suffered the wounds, disease and shock incident to war.

"Temporary Care," "Permanent Cure," "A Home for every homeless child of a veteran" is the American Legion motto.

Every cent donated will go to state headquarters, and from there to national headquarters for the endowment fund, without deductions for any purpose.

All expense of the local drive will be borne by Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226.

GIVE, THINK, and THEN GIVE AGAIN.

Two Limit on Front Seat

In Cadillac one cannot drive with three persons in the driver's seat. An ordinance has just been passed to this effect. Children under twelve riding with their parents are not included in the provisions of the ordinance. This will put a stop, we presume, to "petting parties" and other like stunts seemingly so popular with many young people. But three in a seat is nothing at all. We saw a Ford the other day running down Bridge street with nine young people in it.

HEAVEN, HELL OR HOBOKEN

TRANS-CONTINENTAL REACHED CHARLEVOIX MONDAY

Making Trip from Astoria, Oregon, to New York City via the Inland Route

At eleven o'clock last Monday morning a small eighteen foot boat sneaked alongside the pier ut the Charlevoix U. S. coast guard station. Captain Partridge and other guards wondered where in "Sam Hill" did that thing boh up? "Heaven, Hell, or Hoboken" was written under the craft's name, "Trans-Continental."

Immediately the Courier reporter was notified to take a look at the curious boat and make out just where it hailed from—Heaven, Hell, or Hobnken. The reporter soon solved the mystery owing to the fact that he has quite a knowledge of foreign places.

It seems that John Edwin Hoag, Frank W. Wilton and Val Woodbury of Los Angeles, tired of their present positions and needing a vacation, have started out for foreign lands, Heaven, Hell, or Hoboken. It was decided to follow an inland water route from Astoria, Oregon, to Hoboken, New Jersey, and New York City.

The "Trans-Continental" is equipped with an Elto rude outboard motor, carries a second motor in reserve, charts, navigation essentials, and first class camping equipment. It is an ideal packed boat for a trans-continental trip.

The route across the United States is as follows: the trio cleared from Astoria, Ore., May 20th, up the Columbia river to the Dalles; a portage to Fort Benton, Mont.; down the Missouri to St. Louis; up the Mississippi to the Illinois river; up the Illinois river to Ottawa, Ill., and a portage to the Illinois-Michigan canal; another portage to the Chicago drainage canal at Joliet, to Chicago; from Chicago to Milwaukee, and then convoyed across Lake Michigan to Manistee, and thence to Charlevoix. Time elapsed exactly 90 days. Distance covered, about 3,700 miles. And from here the Trans-Continental will go north to the Straits of Mackinac, to Georgian Bay, to Lake Ontario, to the St. Lawrence river, to the city of Sorel, Province of Quebec, to Lake Champlain, via canal to the Hudson river and to the destination, New York City. The trio expects to arrive there about October 1st.

John Edwin Hoag is an official naval correspondent, a magazine contributor and newspaper correspondent. Frank S. Wilton is a newspaper photographer and is taking moving pictures of the trip. He stopped in Chicago to develop films for a few days and joined his associates again at Frankfort. Val Woodbury is a prominent business man of Los Angeles. The gentlemen expect to commercialize on their adventures through the lecture platform, movie rights and magazine stories.

After the adventurers had fed themselves with corn and honey in a local restaurant they embarked for Petoskey and Harbor Springs. Due farewells were said and Godspeed for the "Trans-Continental" from Charlevoix.

THREE INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Ford Touring Car Overturns on Boyne City Road

The first serious automobile accident of the season, in which local people were connected, took place late Monday afternoon on the Boyne City-Charlevoix road, about three miles east of Horton Bay.

A Ford touring car containing five young ladies, in some manner left the road, turned over twice, and finally came to a stop in the ditch. Miss Mary Long now has a broken shoulder blade, her sister, Lillian, a severe cut in her right knee, and Miss Dorothy Crow two wrist bones broken in her right arm. The other two members escaped with minor bruises.

The injured members of the party were brought to the city and were taken care by Dr. F. F. McMillan.

Monday, September 7, is the day when Dr. J. Leahy, the Optometrist, will be at the Hotel Charlevoix. He will remain two days.—Adv. 34-tf.

AT THE MOVIES

"The Ten Commandments"

Cecil B. DeMille's picturization of "The Ten Commandments" comes to the Palace Theatre for three days, starting Friday. It has come to us with more superlative advance notices than any other picture which has ever been shown in Charlevoix. Oddly enough, this picture deserves most of these adjectives. It is great, stupendous, colorful, and moving. It has comedy, spectacle and drama. A perfect cast, a fine story, and inspired direction. What else could one ask for?

The production takes a little over two hours to show. It is divided into two parts, ancient and modern. In the former the picture opens on the Israelite slaves building the city of Rameses in Egypt. They are being cruelly treated by the Pharaoh, and things look dark until Moses emerges to lead them.

Then follow scenes showing Moses receiving the commandments on the mount, the children of Israel worshipping the golden calf in a wild orgy, and finally the fade-out in which Moses, wrathful at seeing his people's treachery, flings the tablets which he had received on the rocks, smashing them into a thousand parts.

The modern story was written by Jeanie Macpherson. It shows that the commandments are as great a moral force today as they were five thousand years ago.

"Beggar on Horseback" Bigger Than Any Cast

The new James Cruze-Paramount production, "Beggar on Horseback," which is the feature at the Palace Theatre Monday, is described as a story bigger than any cast, just as was "The Covered Wagon," in which the cast wasn't even a talking point. "The Covered Wagon" was essentially a story, and in the telling of the story names that were destined to become famous on the screen were created. So with "Beggar on Horseback," made by the same director.

"Beggar on Horseback" is the story of a young musical genius sought by two girls, one rich, one poor, and deals largely with a dream he has in which the ordinary affairs of life are magnified to ridiculous proportions. Some idea of the extent of the production is gained from the announcement that one complete stage at the Famous Players-Lasky studios in Hollywood was devoted to a single room.

"Beyond the Border" is a place where anything might happen and where everything has been known to happen. That is why it makes such an admirable title for Harry Carey's new Hunt Stromberg production which comes to the Majestic Theatre next Saturday and Sunday. Carey's capabilities are as unlimited as the space "Beyond the Border."

Poultrymen Should Keep Watch on Mash Hoppers

Poultrymen should feed a well balanced, appetizing ration; and, especially ought they be cognizant of whether the feed is being eaten, and whether the food stream is moving as it should.

Any evident decrease in feed consumption foretells the coming of one of two things: A decrease in egg production or sickness, perhaps both.

As hens prefer the grain feed to dry mash, any loss of appetite is reflected in a decreased consumption of mash. This is fed in hoppers, which holds three or more day's supply, making a decreased consumption more difficult to see. Therefore, watch your mash hoppers. They are as horoscopes pointing to your future fortune.

THE PRESENT CRIME WAVE

Law abiding citizens of this country are becoming alarmed over the wave of lawlessness that has swept over the country in recent years. At its inception we were rather inclined to attribute it to the effects of the World war, but nearly seven years has passed since the close of that struggle and we find that instead of abating, crime is on the mcrease.

One outstanding reason for this condition is the coddling manner in which we treat the criminal class. They have reached that point where they no longer fear the law, knowing that the punishment will not be made to fit the enormity of their crimes and that if proper sob sentiment can be manufactured in their bebalf they are more than likely to go free.

We do not need any crime commission in this country to deal with this problem, but what we do need is to meet crime with such drastic measures that it will deter the young men of this nation from seeking a life of crime under the impression that it offers a life of ease without much danger of swift apprehension and punishment.

A good many people who have heretofore believed that resumption of capital punishment in this state would be a step backward, are changing their opinions, knowing that in capital punishment, rigidly enforced, we have a real deterrant upon those who hold human life so cheaply they do not hesitate to murder innocent citizens who happen to stand in their way and the commission of crime.

Treat the criminal as he treats his victim—without mercy. Make them understand that the punishment for crime will be both swift and sufficiently severe. Quit this maudlin sentiment over their plight and see to it they are dealt with exactly as they deserve. Not until there is a drastic change in our present viewpoint, can we hope to check crime in this country.

PASSENGER SERVICE CURTAILED

During the past week two Michigan railroads have announced drastic changes in their passenger schedules, due to lack of patronage along the lines which they serve. The Chicago, Kalamazoo & Southern, which operates a line from Kalamazoo northeast through Barry county and connecting with the Pere Marquette at Woodbury, announces that September 1st all passenger trains will be discontinued and a mixed freight-passenger service maintained. This decision was reached following a conference between the officials and the cities and villages served by the railroad. At the conference the officials pointed out that during the summer months there is scarcely any passenger business, many trains being run over the line with only the train crew aboard. In the winter months, when the weather is bad, this situation is somewhat relieved, but not to the extent that will offset losses during the summer season.

That branch of the Pere Marquette which serves the city of Bad Axe and the Thumb country out of Saginaw and Port Huron, will also go on a similar schedule shortly, it has been announced. Instead of daily passenger service, the schedule will be cut to one mixed train a day into Bad Axe, while some communities may be given only one mixed train every other day.

In this curtailment of service the railroads are only meeting a condition that confronts them. Bus transportation, with highway facilities provided at state expense have practically absorbed the passenger business of the railroads and have made it impossible for them to operate passenger trains at a profit. Their roadbeds and rolling stock must be maintained in good condition at their own expense, regardless of the amount of business done, and tbey can no longer continue to meet this unfair competition and keep out of the hands of a receivership.

WHAT MY NEIGHBOR SAYS

Is of Interest to Charlevoix Folks

When one has had the misfortune to suffer from backache, headaches, dizziness, urinary disorders and other kidney ills—and has found relief from all this sickness aad suffering, that person's advice is of untold value to friends and neighbors. The following case is only one of many thousands, but it is that of a Charlevoix resident. Who could ask for a better example?

Hubert Ackert, mason, 107 W. Garfield Ave., says: "I had a constant ache in my back and when I stooped, I had to put my hands on my back in order to straighten. I was nervous and often dizzy spells came over me. My kidneys were sluggish and the secretions were scanty. After using a few boxes of Doan's Pills, from Metcalf's Drug Store, I was fixed up in good shape." (Statement given May 4, 1920.")

On October 9, 1924, Mr. Ackert said: "Every time I have had occasion to use Doan's Pills they have always given me the same good results."

HASTY MARRIAGES

An end of the evils attendant upon hasty marriages is seen in the law which recently went into effect in Michigan, which provides that five days must elapse from the date of issuing the marriage license until the time when the marriaga ceremony can be legally performed. Professional reformers, who swooped down upon the legislature last spring, pointed out that with such a law on the statute books a part of the divorce evil would be done away with if young peopla were prevented from entering into hasty alliancea and consequent leisurely repentance. It will remain to be seen whether tha law works out that way. Other statas that tried tbe experiment found it a costly mistake, young people resenting the state's interference in their love affairs and going in droves to border states where the ceremony could be performed without legal delay or surrounded with red tape measures. It is tha opinion of many well-thinking people that the new statute is just another offshoot of tha mania for law-making that has swept over the country the past few years.

PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT

The government by appointing Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews director-in-chief of prohibition enforcement, seems determined to take prohibition out of politics and make the Eighteenth Amendment just as much respected as any other law written into the constitution through the will of the people. Gen. Andrews will divide the nation into 22 districts and has appealed to big business to furnish him with sufficient high-grade men to put in charge of each district.

The average citizen will read in this announcement a new light on law enforcement in this country. The falling down of liquor enforcement has had a drastic effect on the enforcement of other laws, and whether we agree or not that the liquor problem has been handled in the wisest way, we must at least lend our assistance to the present law if we are to prevent a reign of anarchy from spreading over tbe couatry.

Now that Wayne county is quarantined against the European cornborer, has anybody thot to inquire if it was constitutional?

A lot of our people who are talking about the possibilities of Florida real estate should remember the time that Canada got a lot of the boys to go up in that country and buy farms.

MacMillan's proposed dash to the north pole will be no more thrilling than that of the guy who tries to make the crossing ahead of the fast trnin.

Hope erushed to earth will rise again, but did any of you folks ever watch a forty-year-old woman try to rub on some of that school girl complexion?

Of course we're willing to admit that five days wouldn't seem such a whole lot longer for some of the village belles to wait in order to connect with a meal ticket for life.

BE A BOOSTER

"Do you know there's lots of people
Sittin' round in every town,
Growlin' like a broodin' chicken,
Knockin' every good thing down?
Don't be thut kind of cattle,
'Cause they ain't no use on earth,
You just be n Booster Rooster;
Crow and boost for all you're worth.

"If your town needs boostin',
boost'er;
Don't hold back and wait to see
If some other fellow's willin'—
Sail right in; this country's free.
No one's got a mortgage on it;
It's just yours as much as his,
If your town is shy of boosters
You get in the boostin' biz.

"If things don't just seem to suit you,
And the world seems kinder wrong,
What's the mutter with a boostin'
Just to help the thing along?
Cause if things should stop a-goin'
We'd be in a sorry plight;
You just keep that born a-blowin'—
Boost her up with all your might.

"If you know some feller's failin's
Just forget 'em, 'cause you know
That same feller's got some good points;
Them's tbe ones you want to show.
Cast your loaves out on the waters,
'They'll come back's,' a sayin' true,
Mebbe, too, they'll come back 'buttered'
When some feller boosts for you."

MRS. THOS. WETZEL DIES AT HOSPITAL

Ill Some Time from Hardening of the Arteries

Mrs. Thomas Wetzel, who has been ill for some time from hardening of the arteries, passed away at the Charlevoix hospital Monday afternoon, August 17th, where she had been taken the previous week for treatment.

Mary Gilland was born at Sarnia, Ont., May 10, 1857. When she reached womanhood she was united in marriage to Walter Breggs, at Forest, Ont. Mr. Breggs died in 1884. In 1890 she married Thomas Wetzel at Chase, Michigan. They removed from Saginaw to East Jordan some 32 years ago and have since made this city their home. She is survived by Mr. Wetzel; two sons, John Wetzel of Port Huron and Wm. Breggs of Sarnia, Ont.; one daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Roberts of East Jordan. Also one brother, John Gilland of Sarnia, Ont., and one sister, Mrs. Maggie Dobbin, of Forest, Ont.

NORMAL SCHOOL WORK UNDERWAY

Questionaires Sent Out by State Department to Various Cities

The questionaires, which the state department of public instruction indicated some time ago would be sent to all cities seeking the proposed Northern Michigan state normal school, have been mailed out from Lansing.

Neighboring Chambers of Commerce are filling out the questionaires. Much information is desired und a cnreful compliation is now under way.

A letter accompanying the questionaire indicates that the site for the school has not been picked, that the state board of education is not deadlocked over the selection of the site and that the work is moving along nicely at Lansing. As soon as the questionaires are back at the state capitol the committee will study these, visit the various cities and then submit their report to Governor Groesbeck.

This is in keeping with the announced plans of the board, made public several months ago.

ANOTHER AUTO HEADS INTO ROUND LAKE

This Time a Lizzie Hops Off Clinton Street Dock

A Ford touring car owned by Bert Ingalls took a plunge into Round lake at the foot of Clinton street last Saturdny noon. The car remained under water only fifteen minutes before it wns rescued.

The machine was parked, headed toward the lake, alongside Mason's department store. The real cause of the accident it not known but the lack of proper brake facilities is predicted.

Milton Rohleder and Dwight Beemis of Sears' garage nssisted in pulling the cnr out of danger by means of an anchor rope fastened underneath the renr axle and a Pierce-Arrow to do the rest.

This is the seventh car to take a bath nt the foot of Clinton street. Perhaps some good engineer could find a way of stopping all uncontrolled moving vehicles headed for Round lake.

LARGE CROWD AT-TEND MASQUERADE

Three Hundred People on Casino Dancing Floor

Over three hundred people attended the masquerade bull given in the Belvedere casino last Saturday evening, most of this number being in costume.

The grand march was led by Mrs. Holden and Mr. Holderness. The program which opened the ball was as follows:

1. High Heels and Buckles, danced by Mary Conant and Nancy Conant.
2. Irish Lilt, Helen Hollingsworth.
3. Raggedy Ann and Andy, Peggy Conant, Frances Berry.
4. June Bug, Jean Louise Schlafly.
5. Play Time, Eleanor Eaton.
6. April Showers, Alice Berry.
7. Negro Songs, Orchestra.

The casino was besutifully decorated with evergreen, large trees marking the entrance to the dancing floor. The lights were shaded with many colored streamers which floated as the crowd danced, making a realistic fairy-land with the many colored costumes.

COOPER FARM HOUSE BURNED TO GROUND

Roof Fire Destroys House and Part of Its Contents

Fire originating from a spark falling on the roof, destroyed the farm home of John Cooper, who lives across the road west from Eveline Orchards, last Thursday afternoon.

The fire had gained such a start before discovered that little could be done other than remove the household goods. Practically everything on the first floor was saved, but nothing could be taken from the second floor or cellar.

The loss is a severe one to Mr. Cooper, who will probably rebuild as soon as possible.

FRESHENING BREEZES

A lot of guys wouldn't feel so bad about the opening of the football season if it wasn't for the check they have to dig up for the son and heir a couple weeks before the beginning of the semester.

We are wondering if General Andrews will think to name Gen. Smedley Butler as his chief of staff?

Some people's idea of a true democracy is a place where everybody can be boss without having to dig up the Saturday afternoon payroll.

A Detroit man is back home from a 36,000 mile trip in a flivver that cost him only fifty dollars. Sometimes we think he's the guy we ought to have got to fix that lenk in our radiator.

The ancient zebe who was considered the village spendthrift if he blew fifty cents a week on his best girl, now has n grandson that thinks nothing of shooting in twenty dollars on his cutie for a cnbaret dinner.

What has become of the old-fashioned gent who ust to take his Saturday night bath nt the town barber shop?

Our idea of a hick town is a place where they still keep the grocery stores open on Sunday morning.

And Now in Closing—

Every time a new tax law is devised to make ensy jobs for the politicians it means a harder job to fill the family dinner bucket.

The W. H. Stevens, barge, sprung a bad leak two miles from the Charlevoix piers in Lake Michigan, today about noon. Her plight was discovered by the coast guard look-out and she was escorted by the patrol boat to docks in Round Lake.

Captain O. W. Angwall of Marinette, stated the barge had been in active service carrying cargoes of cement from the Petoskey cement plant to the Marinette Fuel Co.

Repairs will be made on the boat at once, which will then resume her voyage to Marinette.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

By B. C. Mollencamp

Charlevoix County Calf Club Highly Honored

Nevels Pearson, state livestock club leader, gives us the good news that Charlevoix county is entitled to represent northern Michigan at the state Fair at Detroit on September 11th, with a judging team. In checking over the results of his recent trip through this section, he states that this county has one of the most interested and enthusiastic group of members he has seen this year.

The three successful members and their leader will have their expenses paid to and from Detroit and will compete with the leading clubs of the state for highest honors.

Watch the papers for further announcements of this matter, as the members have not yet been selected for the team.

Bean Club Members Judge at Gaylord

Every year the boy's and girl's clubs throughout the state have elimination contests to decide the counties that are eligible to send teams to the state Fair at state fair expense. At that time the best teams are sent to the Chicago live-stock and grain show, where they judge in competition with the best teams from other states. Charlevoix county was represented at Gaylord on August 14th, in competition with the other counties of this section, by Robt. Winnik, Charlevoix; Oscar Stroud, Charlevoix; T. J. Smith, Jr., Boyne City, and Frank Severance, East Jordan, who had to judge four classes of four samples each of corn, oats, wheat and beans.

Although the team was not suecessful in winning the trip to Detroit, they were well up in the running and put forth their best efforts. Considering the age of our team they deserve much praise, as they were competing against teams averaging 16 years af age in ane case, while Charlevoix only averaged 13. But watch out—another year will tell a different tale.

Your agent wishes to thank Mr. Jacklin, agricultural teacher of East Jordan, for his assistance in instructing the boys in their judging and the interest he is giving the people in East Jordan.

T. J. Smith won highest placing for this county and was fourth highest in the entire contest.

An interesting meeting of the leaders of the elothing projeet, recently completed in the county, and their friends was held in the library at Boyne City, on Tuesday, August 11th, with nearly 20 in attendance.

In order to show the public the value af this type of extension work and their appreeiation in being fortunate enough in securing the assistance from the M. S. C. in making the work a suecess, plans were made to make a representative display at the coming county fair. The several districts were divided and a leader appointed from each are to work with Mrs. Kighlinger, 508 Second street, Boyne City, who was elected general chairman.

It was decided at that time to request more work from the extension service for another year along similar lines. If possible, a course in foods and nutrition will be received early next spring. Plans are being rapidly formulated for the exhibit and you will miss something if you doa't give it the once over.

Douglas V. Steere, inspector for the Michigan Crop Improvement association, visited Charlevoix county on the 7th and 8th of August and with the county agent inspeeted the fields of potatoes being grown for certification this year.

The fields this year have suffered several set-backs as a result of the tactics employed by the weather man and are a trifle later than usual. The dryness of the soil at time of planting and also during the first three weeks of August will surely be felt at time of harvesting. Prospects for a much better price is in evidence, as all sections seem to have been hit with the same epidemic.

The nine growers in the county this year are: W. K. Struw, Charlevoix, 3 acres, Irish Cobblers; Howard Stephens, Boyne City, 7 acres, Russet Rurals; Terry Barber, Boyne City, 8 acres, R. R. & I. C.; Harry Behling, Boyne City, 4 acres, R. R.; Chas. Koteskey, Boyne City, 4 acres, R. R.; Geo. Meggison, Charlevoix, 3 acres, I. C.; W. J. Petts, Boyne City, 6 acres, R. R.; Edward Jensen, Walloon Lake, 5 acres, R. R.; B. E. Wnterman, East Jordan, 3 acres, R. R.

The second nnd last Inspection will be given during the last week in August.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Preaching service at 10:00 a. m. will be conducted by the pastor. The theme will be a discussion of the statement made by our Foreign Mission Board at the Northern Baptist convention, by which it appears that no appointments are made by the board to those who do not believe, accept and teach the deity of Christ.

The bible school will meet at 12 m., and study "Paul and the Philippian Jailer." The way to learn how to sing songs in the night of humnn experiences is taught in this lesson. Perhaps the reader would like to learn this lesson.

The B. Y. P. U. will meet at 6:00 p. m., so they may close in time to attend the services at the Belvedere casino. This is an important meeting and all members should be present if possible.

The church and congregation accepts the invitation to attend services nt the Belvedere casino, at 7:45 p. m.

Everybody greatly enjoyed the redecorated walls of the church last Sunday and appreciate the generosity of Charles E. Carey in making such a splendid donation.

The offering last Sunday was a record breaker. No previous appeal was mado but it seemed like all had a mind to give. Those things can be done anly when there is real joy in the service, and the work of the church shows a most hopeful outlook.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Rev. B. G. Mattson, Pastor

The morning service at 10:30 o'clock will feature the significance of Christianity as a world religion. The speaker of the morning will be Dr. Henry Lampe, of Korea. A special feature of interest will be under the direction of Mrs. Lampe, the singing of a church hymn in the Korean language. The special offering will beereceived for the work of foreign missions.

The church will unite for the evening service in a union meeting at the Belvedere casino, at which Dr. Burns of the Baptist church will preach. This service begins at 7:45 p. m.

The Sunday school session is at 9:30.

An attendance taxing the capacity of the auditorium was present last Sunday and greatly enjayed the rich musical program. The special offering for the choir fund amounted to something over seventy dollars.

Special Announcement for the Ironton Church

A celebration service will be held at 2:30, using the church building for the first time since its removal to the new site at the center of the village. A special musical program will be furnished by Sequanota friends under the direction of Prof. W. F. Bentley of Knox College. The sermon will be delivered by Dr. M. Willard Lampe of Chicago, secretary for the Presbyterian Board of Education. Dr. Mattson will give a short story of the new adventure and its hopes. Personal invitations and notices have been extended to all the rural community, to the Sequanota, Sweet Brier, Belvedere and Chicago Clubs, to the rural Sunday school south of the Ironton Ferry and to the Charlevoix churches.

Much remains to be done to make the old church the beautiful and complete edifice contemplated by these courageous people, but the closing Sunday of the summer season is an appropriate time to safe arrival of the church at the end af its pilgrimage across the fields and highways and its firm establishment upon new foundations with a new and hopeful outlook for the future.

All interested visitors will be cordially welcome at this service.

Reporting an the service of last Sunday, grateful mention should be made of an unsolicited gift of $79.75 which was sent to the church from the Sequanota Club and presented by Professor Bentley. This is a worthy example of friendly interest in a genuine piece of home missionary work as represented by this church which welcomes the fellowship and co-operation of all faiths in a common work for the community.

Advertising Did It

Wrigley, the chewing gum man, has explained how he built up a business of millions of packages a day.

He has done it by sticking to his one line and advertising it. He spends over a million dollars a year in buying newspaper space to tell the world about 5 cent chewing gum. He has educated people to chew gum and to chew Wrigley's. He did not stop shouting as soon as he attracted attention.

He says you must keep it up or the buyers will forget you. Whether yours is a 5 cent or a $50,000 business, keep telling about it.

For that reason, she sees the advantage of dealing with a local merchant—a man whose "personal guarantee of satisfaction" means just what it says.

CUT RATE ON CAR LICENSES

HALF PRICE SEASON INTO EFFECT SEPT. 1

Instructions Are Received by Chas. H. Emrey of Charlevoix Co. License Bureau

Chas. H. Emrey, of the Charlevoix county branch office for issuing automobile license plates, has just received notice that the "half rate" period for automobile licenses in Michigan goes into effect September 1st.

The bulletin containing full instructions reads as follows:

Bulletin No. 30

To All Branch Managers:

The Motor Vehicle Law provides that on September 1st for the remainder of the calendar year, the tax for motor vehicle license plates shall be reduced fifty per cent.

Beginning on September 1, therefore, branch managers, when issuing license plates, will compute the tax at the regular rate and divide the sum by two, and collect the resulting umount.

The one-half rates apply to tax on all motor vehicles for which regular license plates are issued. Duplicate plates, original and duplicate operator's licenses, and titles and transfers are not reduced in price.

Note Carefully—When applicants present certificate of title for license plates under the one-half rate, before issuing the plates, branch managers are requested to carefully examine the title, and if the date on the face shows that the title was issued by this department before September first, 1925, the branch manager shall demand that applicant procure an affidavit from the chief of police or county sheriff to the effect that the motor vehicle in question has not been operated on the public highways of Michigan during 1925. Branch managers must know that such affidavits are actually made and signed by the sheriff, or chief of police. When such affiduvit is presented, plates may be issued at the reduced rate of tax, and the affidavit attached to the application and sent with your report of the day. This ruling has been made necessary by persons who exert every means and influence to operate their motor vehicles for the greater part of the year on a half year's license.

If applicant cannot, or refuses to procure the uffidavit above mentioned, issue him no license plates unless he pays the full annual tax for the plates. As the applicunt is required to make an oath as to the dute he purchased the car, and will hesitate about committing perjury, we anticipate you will have very little trouble in strictly enforcing this rule from which there must be no devintion.

This refers to new as well as used cars.

Very respectfully,
Chas. J. Deland,
Secretary of State.

DELIGHTFUL MUSICALE AT METHODIST CHURCH

Audience Pleased with Numbers Rendered by Artists

The Florentine Trio of the Beach hotel, Mrs. Therese A. Straus, soprano soloist, und Miss Martha Frunk of Chicago, gave a delightful musical recital ut the Methodist Episcopal church last Wednesday evening. Many summer guests from the Beach hotel and The Inn were auditors.

Each member of the trio proved themselves un artist of distinct individuality, and they succeeded in merging their art and personalities to perfection. The trio played best classics, solo numbers, and gave a variety to the program that was superb.

Miss Hilda Hinrichs produced a harmony from the cello in playing Trio, D Minor and Hungarian Rhapsody that would be hard to equal. It is an exception to the general musical roll to bring forth a melody from this instrument that is appreciated.

Miss Margaret Conrad, violinist, is a student of her art and naturally was recalled several times to render such selections as Londondary Air, Spanish Dance and Polonaise Brillante.

Preston Gruves, piano accompanist in the trio, brought forth harmony und melody in playing the Rigoletto, Paraphrase, by Verdi-Liszt, that captured the audience for the second rendition.

Mrs. Therese A. Straus, the well known soprano soloist of Chicago, was recalled again and again for her vocul selections. The most appreciated were "The Skylark," Gretschaninoff; "Rain," Pearl Curran, and "Song of the Open" by Frank LaForge.

Miss Martha Frank, piano accompanist for Mrs. Straus, proved herself a genius in the difficult urt of blending harmony for solo interpretations.

TO REMODEL BARNS AT FAIR GROUNDS

Largest Exhibit of Cattle Ever Shown Is Expected

The largest exhibit of cattle ever entered at the Charlevoix County fair is expected ut the 41st annual exhibit to be held at East Jordan, September 8, 9, 10 and 11.

To provide for this, Secretary Frank Bird, directors Horace Hipp and Richard Lewis, and county agricultural agent, Mellencamp, and cow tester, Clarence Mullett, met at the fair grounds last Saturday nnd decided to tear out the old pens in the present cattle and horse barns and install modern pens. The cow testing association are planning on a large exhibit which will occupy the cattle barn, and in the horse barn it is planned to have the boy's nnd girl's culf club exhibit.

That the dairy industry in this part of the state is rapidly developing is evidenced by this proposed exhibit. Premiums in the cattle division have been increased considerably over what has heretofore been offered and assures a good showing. —East Jordan Herald.

By ROBERT STEAD

The story of Frank Hall and Jean Lane, neighbors in childhood in a little Ontario town; neighbors again, fifteen years later, on adjoining homesteads in the Saskatchewan country. The romance of their lives runs smoothly until something occurs which upsets all expectations—including those of the reader.

A story which breathes the spirit of the prairie and foothills country and whose characters are vividly alive. Interest grows from the start and reaches a climax of tension in the closing chapters. An outstanding novel by an outstanding writer.

MOST SUCCESSFUL YET HELD

SUCH IS VERDICT AT OIL MENS' CONVENTION

Nearly Two Hundred Members and Their Wives in Attendance—Pleased with Charlevoix

The meeting of the Michigan Independent Oil Mens' Association at The Inn last week was one of the most successful the association has ever held, according to James A. Gilmore, secretary of the organization.

The attendance exceeded their anticipation, the business sessions were of genuine interest and benefit. Everyone was agreed that Charlevoix was every bit as beautiful and interesting as they had been promised it would be.

All were agreed that A. I. Creamer, manager of The Inn, is the most genial of hosts, that F. E. Cartier, president of the Association of Commerce, is a master of the art of attending to details and that A. L. Fitch, the local prosecutor, is capable of "throwing the bull."

Nearly two hundred oil men and their wives were in attendance and nearly everyone was agreed that Charlevoix and The Inn should be chosen for a summer assembly at no great distant date.

H. H. Ragle of Jackson, Michigan, president of the organization, attended with his family, including Mr. Ragle, Jr., an oil man of ten weeks experience on this earth.

The Hon. Geo. W. Welsh, Lieut. Governor of Michigan, was the honored guest at the convention banquet held Thursday evening. That there is a legitimate reason for government, that the problem of government is one of the most important and yet so little discussed, that organization of industry has a very vital relationship with government, and that there is a great need for organization, were some of the high lights of the lieutenant governor's speech.

The speaker gave his own version of what he believed to be the function of government when he said that the definite purpose of government is to perform for us what we are unable to accomplish for ourselves as individuals. We often expect a lot of things from our government, it wns indicated, that our government was never intended to do, and cited the late Tennessee evolution case as an example. The government in the opinion of the speaker is not called upon to settle problems of a moral or educational nature, but contended that they are matters that belong to the home and the school. "We cannot egilate morals or intelligence into people."

The lieutenant governor also warned that government outside of its legitimate sphere is a menace, and that orgnnization of industry to protect its own interests is one essential that needs emphasis.

Speaking of the peculiar part that the petroleum industry plays, Hon. Welsh stated that the masses look upon it, as a big powerful industry, rather than as individuals, and continued that the industry as others has "to organize for its own protection."

The lieutenant governor brought out in conclusion that the big power in industry, as in individuals, lies in the respect that it can command. "I think the greatest curse we have today, is the public official who plays to the grand stand," he said, "and the man who will take advantage of his position for personal aggrandizement is, in my opinion, not qualified for any public office."

The annual meeting of the association will be held in Detroit at the Hotel Statler, January 21-22.

Hooch Hid in Pair of Boots

When Frank Germaine, Traverse City, was allowed to go to his home for some medicine and personal belongings before starting a ten day jail term for being drunk, he led officers to a good sized moonshine still in full operation. Now he faces a charge of violation of the prohibition law. Officers, on their trip, learned where the "bootleg" whiskey secured its name. In one corner of the room was a pair of boots in which was stored a bottle of hootch.

21 CITIES SEEK SITE FOR THE NEW NORMAL SCHOOL

Sites for the new northern Michigan normal school, proposed by 21 cities and villages that are seeking the institution, will be inspected by members of the state board of education late in September, according to A. M. Freeland, Kent county school commissioner, a member of the board.

The itinerary provides that the board, composed of Fred Jeffers, of Painsdale; Frank Cody, of Detroit; Thomas E. Johnson, superintendent of public instruction, and Mr. Freeland, will leave Grand Rapids early on September 24 and make an automobile trip up the west side of the state and back through the center. Eastern Michigan cities bidding for the normal will be visited the following week.

The cities and towns in the race for the normal are: Alpena, Central Lake, Cheboygan, East Jordan, East Tawas, Frankfort, Gaylord, Grayling, Harbor Springs, Kalkaska, Ludington, Mackinaw City, Mancelona, Manistee, Petoskey, Port Huron, Reed City, Tawas City, Traverse City, Wolverine and West Branch.

COUNTY FAIR SEPTEMBER 8-11

A FULL DAY'S PROGRAM FOR ALL FOUR DAYS

Wednesday Charlevoix Day, Thursday Boyne City Day, and Friday East Jordan Day

September 8 to 11 are the dates set for the forty-first annual fair of the Charlevoix County Agricultural Society, at East Jordan.

Improvements have been made to the grounds this year that will add tremendously to the fair's success. Secretary Frank F. Bird and the board of directors have been busy for some time arranging the program, which should be pleasing to the hundreds of fair visitors.

One of the features of the fair will be the music. Bands will entertain the throngs every hour of the day. On Wednesday the Charlevoix band will play, Thursday the Boyne City band and East Jordan boys' band, and Friday the East Jordan concert band.

Three baseball games have been arranged for, Wednesday between Charlevoix and Boyne City business men, and Thursday and Friday, East Jordan Independents vs. the Chicago Colored Giants.

Three days of horse racing are scheduled with purses amounting to $1,500.00. The race track at East Jordan is considered one of the best half-mile circuits in northern Michigan.

Another added attraction will be introduced Thursday, when Hooker's Riding Academy of Charlevoix will put on such stunts as overhaul races, potato races, relay race and jumping contests.

At noon Thursday the big stock parade will take place. Winners of all entries will be exhibited on the track in front of the grand stand.

Special free attractions have been provided, which are of high class and will provide many a thrill to their daily audiences.

Wednesday will be Charlevoix day, Thursday, Boyne City day, and Friday, East Jordan day. Splendid evening programs will entertain the hundreds who remain at that time.

HOLD LOSING END IN 10-INNING GAME

Local Ball Team Defeated Sunday by Brutus

The Charlevoix baseball team was defeated by Brutus, score 1 to 2, last Sunday afternoon at the North side ball park.

A real pitchers' battle was the main attraction of the game. Chas. Dagwell pitched for Brutus and "Chet" See for Charlevoix. Both players are former Charlevoix high school athletes and baseball men.

The entire game was played in a snappy fashion, and the score remained a tie, 1-1, until the tenth inning, and then Brutus broke loose, bringing in three runs.

A new player has been added to the Charlevoix list, Paul Winder, who will handle the ball at home plate.

BIG LIVE STOCK PARADE AT FAIR

PRIZE WINNERS EXHIBITED ON THURSDAY

Cattle Exhibit, Calf Club Contest and Clothing Project Will Interest County Fair Visitors

The largest cattle exhibit in the history of the county fair, is assured with breeders from Ellsworth, Central Lake, Bellaire and Kewadin, bringing in their best. Charlevoix county will have to travel a fast pace this year if she wins the blue ribbons over her competitors.

Then the Cow-testing association exhibit will be of great interest. There is not a fair in this section that is offering the inducement for good grade cows of known production that our county is. One hundred and fifty dollars will be divided among the breeders in this class with the grand championship female attracting a prize of $25. Both pure hred and grade cows are eligible. The exhibit is complete in itself, having premiums for bulls and all ages with the females.

The cattle farm is having many improvements made on it and will show the cattle up to much better advantage this previously.

Another exhibit that will be highly interesting and instructive will he that of the Calf Club. Sixteen boys and girls in Charlevoix county are the proud owners of high class calves which they are paying for themselves and will be on display. The three major breeds of dairy calves are represented and are of various ages. It will take 10 years off your age just to see what these young people are doing and their enthusiasm.

Don't forget the exhibit of the Ladies' Clothing Project. It will be complete and convey to the public the results of the good work they have secured.

The work of the Girl's Canning Club will also be on exhibit. These girls have canned 30 or more quarts of fruits and vegetables and are also keeping accurate records of their work.

A feature of this exhibit will be a practical canning demonstration, to be given by three teams consisting of two members each. These girls will demonstrate the proper methods of procedure in canning and explain the different steps fully. These demonstrations will be given Thursday afternoon in the educational building.

Last of all, but not the least, don't miss the big live stock parade Thursday noon, when all the prize winners will be on parade. All judging will be done Wednesday. Plan to attend both Wednesday and Thursday.

CADDIES ENJOY ANNUAL OUTING

Over a Hundred Visit Historic Mackinac Island

Chicago Golf Club caddies visited Mackinac Island Tuesday morning on their annual picnic outing. They went on the steamer Manitou.

The Chicago Golf Club sponsored the outing and furnished the funds for the trip as in previous years. One hundred and ninety eager boys boarded the Manitou and, one only knows what did happen on the boat when a crowd like that commenced to "Whoop 'er up."

VISIT INTERESTING EASTERN POINTS

Walter Bergeon Tells of Trip with Sunday School Class

Walter Bergeon, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Bergeon of this city reports having a splendid trip through the eastern states, mention of which was made recently in these columns.

Three weeks ago Walter started on an automobile tour with the Cannon Ball Sunday school class of Christ church, Ionia. The class is composed of 100 boys. Charles Morris, who is employed in the post office at Ionia, is the teacher. Mr. Morris has taken an active interest in the welfare of boys in his city and has for a number of years planned different outings for his class.

An educational trip was planned this year and took in all cities and points of historical interest in the eastern states. Walter lists the following cities visited on their journey thus far: Boston, Salem, Gloucester, New York City and Wasbintgon, D. C.

SAILBOAT CAPSIZES WHEN SQUALL HITS

Five Occupants Have Narrow Escape from Drowning

The sailboat "Marsh Turkey," owned by O. W. Johnson of the Chicago Club, suddenly capsized on Pine lake Sunday afternoon about four o'clock.

Five occupants of the boat were nearly drowned when it turned completely over without warning. The cause of the sudden action of the craft is laid to a broken tiller and not enough reef in the sail to buff the strong wind.

A party of friends aboard the motorboat "Yo-Hoh" witnessed the catastrophe and immediately rushed their craft to the rescue. The occupants of the over-turned boat were taken to the Chicago Club boat house.

Those sailing in the "Marsh Turkey" when the accident happened were Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Johnson, Dr. and Mrs. Della C. Talbot, and Mrs. Wadding, all of the Chicago Club.

NEW SCHOOL LAW NOW IN EFFECT

FRATERNITIES ARE BANNED UNDER NEW STATUTE

Financial System is Entirely Shifted—Sums to County Normals Boosted.

High school fraternities and sororities were abolished yesterday when the Turner law, passed by the last session of the legislature went into effect September 1.

Violation of this law will mean suspension of graduation credits.

For several years a state law has been on the statute books intended to effectively restrict high school organizations, fraternities and similar associations. That law, however, failed to properly define the term fraternity and sorority. It left loopholes which made its enforcement ineffective. The new law completely defines these organizations and prohibits high school students from affiliating with them.

Organizations supervised by and under sanction of high schools as a part of the school organization are prohibited.

Of eighteen acts, affecting the financial phase of education, the Bohn act, in effect September 1927, intended to further assist in expense of school operation in the poorer school districts, is generally considered the most important.

This act assists poor school districts by giving an extra apportionment of the primary school fund when the increased ration of their school census to their property valuation reaches a fixed point.

Five per cent of the total primary school fund will first be set aside each year, and then the remaining 95 per cent apportioned to all school districts as is now done. Then the five per cent will be apportioned to the poorer districts in addition to their share out of the 95 per cent.

The primary school fund has already been apportioned for this year under the old law so the Bohn law will apply for the first time next year.

The second financial act has to do with the inheritance tax, most of which goes into the primary school fund. Under the old law the widow or other close family beneficiaries received exemption of $10,000 from this tax, and children $3,000 each. The 1925 act will exempt the widow or husband for $30,000 and children and other relatives $6,000 each. Then the balance of this tax, as was done formerly, will go into the school fund.

Private trade schools, after September 1, this year, before their organization and operation must obtain a license from the state board of vocational education. Such licenses may be revoked nt any time that the board decides the law is not being complied with.

Provisions for a continuing school census to keep it current at all times, with a system of accounting to determine accurately the financial cost for every child in every school of the state, are contained in another part of the new educational laws. This is all to he done under the direction of the county commissioner of schools, who will be allowed all expenses hut no added compensation.

Some other of the new educational laws include the increase of state aid to county normals from $1,600 to $2,000 a year; requirement that every employer have on file a labor permit or certificate by the superintendent or commissioner of schools

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS GET WAGE BOOST FOR SERVICES

An act passed by the last state legislature to take immediate effect was one to increase the wages of the different township officers throughout the state by which the officers composing the township boards, board of registration, board of health, inspector of election, clerks of the poll, and commissioners of highways, receive five dollars per day and the same rate for parts of days of ten hours. Supervisors for taking the assessment and for all services not connected with above boards, five dollars per day, and the same rate for parts of days.

—NOTES—

The special music Sunday morning was a very pleasing duet by the Misses Catherine and Pauline Cable of Grand Rapids. These young ladies have been among the most faithful members of our volunteer choir during the summer and it was with regret we learned this was their last Sunday with us until next year.

At a recent meeting of the church officials it was decided to hold no more evening services until Rally Sunday, which will probably be September 27th.

The pastor, who has been working very strenuously in connection with the removal and remodeling of the Ironton church, was granted a two weeks' vucntion to include Sunday, September 13th.

The Cheboygan Association of Congregational churches will meet with the Charlevoix churches September 29th and October 1st.

So many of our visitors will have gone that we urgently expect more of our own people to be present. Use your new envelopes in contributing. Note the pledge cnrd and extra envelope.

Sunday school at 12 noon. Lesson in Puul's letter to the Philippians. Paul writes to one of his new churches. Study the words "I count all things to be loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord." The day school will demand your regular attendance, why not the Sunday school?

7:30 evening worship. We continue our service in this form until after the conference session. The pastor's concluding message will recount the progress of our church for the past four years and forecast the outlook for the future.

8:30 Epworth League. The young people have stood by tbis meeting loyally. Splendid comments have come to us from many a youthful visitor. This meeting is proof that the young people want a religious service Sunday nights and will attend it in preference to the movies. Boost the leader this week and come in to enjoy another service.

Prayer meeting every Thursday at 8:00 p. m. Read Philippians, third chapter.

See the pastor about your gift to missions.

This is the time of year to subscribe to the Michigan Christian Advocate.

The Michigan annual conference convenes in Lansing Central church next Wednesday at 8:30 a. m., and will run five days. This conference comprises the larger half of this southern peninsula. There are 331 ministers, 33 probationers, and 70 supplies; 565 churches with a total membership of 66,472. At the conference all work for the year is reported. The mornings of the time are devoted to conference business, afternoons to committee work and evenings to anniversaries of various societies. One of the main features of the conference is to make the appointments of all the ministers.

AT THE MOVIES

"Mme. Sans Gene"

The first motion picture ever to play on Broadway at five dollars a seat—that's the reputation of "Madame Snns Gene," hailed as Gloria Swanson's cinemasterpiece, made for itself at its opening performance in New York. Moreover the theatre was packed to the rafters for the ocension, with hundreds of unsuccessful applicants for seats and a crowd of several thousands giving the police a tussle outside the theatre in their efforts to get into the place and also to catch a glimpse of Miss Swanson and her French nobleman-husband, the Marquis de la Falaise de la Coudraye. "Madame Sans Gene" will be shown at the Palace Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

"Old Home Week"

"Old Home Week" is coming to the Palace Theatre next Saturday nnd Sunday. If you want to get the thrill that comes once in a lifetime, be on the sidelines when Tommy comes marching home! Back to the old home town and the girl he left behind him. Back to the town that went back on him. "Old Home Week' is the same type of wholesome American story as "Back Home and Broke." Based on a story by America's leading humorist, George Ade, and scenarized by Tom Geraghty—the same combination that gave you "Back Home and Broke" and other big Meighan successes.

Betty Bronson at Palace

The neighbor's kid is in the movies!

Anyway, that's the way you'll feel when you see Betty Bronson, of "Peter Pan" fame, in the Paramount picture, "Not So Long Ago," at the Palace Theatre next Wednesday. It's a Sidney Olcott production of New York life in 1850.

AT THE MAJESTIC

"Dick Turpin," the dashing rogue who held up the coaches of the Lords and Ladies on the roads to York and London in the Eighteenth Century and robbed the occupants of fat purses, jewelled snuff boxes and massive watches, has been "done into a picture" with the famous Fox star, Tom Mix, in the role of the dashing robber, and comes to the Majestic Theatre next Saturday and Sunday.

Five Points to Observe in Selecting Dairy Cow

The five points to be observed in selecting a good dairy cow are as follows:

First—Large body, and especially middle piece, indicating a capacity for eating and digesting a lot of food.

Second—Thinly fleshed backbone and especially back of the shoulders. This indicates that the food is not made into flesh.

Third—Large udder, as it is here that the milk is made.

Fourth—Large milk wells. It is through these that the blood returns to the heart from the udder. If they are large, it indicates that a large amount of blood passes through the udder.

Fifth—Large, clear eyes. This indicates good nerves, and they drive the organs of digestion and milk-making.

"FIVE YEARS OF MARCO SATISFACTION"

"IN REPLY to your letter inquiring what satisfaction my Marco plant bought in 1919 has given me, I am pleased to say that it has given good satisfaction, and it is more than equal to the Delco in my estimation. The Prest-O-Lite batteries are doing good work and have never been repaired.

I have twenty-five lights and we use them a lot. I charge once a week, pump all the water for twenty cows and run the milking machine, and the "New-Way" Engine will charge the batteries just the same under this load.

I have no trouble making adjustments when necessary, as the Marco is easy to take care of."

A NEW POLICY

The recent application of the Bell Telephone Company to raise their rates, and which affects practically every portion of the state, serves to call attention to the great change that has been made in the policy of the company in recent years.

Like nearly every corporation of a few years ago, the Michigan Bell Telephone Company held ruthless warfare with everybody who had the temerity to oppose them. Rates were raised or slashed to fit any situation, and woe unto those who happened to be unfortunate enough to get in the path of the steam roller. Independent companies, as a result, sprung up all over the state and for years the dual telephone system was in operation in nearly every city and hamlet in Michigan.

Then a radical change in policy was made by the parent company. Wise heads were called into counsel and the word went out that from that time on service alone was to be the keynote of the company and its employees and anybody who could not see the new light and adjust their sights to the new range had better seek employment elsewhere. Judge Franz Kuhn was called from a seat on the supreme bench of Michigan and this new policy turned over to him to work out.

And it has worked. Today the Bell Company is no longer hated in Michigan. It controls the telephone situation in the state and the old fear of the people of unfair treatment has been eliminated. During the past decade they have been in a habit of laying their cards face up on the table and in this petition for a readjustment of rates they will find the new policy has been fruitful and that the public will not oppose any justifiable increase in rates that means for more efficient service.

DON'T BE MISLED

During the last few weeks stories have been particularly rife in Michigan of the fabulous wealth that was being garnered, almost overnight, in Florida real estate. In many enses these stories may be true, but better that you take a lot of them with the proverbial grain of salt. When you are tempted to close out your Michigan holdings and trek to the lnnd of Everglades in search of easy wealth, remember the fate of those who in other days heard stories of other Eldoradoes and departed from the certainties of this state for the uncertainties of other portions of the globe.

It doesn't take a centenarian to remember the time when a lot of our best citizens sold out, loaded their personnl effects into box cars and set out on the long journey across the country to raise fruit in California. A generation later there was an exodus of substantial farmers who were lured into the Dakotas to raise wheat, aad later others went up into the Canadian northwest. A good many of them never accumulated enough money to come back; some few may have prospered, but of the great majority who later returned, their illusionments dissipated, what of them?

Was their lot in life as rich as it would have been if they had remained ln Michigan and shared in the great industrial and commercial growth of the Commonwealth? The Farmers of Kimberly roamed the world in search of hidden gold, while their children on the doorsteps played with brilliant pebbles worth more than the wealth of the Indies. We have climate, progress and unlimited opportunities right here at home. Why break the ties of a lifetime to follow strange gods into strange lands?

BACK TO SCHOOL

Just a few more days and the call of the school bell will be heard, following the end of the summer vacation. All over the land youth will be taking their places in the classrooms and the great work of educating our future citizens will be under way.

In family councils will be debated whether the son or daughter is to return to school, economic conditions in countless instances deciding the question. Nowhere in the world does education play such an important part as it does in this country, and nowhere in the world is a sound foundation of learning so necessary.

We all realize that parents must sacrifice in order to send their children to school. The average household budget must be cut to the bone and every economy practiced in order to provide the necessary means to permit them to gain an edueation. America needs educated boys and girls as never before. The boy or girl who passes through an American schoolhouse is the best guarantee of a future patriotic American citizen. We need them for their great leveling influence of the future, for the seeds of sovietism are being sown broadcast in this land and help to combat this evil must be recruited from the ranks of our young people.

An education is the best gift you can bestow upon your children. It is the one rock in the desert that the shifting sands will not dislodge, or the elements of time wear away. Knowledge places them upon a higher plane and enables them to fight life's battles with confidence and courage. The educated boy and girl are the nation's best assets, and although the sacrifice may be great you can perform no higher patriotic service than in keeping your boy or girl in school until they are competent to go out in the world and battle for themselves.

REBUILDING THE RURAL CHURCH

A movement is being fostered by the Michigan State College to rebuild the rural churches of this state; to consolidate different sects and sections into prosperous memberships capable of maintaining a pastor and promoting religious and literary community life.

This is one of the finest movement that could possibly be undertnken. When the pioneers came into Michigan a house of worship was among the first buildings to be erected. The church was aligned closely with the rural school, the pastor and schoolmaster becoming great agents in the work of moulding public thought into proper channels for civic progress.

Today the pioners sleep in the quiet of the country churchyards. Near where they reared the standards of a new civilization are left deserted and decaying the temples of worship wherein was taught the simple faith of a godly race. Their descendants have been scattered to the four winds of the earth, while those who came later were without the old traditions to bind them to the work of preserving the rural church and school, preferring to center their interests in nearby cities nnd villages.

We have need that the rural church should be rebuilt. We have need of an old-fashioned revival of thought and action, for nowhere in all the world is there a greater guarantee of the perpetuation of our nationnl existence than there is in the rural sections of this country.

A CHANGING AGE

In the old days the great indoor sport of nlmost every newspaper office was to see how hard they could lambast the corporations. Right or wrong, they were the target for editorial quips and gibes, editorial writers knowing that such attacks were popular with the majority of their readers and consequently an asset at the subscription window.

That was in the days when practically every corporation was owned and managed by a mere handful of stockholders, and which generally assumed a "public be dammed" policy. But a great change has come, not only in the ownership and conduct of corporations, but in the attitude of the press and public as well.

Today practically all great corporations are owned by millions of stockholders who have joined the so-called capitalistic class through small investments, and to strike a blow at corporative control by any newspaper is to invite disaster to millions of American citizens who have found safe investments and old age security in aligning themselves with big business. Corporations, wisely managed, are proving America's greatest boon to all classes of our citizens.

"THE BOOM IN COMING" Says "Uncle George"

"Uncle George" is going up and down the street proclaiming that there is a boom on in Charlevoix county. Why? Because dead men are being raised and sleeping men are being awakened.

There is talk now of selling the east side of Bridge street in Charlevoix to be used for and turned into a park. And there is talk about a twenty (20) foot concrete road around Pine Lake.

Gee Whiz!! and a couple of Golly Damns!! If that is all going to materialize then let's all hop to it, boys, and do it up brown! Make Charlevoix and Charlevoix county the beauty spot and greatest spot in Michigan.

I have found out that the way for a man to rightly enjoy himself is to maintain a universal, ready and cheerful compliance with all that is good and that nobody need feel ashamed of doing anything that is good.

We must know that the word "impossible" has no place in the brave man's dictionary. Kickers may kick, but the brave man—the good man—combined with right thinking and right doing—will always be in the fore-ground when the crucial hour arrives and then and there he will do his work and he will do it right.

This must prove itself in our coming strife for a park in Charlevoix and for a good reinforced concrete road around Pine Lake all within the confines of Beautiful Charlevoix County and the State of Michigan.

While Charlevoix is looking out and deciding for it's own best interests, Charlevoix county does not have to do so for it is plain to be seen and well understood. There is no objection to this vital question of a good concrete road around Pine Lake for it will be the making of the prettiest county in the state. The road may cost a million or a million and a quarter of dollars but by the time the road is finished the property will have so increased in value that the cost of the road would drop into the background when compared with the property valuation. Surely the property would increase in value far above the two million dollar mark. The county alone will not be benefited by this change; the great state of Michigan will also reap the benefits. Why? Because it will bring thousands, yes, hundreds of thousands of automobiles and motorists into the northern part of Michigan who will not be merely satisfied with seeing the southern peninsula but many will visit the great northern peninsuln as well.

I have been keeping tab on the people I have met here this year and out of one hundred and fifty practically one hundred and twenty have told me that this is the first time they have ever been in Charlevoix and they all admitted that it was the choicest, prettiest and most beautiful place they had seen since they left home. One prominent man from Grand Rapids told me he came up M-13, that it was all gravel, dusty and dirty—that he was going back on M-11 and that he'd never come again until we had G. R. C. R. (Good Reinforced Concrete Roads).

Say, Readers, don't you all think this is a pretty damned good sensible letter? Sure it is! Get your shoulders to the wheel, all of you, and make the on-coming Charlevoix boom a real one!

I said in my previous letters on the subject of Good Reinforced Concrete Roads that they could be built for $20,000 per mile. I should have said $22,000 or $23,000.

This means nothing to me personally but everything to everyone of you.

Yours truly,
"Uncle George" Van Pelt.

Thieves took $1,000 in cash from a Grand Rapids safe, and also a quantity of securities which they threw into Reeds Lake. Watered stock.

The two men, still living, who attended the first fair ever held in Allegan county, 73 years ago, have been given passes to this year's fair.

"Girl's screams drive away armed robber," says a Kalamazoo headline. Nothing strikes terror into a robber more quickly than a repeating screamer.

A farmer living on the Grand Traverse peninsula, according to a news item, "claims to have discovered the absolute pi." Scientists say that if he has, he takes the cake.

A man arrested at Jackson and placed in the patrol wagon insisted on taking most of his furniture with him. Of course he couldn't tell. He might like the new place and decide to stay there.

Among the most popular books at Flint, according to the librarian, are those of a religious nature. Then what becomes of the allegation that Flint readers do not know what they need?

Hoboes are descending on Traverse City "like the proverbial seven year locusts," and officers are at a loss to know what to do with them. Bathing and other severe treatments have been tried, but apparently without effect.

It is claimed that within the memory of white men, Devil's Lake, at Fremont, has never contained any fish. Now that the boys are coming back, it strikes us this would be a nice place to go for a vacation from fishermen.

ALL OUT OF SORTS?

So Was This Charlevoix Woman Who Tells Her Experience.

All too often women accept their pains and aches as naturnl to their sex. They fail to realize that weak kidneys are often to blame for that backache, those headaches, dizzy spells and that tired, depressed feeling. Thousands have found new health and strength by helping the weakened kidneys with Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. This Charlevoix case is one of many:

Mrs. Thos. Taylor, 101 Wood St., says: "I suffered with a dull, nagging ache through the small of my back, which hurt me so I could hardly stoop or straighten. I began to feel nervous and had a worn out feeling. I had headaches and dizzy spells and my kidneys acted too often. After using Doan's Pills, from Metcalf's Drug Store, I was rid of the trouble."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mrs. Taylor had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Jensen, Elmer Jensen, Miss Ladema Dawson, John Chelles, Gerald and Theodore Bradford and Frank Gaunt of Detroit, and Mrs. Harry Kiddy of Flint, took advantage of the exeursion rates on the P. M. and spent Sunday with friends and relatives here.

The chemical wagon of the East Jordan fire department was called here at 10:00 a. m, Tuesday, to help extinguish a blaze in the railroad yards which destroyed between fifty and one hundred cords of kiln wood and seriously threatened the Libby, McNeil & Libby pickle station and the Standard Oil Co.'s station. The fire, which was no doubt started by the southbound local freight train, was not discovered until the wood racks were burning fiercely and in view of the limited fire fighting apparatus belonging to the village, it was decided the safest policy was to call East Jordan for help.

8,000 THEATRES JOIN IN MOVEMENT

Better Film Week September 6-13 Throughout Country

Confident that the public will support the best in screen entertainment, the more progressive theatre owners in this territory have joined the national movement to celebrate Paramount Week, Sept. 6-13, when 8,000 theatres throughout the country will unite in exhibiting Paramount pictures exclusively.

It is significant that the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has chosen newspapers almost exclusively to advertise Paramount Week. Coming as it does just after the opening of the Greater Movie Season, it will on this, its eighth annual year, be more widespread and popular than ever.

The past seven years have proved Paramount Week not only a prosperous one for exhibitors but it now is recognized as a national movement giving prestige with those theatres identifying themselves with the movement.

To send the week off with a flying start the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation is advertising in 3,500 newspapers throughout the country. These include both daily and weekly, and the sum spent is one of the largest ever by any one corporation in American newspapers in a single day.

The announcement of their week's offering appears on another page of this issue. The plays will be shown at the Palace Theatre during the week of September 6-13.

BRADY ACQUIRES LAKE FRONTAGE

Now Owner of Beutel Fish Company Property

A real estate deal that has been pending for some time was completed the first of the week, whereby M. Roy Brady has acquired the property known as the Beutel Fish Co. lake frontage on the south shore of Round Lake.

The property consists of 179 feet, and has been occupied by the Charlevoix Fish Co. since the Beutel people went out of business several years ago.

In an interview with the Courier, Mr. Brady states he will immediately begin work tearing down the present buildings and replace them with modern docks and boat houses and also a well equipped work shop to accommodate his rapidly growing business.

The improvements contemplated by Mr. Brady will add greatly to the appearance of the south shore line of Round lake and will also provide additional dockage facilities for the rapidly increasing number of pleasure craft entering Charlevoix harbor.

DOWN THE JORDAN RIVER IN CANOES

Party of Twenty-one Enjoyed Outdoor Life

A party of twenty-one nature explorers enjoyed a canoe trip from about twelve miles up Jordan river down to its delta at East Jordan, Monday. Charles Rice of St. Louis, Mo., and Walter Pritz of Cincinnati, Ohio, were the leaders of the group.

Seven canoes were transported to Graves' Crossing on the Jordan river and at this point the adventurers embarked on their journey. This trip is an annual outing with Mr. Rice and is always looked forward to with great interest by his friends.

It was the plan of the campers to enjoy outdoor life to the utmost. The scenery along the Jordan river is beautiful and every individual of the camp group gets a different view of life and knows how to appreciate nature's grandeur.

When the canoe troupe reached the mouth of the Jordan river, in the South Arm of Pine lake, they were met by the yacht "Minerva" and were convoyed back to Charlevoix.

DEER KILLED BY P. M. TRAIN

Resort Special "Shines" Large Buck on Track Tuesday Night

H. E. Hay, traveling passenger agent of the Pere Marquette railway, who came north the other morning on the resort special out of Chicago, brings news that the train struck and killed a large buck deer, near Baldwin, last Tuesday night.

Engineer Harry Depew saw the animal on the track, dimmed his headlight and put on the emergency brakes. However, the distance was too short to bring the train to a stop and the animal was hit. Mr. Hay expressed the belief that the lights from the engine blinded the animal, or so startled him that he was unable to move off the tracks.

It is the first deer reported killed by a train on the Pere Marquette during the present tourist season. Many times train crews have seen deer on the tracks or along the right-of-way, but never before this year has an animal been actually struck and killed by the trains.

Such accidents are said to be more frequent through the heavy game cover country of northern Michigan, northern Minnesota, Wisconsin and through the mountains of the west.

EDWARD SHANAHAN HOME ON VACATION

Tells of Long Cruise on Battleship Arkansas

Edward Shanahan arrived Monday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lisle Shanahan, on Clinton street, from the naval training school at Annapolis, Maryland.

Edward passed the midshipman's examination last June and then took a cruise on the battleship Arkansas to the Panama canal and Pacific coast. At the Panama canal the midshipmen inspected various fortifications and then proceeded to San Pedro, where their ship anchored for eight days. After visiting the latter port they sailed to San Francisco, Seattle, Astoria and San Diego. In San Diego the crew received word from Washington, D. C. to return to Annapolis.

Three battleships were in the naval fleet, the Arkansas, New York and Utah. The midshipmen sailed under orders according to their classes, one, two and three. Edward states that the Arkansas, on which he sailed, is in dry dock for eighteen months and will be re-designed into one of the most modern battleships afloat. Everyone is glad to see Ed back home again.

SCHOOL OPENS NEXT MONDAY

LARGE ENROLLMENT OF STUDENTS EXPECTED

Numerous Changes in Teaching Staff —Supt. George Coverdale Gives List of Teachers

The Charlevoix public schools will open next Monday, September 14th. A large number of students are expected to enroll. Superintendent George Coverdale reports the 1925-26 teaching staff as follows:

Oscar P. North is the new high school principal and will have charge of the science department. Freda VanderHagen of Ypsilanti, has charge of the music department and Marie Duprey is head of the home economics department.

The other high school teachers for this year are Vellera Keller, who will have history classes; Eleanor Fox, teacher of English and literature groups; Catherina Clarke, who has charge of all students studying languages; and Henry Johnson of Chief, Michigan, who will have charge of the mathematic groups. Eleanor Thomas of Williamston, is head of the commercial department of the high school. Owing to the large number of students taking subjects in this department, it has become one of the most important in the school. Floyd Alldread of Mt. Pleasant normal school, is recreational director and coach of athletics.

The names of the teachers in the grades are as follows: Roucema Wilson of Elba; Ellen Cook of Charlevoix; Emily Prussing of Traverse City; Helen E. Ross of Ypsilanti; Eleanor Finucan of Charlevoix; Lillian E. Kay of Ypsilanti; Eunice Fenner of Bronson; Ethel Service of Blissfield; Walter Alexander; Addison H. Oakley of Caro; Florance Milner of Charlevoix and Miss Sophia Manson.

The county normal school will open as usual and Mrs. Gertrude Dick will be the critic teacher.

Thus the season of vacations ends and the question will arise in many family councils as to whether son or daughter is to continue school or return to other labors. The expression, "other labors" is used because of the feeling that there is sound reason for the belief that every child of high school age should have some manual task to perform side by side with the educational duties, not only to reveal the propensities of the individual but to create a wholesome respect for manual labor by Young America.

Parents at times err in letting age be the determining factor as to when a school career should terminate. Our compulsory attendance laws cannot be prophetic and have no magic power; the degree of training necessary to meet the probable future aims and interests of the individual child should form the basis for the decision.

Adolescents are often tempted by the romance of the world of business or by the desire to acquire more spending money to abandon the completion of their education. They lack the foresight to see that a premature entrance into highly competitive fields of commerce can do them no good. They are in a period of rapidly changing ideals and there is little assurance that their own plannings of today will meet the needs of tomorrow. Maturer natures must extend a directing hand.

In our country the individual is largely ranked by his degree of leadership. We occupy positions at various steps of the ladder from the top rung to the lowest. A good education is today essential to a commanding place. It is because of this fact that parents should make every reasonable sacrifice to see that their children get the proper training; that they go through the high school by all means and to college or university if the interests and capabilities of the child warrant. The question of financial interference is not raised for every graduating class of a college or university is enriched by young men and women who have been self-supporting during their college training. A college or university course is not universally essential. Much time and money may be wasted in an attempt to inject higher education into individuals whose capacities and inclinations forbid it.

However, parents owe it to their children to equip them with the foundation for a fruitful career. Youth should not be allowed to pull into blind alleys; to put itself into unfavorable position for making the most of life. A skimped education is a handicap—it may be a sentence of failure. The training of mind and body that our educational institutions give insures the boy and girl a fair start and imparts an incentive that stirs ambition and builds self assurance. This confidence in itself frequently determines success. A good education is an asset; a lack of it is a matter of regret.

DEATH TAKES W. B. STEWART

DIES SUDDENLY SATURDAY FROM STROKE

One of Best Known Among our Summer Colony—Remains Taken to Muncie, Ind. for Interment

W. B. Stewart, age 66 years, of Muncie, Indiana, died suddenly from a stroke of apoplexy at his Belvedere residence last Saturday afternoon, September 4th, at 2:30 o'clock. Burial was made at Muncie, Tuesday, September 8th, at 2:30 p. m.

A brief funeral service was held from the home of the deceased at No. 7 Belvedere. Rev. Bernard G. Mattson of the Congregational church officiated. After the service the body was taken to Petoskey and then transported to Muncie where interment was made. Many friends and relatives attended the service and a large number of floral wreaths and flowers predominated, showing the sympathy and respect held for the deceased.

Mr. Stewart was a native of Muncie, Indiana, and a resident in that city for nearly thirty-five years. Later, however, business interests made it necessary for him and his family to locate in Fort Worth, Texas. He was one of the chief stockholders in the Indian oil industry of Texas. After residing in Fort Worth for a few years, Mr. Stewart became acquainted with friends who induced him to come to Charlevoix to spend a summer. The climate so well pleased him here that he finally sold his home in Fort Worth and for a number of years made his official residence in Charlevoix for the summer and California for the winter.

Up to the time of his death, Mr. Stewart was a very ardent, energetic and active member of the Belvedere Club. He was vice president of the new Belvedere Golf Club and chairman of the hotel committee. Mr. Stewart's own personal responsibility and work for the association cannot be over-estimated and a great many new ideas and plans for improvement of the club were promoted by him.

The deceased is survived by a widow, Jesse Stewart, and two daughters, Mrs. Clarence Rutherford of Muncie, and Mrs. Collard Aeklin of Toledo, Ohio.

GENERAL CROPS HAVE OFF YEAR

AVERAGE CROP NOT AS GOOD AS LAST YEAR

Wheat Shows Some Improvement and Potatoes Will Be Normal Crop, Says Report

Michigan crops, while generally above the ten year average, are decidedly below the 1924 production, according to a report issued by the department of agriculture and compiled by Commissioner L. Whitney Watkins, and Verne H. Church, U. S. agricultural statistician assigned to Michigan.

While wheat, in the August 1 inquiry shows an average yield of 16.5 bushels per acre, somewhat better than earlier predictions, the grain will probably harvest at four million bushels less than last year's bumper crop. The quality is excellent—90 per cent. Lower wheat returns are general throughout the country.

Corn is the only product that will exceed the 1924 record, according to the report. The present condition is 85 per cent, which is 17 per cent better than one year ago. The present outlook is for a production of 58,757,000 bushels as compared with 43,836,000 in 1924.

Oats have fallen far short of last year when farmers reaped 67,200,000 bushels. The present condition indicates that approximately 46,267,000 bushels will be harvested. Barley will also fall about one million bushels short of last year's production. Rye takes a drop of from six to two million bushels.

Michigan's potato crop is anticipated to be normal. If the present condition is maintained until the end of the season it is estimated that 26,629,000 bushels will be realized. This is approximately ten million less than the 1924 crop which was above the average.

Diseases common to sugar beets have caused but little damage until now according to the report. There has been a decided gain over the July 1 report. While there are more or less irregular stands, the majority of the acreage has a normal crop and making excellent growth.

The southwest counties are producing light apple crops, and the fruit has improved in amount toward the northern counties. About 1,448,000 barrels rated as commercial apples will be produced this year as compared with 1,222,000 bushels on the market from Michigan last year.

The prospect for grapes is discouraging, especially in Van Buren and Berrien counties, usually the best producers.

THINGS NEEDED IN CHARLEVOIX

ACCORDING TO THE VIEWS OF UNCLE GEO. VAN PELT

Comments on Advancement of Charlevoix, Concrete Roads and Quotes Bible Scripture

It certainly is a great pleasure to witness the new life in our own Charlevoix-The-Beautiful. It is not a real Florida boom and it is well that it is not. This is a healthy growth in an honest and deserving way. Let us welcome this new inspiration and lend our assistance to the new idea and "hist" it along. This is a real good time to show that we love our neighbors as we do ourselves. To be a booster and not a kicker. I say it without fear of contradiction, that more people have been in Charlevoix this year who have never been here before, than ever. This is a good sign. Now don't let us get crazy and lose our heads, but keep a good well-balanced level head and work for the general good. If there is any one man here who is getting more business than others it is because he works for it and is deserving of it, and if this more successful man has sold a dozen or two dozen more pieces of property than you or I have, pat him on the head and say, "Go to it."

I went to the movies the other night and saw the wonderful play, "The Ten Commandments." It was so good to see that I wish everyone on earth today could see it. I will leave it for wiser heads than mine to describe it properly. At eighty-four past it was great food for my thinking machine, and that is and always has been pretty well fed. These bible stories will be more real to us all in the course of a few years, and no one is ever too young to learn to do good or to avoid evil.

I guess perhaps it has been a good thing for me that I began work on good roads in 1883 when I first came to this country and that I have continued at the good work so long. I am of the opinion, on account of the increased knowledge I have gleaned of concrete roads, that you cannot wear them out. You can overload them, in excess of the weight for which they were built, but you can't wear them out with rubber tires. The rotten cement we saw in the play of "The Ten Commandments" was suggestive of what can be done by an evil mind, and the same can be and is being worked on full time by the same evil mind in our daily business. It must be stopped some time and in some place. When and where will the change come? As I look out of my window I see the lights on Bridge street and a slight beam of light in the eastern sky and I know that the sunlight will soon break through the clouds as it has done ever since time was. Those of you who have been reading my letters on roads for forty-two years know that I have always emphasized the word good when speaking and writing of roads. Years ago we had the best gravel road between Charlevoix and my Norwood home that there was in our county. It was because we made it good. Now we have the best concrete road, or as good as any in the United States, between here and Norwood.

In my work for good concrete roads the word Good is becoming indelibly stamped on my mind, and the play Sunday night showing the rottenness of the mix which was put into the concrete and the falling of the building was simply what has been done in some few cases in the past twenty-five years. Some contractors thought that they could pull off a little stunt like this and get away with it, but now all concrete roads are supposed to have real inspectors and these inspectors are supposed to be honest, upright men and unpurchaseable. Once in a while one does slip in who is a thief and a robber, but he does not last long for he is sure to be found out sooner or later. You see the cement manufacturers are also on the job, because if a road or a building is built according to standard specifications it cannot be a poor road, it must be good; and it is for their interests to see that the roads are good. So we have a sort of double check. The government wants them good; the state wants them good; the county wants them good; the taxpayer in particular wants them good because it is his money that goes into that particular road. Like old wine, the older the road, the better it is.

Now comes one more bible verse, Hebrews 2:1, which I leave for you to look up and read. Also a quota-

ANNOUNCE PLANS FOR NEXT SEASON

BELVEDERE CLUB REPORTS A SUCCESSFUL YEAR

Will Install New Baths, Furniture and Playground Equipment for Next Year

The officers of the Belvedere Club report the best fiscal season in its history. Although the season has been rather short, the cottages and hotel have been filled to capacity. Guests were pleased with the courtesy extended by the management of the hotel and the meals served.

The trustees of the association officially announce numerous improvements to be made next year. Practically every room in the Belvedere hotel will be equipped with a bath and hot and cold running water. The plumbing equipment and fixtures will be the most modern found in any large hotel in the country.

The furnishings in the guest rooms will be completely changed. Attractive new iron twin beds will be installed in the rooms in place of the old double beds. Small writing tables and bureaus of the most modern type will be placed in the rooms and will add greatly to the convenience of the visitors.

One of the greatly needed improvements will be made on the beautiful Pine lake beach, playground equipment for the kiddies. Tall sheet metal slides will be placed at intervals along the beach and also in shallow water along the bench where the children can easily gain access to them. High swings and merry-go-rounds will also be installed at various places along the beach. Shade tent houses for bathers will be staked out on the beach and on the pier.

The main improvement made by the association this year has been the formation of a new golf club. The members and friends of the Belvedere Club certainly are gratified to see the splendid new course pushed to rapid completion and it is hoped that members will be able to use it next season.

The citizens of Charlevoix and resort visitors are gratified to learn of the success af the Belvedere Club. With the proposed improvements completed it will become one of the most popular resorts of northern Michigan.

NOVAK UNCOVERS STOLEN GOODS

FINDS AUTO LOAD IN SHACK NEAR PETOSKEY.

Articles Stolen from Local People Among the Loot Recovered— Hot on Trail of Gang

An automobile load of loot stolen from stores in adjacent northern territory, including that taken several weeks ago from the Hamilton stand on Belvedere avenue, the Charles Rice boat house and a car parked on Belvedere avenue, was recovered Saturday morning and brought to this city by Sheriff Charles Novak and Deputy Charles Marshall.

Sheriff Novak and his deputies had been working on the case for over two weeks and had traced the stolen articles to several shacks near Petoskey. The thievery has been going on for about two years and during this time several thousand dollars worth of valuable articles have been taken. The first theft of the gang in this terirtory was the plundering of the above mentioned places.

It was this theft that started Novak and his deputies on the trail of the gang. Clues led them to believe the gang's headquarters were in or near Petoskey. Following these up they found their suspicions true and Saturday searched an abandoned farm house on Greenwood street road, southwest of Petoskey, finding in the cellar a large new trunk filled with valuable silk dresses and other articles of clothing. In the second story of another abandoned shack on the same road they found the remainder of the loot. Included in that brought in were five auto tires, speedometers, bumpers, fishing tackle, golf articles, fruit, candy, coats, shoes, raincoats, etc. Later a large quantity of stolen automobile tools and equipment were found in a Petoskey garage, and a car, said to belong to one of the gang's sweetheart, was seized and brought to this city.

It was this car that Barney Kleinfelt, Clarion garage man, reports that he fired several shots at when he discovered them stealing gasoline from his station. Two bullet holes through the body of the car partially substantiates his story. The car is in the city in charge of the sheriff. According to Sheriff Novak, one Art Coveyou of Petoskey, alleged to ba a member of the gang, confessed to him that he was driving the car when it was shot at by Kleinfelt.

In any event, the gang has scattered and for the past few days no thefts have been reported. Sunday night a Buick sedan, owned by Isaac Colburn of Walloon Lake, was stolen from his garage. The car had been used but six weeks.

It is believed that the gang's operations will cease with the recovery of the stolen articles and the breaking up of the gang. Sheriff Novak says he now knows practically every one of its members, and hopes to have them in custody before many days have passed. At one time he picked up three of them, but lacked sufficient evidence to hold them. It is due to his watchfulness that Charlevoix has been almost free of thievery this summer, and when offenses were committed, he soon had the guilty ones in jail.

PICKS UP BOOTLEGGER AND EQUIPMENT

Sheriff Novak Raids Pesek Home and Finds Goods

Another bootlegger whom local officers have been after for more than a year, was picked up on Tuesday last and placed in the county jail.

John Pesek, living south of the city, had been under close surveillance for some time. Tuesday his place was raided and a still and a quantity of mash discovered. John is now in the county jail. His sentence by Judge Gilbert was a $300 fine and $200 costs. Failing to pay this he must serve from six months to one year in prison at Ionia.

John is now making an effort to raise the fine money and keep out of jail. He bitterly complains that his friends deserted him when he got into trouble. You're a good fellow, John, when you can supply your customers with hootch, but when you get into trouble, they never, never know you.

The DAIRY

DAIRY BULL NEEDS EXTRA GOOD CARE

A little special care should be used in the feeding and general management of the dairy herd sire, in order to maintain his stamina and potency to the fullest degree. In the case of the mature bull this necessitates keeping him in first-class condition as to flesh, but not overfat. Either fatness or thinness in flesh works against the maintenance of his best breeding condition and one is to be avoided as much as the other.

There should be an abundance of roughage in the dairy bull's ration. Clover hay and alfalfa are especially good; he may safely have all of either of these forages that he will consume. Corn stover and oats straw also are good feeds for the bull, though lower in nutritive values than the leguminous hays.

One of the main special requirements of the grain ration is that it be not too abundant; it is better to depend upon the forages for maintaining the animal's weight as much as possible. Many good dairymen give the herd sire the same grain ration as the cows receive, except less of it. The bull's grain needs will vary a great deal according to his size and physical condition, of course, though if he is getting plenty of good hay in addition, especially if it is clover or alfalfa, he will not need more than from four to eight pounds of grain daily. Shorts, bran and oats are particularly good concentrates to use in the grain portion of the bull's ration.

Here is a ration for mature bulls which has the sanction of usage or many farms: Three parts each of cornmeal, ground oats and wheat bran and one part linseed meal. If desired, hominy may be substituted for the cornmeal.

Whether the herd sire should receive silage is a disputed point among dairymen. Many believe that it impairs the breeding abilities of the bull though experimental evidence to support this belief is lacking. Other breeders safely feed silage to their herd bulls, though much less of it than the cows receive. Large feeding of silage to bulls results in greatly distending their paunches.

Until he reaches serviceable age there is no better feed for the young bull than grass, and he should be allowed to make as much of his growth on it as possible. On this feed he will build up the right kind of flesh, and along with it will develop vigor and constitution as he would in no other way. Whatever the ration of the young bull, it should contain much protein to supply the needs of his rapidly growing body.

While careful attention needs to be given the bull's ration, proper feeding alone will not maintain the most desirable physical condition. Regular exercise is quite as important in preserving his vigor and potency.

Clean Up All Rubbish

Cleaning up the old vines, stalks, canes, etc., which have served their useful purpose this year will do much to help control disease and insect pests next year. Disease organisms and insect eggs are often carried over from one season to the next in the trash left after the crops have been harvested. Burning is a sure way of destroying such insect and disease harbors.

FEDERAL RESERVE HELPS FARMERS

How Its Aid to England's Return to a Gold Standard Benefits American Agriculture.

By M. A. TRAYLOR
Second Vice President American Bankers Association.

There has been no more important event for the American farmer and stock man since the Armistice than the recent return of Great Britain to a gold standard. It seems a long distance from the Montana farm to the gold vaults of the Bank of England, but the price the farmer gets for his wheat and cattle depends not a little on that gold.

M. A. Traylor

The farmer sells his wheat to the elevator man and yet the real buyer, in many cases, is an Englishman, a Frenchman, a German, or an Italian. About one-third of the wheat crop is usually sold abroad and this part is a large factor in fixing the price of the entire crop. Between the farmer and the foreign buyer there are many steps. In recent years the most important step has been that at which the foreign buyer has to pay the American exporter, for the international mechanism of payment has been badly out of order because Europe was off the gold standard. It was just as though an English buyer drove up to your farm house, bargained for your wheat and drew up the contract. But when you discussed payment, he said: "I'm sorry I haven't any good United States money to pay you with; I'll have to pay you in my English paper money, which isn't worth its face value in gold. I don't know what it may be worth next week, but that is your risk."

A Deadly Foe of Trade

How many would be willing to sign contracts on this basis? Yet that is had to be carried on since the Armistice. In practically all countries except the United States the currencies have had no fixed value in gold, but have changed in value from day to day. Whenever one country sold anything to another country, somebody had to take the risk of loss because the value of the money might change before payment was made. Such uncertainty of payment is a deadly foe of trade, and people were afraid to do any larger international business than they had to.

Exports of food stuffs from the United States fell from two and a half billion dollars in 1919 to eight hundred millions in 1923, and the difficulties of European buyers in making satisfactory payment for American farm products was one of the large factors in the drop in the prices of farm products. But now the recent action of Great Britain in declaring that it will again redeem its paper money in gold means that British buyers of American products can pay for them with money which is accepted the world over at its face value in gold. With the return of Great Britain to the gold standard, a majority of the countries of Europe have paper currencies equal to gold.

How Reserve Banks Helped

American bankers have assisted in the British return to the gold standard by giving a $100,000,000 credit to the British government. But more important than this was the action of the Federal Reserve Banks in granting the Bank of England material co-operation. They placed $200,000,000 gold at the disposal of the Bank of England for two years, to be used by it, if necessary, in maintaining the gold standard. The readiness of the Reserve Banks thus to co-operate was an important influence in the willingness of the British to take this all important step.

This action of the Reserve Banks was a most constructive step in aid of American farmers and producers who will benefit greatly by the removal of this element of uncertainty from their export transactions. If all the sins of omission and commission charged against the Federal Reserve System by banker, business man, live stock man or political blatherskite in the last five years were true, and practically none of them are, the service rendered commerce and industry by the System in connection with the restoration of the gold standard in so large a part of the world would far outweigh any mistakes that those in charge of the System may have made. No banker, business man or farmer should permit any self serving declaration by favor seeking demagogue to swerve him from a determination to see that the System is maintained for the future welfare of the country.

Fundamentally conditions are very sound and we are doing a very large volume of business, no little part of which is due to the equalizing and stabilizing effect exercised by the Federal Reserve System on the credits of the country. Throughout all the stress of the last five years there have been no times of either stringency or plethora of bank credit. Rates have run along on a rather level keel and in my judgment have had much to do with the stable volume of business which we have enjoyed, and which is quite contrary to the old experience of the aftermath of panics. With a credit structure such as only the Federal Reserve System can guarantee, I feel we need have no apprehension but on the contrary sound optimism for the future.

Breeding Up Hen Flock for Higher Production

If the Oregon experiment station had not bred from their high producing birds, they could not have secured the results they did. As a result they have increased the average of the entire flock.

Not all 300-eggers will reproduce themselves. Heredity does not always pass down to the first generation. Sometimes it skips a generation. High productivity can only be secured in the flock where there is vigor and vitality.

Vigor is not always indicated by the appearance of the bird. Factors which indicate vitality include a heavy production of eggs of good fertility and good hatchability, and the hen's chicks must grow well and develop well.

The average in commercial breeders' flocks over the state of Oregon was about 100 eggs. The college started trapnesting and selecting their birds. In five years from that time we had increased the production from an average of 100 eggs to 200 eggs, done entirely by selective breeding, eliminating the poor producers. We had jumped from the 200-egg individual to the 300-egg individual. At the present time the 300-egg individual is quite common.—A. G. Lunn, Oregon Agricultural College.

Feed for Molting Hen

Molting hens will need a large supply of protein and phosphorus in order to have the necessary elements for the production of new feathers. Possibly there is nothing so much misunderstood as the extreme necessity of the hens at this time along this line. If they do not have the proper materials the molting period will extend over a time two or three months longer than it should. They may even go until the following spring before resuming laying.

AT THE MOVIES

"Kentucky Pride"

It may be said without fear of contradiction that the most aristocratic cast ever assembled for a motion picture is that appearing in "Kentucky Pride," the William Fox supreme attraction, which opens at the Majestic Theatre on Saturday. For this is a story about horses, told by a horse, and among the actors are such equine princes of the blood as Man o' War, Morvich, Negofol, Fair Play and The Finn. At a time when human crowns are apt to set a trifle uneasily on their wearer's nobs, no one questions their titles as kings of the sport of kings.

Of course there are some of those creatures called human mixed up in the story. The kings of the turf require humans to wait upon them, to purvey their oats and carrots, to pose as their owners and to furnish jockeys and race-tracks and crowds for their entertainment. Among the two-legged actors admitted to these accessory roles may be mentioned Henry B. Walthall, J. Farrell MacDonald and Gertrude Astor, all favorably known in their own way, but none of them in Man o' War class exactly. Then there is the director, another biped named John Ford, famous for making "The Iron Horse," which is, after all, a type of animal distinctly more useful than noble.

The great French horse Negofol is the father of Virginia's Future, the filly whose autobiography is related in this interesting picture. Morvich is the husband of her youth, while Man o' War and the others are just good friends of the family. There isn't a villian among them. The disagreeable folk are all human, or nearly so.

The story has its beginnings in the famous Blue Grass region of Kentucky and, as Man o' War and the others couldn't leave that section because of business engagements, most of the picture was necessarily filmed in their beautiful state.

Like Father, Like Son!

In this picturization of Zane Grey's widely read novel of the same name, young Fairbanks is given an opportunity to rival his famous dad's athletic ability. He portrays the very important role of "Chess Weymer"—a part that calls for genuine acting and some horsemanship feats for which he trained long and faithfully.

Jack Holt, Billie Dove and Noah Beery share featured honors with Fairbanks in the production, which will be shown at the Palace Theatre next Saturday.

"Street of Forgotten Men"

The feature at the Palace Theatre next Monday and Tuesday is "The Street of Forgotten Men," a Herbert Brenon production for Paramount of George Kibbe Turner's Liberty magazine story, by that name, an underworld romance of the Bowery in the late 90's.

Percy Marmont, Neil Hamilton and Mary Brian are featured in the cast. According to advance reports, "The Street of Forgotten Men" is a second "Miracle Man."

EDITORIALS

A hick town is a place where the natives are still looking for Detroit to win the pennant.

For wealth of expression we propose the zebe who writes the labels for the liquor bottles.

Nature is certainly peculiar. Ever notice how too many peddlers will make the grass grow in the village streets?

The next time you feel that everything is wrong with the universe, just try lighting up your part of it with a smile.

Then there is the quaint old householder, who took pride in a yard of vegetables, that has been succeeded by an offspring whose only interest in a yard is one that has been fashioned into a short skirt.

Your home town is a good old town, provided you've got the nerve to stand up and say so. Blowing a bugle in front of the town hall has saved many a village from stagnation.

ELMORE MUDGE DIES IN CALIFORNIA

Former Charlevoix Resident Laid to Rest August 20.

The Courier is indebted to Mr. Isaac Mills for a copy of the West Los Angeles Tribune under date of August 20, containing the following article mentioning the death of Elmore Mudge, a former Charlevoix resident.

"In the passing of Elmore Mudge, Sawtelle haa lost a good citizen; one who was always ready and willing to help friends and neigbbors. He waa an honest, industrious and obliging neighbor, and his familiar passing to and fro on Sawtelle boulevard will be greatly missed. He was confined to his bed for several weeks. He fully realized that his days were numbered and was prepared to go when the summons came. He would listen when some of the old-time hymns were sung over the radio, often joining in his feeble voice; when unable to sing he would repeat the words softly to himself. One of the hymns, the last one he was conscious of hearing, was sung at his funeral:

One by one earth's ties are broken,
One by one friends pass away;
And we know across the river
Wait the loved ones gone before."

Mr. Mudge left Charlevoix some 40 yrars ago and will be remembered by citizens who lived here at that time. He was 70 years of age at time of death. He frequently visited Charlevoix since removing to the west.

REFERRING ONCE MORE TO THAT MONKEY BUSINESS

That man never was either a monkey or ape, and that assumptions to this effect are erroneous and foolish, was the declaration of Dr. Charles Hill–Tout, of Vancouver, B. C., of the Royal Society of Canada, lecturer and author, wha spoke to the naturalist division of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in session in Portland, Oregon.

"We have indisputable records of man which go back before the time of the ape," said Dr. Hill-Tout. Probably both ape and man came from some former ancestor in the phylogenitic series farther back. It is true that we may say tbat man has ape-like characteristics, but it is equally true that the ape has man-like characteristics which does not mean much unless interpreted correctly. In fact, nearly all living organisms have points of common likeness.

"The oldest skelcton records of man go back about 500,000 years, but we know that man was relatively high in intelligence 2,000,000 years before this time. We have found excellent stone tools fashioned that long ago and with which man worked. The ape as yet has not brain power to make even the most crude implements for his own use."

CATARRH
of nose or throat is made more endurable, sometimes greatly benefited by applying Vicks up nostrils. Also melt some and inhale the vapors.
VICKS VAPORUB
Over 17 Million Jars Used Yearly

Dr. Alexander Findley, professor of chemistry at the University of Aberdeen, Scotland, who spoke at the closing meeting, said that those who find conflict between religion and science are neither good religionists nor good scientists. The two can never be antagonistic, he declared, and such controversies as that in Tennessee are due to ignorance and inability to co-ordinate the findings of modern science with the universal scheme.

CHANGING SENTIMENT

With the steady increase of public ownership in large corporations has come a changed viewpoint regarding so-called "big business." At the same time there has been a revised conduct in the affairs of corporations regarding their obligations to the public, so that instead of being feared as they once were they are now looked upon as benefactors to our industrial and financial welfare.

Public ownership of big utilities is presenting an opportunity for the small investor to share in the satisfaction and profits to be gained in developing and utilizing our natural resources. The stability of these investments must depend upon the treatment accorded corporations from a legislative standpoint, which cannot be preyed upon by bureaucracy and at the same time conduct a safe and profitable business enterprise. Prosperity and big business are too closely allied to longer be considered a fertile field for the attacks of agitators who are intent upon pulling down the superstructure of business to meet tbeir radical whims.

BEWARE OF FAKES

With a gradual return of nationwide prosperity comes the danger of that great horde of unprincipled fakirs who annually unload billions of worthless stocks and bonds on the trusting and uninformed. With such splendid opportunities for safe investment it is surprising how many people are being caught with the lure of "big returns" and invest their hard-earned savings in absolutely worthless ventures.

Quit feeding these blue-sky hawkers who are continually preying upon industry and frugality. Make it a hard and fast rule to consult with your banker before indulging in a single investment. He will advise you freely and frankly and the chances of your picking a lemon will be almost wholly obliterated. One wealthy man has said: "Have all your earnings in one place, where you can see it all in a single afternoon." If that precept were followed every county in Michigan would have saved millions of dollars in the past fifty years in losses in oil stocks, silver and gold mines, and blue-sky industrial stocks. Kick the fake stock promoter off the front porch and keep your spare dollars for legitimate enterprises.

DEFINING THE "HICK"

Every once in a while you will hear somebody define a 'hick" as being a resident of the rural seetions of the state. Nothing could be farther from the truth. If there are any "hicks" today it is the underprivileged dweller in the city who does not have an opportunity to come in contact with the broadening influences of our later day civilization.

Take the average Michigan farmer as you will find him today and you will know a man more interested, and with more knowledge of economic and social conditions than almost any other class. Today the best journals of art, literature and science find a ready sale in the farm homes of the nation. Rarely does the farmer spend his leisure hours in pursuit of vain und useless pleasures. He has his clubs and societies where real issues are discussed, and where the current news of the day is given close observance and eomment.

The present day farmer is progressive in ideas, methods and equipment. He is conscious of his vital contribution to the nation's life and progress. Because the farmer is still an independent economic unit, an industrial corporation in himself, he is forced to face the big financial, industrial and political issues of the times. We may have referred to him facetiously as a "hick" because he spent some of his money with the Chicago mail order houses, but we wonder if he is to be compared with the Main street resident who has enough worthless oil certificates to paper a hall bedroom?

DISCOURAGING LAWBREAKERS

Much space is being devoted in the nation's press to crime prevention and how it can be brought about, but it has remained for one Michigan judge to adopt n plan that seems to be bringing results.

Judge Royal A. Hawley, who presides over the Eighth Judicial District, believes in treating the criminal as he deserves to be treated. There is no namby pnmby dealing with lawbreakers in Judge Hawley's court. When a man convicted fnees him for sentence he is made well nware that the lnws were plnced on the stntute books for the protection of society, not to prove its downfall.

In the Eighth Judicial District, which includes the counties of Ionia and Montcalm, there is no delay in the administration of justice. When a man is indicted, charged with the commission of n crime, Judge Hawley insists on an early and speedy trial. If convicted, the offender knows he is going forthwith to a prison cell and that his sentence is going to be made to fit the crime he has committed. No excuse, no delay, old-fashioned justice rigidly applied has served to reduce crime to a minimum in this district. It seems to be the only way to bring about real crime prevention—From the Ionia County News.

WHERE HAPPINESS ABOUNDS

Perhaps you have been longing to go to the big city. Unless you have youth and genius stay where you are. It may be you have become tired of what yau believed was the monotony of the small town. Better be aroused from your slumbers in the mornlng by the songs of the birds than the clang of a trolly car. You have dreamed of the city where fame awnited. Hetter know all of your neighbors when you go forth to your labors, than to live your days where you don't know the fellow next door. Perhaps you have built up castles of wealth where humanity seethes and boils that waited only the mystic touch of your hand. You are lucky if at the end of your working days you have been able to finish the last payment on a poorly constructed city home at a big price. It might be your longing has been for a place where you could spread your wings and accomplish great things. Then don't leave the splendid opportunities of your own home town for the city where every high purpose may be wiped out in the ceaseless struggle for an existence. The cities may have been made for you, but first be sure you have been made for the city. Quit your brooding over your lot in the small town. If you only knew it you have been favored among the gods. Stick to your present job and learn the lesson of happiness and contentment.

FRESHING BREEZES

Some these days the courts may hold that ginger ale is nn accessory after the fact.

What hns become of the old-fashioned hricklayer who ust to start out in the morning to lay more brick than nny other man on the gang?

Our idea of a hick town is a plnce where they still have a timetable in the town depot.

The gentleman who gets out the finnncial report for the state must have just finished reading n blue-sky prospectus.

We want you to understand that's no statue under the sink. That's the plumber.

We share none of the prejudice against the two-dollar bill. It is still welcome at the sanctum on subscription.

Detroit has been trying out truth serum this week. Some of these days they're going to find out what became of that warehouse of bonded liquor the state police lost that time.

In the old days when a fellow got "piped" the gang ust to take him home and put him to bed. Now they stand around until the doctor or the coroner arrive.

If General Andrews succeeds in taking prohibition out of polltics somebody might suggest he be given the job of finding out what became of the long lost Charlie Ross.

The old-fashioned gent who ust to gaze with care up nnd down the village street before slipping into the town tavern, now has a son who openly boasts of having a private bootlegger.

The loyal old–Union soldier who fought secession from principle, now has a grandson who thinks it cute to preach parlor socialism.

Of all the sympathy that goes to waste every year, none of it seems to have been wasted on the coal operators.

And Now in Closing—

Consider the lilies of the field who neither toil or spin — neither does the modern flapper—yet see how both are arrayed.

BEST YET HELD IN THE COUNTY

WHITING PARK WAS FILLED TO OVERFLOWING MONDAY

Charlevoix Business Men Defeat Boyne City and East Jordan Teams in Ball Games

The Labor Day picnic held at Whiting Park, Monday, September 7th, was the best get-together crowd that ever met in Charlevoix county. The park was filled to capacity and automobiles were forced to park long distances from the picnic grounds.

Everyone enjoyed the program furnished for the day, and the big feed at noon—well, we cannot find a word long enough in Webster's dictionary to state the amount of food consumed.

The young folks entered the various kinds of races with zeal and zipp and old timers took real interest in the horse-shoe pitching contests and tug-of-war battles.

In the afternoon two forcible speeches were made by William L. Fuehrer, superintendent of schools, Boyne City, and Roswell G. Curr, of the extension department, Michigan State college.

At 2:30 p. m. came the surprise and upset of the whole program, the Charlevoix business men pluyed a baseball game with Boyne City and trimmed their opponents by a score of 5 to 4.

Now then before we relate any more hilarious actions, let us remind you that Napoleon wished once that there were more worlds to conquer. This feeling became imbued. In the veins of the triumphant business men of this city and at once a challenge was issued to play the East Jordan team. Little did the rabble of baseball fans think that the powerful East Jordan team should bow down and bite the irresistible dust of Charlevoix's crack team. But miracles do happen and when the final ninth inning rolled around, the score was in favor of the triumphing team of Charlevoix 5-1.

After this escapade the business men of Boyne City gave away an Essex coach to the holder of the lucky number and we don't want to forget to mention the very good music which was rendered by the East Jordan high school band.

Every individual who attended the picnic claimed to have had the best time ever and many friendships were made and old aequaintances renewed.

tion, which seems to me to fit in with this discussion: "There is not any place, there is not any need for any man ever to get old in this world. And if a man will link himself with the right things, and have the right view-point in the life he lives, he will not be an old man.

Moses was 120 years old when he died, but the scriptures tell us that his eye had lost none of its brightness, nor was his natural force in any way abated, and the reason is not hard to find. Moses had the right view-point for his life. Moses was linked with the right things. He linked himself with the great causes for the lifting up of his oppressed fellows. Moses lived not a day for himself. Life is missed in its sublime meaning if any man lives for himself."

Passer of Bad Checks Makes Small Raise in City

I. C. Hartman, a smooth confidence man who has operated from California to Maine and from Canada to the Gulf, was in Kalkaska a few days the latter part of last week and succeeded in cashing a small hogus check.

Hartman passes as a man who wishes to buy real estate, gives a large check as first payment to get the confidence of his victim, and later gives a smaller check and asks for cash, as he has to make a trip home and will return in a few days to close up the deal, after the person with whom he is dealing has time to hear from the first check.

He usually cashes a check for about $50, but in this instance only secured $10. He gave a check on a Kalamazoo bank, which was returned as no good. Hartman is the same person who gave a $1,000 check a short time ago to the Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering Co. of this city as the initial payment on a farm he was buying of them. He was recognized by Walker Miles but got away before apprehended by local officials.

Encouraging Favorable Market for Veal Calves

Here is something dairymen should encourage as a means of making a more favorable market for their veal calves: Ment experts of the federal governmeat say that the practice of shipping veal without removing the hide or skin has many advantages. They explain that veal which does not have the skin removed until it reaches the retailer, which may be from five to ten days or longer after slaughter, still retains its "bloom" and the light plak color most desired by customers. The protective covering supplied by nature keeps the flesh from turning dark. Packers in New York and Chicago are now generally following the practice of selling veal with the skin on. This could be practiced to advantage locally where veal calves are killed for ment on the farm or in small towns.

Kentucky Farmers Make Improvement in Dairies

Since April some 20 purebred dairy sires, ranging from 500-pound records to gold-medal classification, have been brought into Graves county, Kentucky, as a result of the co-operative efforts of the Mayfield chamber of commerce and agricultural extension workers, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture. Several carloads of cows with good records have also been purchased by Graves county farmers. Lime-storage sheds, built at shipping points in the county, have enabled farmers to purchase and haul lime at convenient times for the benefit of their legume hay crops, pastures are being improved, and feed crops increased as a part of the county's program for economical and efficient dairy production.

Feed Calf Some Hay

For a young calf mixed hay—clover and timothy or dried bluegrass—is the most desirable, but gradually, as the calf matures, clover hay may be fed with desirable results. Alfalfa hay of the best quality is exceedingly beneficial if limited to small quantities. At first, not more than one pound should be fed and the manger should always be cleaned and the unaten hay removed. Increase the hay ration until it reaches three pounds when the calf is three months of age.

Neighbors

By ROBERT STEAD

Author of "The Cow Puncher" and "Zan of the Y. D."

The story of Frank Hall and Jean Lane, neighbors in childhood in a little Ontario town; neighbors again, fifteen years later, on adjoining homesteads in the Saskatchewan country. The romance of their lives runs smoothly until something occurs which upsets all expectations—including those of the reader.

A story which breathes the spirit of the prairie and foothills country and whose characters are vividly alive. Interest grows from the start and reaches a climax of tension in the closing chapters. An outstanding novel by an outstanding writer.

NEW FORD CAR SOON ON DISPLAY

Demand Greater Than Ever for Popular Auto

Curiosity of a lot of people is going to be satisfied this week.

Anyway, indications point in that direction.

Ever since announcement of the improved Ford cars was made just about every man, woman and child in town has been on the alert for a glimpse of the new cars.

A few of the touring cars reached dealers during the last week, but not near enough of them were distributed to satisfy the curiosity of the populace. In the first place, every dealer experienced some difficulty in securing cars—some were only able to get one—and in the second place, after the dealer got the car he had a hard time keeping it—someone wanted to buy it right away.

Several hundred people, however, have been able to get a peep at the new touring cars and everyone of them is firmly convinced that they sure are attractive automobiles.

Ford dealers of Charlevoix are expecting the coming week will bring them all the new body types, both open and closed. If this transpires, it is certain that the dealer show rooms are going to be the most popular places in town, for everyone is eager to see and inspect all the new Fords.

ELLSWORTH MAN HAS PRIZE FLAG

Carried by Co. G During Seige of Fort Washington

Remnants of the battle-scarred flag carried by Co. G., third New York artillery, during the seige of Fort Washington, N. C., in the Civil war, have been pieced together by Lewis Deline of Ellsworth, a survivor of the battle. The flag, reposing in a picture frame, hangs on the wall in Mr. Deline's home.

Mr. Deline, who was serving with an infantry unit during the engagement, was present when the flag was shot down from its staff by Confederate shell fire. The flag, he says, was made by wives of officers in the artillery regiment.

Mr. Deline recalls that, when the flag was shot down, a soldier by the name of David Myrick, Auburn, New York, immediately volunteered to scale the pole and replace it. Under heavy fire, the soldier climbed the pole in a sort of rope swing and while attaching the banner, one of the ropes holding the swing was severed by a bullet and Myrick was thrown to the ground. He died later of his injuries.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday, September 13

"Real and Artificial Values," will be the pastor's theme in the service at 10:30 a. m., and at 7:30 p. m., a study of the 13th chapter of Kings. Those who hear this discourse will enjoy it far more if they will take the trouble to read this chapter before the service.

The bible school will meet at 12 m. and study about Paul in Thessalonica and Berea. This study discloses "true nobility." With the resort season practically over we should see many of our members back in their classes.

The B. Y. P. U. will meet at 6:30 for a devotional and study hour. Here too we should see a greatly renewed interest.

The ladies of the church held their first fall meeting with a large attendance at the Carey home on the South side, Wednesday afternoon. It is a fine promise for a big year's work.

The W. C. T. U. will be entertained at the church Friday p. m. They are welcomed with a spirit of hearty cooperation.

This church has welcome for all who are not engaged in church work elsewhere.

CITY'S HOTELS PROVIDE THE BEST

SUCH IS OPINION OF MANAGER OF THE INN

Says Charlevoix Has Had Its Best Season This Year—A Wonderful Come-Back

In an interview this morning with Andrew I. Creamer, manager of The Inn, the Courier representative wus inspired with his opinions of Charlevoix. Mr. Creamer stated that "he was beginning to believe that 'Uncle' Geo. H. VanPelt was in advance of many of us because he was in favor of a fire-proof or concrete hotel." Still, upon reflection, a fire-proof hotel operated for about sixty days in a resort town us far north as Charlevoix would be a disappointment to the stockholders, those who assume the investment.

We were also impressed with his statement that he believed Charlevoix's greatest assets were: "The universal upkeep of the hotels, town buildings, summer homes, the extreme courtesy which is found everywhere in the stores, banks, telephone and telegraph offices, the post-office, farm homes, etc." So much so that he believes the big resort places in Florida can reap an asset from Charlevoix's courtesy. Mr. Creamer states that the hotels of Charlevoix supplied the best of food because the chickens, eggs and vegetables grown here are auperlor, and this reputation of extreme courtesy and good food will remedy the requirements of extreme modern buildings, which are developing in the southland.

Continuing, Mr. Creamer said: "Charlevoix had its best season this year—a wonderful come-back. From the city government and the Association of Commerce the enthusiasm started. Think of a way-up northern town having a tennis event that was declared to be as large and having more enthusiasm than the state championship meet! The yacht and boat races were most successful; the golf course at Charlevoix has had one of its best seasons—all indicating the prosperity which Charlevoix has enjoyed."

When asked regarding prospective improvements at The Inn, he replied: "There will be many improvements made at the Belvedere, The Inn, the Beach, as well ns other houses before the next summer season comes around, and with these improvements and the continuntion of support from the city, you can measure Charlevoix as the greatest resort place in the stnte of Michigan."

What could be more gratifying than Mr. Creamer's opinion of Charlevoix nnd its future prospects? Cooperation among our business men and citizens will result in Charlevoix not only holding its own, but increasing until it will be known everywhere as the leading resort of the central states.

REV. QUANT GOES TO GRAND RAPIDS

Receives Call from St. Paul's Methodist Church

Rev. H. R. E. Quant, for the past four years pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of this city, has accepted a call from St. Paul's Methodist church of Grand Rapids, and will address its membership for the first time on Sunday, September 27.

The call came entirely unexpected a few hours before the close of the conference. Rev. and Mrs. Quant were making preparations for a week's auto trip to Toronto, Canada, when the information of the new nppointment reached him.

During his four year's pastorate here Rev. Quant and family have made a host of friends who greatly regret their departure. The church has prospered under his dilligent and faithful work. He has been active in all matters pertaining to a better community and it was hoped he would remain at least another year.

His advancement was deserving—a reward for years of conscientious labor. From a church of some three hundred members he will assume the pastorate of a church with a membership of over seven hundred. Charlevoix people will miss him, but at the same time rejoice in his promotion.

MAKE IT SAFER FOR CHILDREN

STATE ISSUES WARNING TO ALL AUTO DRIVERS

Urges Greater Care on Part of Driver and Cautions Children In Crossing Highways

A word of precaution, regarding the dangers of highway traffic in the vicinity of public schools, has been sent to all of the teachers in the public schools by Thomas E. Johnson, superintendent of public instruction and Frank F. Rogers, state highway commissioner.

With the beginning of the school year this menace to human life will become pronounced and with the constantly increasing traffic extreme cnre, not only on the part of motorists but of the school children, is imperative. A large number of the public and consolidated schools of this state are located on state trunk lines, mnny of them paved, where traffic is heavy, and State Highway Commissioner Rogers and Superintendent Johnson have issued a warning against the dangers which exist and which are increasing each year.

The following is the letter issued jointly by the superintendent of public instruction and state highway commissioner:

"To the Teachers of Michigan:

"At the opening of the school year it is only fitting that agnin we call the attention of the children through you to some principles of safety.

COUNTY FAIR CLOSED FRIDAY

EXHIBITION ONE OF THE BEST EVER HELD

Thousands of People on Grounds Thursday—Exhibits Larger Than Former Years

The forty-first annual fair of the Charlevoix County Agricultural Society came to a close Friday night and with it is recorded achievements made in exhibits that surpnss nny event of its kind heretofore shown in its many years of existence.

All available space was filled by exhibits of various kinds, especially in the lines of agricultural products and results of the work of canning clubs and Granges. Beautiful specimens of apples, plums, pears, grapes, potatoes, all grown on Charlevoix county farms, filled the display shelves to capacity. The showing of grains and seeds were especially fine.

The public schools of Charlevoix county may well be proud of their 1925 exhibit. A better grade of work was shown, which more truly represented the work of the students. In all, 37 schools participated, and some $600.00 will be paid to them in premiums by the fair association.

In the floral hall, exhibits made by the Benj. Brown Auto Sales of Charlevoix, who had on display a complete line of Dodge automobiles, and the stove exhibit by the East Jordan Lumber company, called for favorable comment among the hundreds who viewed them.

The live stock department were filled to overflowing. Dairying took the lead and far more cattle were shown this year than at previous fairs.

The midway free attractions held the attention of the daily crowds. The Tracys, Bounding Johnson and The Looses with platform acts, were applauded at each exhibition. The merry-go-round was well patronized, and those who witnessed the act in the motor drum received a thrill they will long remember.

Ideal weather prevailed for race track events, and the full three day program was carried out without a hitch. This year the races were run on the three-heat plan, every heat a race, and drew more speed horses than in years.

LATEST DOPE ON HUNTING LAWS

NUMEROUS CHANGES IN LAWS KEEPS ONE ON TOES

First Open Season on Pheasants in State—Bear Now Protected Under State Law

Hunters who enjoy Michigan's hospitality during the hunting season in order to take a fling at feathered and furred game in the Wolverine state, are up against a bunch of new laws this year. If you're planning on any gunning over the waters or in the woods of Michigan, better read up on the new regulations as they are quite different from those which prevailed last year.

In the first place, us Sandy, the well known Grand Rapids outdoors man advises, Michigan is going to have its first open season on pheasants this fall. The law gives an open season of seven days from Oct. 25 to 31, inclusive. Only male birds may legally be shot and the limit is two a day.

Instead of a month on partridge, or more properly, ruffed grouse, shooting this year the Michigan season on this bird is to be limited to the same days as prescribed for pheasants (and prairie chicken). The idea of this is that many hunters will be lured by the flashy pheasants and the prairie chickens with the result that the grouse will have some rest from the constant cannonading of other years. Sandy reports that there seems to be more grouse than a year ago, but the outlook is nothing to brag about.

As a result of the fight put up by various bird and conservation organizations the quail continues on the protected list. For the first time the Michigan bag limit on waterfowl has been reduced below the figure of 25 in one day fixed by the migratory bird act. Hereafter in the Wolverine state it will be 15 ducks a day. Furthermore, and mark this well ye duck hunters, the new law says that a hunter shall not have more than 30 in his possession at any time and not more than 50 in a calendar week. This is a blow at the market hunters which is bringing much cheering from the Michigan sportsmen.

However, the shortening of the woodcock senson to seven days, beginning in October, is a measure that has caused a lot of criticism. The bag limit is five a day. In the game animal division the striking change is the classification of the black bear as game with an open season coincident with the deer season, from Nov. 15 to 30 inclusive. If you are going to tackle the deer hunting game in Michigan your regular license allowing you to pursue the whitetails will also permit you to shoot bear from Nov. 15 to 30. The shortened deer senson retains the limit of one male with three inch antlers in a season.

ANOTHER NEWSPAPER OUT OF BUSINESS

Levering Local Sells Equipment and Quits Business

The Levering Local printing equipment at Levering, Michigan, has been sold to the Harbor Springs Republican and the little village's newspaper is no more. Its suspension was announced last week with the conclusion of its tenth year of existence.

The reasons for the indefinite suspension are given as increasing costs of publishing a newspaper and decreasing revenues. In small villages like Levering there is not the volume of business to support a newspaper so the result has been to fill its columns with boiler plate and mail it out.

Few cities and towns of northern Michigan have more than one newspaper. A one-newspaper town gives the publishers an opportunity to put out a live, newsy paper. Where the patronage is split, one or the other resorts to patent insides and boiler plate front page. And the merchants pay double for advertising—in many instances refraining from advertising at all on account of the double cost.

The day is not far off when every northern Michigan town will have but ono newspaper.

YOUTHFUL ROBBERS HELD IN COLORADO

Five Boy Thieves Picked Up in Western City

Sheriff Charles Novak received word late last week that the youthful bandits who have been operating in this section for the pnst two years, mention of which was made in these columns last week, had been apprehended at Fort Morgan, Colorado, where they were caught robbing a gasoline station and store.

There were five in the gang, John and Arthur Coveyou and Arthur Leismer of Petoskey, another by the name of Black and the fifth party whose name is not known. They were riding in a Buick sedan, the license nud engine number of which corresponded with a Buick sedan stolen from Ike Colburn, summer tourist at Walloon Lake.

The officers at Fort Morgan telegraphed a description of the gang to Toledo, which place had been notified to be on the watch for the gang, by Novak.

It is not known as yet what will be done with them, but it is thought that the case will be left with the insurance company holding a policy on the stolen car for prosecution.

TAPS SOUNDED FOR P. S. BROWN

DIED THURSDAY FROM ATTACK OF HEART TROUBLE

Served During Civil War Under the Leadership of Gen. Sherman—Resident Here 58 Years

Peleg S. Brown died suddenly from heart failure at his home, 404 Mason street, Thursday forenoon, September 10th. Mr. Brown was eighty-one years old, and had been a resident of Charlevoix for fifty-eight years. Rev. Herman Burns officiated at the funeral service, and interment was made at Brookside cemetery. Services for the deceased were held under the auspices of the Masonic lodge, of which Mr. Brown was a life member.

Mr. Brown arose early in the morning as was his usual custom and after eating breakfast went out on the porch to sit down for a few minutes. It was a matter of a few seconds when the deceased collapsed in his chair and was found dead. Heart failure was the cause of the collapse.

Peleg Brown was born in Stephenson county, state of Illinois, in 1844. When he reached the age of sixteen his family migrated to the state of Iowa where they settled on a farm. Later Mr. Brown was united in marriage to Rachel Ann Brown.

On January 13, 1862, Mr. Brown enlisted in the infantry of the Northern army in the Civil war under the leadership of General Sherman. He has the proud record of fighting in nine actual battle engagements—battle of Chieksaw Buyou, December 29, 1862; Arkansas Post, June 11, 1863; Chuspim Hills, May 11, 1863; Ham's Bluff, May 1, 1863 Black River, May 17, 1863; Vicksburg, May, 19, 1863; Jackson Mips, July 11, 1863; Colliersville, October 11, 1863; and Mission Ridge, November 25, 1863.

After he was discharged from actual service he returned to his home in Iowa. Later, however, he moved to a farm near East Jordan. Many citizens of Charlevoix have listened to Mr. Brown relate the early experiences and hardship of moving with teams of horses to Chicago and then crossing Lake Michigan to Charlevoix, thence to the farm near East Jordnn.

The deceased resided on the East Jordan farm for several years and then became interested in marine engineering. He soon became proficient in his new occupation nnd settled in Charlevoix, where there was easy access to mnrine boats. He wus engineer on such boats as the North Star, the Commodore and later was stationed as chief engineer on the government lighters at Sault Ste. Marie.

Peleg Brown is survived by two daughters and one son, Mrs. W. H. Cater of Chicago, Miss Pearl Brown of Charlevoix and Herbert Brown of Los Angeles California.

The deceased has left many friends in Charlevoix and their sympathy is heartily extended to those of the bereaved family.

FIRST OF IMPROVED FORDS HAVE ARRIVED

Cars Most Attractive, with Longer, Lower Bodies

First of the improved Ford cars to arrive in Chnrlevoix went on display last Wednesday in the show rooms of the Northern Auto Co., local authorized Ford dealer, and immediately attracted the attention of everyone.

To say that the people who saw the curs were surprised at their appearance would be putting it rather mildly. The new types exceed all expectations in improved appearance and mare comfort and convenlence. For the most part the bodies have been completely redesigned and conform in every respect to the most advanced features of body construction.

Not only have bodies been built lower, but they are set on a lower chassis frame and with larger, low hanging fenders impart to the complete car a striking auggeation of ridlng and driving ease.

While the Northern Auto Co. has been able so far to show the touring model, other types will be shown as quickly as they can be obtained from the Ford Motor Company branch at Petoskey where becauso of their popularity demands on production are somewhat delaying immediate delivery of all types of cars.

For all the nawa, read the Courier.

"A Son of His Father"—New Bell Wright Novel

Coming to the Palace Theatre next Monday and Tuesday, the Paramount picture, "A Son of His Father," produced by Victor Fleming from Harold Bell Wright's latest "best seller," is claimed to be the finest "Western" that has ever reached the screen. To back up this claim Paramount mentions—

First—the author, Harold Bell Wright. Wright's tales of the west have gone into more homes than those of any other writer. During the last eight years his books have been read by more than 56,000,000 people in the United States alone.

Second — the director, Victor Fleming, who made "Adventure" and "The Devil's Cargo." He also made "To the Last Man," the first Zane Grey-Paramount production. "The Call of the Canyon," another Zane Grey special, and "Empty Hands" are also on his long list of successes.

Then—the cast. Bessie Love, Warner Baxter and Raymond Hatton are featured in the leading roles. Other popular players are Charles Stevens, Walter McGrail, Carl Stockdale, Billy Eugene and James Farley.

"The Fool" Crowded with Entertainment, Vividly Thrilling

The much heralded screen version of Channing Pollock's greatest stage play, "The Fool," comes to this city on next Saturday at the Palace theatre. Produced by the Fox campany and with a year spent in its making, this film adaptation of "The Fool" is rated as one of the finest pictures of the season by critics and public alike who have seen it.

"The Fool," as many local theatre-goers will remember who have read the play in book form, or who have seen its stage presentation, is the story of the adventures and romance of a young minister who believed that he could live like Christ in the twentieth century. It has been ranked as one of the greatest plays ever written for stage or screen, not only because of the significant moral message it contains but also for the sheer thrill and entertainment of its melodramatic action and climaxes.

BY ROBERT STEAD

AUTHOR OF "THE COW PUNCHER," "THE HOMESTEADERS."

COPYRIGHT BY ROBERT STEAD WNU SERVICE

Why does love in so many instances begin to wane shortly after the honeymoon? Why do two people who found the companionship of each other so agreeable before marriage, find it so boresome afterward? Is the lack of temperament more fatal to wedded happiness than an excess of it? These questions are answered in this story. There is revealed the great—the one and only cause—that underlies a majority of marital shipwrecks. Other novelists have dealt with it, but have hedged it about with so much theory, moralizing and psychology that their conclusions have had no practical value. Mr. Stead treats it in a clear, direct manner, with no high-sounding or puzzling phrases or any ideas drawn from the schools.

Robert Stead.

In the first place, Stead is rarely gifted in his ability to make the people in his stories real and living. They seem to the reader just other folks with whom he is surrounded. Their comings and goings, their actions, etc., seem like one's daily contacts with people or like looking out of a window at them. Their being enclosed in the pages of a book is, like a closed window, the only thing that prevents one from talking to them. In this case he brings one into just such a close relation with the characters of his story, which revolves around two principals, a young woman and young man of average ability and attractiveness—just like many of your neighbors.—He relies upon the very force and reality of his human illustration to make it effective; and he accomplishes his purpose. You will realize why Jean Lane was justified in refusing to marry Frank Hall until certain things had been corrected, and why, after those corrections were made, there was a reasonable assurance that their married life would be happy. You will be interested in learning what the great defect in Frank was, the defect which occurs in women as well as in men, and which causes so many matrimonial voyages to come to grief. You will learn that this defect is easily corrected.

A happy, optimistic story of the Canadian Northwest; a true picture of homesteading in the prairie and foothills country, with its hardships, perils and rewards. The author himself was raised on a homestead and participated in various phases of pioneer life. He followed successively farming, publishing a country newspaper and mercantile pursuits until he graduated into authorship. He has published several volumes of poetry and is regarded as one of the foremost versifiers and poets of Canada. He is also one of the leading novelists of the country to the north and is undoubtedly the chief in depicting the romance and reality of its western plains regions.

CHAPTER I

My earliest recollection links back to a gray stone house by a road entering a little Ontario town. Across the road was a mill pond, and across the mill pond was a mill; an old-fashioned wooden mill which was the occasion and support of the little town. Beside the mill was a water wheel; not a modern turbine, but a wooden wheel which, on sunshiny days, sprayed a mist of jewels into the river beneath with the prodigality of a fairy prince.

The mill pond was held in check by a stone dam which crossed from the road almost in front of our door to a point on the mill itself. The stone crest of this dam rose about two feet above the level of the water in the mill pond, and was about two feet wide. Along this crest my father walked on his way to and from the mill, but I had strict orders not to attempt the feat, with the promise that I would be thrashed "within an inch of my life" if I did.

And now I must introduce Jean Lane, daughter of our nearest neighbor, Mr. Peter Lane. Jean is to travel with me through most of the chapters of this somewhat intimate account, and you may as well meet her at four, bare-footed and golden-haired and blue-eyed, with a wisp of white cotton dress and a gleam of white teeth set between lips of rose-leaf. Demurely down the road she came to where I lay sprawled on the river bank contemplating the leisurely precision of the water wheel beyond. When she reached me she paused, sat down, and buried her feet in the soft sand of the bank.

"I want to go to the mill," she said, when her little toes were well out of sight.

"But you can't go to the mill," I said, with the mature authority of six. "You'd fall in."

"I wouldn't, neither,"—she glanced at me slyly from under her yellow locks—"not if you helped me."

It was a difficult situation. Here was I, a young man of six, honored by a commission of great responsibility from a young woman of four. My native gallantry, as well as a pleasant feeling of competence, urged that I immediately lend her across that two foot strip of masonry. But the parental veto, and the promise of being thrashed within an inch of my life, sorely, and, as it seemed to me, unfairly, curbed my chivalry.

"I'd like to take you over, Jean," I conceded, "but my father won't let me."

"Did you' futher say you mustn't take me over?" With almost uncanny intuition she thrust at the vulnerable spot in the armor of my good behavior.

"No; he didn't say anything about you."

"Then you can take me?"

I dug my toes into the sand beside hers, but did not answer.

"If my big bruvver John was here he'd take me over, quick," she continued, with a quivering lip.

John Lane was six, like me, and no bigger. The allusion to him as her big brother, who would take her over quick, and the quivering lip, were too much.

I scrambled to my feet. "Come," I said, with masculine recklessness, starting for the dam, and she followed joyously.

We are about half way over when something happened—I never knew what—but I plumped into deep water like a stone thrown from the shore. I took a great mouthful and came up sputtering, choking, frantic. The slippery wall gave no grip for my hands, and in a moment I must have gone down again, but Jean's head came out over the ledge and her little arms were reached down to mine. I grasped them and hung on—hung in water to my neck, while Jean and I both shouted lustily.

Help came quickly in the person of my father, who had seen the accident from one of the upper windows of the mill, and had come rushing out at a pace which had quite upset the operatives on his route. I was dragged up on the dam in a moment, and I can remember Jean standing beside my father, crying a little, and saying, "Please don' scold him, Mr. Hall. I made him do it."

I expected my father to scold her, but he took her up in his arms and held her to his breast.

"You're a brave little girl, Jean; you're a wonderful little girl," I heard him say, and he kissed her on the face, which he hardly ever did to me. Then homeward he led me, wet and miserable, and speculating silently on what it may mean to be thrashed within an inch of one's life.

But it proved to be a day of surprises. I was not thrashed within an inch of my life, nor at all; I was undressed, and rubbed with a warm towel, and put in bed, and given a large tumblerful of hot choke-cherry wine, because it was still early in the season and the water was cold. And my little sister Marjorie came and looked at me with large, dark comprehending eyes, and said, "I know, why you didn't get thrashed."

"Why didn't I get thrashed?" I ventured.

"Because you were so awful wicked When you're awful bad you don't get thrashed, its only when you're a little bad," she explained.

I had to stay in bed for the remainder of the day, which I think was more a punishment than a precaution so I had opportunity to think on Marjorie's philosophy. It was evident that she was right; I had the proof in my own experience; I had been very wicked, and had escaped punishment. My consciousness of evil-doing, however, rested lightly upon me I had escaped the strap which hung behind the kitchen door, and which was a much more immediate menace than any possible torments of the after world. I spent the remaining hours of the day in imagining situations in which I would save Jean from all kinds of disasters.

Next morning found me none the worse for my experience; indeed my dip over the dam already seemed a more or less vague recollection. After breakfast I made a journey to the big pine which grew at the very end of our little farm—a surviving monarch of the forest that in some way had escaped the locust cloud of axmen which had swarmed through the country twenty years before.

Perhaps it was as I lay under the great pine on that sunny summer morning and watched the filmy clouds float gently overhead that I caught my first glimpse, shyly, wonderingly, through the golden gates of romance. It was a vision of Jean; a vision which has remained with me through the years, growing, thrilling in my moments of happiness, fading in my hours of darkness, but at no time quite obscure. Perhaps it was my first glimpse of that vision which brought me on that morning to my feet where the great pine's swaying lacework of sun and shadow patterned the green grass and set my heart lilting with the joy of being alive.

I was about to shape my lips for a whistle when I became conscious of a presence. It was Jean, her golden locks held together by a midget sunbonnet, eave for some vagrant curls which nestled against the peach-pink bloom of her cheeks; her chubby bare feet seeking cover in the grass.

"I saw you going to the big tree," she explained, "so I comed too."

"Uh-huh," I commented cautiously, being gripped with a sudden sense that this young woman had led me into difficulties only a day ago. Men cannot be too careful.

She sidled toward me. "Do you know what you have to do for yesterday?" she queried.

"No," I said, with some misgiving, thinking that possibly my behavior had been reported to the Lanes to my disadvantage.

"Grandma says when a young lady saves a young gentleman, he has to marry her," she said, speaking very slowly at first, but finishing her sentence with a little run. "So you have to marry me."

She was beside me now, and her face was radiant with the excitement of her secret.

"But I can't marry you! Only grownups do that!" I protested.

"Won't we be grownups some day?"

"I guess so," I admitted. And then with a sudden burst of resolution I added, "And then I'll marry you."

She held her face up to me and I leaned over and kissed it shyly. Then, hand in hand, we retraced our way down the cowpath, along the rows of sprouting corn, by the stables and past our house. Jean led me to her own home, which was next to ours, down the road.

"You have to ask mamma," she said, as our little figures dropped their shadows across Mrs. Lane's kitchen floor.

This was more than I had bargained for. I was beginning to discover that Miss Jean was a young woman of action as well as decision. But I was game.

"Mrs. Lane," I said, bracing my legs for the ordeal, "I-want-to-marry-Jean."

Jean's mother looked at me with a smile that broadened until it broke into open laughter.

"I am afraid you are very precocious children," she remarked. I didn't know what that meant, but she gave us each a doughnut, and we went away happy, Jean twirling here on her finger for a wedding ring.

CHAPTER II

That same summer I began going to school. Perhaps I should say that John Lane and I began going to school, as it was something of a joint adventure. We talked of it together for weeks before the great event. At that time my objective in life, in so far as I had one, was to be a locomotive engineer, but John had elected to be the owner of a woolen mill—blandly overlooking the little question of capital—and we discussed our school training in the light of these ambitions.

On the eventful morning I remember my father coming into the loft and leaning over my bed, where I feigned sleep. "Purr wee mannie," I heard him say, dropping into the Scotch tongue which he reserved for moments of emotion, "it's a long road he's starting on, and a hard one, too, or he'll no be like the rest o' us." My mother scoured me well, and dressed me in a clean new suit and took my cheeks between her hands and kissed me, and told me to work hard and grow up a good man like my father. At the gate I met John, and together we started down the turnpike of life.

I spent the day becoming accustomed to my new environment, and marveling over a certain bald spot on the teacher's head which shone resplendent when the light struck it a certain way, and wondering what possible advantage it could be to a locomotive engineer to know that A had two slanting legs tied together in the middle.

Two years later Marjorie and Jean started going to school, and we were proud boys indeed as we led them up the aisle to the master's desk.

In those days, when large families were still considered proper, two children were a comparatively small impediment; indeed, it was commonly said among the townspeople that the smallness of my father's family had made it possible for him to pay for and clear his farm. At any rate my mother was a person of leisure by comparison with neighbor women who were trying to clothe, clean, and discipline ten or twelve children apiece.

The Lanes were in the same happy circumstances as ourselves, and being also our nearest neighbors, a considerable friendship had sprung up between the two families. This developed as we children grew older and had mutual interests in studies and sports. Jack—he was Jack now—and Jean often came over to our house on a winter's evening, bringing their school books, and the four of us sat about our big kitchen table poring over our studies or throwing or intercepting furtive glances between Jack and Marjorie, and, I may confess, between Jean and Frank. Jean was fair, with large blue eyes and clear pink cheeks and lips that always made me think of roses. They seemed always as delicate and tremulous as a rose leaf after rain.

At eight o'clock we would close our books, and mother would say, "Marjorie, you may bring up a basin of apples," or perhaps it would be a dozen ears of roasting corn, and we would sit about the fireplace, munching in great happiness. Then we would have a game of blind man's buff, in which I had a way of catching Jean, or button, button, who's got the button? or hide-the-handkerchief. And at nine Jack and Jean would leave for home, and we would go with them to their gate, and I would help Jean where the drifts were deep. And Marjorie and I would walk back arm in arm, and she would talk an unnecessary lot about Jack.

Jean's first poem was written about this time. She developed it one night while ostensibly busy at her studies, and slipped it into my hand when we parted in front of her house. I hurried home, but my mother and Marjorie sat so close to the lamp that I had no opportunity to read it until I went upstairs to bed. Then I smoothed the crumpled little sheet and read—

When I am old
And very tall
I hope my name
Will be Mrs. Hall.

I lay awake for hours that night, joyously piecing together bits of rhyme, but I was no versifier, and had to be content with prose. I put it in very matter-of-fact form on my slate, which I managed next day to leave on Jean's desk:

"Your proposal is accepted.—F. H."

When I was twelve Granny Lane died, and after that Mr. and Mrs. Lane often came over, too. As we worked at our lessons we would hear the restless clicking of our mothers' knitting needles, while our fathers

KICK THEM OUT

About the worst specimen of humanity that crawls around over the universe, is the smooth-tongued shark who makes a practice of selling worthless stocks and bonds to women who have suddenly come into possession of a legacy through the death of a relative, usually the husband.

In most cases the women have never been schooled in the matter of handling money. Always protected from the gruelling thrusts of the world, from its pitfalls and dishonest practices, it is no wonder they fall easily under the influence of the skunk who promises large returns and easy days from their investments.

In every city are scores of so-called investment houses where every morning is conducted a school of salesmanship for the purpose of training high-powered salesmen to go out and separate the unwary from their money. Country papers are carefully scanned for information that will enable them to call at the home of the widow shortly after the demise of her mate. The expression of a little hyproeritical sympathy and her confidence is soon gained, and once gained it is comparatively easy to unload shares in some worthless enterprise that promises to bring rich returns. In nine cases out of ten it means the loss of both principal and interest.

Many a bereft woman can testify in the midst of her grief of having trusted her entire fortune into the hands of one of these sharks, and instead of comfort and security in her declining days, she was forced to again become a breadwinner. All this paper can do is to sound a solemn warning to beware of this merciless tribe. Consult your banker if you have money to invest and in every case where their advice is followed it will be found no mistake has been made.

BLAME INDIGESTION FOR COLIC IN HORSE

Colic in horses usually means indigestion. It may consist simply of a few spasmodic pains from which the animal quickly recovers, or the indigestion may terminate in inflammation of the bowels which often proves fatal within 24 hours. Some forms of indigestion are complicated by bloating, and the internal pressure may rupture the animal's stomach or cause it to die of suffocation.

Most cases of colic can be prevented by careful feeding. Sudden changes of feed should be avoided. Also, feed, in a stage of curing, such as new oats, newly cut grass, and new corn, is always dangerous for horses. Heavy grain, such as corn, should have bran or oats added to give it greater bulk and render it lighter.

It is a good practice in feeding work horses during hot summer months to precede the evening grain ration with an allowance of hay. This gives the animal time to become somewhat rested and cooled, and the more concentrated feed will be much less likely to cause indigestion. The drinking of a liberal amount of cold water is likely to chill the intestines and cause colic.

The symptoms of colic are too well known to need description. The trouble, however, is complex and unless recovery is rapid a veterinarian should be called. One quart of raw linseed oil mixed with two tablespoonfuls of turpentine, if given at an early stage of the colic, will help remove the undigested material from the horse's bowels and thereby give relief.

A common method of drenching a horse is to pass a loop in the end of a rope around the upper jaw just back of the incisors. The other end of the rope may then be fastened so that the horse's head will be raised and the medicine, when poured into its mouth, will run down into the animal's throat. Oil should be given slowly, a swallow at a time; and upon indication of choking, the head must be instantly released, as the inhaling of oily preparations into the lungs is likely to cause pneumonia.

Colics which are apparently mild at the beginning may quickly develop into dangerous complications, and a colic that exists for 12 hours will often kill the animal. Colics which are caused by a twist or tie in the intestines or a rupture of some portion of the bowels are incurable.

Best Time for Grooming Work Horse Is at Night

The best time for grooming a horse is at the close of the day's work, unless the work has been exhaustive and the animal is very tired; in this case it should be allowed to rest first. By giving the animal a thorough grooming at night, it will need but a light grooming in the morning, simply to remove the dirt and produce a cleanly appearance.

The horse should be cool and dry. Begin grooming at the left side of the neck, immediately behind the left ear, thoroughly brushing out the coat, moving the brush in the direction that the hair lies; if dirt is excessive and sticks rather close, it may be necessary to move the brush in a circular direction.

To use the brush to the best advantage, it is advisable to stand at some distance from the horse, about arm's length, and holding the arm fairly rigid, lean a portion of the body right against the brush, thus forcing it through the hair. The brush should not be brought down with too much force upon those animals which have a tender skin. If the operator stands too close to the animal, and with his arm bent, he is not as apt to remove the dirt so effectively, since the bristles do not penetrate the coat.

Law enforcement, unlike law enactment, can't be overdone.

silence broken only by an outburst of triumph upon some clever strategy, or of chagrin when some deep-laid scheme had gone agley. Or sometimes the men would lay aside the board and, turning their chairs toward the fire, with their pipes well lit and glowing in the bowl, would begin to recount tales of their youth when they were part of the locust army of ex men that had swept through the land and in some strange way had left standing the great tree at the end of our farm. Then lessons were forgotten, and we children drew silently close to the fire, us, big-eyed and flushed with adventure, we entered the enchanted halls of Romance.

It was when I was fourteen, and about to enter the mill, that mother was taken sick. I had never known mother to be sick, and it was hard to understand the silent house and the darkened room. Mrs. Lane came over and took charge, and Marjorie stayed at home from school to help.

One day as I came up the path Marjorie met me with, "Mother wants you," so I went into the room. Father was there; it seems he had not gone to the mill that afternoon. He was sitting on a chair with his elbows resting on his knees and his cheeks between his hands, and a stray beam of light from the afternoon sun fell through the window and across his forehead. I wondered that I had never noticed before how old he was.

"Is that you, laddie?" my mother called in a thin, weak voice, and I came beside the bed. "My boy, my boy!" she said, and her face worked strangely, but she could say nothing more than just "my boy." Then I knelt beside her, not knowing what else to do, and she put one of her thin hands in my hair, and ran her fingers slowly, with a strange sort of caressing, up and down and about my head. And then an odd thing happened. She began to sing, in a strange, high, tremulous key. "The Lord Is My Shepherd." She did not sing it as you have heard it in church, but with a gentle rhythmic beat, like a lullaby, just as she had sung it to me many a time when I was a little child. After a while she seemed to fall asleep, and I slipped out again. Father had never moved, but beads of sweat were standing on his forehead.

Marjorie met me, round-eyed and pale, at the door. "Oh, Frank! Is mother going—is mother going—to die?" The last words were breathed rather than spoken.

"I don't know," I said, pushing by her and gulping at something in my throat. . . .

After mother's death Marjorie had to stay at home from school and take charge of the house. Marjorie had a vast native ability behind her deep black eyes, and in a short time matters were running as smoothly as could be hoped. I took a job in the mill—my dream of being a locomotive engineer had vanished almost with my baby teeth—and I was now working from seven in the morning until six at night for a consideration of three dollars a week. My father earned ten dollars a week, so we were in easy circumstances. There were no picture shows to tempt our spare quarters, nor automobiles to make us envious of our more fortunate neighbors.

Jack Lane also took a job in the mill, when I did. We graduated into long trousers together, and made our youthful excursions, arm in arm, into the town on Saturday nights. Jack was a handsome boy, with the fair skin and hair of his sister Jean, and many a coquettish eye was turned on him as we strolled about the little town, or even as he worked at his post in the mill. But while Jack was by no means above a mild flirtation, he used to dismiss such events with the comprehensive remark, "They're not in the class of Marjorie—or Jean."

We were eighteen when the accident happened to Peter Lane. He was working about a shaft, as he had done perhaps a thousand times before when some loose end of his clothing lapped around it. He clutched the shaft and whirled with it until the strength of his arms gave way; then his body flew out and his head struck a beam. . . . Outside the mill wheel placidly sprayed its mist of jewels as from the hand of a fairy prince.

I need not follow the events of the next year or so further than to say that my father developed a habit of putting on his good clothes in the evening and brushing his shoes, and walking over to see whether Mrs. Lane might not need some help with The affairs of the farm.

Jack found me one evening in September cutting firewood in the uncleared portion of our farm up by the big pine. The sun was almost setting; it hung like a blood-red globe through an avenue of maple trees, and its slanting light struck the autumn foliage with a wizardry of color and beauty. Jack sat down on a log and when I paused in my work he said, "You're too industrious, Frank; if you are not careful you'll die rich. Come over here; I want to talk to you."

I took a seat at his side and for a minute or two he punched the earth with a stick, as though uncertain how to open his subject.

"I guess you're as much awake as I am, Frank," he said at length, "so you know what's on the books."

"You mean about my father?" I was going to add, "and your mother," but I stopped; somehow it seemed out of place. But Jack filled it in,— "And my mother."

Then we both sat silent for awhile. "Has he said anything about it to you?" I ventured, "He hasn't mentioned it to me."

"No," said Jack. Then, with one of his unexpected touches of humor, —"I'm not sure that he knows about it yet. But mother does."

"Well, it's all right, isn't it?" I said, after we had had our laugh. "Your mother has been pretty much a mother to Marjorie and me since our own left us. She's O. K. I'm not complaining."

"Neither am I," Jack agreed, "so far as they are concerned. But just how about us? We've got to get out."

"Why?"

Jack turned his full blue eyes on me with a sort of pity. "Do you think Marjorie is going to play second fiddle to a new mother? You don't know your sister, Frank."

In a moment I knew he was right. He had not asked me if I thought that Jack would play second fiddle to a new father, but that, too, may have been in his mind.

"Well, what are we to do about it?"

"Go West!" he said, emphatically. "Go West! I am beginning to think it's the only thing for a young fellow to do, anyway. What is there here for us? Drudge away in the mill, seven to six, seven to six, seven to six, seven to six, week in, month in, year in; then, some day, caught on a shaft, and they stop the mill just long enough to untangle your remains. And that is life! By G—d, Frank, it's not life—as I see it—as I'm going to see it!"

I turned to him in surprise; it was the first time I had heard him use such an expression. His teeth were set; his thin lips were pressed together; his eyes were big and luminous in the twilight; his pose was a picture of resolution, even of defiance. All unknown to me, Jack Lane had become a man, and his exclamation had had more of prayer than of profanity in it.

Presently he continued: "We can go out to that new country, west of Manitoba, and take up a homestead each. In a few years we will have land enough to make a dozen of these Ontario farms. Others are doing it—so can we. And it won't be so hard for us. The worst thing, usually, is the loneliness; holding it down in a shack, three years or more, all by one's self. But we can get claims beside each other, and, although we'll have to have separate shacks, the girls will keep house for us, so it won't be so bad."

He had touched on something which had already come into my mind. "Will the girls go?" I questioned.

"Frank," he said, and again he seemed to speak from some superior wisdom of his own, "those girls will go with us anywhere we ask them—anywhere!"

"UNCLE" GEORGE SAYS NOT ONE IN A HUNDRED

Quotes Costs of Road Construction That Every Citizen and Tax Payer Should Know

To My Charlevoix County Friends:

The time is drawing nigh when I shall be leaving you and on my way to the sunny south. I am leaving a letter—it may or it may not be my last letter this season. I hope that you will like it and will take it in the same spirit in which I send my greetings.

Those of us who have been ignoring and hiding the divine possibilities thinking thereby to deceive God, and that we can make the grade without coming forth boldly and acknowledging that God is God—always has been and always will be God—are making a great mistake. This may sound queer to some of my friends who have known me for many years and I probably would not have said this forty years ago, for at eighty-four years of age things look different to the average man, much more so than at forty. All the same this is a pretty good time to sit up and take notice. Paul said, "Present your bodies a living sacrifice holy acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." The building of good reinforced concrete roads has been a good influence in my own life for good. Good reinforced concrete roads and good spiritual life or character are very much alike for you can depend upon both and both can be demonstrated. Many of my friends have often said to me as follows: "When we are motoring and come to a fine concrete road we say to those who are with us, or they say to us, 'this is one of Uncle George's good roads, we should thank him for it.'" When they say this I know immediately that these people are expressing their gratitude from an honest heart and are expressing it a second time, once to themselves and each other and now to me. The oftener we can and do express gratitude from an honest heart and with honest speech the world is the better for it and many of you who have read this have said

THE FOOL'S FIRE

Forest fires, according to an estimate made by Collier's, cost this country last year the enormous sum of $38,000,000, or an average of nearly $100,000 every 24 hours. Over 92,000 forest fires were reported, the most of which were caused by carelessness. Northern Michigan has just passed through some of the worst forest fires in years and through this destruction the work of the conservation department will be offset for years to come. There is still danger of these fires breaking out anew. It is coming the season of dry weather when the leaves will be falling to the ground, making the possibilities of fire greater than ever. Now is a good time to exercise great caution in preventing a repetition of the disaster of a few weeks ago.

LABOR

Another Labor Day has passed into history and with it is recorded the satisfying fact that nowhere in the world, and in no other age, has labor acquired the dignity or obtained the results of its efforts like it has in the United States at the present time.

A recent survey revealed that American wage earners were being paid on a larger scale than in any other nation, more of them were owners of their own homes and automobiles, and more of them were giving their children an education than of any other period in the world's history.

This is as it should be. Gradually, through American thought and foresight, the old conflict between capital and labor is being eliminated and a better understanding of the needs and uses of both brought about. Both have their distinctive fields and both are interdependent upon the other. National peace and prosperity depends upon their friendly relations, a policy which should be continued, even unto the end of our days.

THE LEGION DRIVE

Michigan has resolutely set itself to the task of raising $5,000,000 as an endowment fund for taking care of orphans of veterans of the World war, the disabled men and their children. It is an undertaking that bears with it the best wishes of our citizenship to provide care and comfort for those whom the war brought grief and misfortune. Ex-congressman Joseph W. Fordney, of Saginaw, is chairman of the drive and has called to his assistance the leading business and professional men of the state.

Since the close of that titanic struggle there has been a tendency in some quarters to claim the country was far from being grateful for the services our boys rendered this nation overseas. Now is a good time for the citizens of Michigan to refute this statement by oversubscribing the fund. We have only sympathy and love for those upon whom the hand of war was laid with so much sorrow and distress, and the purse-string of no patriotic citizen should be tightened in the face of this appeal.

BE ON YOUR GUARD

It is only during times of great political activity that the voice of socialism is raised so that it commands more than passing attention from the average individual. At such times, and under the wide latitude accorded political speakers, do they become bold enough to openly advocate the overthrow of existing conditions and an entire rule by state.

But the work of spreading socialistic propaganda is this country is going on all the time. While we are slumbering in supposed security the paid agents of the red soviet are practically making house-to-house canvass, sowing the seeds of discord that some day may flame into a real conflagration. American workers are the best paid in all the world. More of them own their own homes and enjoy greater comfort than of any other nation. Universal history reveals that many a birthright has been sold for a mess of pottage and it is well to bear in mind that only through eternal vigilance can we retain this wonderful heritage handed down to us at such great cost and sacrifice. Be on your guard and strike down socialism wherever it raises its slimy head.

THE COAL STRIKE

Not until the arrival of the colder weather months of the year will the full effect of the present coal strike be felt by the greater majority of our people. It is estimated that a loss of more than $5,000,000 is entailed each week through the idleness of the mines, which means that eventually this loss must be borne by every strata of society. Commerce and industry will suffer, but their loss in the main will be passed on to others, while the real force of the blow will be felt by the man who has a struggle on his hands, even under the best of conditions, to provide for his wife and family. To make his economic burden harder to bear, through this unnecessary squabbling between the mine owners and operators is criminal and should be made impossible. We are constantly preaching against socialism, yet we allow these men filled with greed to annually step in and make more socialists than all of the other agencies in the United States combined. It is high time the protests against coal strikes in this country were made so loud and so vehement that congress will adopt such measures necessary to put an end to future strikes in this country. Now is a good time to let your congressman know what your thoughts in the matter are.

WHO KNOWS THE COST OF ROADS

the same to me and I can assure you I appreciate it.

I wish to impress on you one fact that I do not wish to, nor am I taking the credit all to myself for getting these concrete roads. I had a great many years experience while I was a member of the road committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce for it was there I learned what I know about roads and then I brought it to you. I had great assistance from our own county workers in the concrete game in our county and I could not possibly have done it all alone. The credit really and honestly belongs to the Charlevoix County Good Road Association which enabled Charlevoix county to now have its 13 miles of this kind of road on the Dixie highway, although we bonded for 20 miles and it should have been finished several years ago.

Now comes a surprise! After all the publicity of the cost of these concrete roads to this county during the years 1914 to '17 and '18 it was made clear that the government paid 50%, the state 35% and the county 15% of the cost of building. Now stop and think for a moment and think seriously because sometimes it is well to ponder over past mistakes. These roads only cost us 15% of all the road costs. And here is another surprise. I am not going to give the author's name but I will say that he has been connected with your council and many of your public affairs. I asked him a few days ago if he knew what it cost to build the concrete road from Green Sky Hill to the Emmet county line. He said he did not know. Well, I said, suppose it cost $30,000 per mile, what did it cost this county? His reply was, why, $30,000, of course. I asked him if he did not know that the government paid 50% and the state 35% nnd he replied that he didn't know anything about the government paying anything but that he did know thnt the state owes us 50 or 60 thousand dollars and that we could not get it. We dwelt on state affairs at great length. I finally explained to him thnt the state was good and that we would get all that was coming to us in due time, and then I tried my d——est to make him understand that if the road cost $30,000 all the taxpayers of Charlevoix county would have to pay would be 15% of that or $4500 per mile, and that neither that nor the county road south, toward Antrim county line, has cost our county a single cent for upkeep, during all of these years. The road south of Charlevoix on the Dixie highway is one of the best pieces of work in the United States, especially the south half taking in the great grade on the Jim O'Brien hill just north of the Hilton school. I have called the attention of a great many old concrete road men and they all agree that they never rode on such a good grade nor around better curves than on that south road.

Nuff Sed—More to come as time glides on. In closing I might add these two little appropriate poems:

Whern thn Rnads?

Hords of autos now remind us
We should build our roads to stay
And departing, leave behind us
Kind that rnins don't wash away.

When our children pay the mortgage
Fathers made to haul their loads
They'll not have to ask the question
Here's the bonds, where are the roads?

Thn Windy Rnad

There's a long, long winding road
That never wearies me
A road I often travel when old friends I wish to see
That road is called "Sweet Memory"
So old, yet ever new,
And I oft in fancy wander there
To laugh and talk with you.

Yours truly,
Uncle George H. VanPelt.

BOYNE CITY MAN KILLED BY AUTO

Three Men in Bad Accident Near Moran, U. P.

Thomas McAbbe, an old resident of Boyne City, and Charles Oulette were killed and John Barney, a companion, lies near death's door at Moran, a few miles north of St. Ignace, the result of an auto accident last week.

The men had been in the employ of the W. H. White camps near Rudyard, and were on their way to Moran to secure a winter's contract. A big, mud-covered car attempted to pass their car on the wrong side of the road, with the result that it caught the front wheel of the McAbbe car and shoved it across the ditch onto a flat skidway of logs.

McAbbe and Oulette were found underneath the car so badly injured they died shortly afterwards. Barney was later found in the brush a short distance from the scene of the accident, where he had crawled in a semi-unconscious condition. He is now at Moran with slight hopes of recovery. The mud-covered car continued on its way, not even stopping to see how badly the McAbbe party were hurt.

REVIVE INTEREST IN GOOD HIGHWAYS

Good Roads Association to Meet Thursday Evening

After remaining inactive for several years, a movement is under way to revive and stimulate into action what is known as the Charlevoix County Concrete Road Association.

A meeting has been called for Thursday evening of this week at the Wolverine Hotel, Boyne City, at 7:00 p. m., standard time. The object of the meeting will be to re-organize, formulate working plans, and get behind a movement for still better roads in Charlevoix county.

One of the most important subjects to be discussed is the advisability of backing the movement to build a concrete road around Pine Lake. Other perplexing road problems will also be discussed.

If you are interested in better roads for Charlevoix county and the proper upkeep of those already constructed, meet with the bunch at the Wolverine Thursday evening.

PULLMAN CARS UNTIL OCTOBER 31

Begins Work of Lengthening Resort Season

The Pere Marquette railway has taken the first step in the general campaign to lengthen the summer tourist season in the Charlevoix and northern resort region by providing a through Pullman service out of Charlevoix until October 31.

The through Pullman will be operated at the close of the regular schedule September 20 and will be run daily except Sunday, the first southbound run being on Tuesday, September 22.

In other years the closing of the tourist season was usually set for late September and hundreds of cottage owners went to their winter homes weeks earlier than they wished because the through Pullman car service was discontinued. The new arrangement will allow them to remain through October, considered one of the most delightful months of the entire year.

Neighbors

By ROBERT STEAD

Author of "The Cow Puncher" and "Zon of the Y. D."

The story of Frank Hall and Jean Lane, neighbors in childhood in a little Ontario town; neighbors again, fifteen years later, on adjoining homesteads in the Saskatchewan country. The romance of their lives runs smoothly until something occurs which upsets all expectations—including those of the reader.

A story which breathes the spirit of the prairie and foothills country and whose characters are vividly alive. Interest grows from the start and reaches a climax of tension in the closing chapters. An outstanding novel by an outstanding writer.

THE PENCIL MAKES A FARM PAY BETTER

Farm Accounting Reveals Losing Methods and Points Way to Bigger Profits.

(From Banker-Farmer)

A farm cannot properly be called successful unless it pays a fair rate of interest on the investment and returns fair wages for the farmer's labor. Agriculture is considered by all odds the most important industry in the world, and yet in no other industry is the business end so neglected.

It is common to find a farmer with an investment of fifteen to twenty thousand dollars, yet does he keep books? Perhaps he may jot down a note now and then of an important deal, but this is of no value in an analysis of his business as a whole. No other industry, however small, is carried on without nooks of some sort.

Farming is a business and to be successful must be conducted in a businesslike way. The business man's mind should have indelibly printed upon it two questions: What profit is my business making? How can that profit be increased? To know the latter, one must find out the former; and to find out about profits requires the keeping of books.

It is not necessary for a farmer to have a course in bookkeeping. Almost every agricultural college in the country has issued a simplified farm accounting book which it sells at cost, and only a few minutes are required each day to jot down the day's happenings.

Accounts Increase Profits

Instances number a thousandfold where farmers have profited by knowing their business. Accounts kept by nineteen farmers in Illinois led them to improve the organization and operation of their farms in ways that added approximately $650 to their average net income in 1922, the seventh year they had kept accounts.

An Iowa farmer found at the end of the first year he kept books that crops fed to livestock brought more money than when sold outright. His figures showed that his cows were poor: compared with other farms in the state, he found the number of acres cultivated per man on his farm, as well as the number of acres per horse, were below average. He rented more land and replanned his fields, so that the crop areas per man and horse were increased. He sold some of his scrubs and bought good cows. The second year his income from the farm, after paying all expenses and interest on the money invested, had been increased over $350.

Costs Can Be Regulated

"I have discovered," says one farm bookkeeper, "that the kind of man you have on a job, as well as the particular team, often makes quite a variation in the cost of performing certain tasks. I have learned from the pages of my book that if I could have increased the yield of my wheat field by two bushels and my corn by five bushels I would have realized a substantial profit from them."

While the farmers may not be able to fix prices on their products, they do have a voice in determining the costs of production. To reduce this cost they must first know what the costs are.

The number of farmers who are keeping books on their business has increased remarkably in recent years, but the number of businesslike farmers is woefully small when listed alongside the sum total of the farmers in the country.

Inventory Is Indispensable

The basis of any system of farm accounting is the annual property list or inventory. It is the starting point of the farm records. One must take into consideration decreases or increases in the value of all property owned to gauge the progress of the business. Lacking facts as to the value of his property, no business man can form an accurate estimate of how he stands financially. Increased cash may be due to property which was sold, or increased debts may be due to improvements made. If a farmer is falling behind, the inventory will emphasize this fact. Often when a man is discouraged and thinks he is making no progress, his inventories will tell him that he is better off than he thought.

At the end of each year a financial statement is drawn off. This is the farmer's rating and no farmer with a good financial statement need fear walking into a bank and asking for a loan.

BANKERS HELP

A bank in Monrovia, Ind., tests seed corn for farmers. A basement room was fitted out last season for the purpose and 25,000 ears were tested for fifty-six farmers. One-fourth of the seed tested last year was unfit for seed. This year the percentage will run even higher. The work is done under the supervision of the high school agricultural teacher. He reports that the community will have a surplus of seed corn this year.

The banks of Conway, Ark., have offered prizes for the most marketable sweet potatoes produced on one acre of land. A first prize of $150 is offered, along with three district prizes of $50 each. The county agent and the banks are working out the details.

The County Bankers Association will help to employ a full time county leader this year for boys' and girls' club work in Calhoun, Cherokee and Buena Vista counties, Iowa.

Time waits on no man, but a slow watch sometimes make a good alibi.

Superintendent Coverdale received forty-two dollars from the treasurer of the Charlevoix County Fair as premium money for displays of school work at the fair. Charlevoix publie schools exhibited some fine work in drawings, paintings, manual training, pieces of art, Palmer method penmanship papers, and themes written on various subjects.

Substantial repairs have been made in the high school building this summer, such as plastering and calcimining the ceilings and walls. New plumbing fixtures and toilets have been installed.

Mr. Coverdale says: "There is no doubt that the students who have enrolled in the Charlevoix public schools this year will have the best educational training that can be provided, and know that they will be fit applicants for the colleges and universities of any state."

SURVEY BOAT MARGARET IN HARBOR

Will Dock in Detroit Ship Yards for Winter

The Margaret was part of the flotilla of submarine chasers operating out of Newport, R. I. during the late war. Before entering the government service as a submarine chaser, the Margaret was considered one of the prettiest and snappiest pleasure yachts afloat. She was built in the shipyards at Bay City for W. L. Douglas, widely known shoe man. She measures 158 feet from stern to bow and when owned by Mr. Douglas had two of the finest, luxurious furnished decks that ever were built on any craft of its type.

The Margaret will sail this week for Detroit ship yards where she will be put into dry dock for the winter. It will also be intereating to local mariners to known that William Green of Beaver Island, is captain of the boat, and is ulways pleased when he can anchor his ship in Round lake for a few days.

1925 FOOTBALL SQUAD PROMISING

MANY LETTER MEN REPORT FOR PRACTICE

Team Out for Northern Championship—First Game with East Jordan, October 3rd.

At the beginning of school last Monday, Coach Alldread issued a call for football candidates. Nearly twenty men reported for the first practice and this number was very encouraging to the coach, as half of them were players on last year's team.

One new candidate who reported for practice has had previous experienee and from all appearances is going to be of great assistanee to the new teom. This candidate ean do some real kicking, carry and pass the ball in fine shape, and shows mueh promise considering the time that he has practiced. He weighs nearly two hundred pounds and handles himself in a very aggressive manner.

Coach Alldread has lost but one player from the line of lost year's team and with the arrivol of some very promising material from the sophomore and freshmen classes the coach will have abundant material with which to build a line. These new youngsters are working hard for a position on the squod and will make some of the older men hustle to hold their positions as the season progresses and they gain experienee.

In the backfield Coach Alldread is working different eombinotions in an effort to find a quartette who can work together. At present the big problem is to find a quarter-back who can run the team and keep things interesting for the opposing players.

Following is this year's schedule:
October 3.—East Jordan here.
October 10.—Moncelona here.
October 17.—Troverse City there.
October 24. —Harbor Springs there.
October 31.—Petoskey here.
November 27.—Boyne City there.
October 14.—Cheboygan there.

Now then football fons, get out of the critie rut and help boost Charlevoix's team for this year's northern championship. The boys and their coach are working for Charlevoix and we hove got to work for them. It takes money to bring visiting teams here and moral support to win games. Let's do our part.

Don't forget the first game is with East Jordan, at Charlevoix, October 3rd. Let's go Charlevoix!

STILL BOOSTING FOR GOOD ROAOS

WANTED TO REST BUT FOUND IT IMPOSSIBLE

"Uncle" Geo. H. VanPelt Wants to See an 18-ft. Concrete Ribbon All Way Around Pine Lake

I eame here to rest. In fact, I came expecting to remain only a few days and then go on to Novia Scotia. But after a good and hearty supper nt Hallett's Hotel, my daughter, Sibyl, and I started for a walk down Bridge street. The first seven people we met, one after another said that they were mighty glad to see us and hoped that we would stay all summer. And here I am—the summer all gone.

I immediately started talking good reinforced concrete roods around Pine lake and found oll eager for it, which accounts for the many letters I have written and here goes another.

I think I find most help in trying to look on all interruptions and hinderonces to the work that I have planned out to accomplish os discipline, and to trust that time will be given me to finish it. To be courageous and keep quiet obout it although many times I often find hard work to do it. In other words—if at first you do not succeed try, try, again. So I know that it will only be a question of time before we will be riding around Pine lake on a good reinforced concrete road.

Remember this is not a one-man's job—we all have to put our shoulders to the wheel and work with a vim if we expect to get it.

We read in Ecclesiastics IX, 10, "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with all thy might." All taxpayers must unite, and fight for the right with all their might. They must demand from those in authority that they will no longer stand for the waste of their road tax money. If you could hear oll that I heor and could talk with as many men who are conneeted with ond engaged in road work as I, and hear what they have to say, you would exclaim Amen, so mote it be. In a former letter I made a mistake in quoting the cost of our eonerete road as I learned today the road only cost us $26,000 per mile instead of $30,000. As we only paid 15% of the cost of the road it only cost the county $3,900 per mile instead of $4,500. So you see how much we have lost by not boilding the balance of the seven miles at that price. We bonded for $350,000. One hundred thousand for Charlevoix, $100,000 each for Boyne City and East Jordan, and $50,000 for Boyne Falls. The thirteen miles of road that we have built has cost us $3,900 per mile, amounting to $50,700, which leaves us virtually $50,000 to finish the road on Dixie Highway which should be done right away quiek. I don't know whether you have heard this or not. It is a dead sure thing that it will do you no harm to hear it again, and it may help you to keep it in mind for future reference.

"Uncle George" and Charlie Ferguson returned from a trip to their old homes in Norwood in seventeen minutes, both sober and happy. Now compare this with old time means of travel by team, carringe, wagons on old dirt roads and the best time ever made to Charlevoix was one hour nnd twenty minutes and often when the weather was bad it took from three to four hours to make the trip. Surely comparisons are odious.

You old timers will remember how Uncle George used to talk about weeds. Cut them down nnd burn them up just before they go to seed was one of his many slogans. And while Uncle George sweors occasionally he can't do this weed question justice for they are growing all over the world. He tells a story of the early days when Grandfather Meech, his son, Fred, and Fred's son, "Dar," were all preparing to go to the Jordan river on their frequent fishing trip. Grandmother Meech did not want her husband to go because she wonted the garden weeded and hoed. Grandmother was stubborn and said, "Well, I've been married nigh onto 60 years and I haven't heard nothing but fish, fish, fish," to which Grandfather replied, "Well, I've been morried nigh onto the same length of time and all that I have heard is weeds, weeds, weeds." This story is a fact and occurred in my presenee. Grandfather Meech was a man of large physique, good form, and great strength and his name appears in the state history of Vermont as being the best brook trout

TWO KINOS OF COMMUNITY CRITICS

NORTHERN EDITOR CLASSIFIES BOTH KINDS

Is Right When He Says Every Community Has Them—Charlevoix Has Her Quota

The following orticle clipped from the News, published at Newberry, upper peninsula, is obout the best of its kind we have read for many a day. We publish it for the benefit of our readers. If it strikes home, just realize how your neighbor has you sized up. If you are a community booster, it expresses your feelings toward the person who you have heard ranting and raving in the same manner as described in the article. Charlevoix has her quota of the same kind of guys. Every community has them—they see no good in anyone nor anything. Never contribute a cent for public good but are always on the job to reap the benefit derived from the other fellow's efforts. Their little ol' hammer is always knocking, knocking. The article fully describes them:

"Every community is blessed and cursed with two kinds of public kickers. It would be better, perhaps, to class the one as honest critics—men who are interested in the public weal and who make conscientious effort to assist public officials to avoid mistakes by advising with them and offering suggestions where improved methods may be employed; condemning that which they consider to be wasteful of public funds, through unnecessary expenditures, men who intelligently and honestly investigate rumors of wrong-doing hy those in office and who are as ready to defend a malinged public official as they are to condemn one who deserves condemnation. Such men are a blessing to the communities in which they live. They are the men who build substantially and permanently—for constantly improved conditions in public and private life. They are men who are actuated by lofty motives; whose aim it is to assist as citizens in making and maintaining a clean nnd healthful community in every respect. They are an inspiration to those selected to serve the public and are enabled through conscientious effort to exercise a tremendous influence for good.

Behold a fellow creature fashioned on another plan:

Low, suspicious, vicious—more a Devil than a man.

This creature is ever present and, ever conspicious with his ever rendy falsehood. He is known as the knocker. He sees no good in anybody or anything. He is every community's worst affliction. No mnn or woman in public or private life is safe from the villnnious outpourings of his infnmous tongue. He is among the first to find the visiting stranger who may be contemplating investment or perhaps residence in the community. The knocker has a sadness in his voice nnd a suspicion of weeping in his heart that gets an audience with the man who is not an expert in detecting the chronic vilifier, and in

WHAT HAPPENED TO MAN WHO BORROWS PAPER

An exchange contains the following article relating what happened to a persistent borrower of the local newspaper. Take warning if you belong to this closs:

"A neighbor man who lives in Antrim county is so stingy he won't buy his country paper, but sends his little boy next door to borrow it. Recently the little fellow ran over a stand of bees in his hurry nnd they stung him until he looked like a swollen wart. His father heard his cries and broke into run after the child, running into a barbed wire fence ond tenring a $5 pair of pants all to pieces. The cow took advantage of the fence being down and went into the field nnd ate so much it killed her. The old woman ran out to see what was the matter and turned over a gallon jnr of cream and drowned 20 little chickens. The baby crawled in the cream and then into the living room and ruined a $25 carpet. The old dog broke up eleven sitting hens and the calves got out and chewed the tail off of five shirts."

It seems to us it would have been much better had the neighbor paid $2.00 for his country poper.

NINE VITAL FACTS

Here, in brief form, we present for your information nine vital facts underlying the success of Dodge Brothers, Inc., and the goodness and value of their product.

Dodge Brothers, Inc., consider these facts so fundamentally important to the motor car buyer that they will be repeated, from time to time, until every newspaper reader in America may be presumed to have read them:

Dodge Brothers, during the past eleven years, have built and sold more than one million four hundred thousand motor cars—and more than 90% of these cars are still in service. This record requires no comment. It stands impressively alone in motor car history.

It has never been Dodge Brothers policy to build yearly models. When an improvement, that is really an improvement, is discovered, it is made at once. Their slogan, "Constantly Improved But No Yearly Models" is familiar the world over.

Dodge Brothers build one chassis and only one. This policy materially lowers manufacturing cost. It also enables Dodge Brothers engineers to concentrate their entire time and thought on the betterment of this one type.

Dodge Brothers have never had an "off year" or an "off car." This is because they have never used the public as a testing ground for "new models" or lowered the quality of their product in the slightest degree. Every change has been an improvement on the original design.

Dodge Brothers pioneered in building the first all-steel open car and the first all-steel closed car. These epochal developments have saved Dodge Brothers owners many millions of dollars by materially prolonging motor car life and by effecting marked economies in manufacture. This construction has also reduced incalculably the danger from accident and fire.

Dodge Brothers sell directly through their dealers to the purchaser. There are no sectional distributing agencies to increase the cost of distribution and the cost of the car.

Dodge Brothers have never given so-called "free service." The car is sold at a fair and honest price. Nothing is added to this original purchase price to pay for service that the owner may never need.

Dodge Brothers Dealers were pioneers in unanimously adopting the flat rate service system. By this system, the owner knows in advance what any service job will cost. There are no unpleasant surprises in his bills.

The sturdiness and long life of Dodge Brothers Motor Car is reflected in its resale value. Comparatively few Dodge Brothers Motor Cars are advertised in the resale columns of the newspapers. The values they bring testify unanswerably to their goodness—and the public's belief in their goodness.

The purchase of an automobile is a serious and important business. The time has passed when transient novelties can lead a thoughtful buyer to overlook the great essentials of motor car worth.

A few of these essentials are clearly outlined above. They go far to explain why Dodge Brothers name is accepted, the world over, as the hall mark of dollar-for-dollar value.

AT THE MOVIES

Shearer-Nagel Together Again in "Excuse Me"

Norma Shearer and Conrad Nagel renew screen acquaintances in "Excuse Me," Rupert Hughe's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production which is coming to the Palace Theatre next Monday and Tuesday. They are the hero and heroine of a story that sparkles with farcical situations which take place on a trans-continental train.

The last time the two players appeared together was in Mouto Bell's "The Snob." In "Excuse Me" they both had their first fling at comedy, and both had the time of their lives making the picture.

Others in the cast are Renee Adoree, Walter Hiers, John Boles, Bert Roach, William V. Mong, Edith Yorke and Eugene Camerou.

"Excuse Me" is a screen version of the stage farce by Mr. Hughes, which was one of the most successful of its kind in theatrical history. Alf Goulding directed.

Lincoln Film to Be Shown Here

"Abraham Lincoln," the picture which has been the sensation of the movie world, is announced this week as a First National picture to be shown at the Palace Theatre next Saturday and Sunday.

"Abraham Lincoln" was more than two years in the making and at times as many as 2,500 people appear in the cast. It deals with the life of Lincoln from his birth, through his boyhood, the presidency and the strife of the Civil War, depicts the surrender of Lee and shows life in Washington after the war and finally his assassination.

The production has been hailed as an artistic and dramatic sensation by the national press and is generally conceded to be one of the most important pictures ever brought to the screen.

The picture was produced by Al and Ray Rockett.

When I laid the proposal before Marjorie, she listened with a complacency which suggested that the idea was not entirely new to her.

"I will go and keep house for you," she said, frankly, "if Jack and Jean go too."

It was Sunday afternoon before I had an opportunity to speak to Jean. She was seventeen now, and my wondering eyes had of late beheld her trim girlishness giving way to the first entrancing curves of womanhood. Her light step, her grace of motion, her clear, pink skin, her sensitive lips half parted over rows of well-formed teeth, her eyes large and dreamful, all whispered in some vague way in the ears of my boyhood that Jean was not as other girls; whispered of Jean the artist—Jean the idealist! Jean had not gone into the mill with the other girls of her age; she had continued longer at school, and then had taken up the study of music. Among the limbo of personalities which drifts into the byways of little towns, she had found, too, an artist; a man apparently of talent, who had sought the seclusion of our little milling center in Ontario for reasons which were his own. He had immediately recognized the artistic strain in the girl and had bent his own genius to call it forth with no thought of reward other than the joy of seeing it grow.

"You are wonderful, Miss Lane," he had said, after the first few lessons. "You have perspective and proportion, which are the greatest things in life."

"I think I am a very stupid pupil," Jean had murmured in answer. "You are very patient with me—and all for nothing."

"For nothing! You leave me your debtor! You pay me a thousand times! You have given back to me a purpose in life—an excuse for being alive! Ah, Miss Lane, you do not know—yet—how empty a life can be. But you are an artist and some day you will dip your brush in pain—perhaps in sorrow and regret—and after that you will paint. It is the law."

Jean told me these things that Sunday afternoon, and asked me if I knew what he meant. I did not; but I knew the artist had given Jean an instant's glimpse into life, and it was none the easier for me to suggest the loneliness of a homestead "somewhere west of Manitoba."

"Do you think you could dip your brush in—in the Saskatchewan?" I ventured.

"I know," she said, simply. "Jack has told me. I will go. If you—and Marjorie—go."

It seemed to me that the reference to Marjorie came almost as a second thought; at any rate, I flattered myself with that idea.

We had no difficulty in persuading my father and Mrs. Lane to fall in with our ideas; in fact, they accepted our plan with some enthusiasm. Father even insisted upon selling one of the farms and giving the proceeds to establish ourselves in the West. It was little enough, as we were to learn in due course, but Jack and I had also saved something of our earnings, and during this particular fall and winter we were unusually penurious.

"Nail down every dollar," said Jack, and we all were busy with our nailing.

We prepared to start for the West about the end of April, and, as it came about, my father and Mrs. Lane arranged a domestic event on the very day of our departure. The affair was quiet and unpretentious; ceremony in the church at eleven, and dinner at Mrs. Lane's—Mrs. Hall's, I should say—where Marjorie and Jean served, and we all tried to live in a joyous glow which was strangely shot through with streaks of unhappiness. That night at six we left for the West.

After two days and two nights we passed through Winnipeg. It was in the gray of dawn, and we did not get off, but through the window we caught a glimpse of lines of lights down a wide and winding street.

Daylight saw us on the prairies; not the "baldheaded," to be sure, but the well settled country of the Portage plains, where industry was already fructifying in trim houses and barns, and orderly, well-kept farms. And yet here and there was now the unbroken sweep of the prairies, and our eyes danced and something caught our breath as we tried to imagine what they meant. We knew what it was for men to spend their lives in clearing ten, twenty, or forty acres, but here lay a kingdom fresh from the hand of God and ready for the plow. And a piece of that kingdom in the still farther West—320 acres of that kingdom—was to be ours!

"And as much more as I can buy from year to year," said Jack, as though picking up the thread of our thoughts, his face alive with enthusiasm. "Boy!" he said, hanging me on the knee, "there's no limit; there's no limit!" I clasped his hand in mine with a pressure that told more than words.

All that day we continued through the prairies, with here and there a belt of scrubland to cut across the vision. All that day we rambled more and more in the field of fancy—happy imaginings of the things we would do with those farms of ours which lay out there, somewhere to the westward, waiting only to be claimed. And as evening came on we watched our first prairie sunset. There were no quick dusk and darkness, as in the East; the sun hung long in the western sky, and as it descended swung steadily to the northward. As it fell feather-like ruffles of cloud almost overhead burst to color in the richest mauves and crimsons, and long ribbons in the west floating like golden islands in a sea of amber, caught the glow and silently unfolded a glory of pink and yellow and orange and crimson and burnished brass.

I turned to look at Jean. She sat by the window where the yellow light blocked out her fine profile against the drab background of the car, and mingled in the richer yellow of her hair. And her blue eyes were all a-glisten, as the long, fine lashes drooped and rose and drooped and rose. And in the corner of her eye I saw a little pearl gather and grow until, unrestrained, it stole across her cheek.

"Regina!" shouted Jack; "Regina!" springing to his feet and beginning to gather up our effects, for we had agreed that this should be the base of our search for land. We were ready to disembark by the time the train had come to a stop, and our first glimpse of the prairie city was that of buildings silhouetted against a saffron sky, and wide streets and open spaces and the foundation work of the metropolis that was to be.

CHAPTER III

Jack and I were early about in the morning, intent upon making our prospecting arrangements. We asked a casual question of an early morning lounger at a livery stable—some of these fellows seemed to get up at daylight for the express purpose of lounging—and he flung his voice over his shoulder into the recesses of the barn. "Jake!" he called; "two guys here to see yuh."

Jake was evidently feeding his horses, for we heard the rustle of hay and caught a whiff of its fragrance, but presently he came stumping down the main thoroughfare between the stalls. He was a short man with an over-developed waistline—quite the opposite of the lean and lanky Westerner our imaginations had been picturing.

"Well," he said, bringing his weight to a poise on his pudgy feet, and scrutinizing us closely through shrewd, half-closed eyes. "You fellows lookin' fer land?"

"That's what," said Jack, who was already beginning to pick up some of the direct vernacular of the West. "We want a man who knows the country to show us about."

"I'm your gazabo," said Jake. "I know every badger hole from Esteven to Prince Albert. I know every patch of stinkweed from Arcola to Swift Current. I've druv this country till there ain't a coyote between Montana an' the Saskatchewan river but knows the rattle o' my bone-shaker. You boys hit luck with your first throw—runnin' into me like this." Then, with a sharp squint through his calf-closed

"All Right, Jake, We'll Take Your Offer. When Do We Start and Where Do We Go?"

eyes, and dropping his voice to a confidential note, "How much money you got?"

"Enough," said Jack, "but none to waste. What are your rates?"

Jake seemed to be turning a problem heavily in his mind. "I like you fellows," he said at length, "and I make you a special price. Usual I get seven dollars a day an' found fer drivin', an' fifty dollars for locatin.' That's fer each gent. Now I calls you two boys one gent an' makes you the same price—seven bones an' a grubstake whether we hit oil or not, an fifty plunks extra if we do. An' we will. No question about that. I know two claims that's jus' sittin' up an' yelpin' fer you lads to come along."

We withdrew and talked the matter over for a few minutes. In spite of Jake's unprepossessing appearance and boastful language there was something appealing about him. We returned presently with our minds made up.

"We'll take your offer, Mr.—" Jack commenced.

"Jake," he interrupted. "No mister."

"All right, Jake, we'll take your offer. When do we start, what do we take, and where do we go?"

Jake looked interrogatively at the morning sun. Then, "Had breakfast?" he demanded.

"No."

"Well, fill up. You must be feelin' pretty well bored out after your trip. I'll start get the outfit together. I got a team of huskies that's tougher than Little Eva in an Uncle Tom's Cabin show, an' a democrat bone-shaker that scuds across the prairie like the shadow of a cloud." (He had his poetic turns, had Jake). "I got a tent, but you'll need your own blankets. After breakfast we'll go over to a store an' buy a lay-out o' grub."

"How long will we be away?"

"Well, nat'rally we have to figger on drivin' out a good spell. Ain't no free land nowhere close to a city, a C-I-T-Y"—he spelled it out, with a whimsical mixture of pride and ridicule—"like this. Now I've a spot in my mind I think'll suit you boys right down the calf of the leg. It'll take us about three days to go, an' a day to look it over, an' three days to come back, which knocks the hell out o' a week, don't it? An' it might be longer."

"You see, we have our sisters here. We have to give them some idea—"

"Sisters!" Jake exclaimed, evidently in some panic. "They ain't goin' along?"

"No. They'll stay here until we get settled."

"That's all right, then," said Jake, visibly relieved. "Well, you tell 'em a week or ten days."

We related the morning's transactions to the girls, who accepted the situation with resignation, as it had been agreed that they would stay in Regina while we did our prospecting. They would at once set about to find cheaper lodgings, or a couple of rooms where they could keep house; they insisted that they were quite able to shift for themselves. They would leave word of their new location at the hotel.

The forenoon was well gone by the time we had finished our arrangements and bought our "grub," which consisted mainly of canned goods and other preparations that would not spoil in the heat. The democrat was a two-seated affair, and the tent and supplies were bundled on behind, or laid in the bottom. We noted that Jake added a rifle to the equipment. Then we started off, Jack in the front seat with the driver, and I alone behind.

During the day we discovered that our guide was something of a philosopher. He had many shrewd remarks to make about immigrants, and homesteaders, and the business of settling up a country. It appeared that he had no very regular scale for his services. This came out in his account of the location of a young Englishman whom he described as Mr. Spoof.

"He had a carload of baggage," said Jake, with Western extravagance of language, "and when I suggested that he start up a second-hand clothing store he said, 'Ah, I'm afraid you're spoofin' me.' So I named him Mr. Spoof, an' he gets mail now addressed that way."

Jake turned in to a farm place in mid-afternoon for water. We could see the farmer seeding in his field; he made no stop on our account, and if he had a wife she remained indoors. We pumped us much water as the horses would drink, and filled our water keg, and then sat for a while in the shade of one of his buildings, chewing at straws and gazing into the blank distance. There was a supreme satisfaction, a fine relaxation and relief, in idling in such an hour. I was impressed with the off-hand way in which we seemed to have taken possession of the man's farm, and his complete indifference to our presence.

Jake pulled his team out from the side of a haystack, where they had been feeding with as little concern as if the hay were their own, and presently we rattled off down the trail again.

On account of our afternoon rest Jake drove until almost sundown. We were now in a slightly rolling country, and suddenly he swung from the trail and pulled up on the top of a little knoll. From this little vantage point we could see the unbroken sweep of the prairies, miles and miles in every direction.

"Is this the bald-headed?" I asked in a low voice, as though touching on something almost sacred.

"This is the bald-headed," he answered, solemnly. "See, everywhere sky an' grass—sky an' grass. Ah, there, there's an exception." I followed the line of his extended arm. Far across the plains I saw a flashing light, as of a heliograph.

"The window of a settler's shanty, twenty miles from here, if it's a foot," he explained. "Look how green the grass is. The evenin' light makes it that way, somehow."

It was true. The grass had taken a deeper shade of green with the light falling aslant across it. The sun hung like a yellow ball in a sky of champagne, and the long shadows of our horses and wagon streached down the slope of the little hill. But most impressive of all was the silence, a silence as of heaven and earth brooding, brooding, brooding over this scene as they had done from the dawn of time; eye, and before that, far into the vague aeons of eternity. . . . I wished that Jean might have been there.

IT has been estimated that more than $400,000,000 has been taken out of circulation by folks who, for some reason or other, prefer to keep their cash in safe deposit boxes, old socks, under mattresses or in some other place. 3 per cent the average interest paid by banks—on $400,000,000 amounts to $12,000.000 a year in interest lost by these folks who will not use the banks. If you have been keeping your money out of circulation, stop it now. Get it into the bank, where it will do you and someone else good.

LOCAL MEN NAMED CROP OBSERVERS

One of Hundreds Chosen to Report Local Conditions

Appointment of George Meggison of Charlevoix, and Arthur Sheppard of Charlevoix, as crop observers in Charlevoix county for the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation Index, is announced from Chicago by P. V. Ewing, director of research for the Foundation and editor of the Index. They will form a link in the nation-wide chain of county agricultural observers elected because of their first-hand knowledge of farming conditions nnd their nbility to observe these and intelligently interpret them.

The Index, to which the observers from this county will contribute, is a compilation of the monthly reports of 3,650 observers in every section of the country, and this number is being added to steadily. All the observers are practical, thinking, farm-minded men, each chosen because of the opportunities he has to observe the needs of agriculture in his own locality and for his ability to apply economic principles to eurrent farm problems. As a group, they represent a cross-section of the thoughts that the man in the furrow is thinking, and their joint analysis of existing agricultural conditions, as expressed in the Index, is considered a forward step in helping agriculture help itself.

Next Monday, September 28, is the date when Dr. J. Leahy, the Optometrist, will be at the Hotel Charlevoix. He will remain two days.—Adv. 38-t2.

KINGSLEY BANK VISITED BY BURGLARS

Loot Taken Reported to Be Over Two Thousand

Some time during Monday night of last week robbers gnined entrance to the bank at Kingsley through a rear door, burned through the steel door of the vault and escaped with approximately $2,300 in cash and securities. The entire loss of the bank is covered by insurance.

The robbery was one of the best planned and best executed jobs of its sort accomplished about the Grand Traverse region for many years. No clue was left behind and every precaution was taken to make as little noise as possible.

The crime was not discovered until the following morning, when the bank was opened by employes. It is thought three men took part in the robbery. They had backed a big car up to the rear of the building and then carefully took out a window. An acetylene tank was carried through the window. With this the vault was opened. After systematically looting the bank, the robbers replaced the furniture and window and drove away. There is no way of telling what time during the night the robbery occurred.

Cities and towns in all directions were notified in an effort to apprehend them, but to date no trace has been found. Officials say it was the work of experienced yeggs and they left no evidence behind.

Don't neglect your bedding requirements for winter. Our stock is fresh and complete. The prices are low. Redpath's.—Adv. 38-t1.

The flames set her clothing afire and before help could be summoned was burned so bndly that all medical treatment was useless, as far as her recovery was concerned. Dr. Don H. Duffie was called and administered treatment. He also had her removed to the home of Grant E. Wilson in Central Lake where better care could be given the patient. However, Mrs. Morse passed away at 9:30 p. m., just a couple of hours after her removal to the Wilson home.—Central Lnke Torch.
